Greenhouse Builders

Important To Convention Goers

At the Washington Convention we will have something of particular interest to those who want to, or who have been building Semi-Iron or Pipe Frame Houses.

It is a Full Iron Frame Construction that costs practically the same as the Semi-Iron.

We call it our Number Two Iron Frame Construction.

It is for houses from eleven feet up to forty feet wide.

In addition to seeing our friends from the East and West, we hope to see a goodly lot of you growers from the South.

Washington is a decidedly interesting city right now, with Congress in session, and everything as lively as in mid-winter.

Of course, all of you know how cordially welcome you will be at our booth.

Likewise, how free we hope you will feel to make it your meeting and resting place.

Come and sit in our easy chairs, and smoke our cigars contentedly.

Then, if you like, we can talk over unhurriedly together, any building plans you may have in mind.

Happy thoughts and a good time to you.

Hope you bring the wife along this time.

We are now Cutting
Fine Roses
FOR SHIPPING

60,000 RUSSELL plants specially grown for Summer crop

IT PAYS TO ORDER DIRECT OF THE GROWER

We are Rose growers especially for the shipping trade. We cut our Roses more in the bud, and grow them cooler, so that they will ship in better condition. All of our Roses are grown in one large range of glass, and are brought in from our greenhouses two and three times per day.

Please note our Special offer

SWEET PEAS

EARLY WINTER ORCHID-FLOWERING

I have the agency for Burpee's Seed, also Zvolanek's Seed; you will not make a mistake by buying Irwin's Seed, so take your choice.
TERMS: Less 5% cash with order. On charge orders, postage will be charged. New Seed is ready.

IRWIN'S VARIETIES

All the following are grown for me on contract, by one of the most reliable growers in California.

NOVELTIES

Prices on the following, 1 oz., $1.50; 4 ozs., $4.00; 1 lb., $15.00

Columbia—The best large flowering pink and white, same as Xmas Pink and White Orchid, but a decided improvement.

Prices on the following, 1 oz., $2.00; 4 ozs., $6.00; 1 lb., $20.00

All White—Early Giant White, long stems, one of the best White Sweet Peas to date.
Early Irene—Lavender, like Florence Nightingale, very fine.
Fair Maid—Early, finest blush pink, suffused salmon on white ground.
Rose Charm—Early, bright rose, with very large blooms. Produces four flowers on long stems.
Madonna—Early, surpassing any black seeded white variety, the best pure white, with extra large blooms, measuring 2½ inches across. Best novelty of the year.

STANDARD VARIETIES

Prices on the following, Irwin's varieties, ½ oz., 50c; 1 oz., 75c; 4 ozs., $2.75; 1 lb., $10.00

WHITE AND PINK BICOLOR VARIETIES.

Xmas Pink Orchid—Extra selected, Blanche Ferry.
Columbia—Novelty, see above.

NEW CROP Formosum

This Photograph Shows an Officer of the A. B. C.

(Cable Message Received July 28 by AMERICAN BULB COMPANY.)

Our first shipment of Formosum Lilies are now in transit from Yokahoma, Japan, to us, due in America August 8th.

While the crop is extremely short, we will be able to execute 100% of all orders we have taken in advance. We are able to book new orders from one to ten-case lots only.

Do Not Delay Ordering. Order Today. Assure Yourself Of Your Full Requirements.

While the extreme drought in Japan, as well as all over the world is shortening the crop for marketable size bulbs to a great extent, we have made every effort to get our usual quantity, as our connections in Japan enable us the privilege of selecting the Fields producing the highest quality bulbs.

Rubrum, Magnificum and Album

The summer heat has destroyed many outdoor flowers. Plant now a few cases of Rubrum, Magnificum and Album and have a supply of flowers when the demand for flowers is heaviest.

One Case, Each $26.00 In 5 Case Lots, Per Case $23.50

Rubrum -	7 to 9, 250 to case
Magnificum,	8 to 10, 160 to case
	10 to 11, 110 to case
Album - -	8 to 9, 200 to case
	9 to 10, 130 to case

The above is a special offer for immediate acceptance.

Lilium Giganteum Crop

(PRICES NOT YET FIXED)

Reports from Japan indicate that Giganteum crop will be extremely scarce. Less than four million came to America last season. This season there is a report that there will be 20% shortage, so our advice to the Florists in order to assure themselves of Lilies for this coming year, is to buy a few cases of Formosum to help make up for the shortage of Giganteum that is assured.

READY FOR IMMEDIATE SHIPMENT

Paper White Narcissi---Grandiflora Type

Paper White Narcissi, like other Bulbs, are very scarce. From cable advice, we received from France, states that the Exporters have orders for sixty million bulbs, of which the crop produced thirty million of export size bulbs.

Our good connections with the reliable Growers of France, enables us to execute our orders in full, and a surplus to take care of Florists who are still in the market, and have not as yet bought.

Order through the AMERICAN BULB COMPANY, and you can depend upon getting the true Grandiflora Type, up to size and well matured bulbs.

Mail us your order TODAY, for any quantity you desire, from 100 bulbs up to 100,000. We will be glad to quote you on any quantity you desire.

We have French Bulbs on three boats, of which the Canada has arrived on July 30th, and is now being unloaded, ready for distribution.

We also offer the following:

Narcissus Yellow Paper White (Grand Soleil D'Or)

DREER'S CONVENTION DISPLAY

As usual, for many years past, our exhibit at the Washington Convention will consist of a comprehensive display of seasonable plants, such as Palms, Ferns, Crotons and other Decorative and Foliage Plants, in a full line of commercial sizes.

Delegates to the Convention, either going or returning, are invited to stop off at Philadelphia and visit our nurseries at Riverton, N. J., where they are certain to find many interesting subjects.

At this writing, outdoor stocks promise to be exceptionally fine, particularly Cannas, Dahlias, Phloxes and our extensive assortment of Hardy Perennials, of which a great many should be at their best at this time.

Our representatives, Messrs. Karins, Goudy and Ruppert, will be in attendance at the Convention and will be pleased to give detailed information.

Burpee's New Sweet Pea
WHITE STAR

A first-class, black-seeded white Sweet Pea lacking any suspicion of pink or other coloring has long been wanted, and we now have it in WHITE STAR. The flowers are of enormous size and are freely produced in fours, all beautifully waved and well placed on the stem. They are of great substance and pure opaque whiteness, retaining their purity of color until the end. The plants are robust and branch freely and early, and should therefore be allowed plenty of room in the row to avoid overcrowding.

We consider WHITE STAR to be the last word in black-seeded white varieties. It will be a boon to all florists who have had difficulty in germinating the white-seeded sorts, while the flowers with their pure clear color will be quite as valuable. Awarded Certificate of Merit at the International Flower Show, New York, March 14, 1921.

Oz. $10.00; ¼ lb. $37.50, postpaid.

4-inch pots, $50 per 100.
Every retail store and grower should feature Crotons this Fall and Winter. We know our stock will please you and your customer.

Croton Leaves and Sprays

Cut Croton Leaves and Sprays have been supplied by us in the past years to some of the leading retail florists, who have featured them in mantel, table and funeral work. Cut Crotons will last in a cool place from three to four weeks. We can supply them every day in the year.
Very highly colored sprays at 50c each. Cut leaves, $5 per 100.
When you have orders for funeral or table work, "out of the ordinary," order Craig's Cut Crotons.

DRACAENAS

There is no variety of foliage plant so attractive as the highly colored Dracaena. The small and medium sizes can be used to great advantage in making up the popular Christmas baskets, while the large specimens have always been in great demand for decorative purposes. We are now growing more Dracaenas, in greater variety, than any firm in the country.

Dracaena Godseffiana

THE FLORISTS' REVIEW

SEEING THE SIGHTS IN WASHINGTON

Historical and political places of interest in the national capital are described in handy guide books for visitors' easy reference. Here are noted the places of trade interest for the benefit of florists who will attend the S. A. F. convention at Washington August 16 to 18.

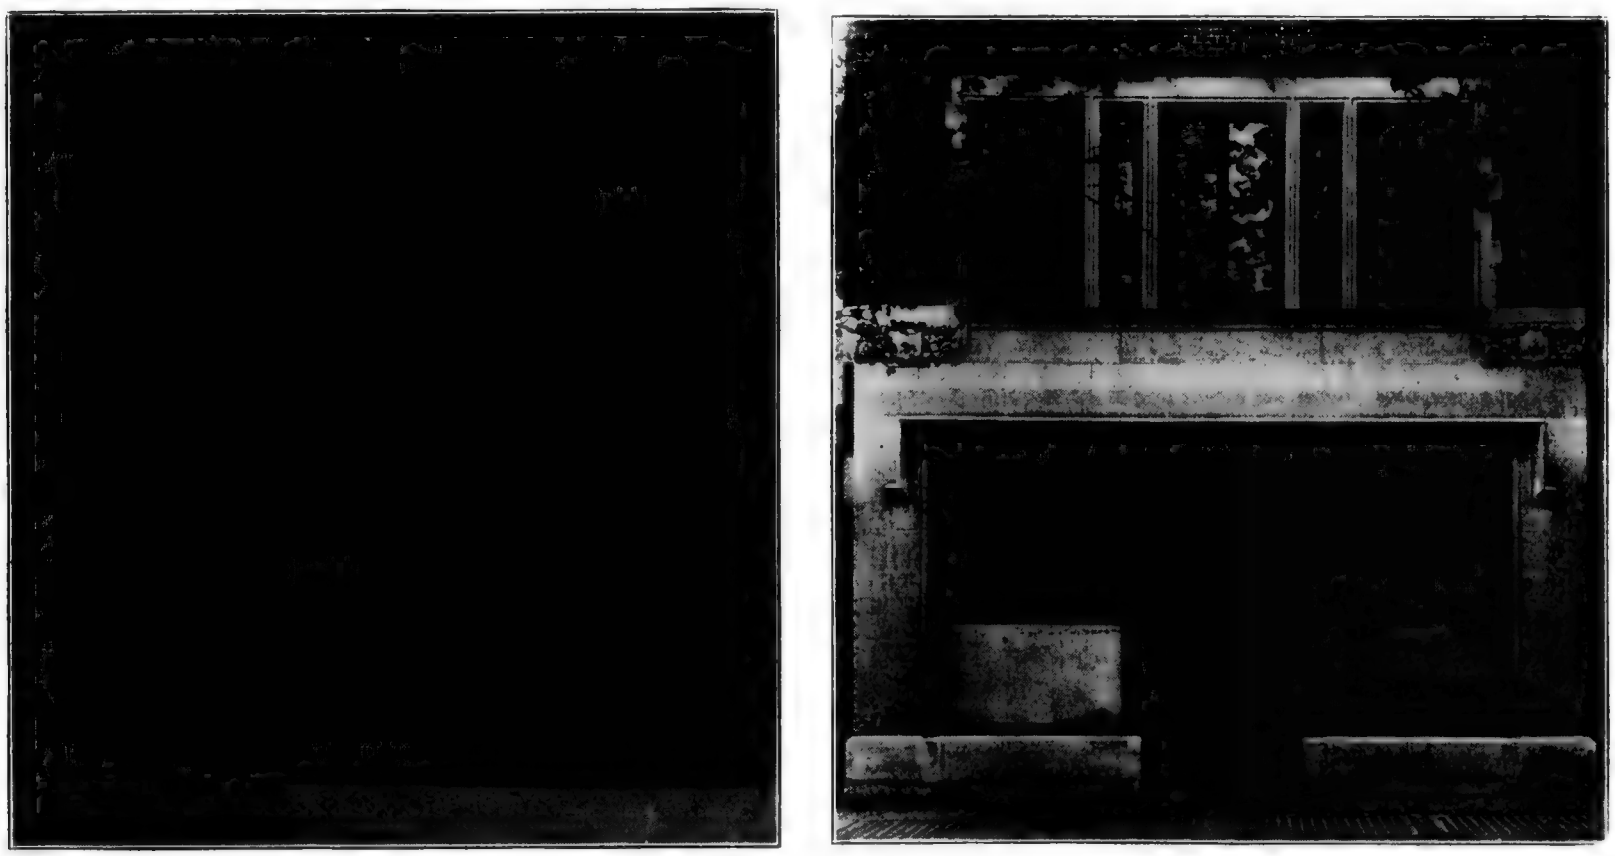
THE florists of Washington are preparing a royal welcome for the visitors who attend the convention of the S. A. F. and are extending a general invitation to all to "come up and see us and chat a bit." They want to talk over things with the fellows from the other places because they know in swapping news and views they are bound to get a lot of helpful information.

The entertainment committee is headed by Adolph E. Gude, Jr., son of Adolph Gude, vice-president of the S. A. F. and member of the firm of Gude Bros. Co. The former has been assured by the individual florists of Washington that visits are desired, and so that the tourists will not lose their way and will know in advance the appearance of the stores they are going to see, The Review presents photographs of a number of representative places.

Wholesale Houses.

It is fitting, no doubt, to start with the establishment presided over by the president of the Florists' Club of Washington. Otto Bauer is manager of the wholesale flower business maintained by the S. S. Pennock Co., at 1216 H street, northwest. Mr. Bauer was formerly a retailer and is well informed on all subjects pertaining to the distribution end of the business.

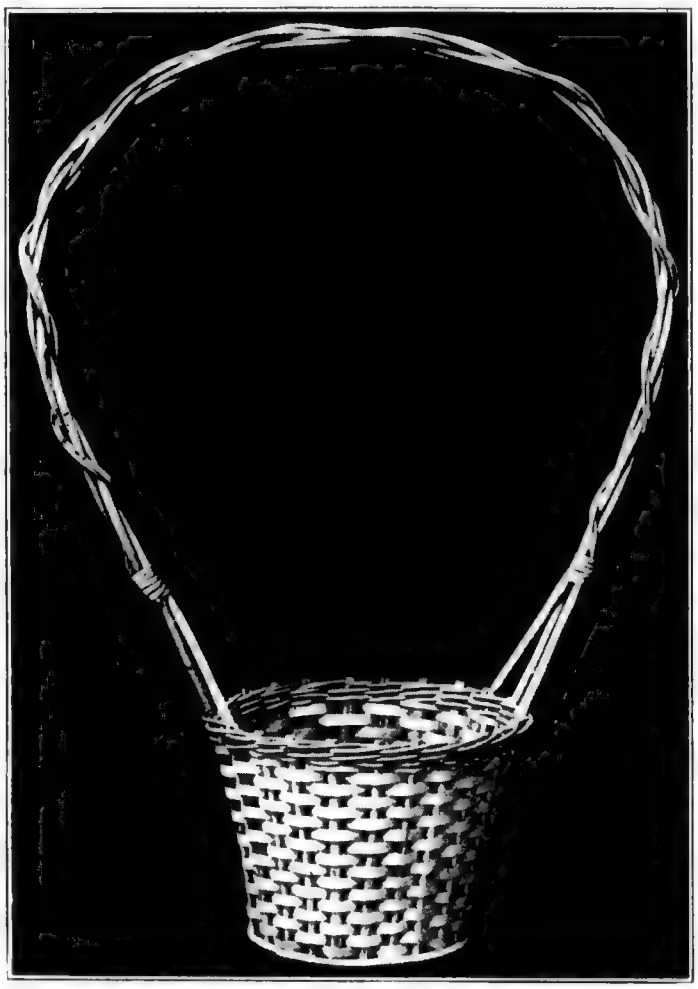
This establishment shows the growth of the firm's business during the years it has been located here. The great success of this branch led the Pennock Co. to move from 1212 New York avenue to its own building at the present location. This is a new and quite modern structure, with an adequate ice-making and cooling plant and a big, roomy sales department. The ice cooling rooms in the basement are of sufficient size to permit the storage of an entire holiday crop.



In addition to handling cut flowers, this concern carries a full line of accessories, including ribbons, baskets, paper, boxes, wire, etc.

Adjacent to this store is the headquarters of the Leo Niessen Co., inaugurated coincidently with the inauguration of President Wm. H. Taft, at 1208 H street, northwest. It is presided over by Albert Schnell, who has been connected with the flower business in Washington for many years.

This store has recently undergone a number of improvements, making it one of the most modern establishments in town. It has ample storage facilities, and carries a full line of cut flowers produced by some of the best known growers in this locality. Mr. Schnell refers to his establishment as "The House of Service," and his customers agree that he is always anxious to please and willing to coöperate to the fullest extent. This store was the first in Washington to put in its own ice making plant.



Big Growers.

The Washington Floral Co., at the corner of Fourteenth street and New York avenue, has as its manager J. Harper Hetherington, the predecessor of Mr. Bauer as president of the Florists' Club of Washington. This concern does a thriving wholesale and retail business, growing its own flowers at Alexandria, Va., where it has about a quarter of a million feet of glass. David G. Grillbortzer is president of the concern. He devotes his entire attention to the production end of the business. This establishment is noted for being the only local grower of orchids and during the season offers some fine specimens of these rare blooms.

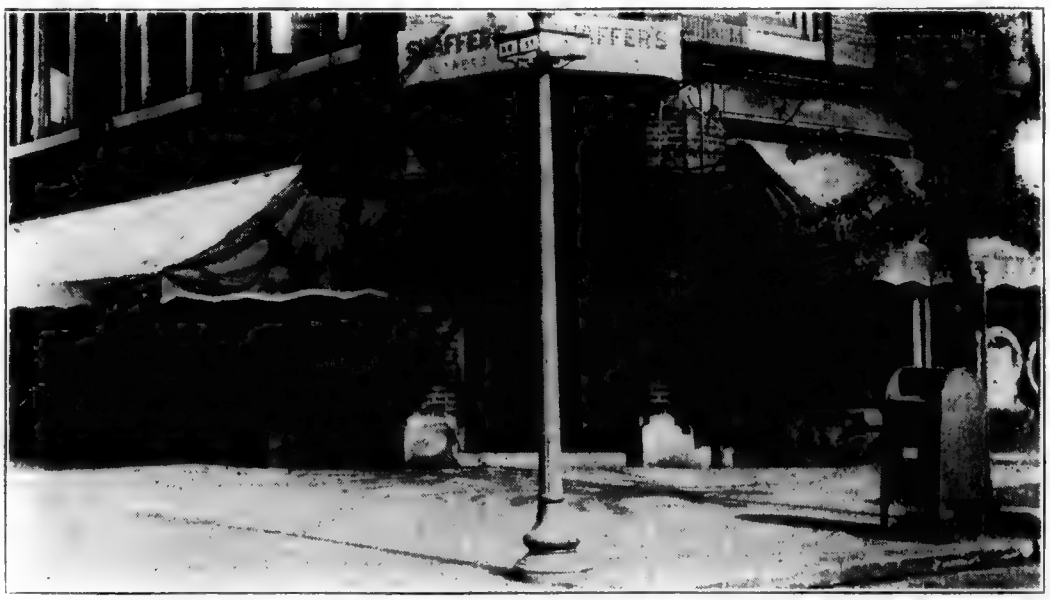
Mr. Grillbortzer recently completed a term of office as vice-president of the American Carnation Society. He was for several years president of the Florists' Club of Washington and has always been quite active in association work.

Everybody knows "Bill" and "Dolph" Gude, and their store at 1214 F street, northwest, is the Mecca of all visiting florists. This firm does a wholesale and a retail business and is prominent in F. T. D. trade.

Gude's roses have taken a number of prizes and their American Beauties are especially well known. All their stock is grown under the supervision of Adolph Gude in the two big ranges in the District of Columbia. He looks after the big plant at Anacostia, where he makes his home, and the equally large place in northeast Washington. All told, this firm has about half a million feet of glass, producing miscellaneous stocks.



William F. Gude is the Washington representative of the S. A. F. He looks after the distribution of the stock which Adolph Gude produces. This concern is largely a family affair, for William F. Gude's secretary is the charming Miss Amelia Gude. The wholesale department is in charge of Adolph E. Gude, Jr. Edgar R. Gude, state vice-president of the S. A. F. for the District of Columbia, is in charge of the cut flower department at the Anacostia range, and his brother, Edwin N. Gude, is in charge of the plant department there. These are "the twins," sons of Adolph Gude, Sr. Ernest F. Gude, son of William F. Gude, is in charge of the cut flower department at the northeast range.

George C. Shaffer, affectionately known as "George" to all his friends, and he numbers them by the hundreds, has one of the most attractive stores in Washington, at Fourteenth and I streets, northwest. He belongs to about every known order, has always been chairman or something-or-other in all florists' events and just now is busy with the Kiwanis Club, the Optimist Club, the Shrine Automobile Club, the City Club—he's an Elk and about every other known animal; he's a Mason and a craftsman in other organizations of a similar nature—but space will not permit a real catalogue of "he belongs to ——"

If you call on George C. Shaffer you will see an attractive store and you will meet a fine bunch of storemen headed by Brother Arthur Shaffer, who also is in charge of the bookkeeping department. The latter is active in the sports engaged in by the younger florists of Washington and has successfully managed baseball and basket ball teams.

Residential Retailers.

The Dupont Flower Shop, in Dupont circle, is in the heart of the best residential section of Washington, but despite his daily contact with members of President Harding's cabinet, foreign diplomats, members of Congress and other notables, Elmer C. Mayberry, manager of the establishment, is just an ordinary, everyday good fellow, with a "glad-to-meet-you" smile.

No Warmer Welcome Will Be Found than That of George C. Shaffer.

The Louise Flower Shop, at Connecticut avenue and N street, is the only store in town owned and managed by a woman. Miss Louise Daugherty is the proud possessor of this beautiful establishment, located right across the street from the British embassy and on one of the best thoroughfares here.

This is a daylight shop, fronting on three streets, with large window space always utilized to the best extent. Miss Daugherty pays a great deal of attention to her displays and she gets a great deal of good advertising and publicity as a result. Her bird window, with the live creatures flying around, brought large crowds of the elite to the front of her store.

Another of the prominent Connecticut avenue stores is that of the George H. Cooke Co., located at the corner of L street. It is managed by Edward Niedomanski, son-in-law of the late proprietor of the establishment. Mrs. Cooke, who is well known in the florists' industry, having been associated with the various women's committees of the local club, will be on hand to meet visitors.

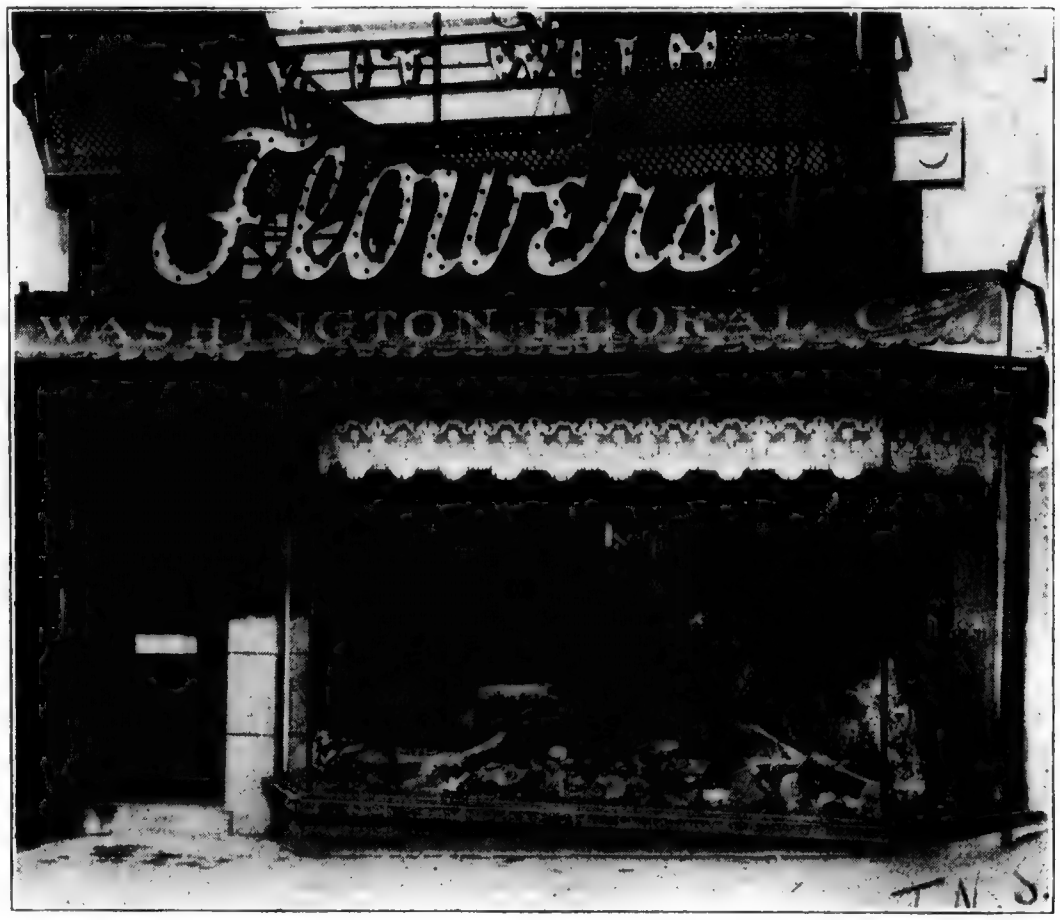
Downtown Leaders.

Z. D. Blackistone is proprietor of another of the prominent local establishments. He is located at Fourteenth and H streets, northwest. His store has recently undergone extensive improvements and has been made most attractive.

Diagonally across the street is the establishment of Marche & Co., managed by George White. This concern grows some of its own flowers, having some greenhouses in Hyattsville, Md., the home of Mrs. William Marche. The latter is the daughter of Chris Schellhorn, a retired florist.



J. H. Small & Sons, of New York and Washington, are known nationally and even internationally. Located at Fifteenth and H streets, northwest, they are in the heart of the downtown business section, within a stone's throw of the Treasury, White House and State, War and Navy building. This store is headed by J. H. Small III, son of the late J. Henry Small. Here are also located "Jimmie" Dalgleish and Frank E. Miller, well known in the trade.

There are only two flower shops on G street, one near Thirteenth street, operated by O. A. C. Oehmler; the other at Ninth street, operated by Frederick F. Leapley.

Fred H. Kramer, at 916 F street, northwest, has a combined palm garden and flower shop. This is a rather novel establishment; the retail flower business is in the front, and at the rear, in what was formerly a greenhouse, is a palm garden where ice cream, sodas, soft drinks and other delectables are dispensed. This is a gathering place for after-theater crowds. Mr. Kramer operates his own greenhouses in Anacostia, which supply flowers for the store.

Other Prominent Retailers.

Louis E. Hoover, at 1339 Fourteenth street, is located in the automobile section and in the heart of a populous residential section.

David G. Grillbortzer Keeps the Slogan at Work Night and Day.

Stanley E. Holland, at Eighteenth street and Columbia road, is in a fine neighborhood, where he can draw for his patronage from the large apartment houses.

J. Dan Blackistone is located at 3124 Fourteenth street, in the Mount Pleasant section. Chauncey Brooks is at 1530 Fourteenth street. The Georgetown florist is George A. Comley, at Wisconsin avenue and M street.

Harry Payne has quite an establishment at 1224 F street, northwest, in the heart of the retail shopping district.

In the Center market are a large number of stands where fine cut flowers are sold. One of the larger ventures is that of M. J. McCabe, who has a large range of greenhouses in Anacostia. Another is that of Robert Bowdler & Sons, whose houses are in northeast Washington. G. Milton Thomas is one of the prominent members of the local florists' club. Frank Slye has an enviable retail trade. Alex B. Garden supplies the stock sold on his stand from his own greenhouses in Anacostia. A. Herold is another of the retailers located here. T. N. S.

WASHINGTON ENTERTAINMENT.

The coming convention is about all one hears in making a round of the Washington stores at present. It's summer time and business is dull, so that plenty of time can be devoted to baseball and the coming of the visitors. Adolph E. Gude, Jr., is working on the program, and here's a part of his work:

Through the courtesy of George W. Hess, superintendent of the United States Botanic Gardens, honorary member of the Florists' Club of Washington and prominent member of the various flower organizations, the reception of the S. A. F. president will be held in the gardens, one of the most attractive spots in Washington. The Marine Band, "the President's Own," will be in attendance. This is one of the most wonderful musical organizations in the world and an opportunity to listen to it is indeed something worth while. Refreshments are to be served on the grounds.

Mr. Hess is assisting Mr. Gude in this work and has secured the consent of Elliott Woods, architect in charge of the Capitol, to have the great dome illuminated with powerful searchlights that will be erected for the occasion.

There will be an automobile ride for the ladies Wednesday morning, August 17, after which luncheon will be served all who participate. In the afternoon the ladies will go to the Recreation bowl-some fine specimens of these rare blooms.

Mr. Grillbortzer recently completed a term of office as vice-president of the American Carnation Society. He was for several years president of the Florists' Club of Washington and has always been quite active in association work.

Everybody knows "Bill" and "Dolph" Gude, and their store at 1214 F street, northwest, is the Mecca of all visiting florists. This firm does a wholesale and a retail business and is prominent in F. T. D. trade.

Gude's roses have taken a number of prizes and their American Beauties are especially well known. All their stock is grown under the supervision of Adolph Gude in the two big ranges in the District of Columbia. He looks after the big plant at Anacostia, where he makes his home, and the equally large place in northeast Washington. All told, this firm has about half a million feet of glass, producing miscellaneous stocks.

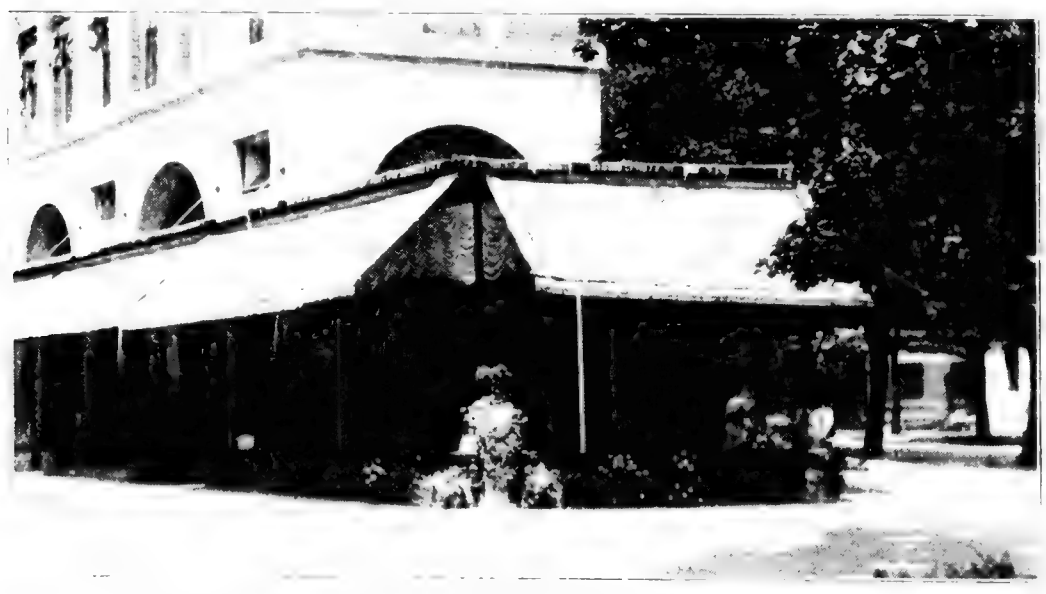
William F. Gude is the Washington representative of the S. A. F. He looks after the distribution of the stock which Adolph Gude produces. This concern is largely a family affair, for William F. Gude's secretary is the charming Miss Amelia Gude. The wholesale department is in charge of Adolph E. Gude, Jr. Edgar R. Gude, state vice-president of the S. A. F. for the District of Columbia, is in charge of the cut flower department at the Anacostia range, and his brother, Edwin N. Gude, is in charge of the plant department there. These are "the twins," sons of Adolph Gude, Sr. Ernest F. Gude, son of William F. Gude, is in charge of the cut flower department at the northeast range.

George C. Shaffer, affectionately known as "George" to all his friends, and he numbers them by the hundreds, has one of the most attractive stores in Washington, at Fourteenth and I streets, northwest. He belongs to about every known order, has always been chairman or something-or-other in all florists' events and just now is busy with the Kiwanis Club, the Optimist Club, the Shrine Automobile Club, the City Club—he's an Elk and about every other known animal; he's a Mason and a craftsman in other organizations of a similar nature—but space will not permit a real catalogue of "he belongs to——"

If you call on George C. Shaffer you will see an attractive store and you will meet a fine bunch of storemen headed by Brother Arthur Shaffer, who also is in charge of the bookkeeping department. The latter is active in the sports engaged in by the younger florists of Washington and has successfully managed baseball and basket ball teams.

Residential Retailers.

The Dupont Flower Shop, in Dupont circle, is in the heart of the best residential section of Washington, but despite his daily contact with members of President Harding's cabinet, foreign diplomats, members of Congress and other notables, Elmer C. Mayberry, manager of the establishment, is just an ordinary, everyday good fellow, with a "glad-to-meet-you" smile.



No Warmer Welcome Will Be Found than That of George C. Shaffer.

The Louise Flower Shop, at Connecticut avenue and N street, is the only store in town owned and managed by a woman. Miss Louise Daugherty is the proud possessor of this beautiful establishment, located right across the street from the British embassy and on one of the best thoroughfares here.

This is a daylight shop, fronting on three streets, with large window space always utilized to the best extent. Miss Daugherty pays a great deal of attention to her displays and she gets a great deal of good advertising and publicity as a result. Her bird window, with the live creatures flying around, brought large crowds of the elite to the front of her store.

Another of the prominent Connecticut avenue stores is that of the George H. Cooke Co., located at the corner of L street. It is managed by Edward Niedomanski, son in law of the late proprietor of the establishment. Mrs. Cooke, who is well known in the florists' industry, having been associated with the various women's committees of the local club, will be on hand to meet visitors.

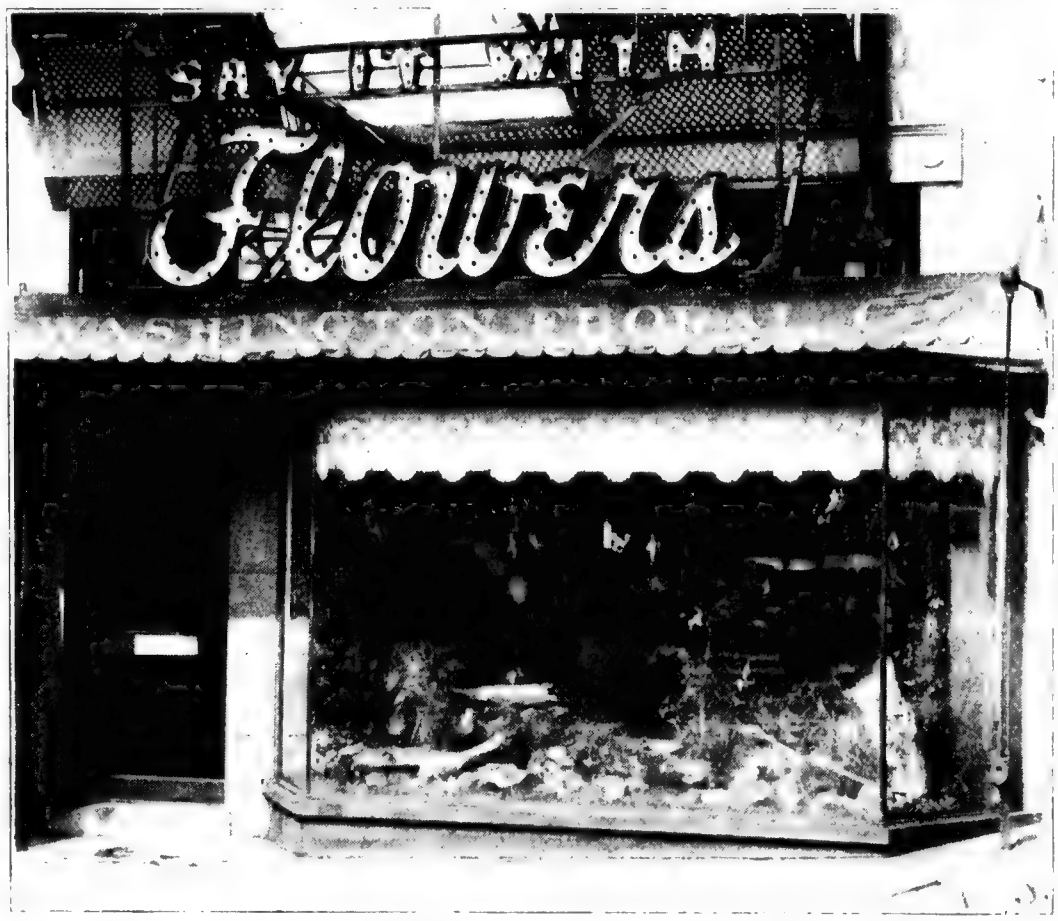
Downtown Leaders.

Z. D. Blackistone is proprietor of another of the prominent local establishments. He is located at Fourteenth and H streets, northwest. His store has recently undergone extensive improvements and has been made most attractive.

Diagonally across the street is the establishment of Marche & Co., managed by George White. This concern grows some of its own flowers, having some greenhouses in Hyattsville, Md., the home of Mrs. William Marche. The latter is the daughter of Chris Schellhorn, a retired florist.



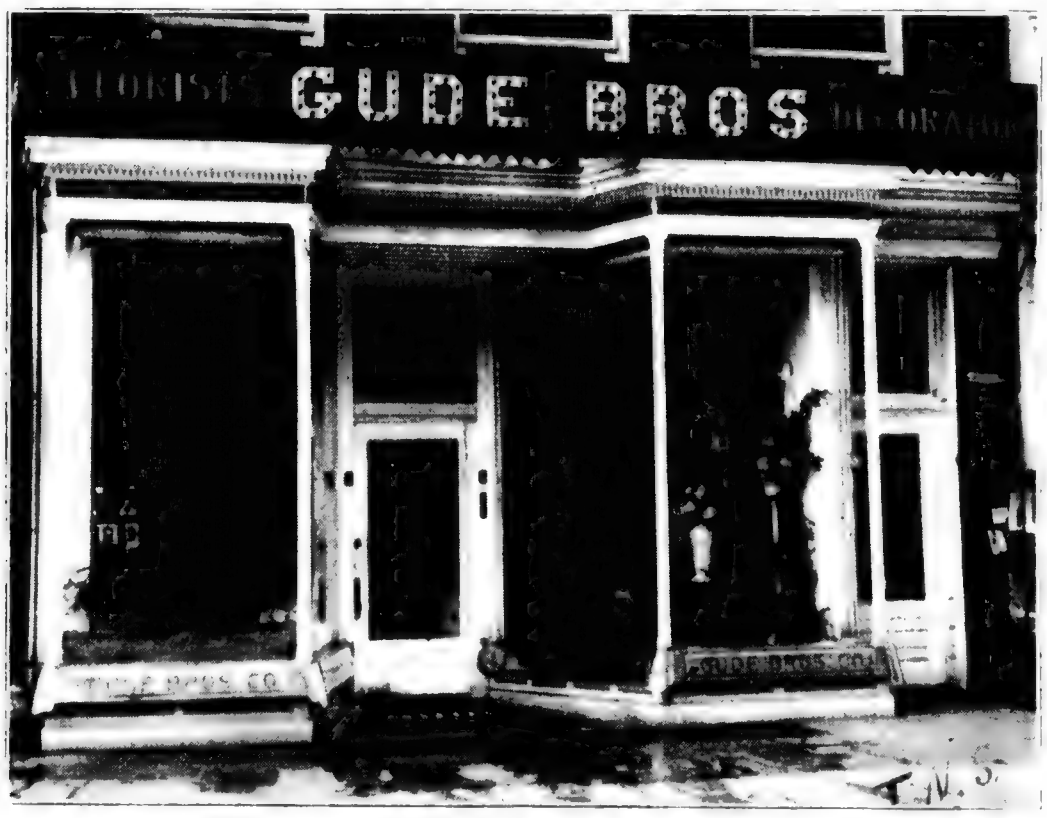
J. H. Small & Sons, of New York and Washington, are known nationally and even internationally. Located at Fifteenth and H streets, northwest, they are in the heart of the downtown business section, within a stone's throw of the Treasury, White House and State, War and Navy building. This store is headed by J. H. Small III, son of the late J. Henry Small. Here are also located "Jimmie" Dalgleish and Frank E. Miller, well known in the trade.

There are only two flower shops on G street, one near Thirteenth street, operated by O. A. C. Oehmler; the other at Ninth street, operated by Frederick F. Leapley.

Fred H. Kramer, at 916 F street, northwest, has a combined palm garden and flower shop. This is a rather novel establishment; the retail flower business is in the front, and at the rear, in what was formerly a greenhouse, is a palm garden where ice cream, sodas, soft drinks and other delectables are dispensed. This is a gathering place for after-theater crowds. Mr. Kramer operates his own greenhouses in Anacostia, which supply flowers for the store.

Other Prominent Retailers.

Louis E. Hoover, at 1339 Fourteenth street, is located in the automobile section and in the heart of a populous residential section.



David G. Grillbortzer Keeps the Slogan at Work Night and Day.

Stanley E. Holland, at Eighteenth street and Columbia road, is in a fine neighborhood, where he can draw for his patronage from the large apartment houses.

J. Dan Blackistone is located at 3124 Fourteenth street, in the Mount Pleasant section. Chauncey Brooks is at 1530 Fourteenth street. The Georgetown florist is George A. Comley, at Wisconsin avenue and M street.

Harry Payne has quite an establishment at 1224 F street, northwest, in the heart of the retail shopping district.

In the Center market are a large number of stands where fine cut flowers are sold. One of the larger ventures is that of M. J. McCabe, who has a large range of greenhouses in Anacostia. Another is that of Robert Bowdler & Sons, whose houses are in northeast Washington. G. Milton Thomas is one of the prominent members of the local florists' club. Frank Slye has an enviable retail trade. Alex B. Garden supplies the stock sold on his stand from his own greenhouses in Anacostia. A. Herold is another of the retailers located here. T. N. S

Still the Landmark It Was at the Time of the Last Washington Convention.

WASHINGTON ENTERTAINMENT.

The coming convention is about all one hears in making a round of the Washington stores at present. It's summer time and business is dull, so that plenty of time can be devoted to baseball and the coming of the visitors. Adolph E. Gude, Jr., is working on the program, and here's a part of his work:

Through the courtesy of George W. Hess, superintendent of the United States Botanic Gardens, honorary member of the Florists' Club of Washington and prominent member of the various flower organizations, the reception of the S. A. F. president will be held in the gardens, one of the most attractive spots in Washington. The Marine Band, "the President's Own," will be in attendance. This is one of the most wonderful musical organizations in the world and an opportunity to listen to it is indeed something worth while. Refreshments are to be served on the grounds.

Mr. Hess is assisting Mr. Gude in this work and has secured the consent of Elliott Woods, architect in charge of the Capitol, to have the great dome illuminated with powerful searchlights that will be erected for the occasion.

There will be an automobile ride for the ladies Wednesday morning, August 17, after which luncheon will be served all who participate. In the afternoon the ladies will go to the Recreation bowl ing alleys, where teams of women will compete in an open bowling tournament. In the evening the male teams will fight for the championship of the florists' league. Captain William H. Ernest will look after these events and in selecting the alleys in question he has obtained the best there are.

Thursday morning, August 18, will be given over to the golfers and arrangements have been made by Z. D. Blackistone for a tournament to be staged in Potomac park, where there is a fine municipal course.

In the afternoon there will be a shooting match on the Virginia side of the Highway Bridge.

Friday, August 19, there will be a boat ride down the Potomac river and a visit to Mount Vernon, the home and last resting place of the first president of the United States and Martha Washington. The florists will place a wreath on the tomb. Refreshments will be served on the boat. T. N. S.

SOCIETY OF AMERICAN FLORISTS.

Washington Convention.

The secretary is comfortably settled in his quarters at the New Washington hotel in Washington and is able to report that preparations for the trade exhibition and convention are up-to-the-minute. He is well pleased with the facilities afforded by Convention hall and the Armory adjoining, in which the business sessions will be held. The local florists are working hard to make the gathering a most notable one, and if their plans are carried out, the convention will prove to be one of the most enjoyable in the history of the society.

It may be mentioned that it has been arranged that the president's reception shall be held in the United States Botanic Gardens, instead of the New Washington hotel as originally planned, and in this connection "something different" from the ordinary is promised. Not satisfied even with this innovation, efforts are now being made to have the United States Marine Band in attendance. This is, without doubt, the finest military band in the country, and opportunities to enjoy its music are somewhat rare.

A delightful automobile ride and a luncheon are to be tendered the lady visitors and it is possible that a trip to the home of George Washington, at Mount Vernon, on the historic Potomac, will be arranged. Almost everybody will want to visit this charming establishment, and the boat ride on the river will add materially to the pleasure of the trip.

In addition, there will be bowling, golf and shooting tournaments. All in all, it seems that there will be no lack of entertainment.

Travel.

A large number of applications for identification certificates have been received at the secretary's office in New York, and such certificates have been promptly forwarded. Judging from correspondence, it seems that the restrictions of the railroads governing these certificates are not fully understood. They can be issued only to members and their families, one certificate only being necessary in each case. Nonmembers cannot receive them. And let it again be stated, that to secure reduced fares over the roads controlled by the passenger associations they must be presented at the time tickets are purchased; therefore, anyone who intends to make the trip and has not yet secured a certificate should write to the secretary for one without delay. The matter of stopovers should also be arranged at the time of purchasing tickets.

Trade Exhibition.

Special shipping tags for exhibition material have been mailed to all exhibitors in the trade exhibition. If the supply received by any exhibitor is insufficient, a further supply will be mailed on application to the administration office of the society, 43 West Eighteenth street, New York.

Additional exhibitors in the trade exhibition are:

J. W. Davis Co., Terre Haute, Ind.
Wm. Rehder, Wilmington, N. C.
Electric Hose & Rubber Co., Wilmington, Del.

Publicity Campaign.

Following the report of the chairman of the publicity committee, Henry Penn, to be presented at the Washington convention, a report on the status of the publicity campaign from a financial point of view will be made by George Asmus, which will undoubtedly prove of great interest to subscribers to the campaign. It is understood that this report will also touch upon the plans for a continuance of national advertising in the near future.

Stephen A. Kost.

National Flower Show.

The various arrangements for the forthcoming national flower show are developing in a most satisfactory manner. James McLaughlin, chairman of the committee on special premiums, reports that his committee is making good headway in its work. The first premium received was one from H. G. Berning, of St. Louis, $100, to be used in the discretion of the national flower show committee. The M. Rice Co., of Philadelphia, offers a store display piece of the wholesale value of $50, and Max Schling, New York, offers a series of gold, silver and bronze medals.

In addition to the exhibitors already reported as having reserved space in the trade section are the following:

Zane Pottery Co., South Zanesville, O.
Ideal Power Lawn Mower Co., Lansing, Mich.
Vaughan's Seed Store, New York and Chicago.
H. Bayersdorfer & Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

The Bayersdorfer reservation covers a most liberal space, so the firm may be expected to stage a most comprehensive exhibit. John Young, Sec'y.

LADIES' S. A. F.

The annual meeting of the Ladies' Society of American Florists will be held at the Hotel Washington, Washington, D. C., Wednesday morning, August 17, at 10:30 o'clock.

A meeting of the directors has been called for the same place and same date at 9:30 a. m.

Through the courtesy of the S. A. F., a neat folder has been sent to all members of that organization, setting forth the many advantages accruing from membership in the ladies' society, especially during the time of the convention.

The initial fee of $3, sent to the secretary, entitles you to enrollment in the society and a recognition pin.

We are hoping for many new members from this splendid coöperation on the part of the S. A. F., and ask that you make every effort to come to Washington and enjoy the hospitality and good fellowship as a member of the L. S. A. F.

A FLORIST-INVENTOR.

Mark Twain once said that if a Yankee were given five hours to do a job, he would spend four hours thinking up some ingenious way to do it in the remaining one hour. Though Stephen A. Kost was not a Yankee by birth, he is an American by adoption, and the many years he spent as a grower set him to thinking how he could do some of their long and laborious tasks in fewer hours. Mr. Kost was born in Posen, Poland, of Polish parents, in 1878. At the age of 2 years he came to this country. At the age of 12 he started to work for the famous firm of Pitcher & Manda, at Short Hills, N. J., in the greenhouses. Having been a grower all his life thus far, Mr. Kost hopes, he says, to continue one as long as he lives. The time he has not spent in greenhouses he has devoted to perfecting such devices as his glazing filler and his soil grinder. Nothing gives him so much enjoyment as trying to solve the hard problems with which growers have to contend.

BUSINESS EMBARRASSMENTS.

Belvidere, Ill.—Being unable to meet the pay roll, J. P. Herzog disbanded the help at the greenhouse, which, since the terms of the contract were no longer fulfilled, reverted to the Eldredge estate. Business is now confined to the Herzog Flower Shop, at 515 South State street. A list of liabilities reveals a total of more than $9,000. Assets consist of the store fixtures. Several Chicago supply houses are among the heaviest creditors.

TELL OWN CREDIT METHODS

ST. PAUL FLORIST PRESCRIBES EDUCATING THE CUSTOMERS.

About eighty per cent of our sales are charge sales. About sixty-five per cent of our charge sales are paid promptly by the fifteenth or twentieth of the month. Nearly all of the balance is paid within the next thirty days, but there is always some carried over for ninety days or longer. Our average collections, however, throughout the year are about sixty-five per cent of outstanding charges the first of the month. For instance, if we have outstanding $50,000 on our books May 1 we are pretty sure of collecting sixty-five per cent, or $32,500, of this by June 1. The balance carried over to the following month, together with May charges, constitutes the total outstanding June 1. Sixty-five per cent on retail business is considered very good.

We think our losses are less than one-half of one per cent of the amount charged during the year.

Credit Supervision.

We employ a credit man who looks after and O.K.'s all charges before the goods go out. We also belong to the retail and wholesale credit association of this city and are supplied with their monthly "black lists," as well as their yearly book put out by a collection agency of this city. In addition to this, of course, we have to rely on our personal estimate, on Bradstreet and Dun, and on inquiries from other retail merchants in the city.

If customers do not pay within sixty days, our regular collector calls on them. After he has called for two or three months, if the account is of sufficient size to warrant it and it is still unpaid, we sometimes place the account in the hands of the collection agency. We have to be guided entirely by circumstances, our knowledge of the customer, etc.

We do not advertise to encourage accounts and do not urge people unknown to us to open accounts. At the same time, if a person can furnish references and his standing is all right in the community, we are pleased to open an account.

Instill Proper Methods.

We think the whole trouble with the florists as regards the credit situation is that they are usually too busy to give proper attention to credits and collections. There is no need of being "easy" with customers simply because they are buying regularly from you. One can educate the buying public to his methods so that they will come to his terms just as well as to let accounts slide along for months and become almost uncollectable. There is a certain degree of firmness that can be maintained with tact and politeness, giving your customers to understand their accounts must be paid promptly and at the same time not offending them. Whenever anyone gets mad because you ask him to pay his account which is past due, you can nine times out of ten count on that person's being a poor customer.

I think the whole credit question with florists is a matter of educating their customers. In fact, that same theory will apply to all lines of retail business. If your customers are educated to pay promptly and know that they have to, there will not be much trouble. On the other hand, if accounts are allowed to run for several months and customers get the idea that you are a little slack in your collection methods, there is sure to be trouble and the worst complaints always come with accounts that are the oldest.

KANSAS CITY RETAILER SAYS TRADE CAUSES OWN TROUBLES.

Fully sixty per cent of my business is on credit. I can state that fully seventy per cent of the accounts are paid voluntarily by the fifteenth of each month.

The percentage of bad accounts that are charged off at the end of the year is at a minimum, equivalent to one per cent; this is about three-fourths per cent of the total sales.

I allow persons to open an account mostly from personal estimation and using good judgment in reaching my decision. In rare instances do I consult a credit guide or ask for references.

I collect some of the slow accounts by getting in touch with my customers in person and occasionally having my men see them. I have no definite procedure whereby I do my collecting. I prefer cash to credit, but will extend ample credit to good people. At the same time, I watch all accounts and keep in touch with all transactions.

On Toes to Improve.

I am constantly on my toes to improve the retail credit business and advise my customers that prompt payments insure good service. Statements are rendered the first and fifteenth of each month. When an account becomes delinquent, I do not allow it to become cold. My delinquent list, which is made up on the fifteenth of each month, helps me in this respect. It is checked up with each day's business. This list is typewritten and kept on my desk. It is much easier to look over than the accounts in the ledger. Experience has taught me that an account is much more easily collected when it is sixty days old than when it is six months old.

A large majority of florists' bad accounts are caused through their own negligence and lack of system, or by their being afraid of losing a customer if he is pushed too hard. If a customer cannot pay within sixty days of purchase, I would just as soon lose him. My system is to give good, honest values and treatment, and I expect the same in return.

I make no apologies for going after delinquent accounts. At times I use the 'phone and call attention to the fact that the account is past due. In doing so, I feel that the customer is obligated to me and that I am justified in reminding him of this fact.

HOW ABOUT YOU?

In securing the facts regarding retail florists' credit and collection methods, The Review set a series of questions before a number of them as an outline to follow in presenting the vital matters involved. Here they are:

(1) What percentage of total sales is done on credit?

(2) What proportion of monthly accounts is paid promptly when due, by 10th or 15th or whatever date you set?

(3) What percentage of credit sales is charged off as loss at end of year? What percentage is it of total sales?

(4) On what basis do you permit customers' orders to be "charged," or accounts to be opened? Do you ask references, consult a credit guide, or rely on your personal estimate of the customer?

(5) What collection effort do you make? Have you a definite and established procedure?

(6) Do you discourage or encourage accounts?

(7) Have you ideas or plans for improving the retail credit situation?

Examine your own case in the light of these queries. If you have figures or comment to submit, to add to this discussion, the Editor will be glad to hear from you.

SUCCESSFUL SEATTLE FIRM USES PERSISTENT ACTIVITY.

We find at this time of generally depressed business conditions a great demand for credit. The florists of this locality report favorably on total sales as compared with last year and under adverse conditions, but business may be termed sluggish on account of the proportion of sixty per cent credit and forty per cent cash in total sales, and slow collections. We find that people have money, but will loosen it only when pressed by our bookkeeping department. Such being the case, we are only able to collect on the average seventy-two per cent of our monthly accounts on or before the fifteenth or twentieth of each month. These slow collections have accumulated and in a period of one year we were forced to charge off four-tenths of one per cent of our sales.

Credit Brings Business.

During our experience we have never been able to formulate a system whereby we can give a customer the acid test and we rely only on the personal estimate we make of a customer and take a gambling chance. The charged-off accounts are posted in our telephone booths and the clerks are made as familiar as possible with those having failed in their payments and those on that list are not given credit again. We encourage credit, which is a peculiarity of our location. We feel that when a customer asks for credit and our personal estimate of him warrants the opening of an account we have gained the confidence, in a certain measure, of this customer and that it will encourage him to buy flowers, use the telephone, telegraph or write, whatever the case may be, knowing that he has established credit. We feel justified in this opinion of credits, owing to our having just closed a big year and having lost so small a per cent. This small per cent of loss is attributed to the persistent activities of our bookkeepers, whose established procedure is the reminding of delinquents after the fifteenth of the following month after date of charge. After that we use our best efforts according to the condition or peculiarity of the account.

Our only plan for improving the retail credit situation under which we now exist is that florists report to a special committee of local florists on credits and that the delinquents of all the stores be alphabetically arranged and posted in all stores, thereby eliminating credits to the undesirables who take advantage of the forced leniency of credit of the florists.

CHICAGO'S CALL ANSWERED

PAGEANT OF PROGRESS OPENS.

Florists' Displays Draw Crowds.

The opening days of the Pageant of Progress exposition, on the municipal pier, Chicago, amply proved the wisdom of those members of the trade who worked hard to stage a conspicuous display to get the attention of the thousands of visitors. While there are not so many booths taken by florists as was hoped, the few that are there get a vast amount of attention from the crowds.

Henry Wittbold & Son and Schiller the Florist are the only retailers who occupy booths. The former has a most interesting arrangement of rock garden and duck pond, with baskets and vases of cut blooms as well as plants and tubbed evergreens in appropriate places. The latter has a profusion of flowers, in baskets, vases and made-up forms, occupying an extensive space. The feather roses received a good deal of notice. A. Lange, whose work in laying out the display is to be commended, contributed adornment to the space allotted for the competitive displays.

The F. T. D. booth drew much attention because of the globe covered with wires at one end, the telegraph instrument clicking constantly under the fingers of an operator from the Western Union Telegraph Co., the luxuriant display of gladioli and other flowers and the attractive furnishings, including wicker chairs for visitors and an icebox and work table for florists' scrutiny, from the A. L. Randall Co., Chicago. The expense of this booth was met by a donation from the F. T. D. and by contributions from the thirty-six Chicago members, including the following:

W. W. Adams.
Bohannon Floral Co.
Edward Clody.
Johnson & Chronis.
A. Lange.
Lewis & Rocca.
William Palmer.
Everette R. Peacock Co.
Schiller the Florist.
A. H. Schneider.
Wm. J. Smyth.
Swanson the Florist.
E. Wienhoeber Co.
George Wienhoeber.
George Wittbold Co.
Henry Wittbold & Son.

The display was under the management of Mrs. Stewart, manager of the Bohannon Floral Co. The Duro Paper Products Co. furnished the boxes for counter sales.

Trade Exhibits.

An adjoining booth was fitted by the A. L. Randall Co. with various appliances of its manufacture, including foliages, artificial flowers, electric fountains, flower boxes and wicker furniture, lamps, baskets and bird cages. A miniature 10-piece set of its wicker furniture drew constant notice and frequently visitors asked to purchase it for a nursery at home.

J. Oliver Johnson filled a booth with the lawn grass seed for which he is so well known, and also rat traps, which were continuously under examination.

Vaughan's Seed Store had a quite elaborate exhibit, which included seeds, bulbs, vegetables from Western Springs, gladioli of about seventy varieties from Michigan, evergreens in tubs and Dickinson's poultry feeds.

While not in the florists' section, several exhibits drew notice from visiting florists, notably those of the Sefton Paper Box Co., the A. George Schulz Co., also a box manufacturer; the Chicago Printed String Co. and the Adler-Jones Co., makers of artificial flowers.

The D. Hill Nursery Co., Dundee, Ill., contributed evergreens in tubs and window boxes to ornament various places in the vast exhibition halls.

Flower Show.

The first two days of the pageant, Saturday and Sunday, July 30 and 31, there was a recorded attendance of over 600,000 people. If only one-tenth of these were attracted by the flower show, it must be agreed that the purpose of the promoters of this show has already been fulfilled. The daily events, scheduled as announced in last week's issue, have been well supported. A summary of the awards follows:

SATURDAY, JULY 30, PLANT DAY.

Plant baskets, or window boxes for sun parlor decoration—A. Lange, first, with colored foliage basket, oval shaped with handle; Schiller the Florist, second, on fernery with ivy strings.

Ten-inch pot of plant arrangements—Schiller the Florist, first, with pot with foliaged handle; A. Lange, second, on colored foliage in low arrangement.

Judges—C. J. Michelsen, A. C. Kohlbrandt and W. J. Smyth.

SUNDAY, JULY 31, CUT FLOWER BASKET DAY.

Basket not over eighteen inches in height, including handle—Henry Wittbold & Son, first; A. Lange, second; Schiller the Florist, third.

Basket not over thirty inches in height, including handle—A. Lange, first; H. Wittbold & Son, second; Schiller, third.

Basket for general effect, no size limit—A. Lange, first, with 7-foot basket of American Beauties, an arrangement immensely admired; Schiller, second; H. Wittbold & Son, third.

Judges—Fred DeBois, I. Rosnosky, F. W. Nelson and J. T. Shouten.

MONDAY, AUGUST 1, ROSE GROWERS' DAY.

Vase of not less than fifty Ophelia type roses—A. F. Amling Co., first, with Butterfly; Emil Newman, second, with Butterfly; Wendland & Keimel Co., third, with Butterfly.

Vase of fifty yellow roses—Dramm Greenhouses, first, with Golden Rule; J. Ristow, second, with Sunburst; Emil Newman, third, with Sunburst.

Vase of not less than fifty pink roses—A. F. Amling Co., first, with Columbia; Wendland & Keimel Co., second, with Columbia; Poehlmann Bros. Co., third, with Columbia. Honorable mention was awarded Joseph Kohout, with Columbia; Amling Bros., with Columbia; Bassett & Washburn, with Columbia; Budlong Rose Gardens, with Columbia; Batavia Greenhouse Co., with Premier; R. J. Windler, with Premier; A. F. Amling Co., with Premier.

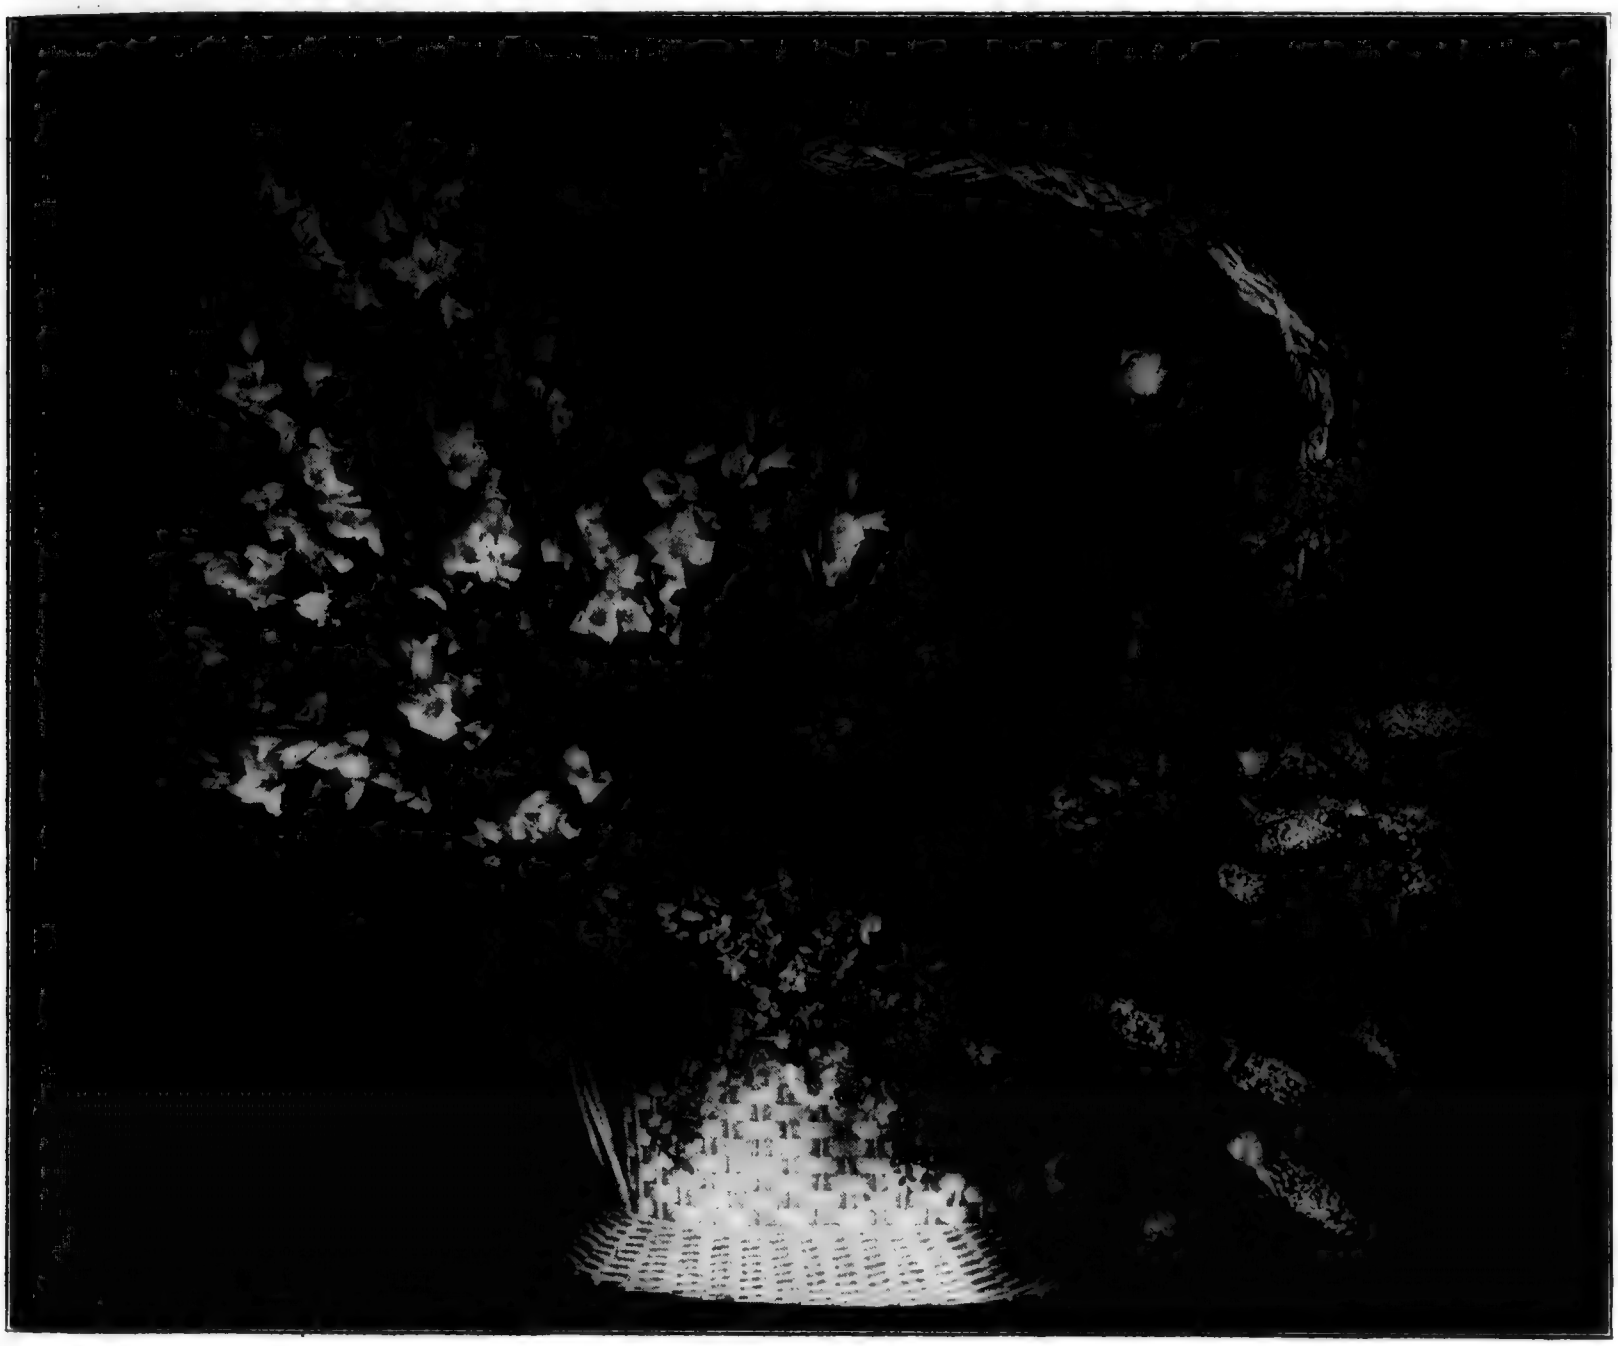
Vase of not less than fifty red roses—Wendland & Keimel Co., first, with Crusader, splendid blooms for this time of year; Bassett & Washburn, second, with Crusader; Weiland-Risch Co., third, with Milady.

Vase of fifty American Beauties—Joseph Schuler, first.

Judges—Mandy Doetsch, H. C. Mulder, Ed. Martin.

TUESDAY, AUGUST 2, FIELD GROWERS' DAY.

Vase of 100 gladioli, any one color—Bonvallet Co., first, with America; Miss Emma Patterson, second, with Glory. Honorable mention was awarded John H. Umpleby, on Pendleton.



Vase of outdoor flowers, except gladioli—Tonner, Florist, first, with assortment; H. Wittbold & Son, second, with Delphinium Belladonna.

Judges—D. P. Roy, Guy French, Robert Leach.

Thursday, August 4, flowers are to be given to each visitor to the exposition. Saturday, August 6, Lieut. Wm. A. Hansen, an army flyer and secretary of the florists' section of the Pageant of Progress, will fly over the municipal pier and distribute flowers attached to cards bearing the slogan, "Say It with Flowers," which is being made to dominate the entire exposition.

Spreading the Slogan.

One of the many features used to impress the florists' mission on the pageant is the sending of a basket of flowers daily to Mayor William Hale Thompson. At the time of the opening of the exposition the mayor and Secretary of Labor James C. Davis visited the F. T. D. booth, where Mr. Davis wrote a telegram to Vice-President Calvin C. Coolidge, in which he said, in part, "I can indorse their slogan, 'Say It with Flowers'; it is always the sweetest way." Pictures were taken at this time and also there were pictures given to the daily press of this telegram.

The Western Union Telegraph Co. has its headquarters in the F. T. D. booth.

Another attraction heretofore unheard-of is the hourly singing of the song, "Say It with Flowers," in the florists' section by a professional lady singer employed at the exposition by a music publisher.

Generous contributions have been made by the Chicago wholesale houses and by a number of allied trades' firms to pay for the space and decorations in connection with the flower show. These include the following:

American Bulb Co.
American Greenhouse Mfg. Co.
E. C. Amling Co.
Frank Ayres.
Bassett & Washburn.
W. W. Barnard Co.
J. A. Budlong Co.
Chicago Flower Growers' Assn.
Erne & Co.
Joseph Foerster Co.
A. Henderson & Co.
Percy Jones, Inc.
Kennicott Bros. Co.
John Kruchten Co.
Lord & Burnham Co.
J. C. Moninger Co.
Poehlmann Bros. Co.
A. T. Pyfer & Co.
Raedlein Basket Co.
O. A. & L. A. Tonner.
Joseph Ziska & Sons.

The florists all over the city are showing increasing interest. Entries have been placed in practically every contest on the list. The secretary wishes it announced that these entries may be made at any time within the twenty-four hours allowed. Increasing interest and increased number of entries will make possible a better and more extensive show for the florists and all eligible for prizes.

NEW WAY TO SHIP FLOWERS.

A London cable dispatch to the Philadelphia Public Ledger July 28 contained news of a novel method of shipping flowers. It read:

"A solid block of ice was delivered here today to Premier Hughes, of Australia. The block contained a wreath and two bouquets sent by the Returned Soldiers' and Sailors' League of Perth, Western Australia. The ice was melted by pouring on cold water—it was feared if hot water was used the flowers would blacken—and the flowers were found as fresh as when they started, the ice even conserving their odor. The wreath and bouquets were made of yellow wattle, red roses, carnations, violets and shell pin lilies.

"As soon as they were thawed out Premier Hughes placed the wreath on the tomb of the unknown soldier in Westminster Abbey, one bouquet on the cenotaph in Whitehall and gave the other bouquet to Princess Mary at Buckingham palace."

BASKETS OF GLADIOLI.

Snow shoes at the bathing beach or bathing suits for Alpine climbers are ridiculous suggestions, which can be forgotten when read, because they mean nothing to us. But there is a condition in the market today which many have long thought to be in near proximity to the ridiculous, and it concerns us all. Stated in a nutshell, the fact is that gladioli, most beautiful of flowers when properly arranged, are in ample abundance and the public does not know enough to buy them. What's more, a great many of us have not done much to assist in educating the public to a point where the demand will use up the supply.

The Art Floral Co., of San Francisco, is one firm that has assisted in showing what gladioli can do. Just recently this company arranged the excellent baskets shown on this and an adjacent page for the opening of the Bank of Italy's new headquarters in that city. In every case gladioli are a conspicuous part of the baskets. The tall white basket is more than seven feet in height. On booths and the clerks are made as familiar as possible with those having failed in their payments and those on that list are not given credit again. We encourage credit, which is a peculiarity of our location. We feel that when a customer asks for credit and our personal estimate of him warrants the opening of an account we have gained the confidence, in a certain measure, of this customer and that it will encourage him to buy flowers, use the telephone, telegraph or write, whatever the case may be, knowing that he has established credit. We feel justified in this opinion of credits, owing to our having just closed a big year and having lost so small a per cent. This small per cent of loss is attributed to the persistent activities of our bookkeepers, whose established procedure is the reminding of delinquents after the fifteenth of the following month after date of charge. After that we use our best efforts according to the condition or peculiarity of the account.

Our only plan for improving the retail credit situation under which we now exist is that florists report to a special committee of local florists on credits and that the delinquents of all the stores be alphabetically arranged and posted in all stores, thereby eliminating credits to the undesirables who take advantage of the forced leniency of credit of the florists.

CHICAGO'S CALL ANSWERED

PAGEANT OF PROGRESS OPENS.

Florists' Displays Draw Crowds.

The opening days of the Pageant of Progress exposition, on the municipal pier, Chicago, amply proved the wisdom of those members of the trade who worked hard to stage a conspicuous display to get the attention of the thousands of visitors. While there are not so many booths taken by florists as was hoped, the few that are there get a vast amount of attention from the crowds.

Henry Wittbold & Son and Schiller the Florist are the only retailers who occupy booths. The former has a most interesting arrangement of rock garden and duck pond, with baskets and vases of cut blooms as well as plants and tubbed evergreens in appropriate places. The latter has a profusion of flowers, in baskets, vases and made-up forms, occupying an extensive space. The feather roses received a good deal of notice. A. Lange, whose work in laying out the display is to be commended, contributed adornment to the space allotted for the competitive displays.

The F. T. D. booth drew much attention because of the globe covered with wires at one end, the telegraph instrument clicking constantly under the fingers of an operator from the Western Union Telegraph Co., the luxuriant display of gladioli and other flowers and the attractive furnishings, including wicker chairs for visitors and an icebox and work table for florists' scrutiny, from the A. L. Randall Co., Chicago. The expense of this booth was met by a donation from the F. T. D. and by contributions from the thirty-six Chicago members, including the following:

W. W. Adams
Bohannon Floral Co.
Edward Clody
Johnson & Chronis
A. Lange
Lewis & Rocca
William Palmer
Everette R. Peacock Co.
Schiller the Florist
A. H. Schneider
Wm. J. Smyth
Swanson the Florist
E. Wienhoeber Co.
George Wienhoeber
George Wittbold Co.
Henry Wittbold & Son

The display was under the management of Mrs. Stewart, manager of the Bohannon Floral Co. The Duro Paper Products Co. furnished the boxes for counter sales.

Trade Exhibits.

An adjoining booth was fitted by the A. L. Randall Co. with various appliances of its manufacture, including foliages, artificial flowers, electric fountains, flower boxes and wicker furniture, lamps, baskets and bird cages. A miniature 10-piece set of its wicker furniture drew constant notice and frequently visitors asked to purchase it for a nursery at home.

J. Oliver Johnson filled a booth with the lawn grass seed for which he is so well known, and also rat traps, which were continuously under examination.

Vaughan's Seed Store had a quite elaborate exhibit, which included seeds, bulbs, vegetables from Western Springs, gladioli of about seventy varieties from Michigan, evergreens in tubs and Dickinson's poultry feeds.

While not in the florists' section, several exhibits drew notice from visiting florists, notably those of the Sefton Paper Box Co., the A. George Schulz Co., also a box manufacturer; the Chicago Printed String Co. and the Adler-Jones Co., makers of artificial flowers.

The D. Hill Nursery Co., Dundee, Ill., contributed evergreens in tubs and window boxes to ornament various places in the vast exhibition halls.

Flower Show.

The first two days of the pageant, Saturday and Sunday, July 30 and 31, there was a recorded attendance of over 600,000 people. If only one-tenth of these were attracted by the flower show, it must be agreed that the purpose of the promoters of this show has already been fulfilled. The daily events, scheduled as announced in last week's issue, have been well supported. A summary of the awards follows:

SATURDAY, JULY 30, PLANT DAY.

Plant baskets, or window boxes for sun parlor decoration—A. Lange, first, with colored foliage basket, oval shaped with handle; Schiller the Florist, second, on fernery with ivy strings.

Ten-inch pot of plant arrangements—Schiller the Florist, first, with pot with foliaged handle; A. Lange, second, on colored foliage in low arrangement.

Judges—C. J. Michelsen, A. C. Kohlbrand and W. J. Smyth.

SUNDAY, JULY 31, CUT FLOWER BASKET DAY.

Basket not over eighteen inches in height, including handle—Henry Wittbold & Son, first; A. Lange, second; Schiller the Florist, third.

Basket not over thirty inches in height, including handle—A. Lange, first; H. Wittbold & Son, second; Schiller, third.

Basket for general effect, no size limit—A. Lange, first, with 7-foot basket of American Beauties, an arrangement immensely admired; Schiller, second; H. Wittbold & Son, third.

Judges—Fred Dellois, I. Rosnosky, F. W. Nelson and J. T. Shouten.

MONDAY, AUGUST 1, ROSE GROWERS' DAY.

Vase of not less than fifty Ophelia type roses—A. F. Amling Co., first, with Butterfly; Emil Newman, second, with Butterfly; Wendland & Keimel Co., third, with Butterfly.

Vase of fifty yellow roses—Dramm Greenhouses, first, with Golden Rule; J. Ristow, second, with Sunburst; Emil Newman, third, with Sunburst.

Vase of not less than fifty pink roses—A. F. Amling Co., first, with Columbia; Wendland & Keimel Co., second, with Columbia; Poehlmann Bros. Co., third, with Columbia. Honorable mention was awarded Joseph Kohout, with Columbia; Amling Bros., with Columbia; Bassett & Washburn, with Columbia; Budlong Rose Gardens, with Columbia; Batavia Greenhouse Co., with Premier; R. J. Windler, with Premier; A. F. Amling Co., with Premier.

Vase of not less than fifty red roses—Wendland & Keimel Co., first, with Crusader, splendid blooms for this time of year; Bassett & Washburn, second, with Crusader; Weiland-Risch Co., third, with Milady.

Vase of fifty American Beauties—Joseph Schuler, first.

Judges—Mandy Doetsch, H. C. Mulder, Ed Martin.

TUESDAY, AUGUST 2, FIELD GROWERS' DAY.

Vase of 100 gladioli, any one color—Bonvallet Co., first, with America; Miss Emma Patterson, second, with Glory. Honorable mention was awarded John H. Umpleby, on Pendleton.

Vase of outdoor flowers, except gladioli—Tonner, Florist, first, with assortment; H. Wittbold & Son, second, with Delphinium Belladonna.

Judges—D. P. Roy, Guy French, Robert Leach.

Thursday, August 4, flowers are to be given to each visitor to the exposition. Saturday, August 6, Lieut. Wm. A. Hansen, an army flyer and secretary of the florists' section of the Pageant of Progress, will fly over the municipal pier and distribute flowers attached to cards bearing the slogan, "Say It with Flowers," which is being made to dominate the entire exposition.

Spreading the Slogan.

One of the many features used to impress the florists' mission on the pageant is the sending of a basket of flowers daily to Mayor William Hale Thompson. At the time of the opening of the exposition the mayor and Secretary of Labor James C. Davis visited the F. T. D. booth, where Mr. Davis wrote a telegram to Vice-President Calvin C. Coolidge, in which he said, in part, "I can indorse their slogan, 'Say It with Flowers'; it is always the sweetest way.'' Pictures were taken at this time and also there were pictures given to the daily press of this telegram.

Such a Basket of Summer Flowers Makes Buyers even When the Days Are Hot.

The Western Union Telegraph Co. has its headquarters in the F. T. D. booth.

Another attraction heretofore unheard-of is the hourly singing of the song, ''Say It with Flowers,'' in the florists' section by a professional lady singer employed at the exposition by a music publisher.

Generous contributions have been made by the Chicago wholesale houses and by a number of allied trades' firms to pay for the space and decorations in connection with the flower show. These include the following:

American Bulb Co.
American Greenhouse Mfg. Co.
E. C. Amling Co.
Frank Ayres.
Bassett & Washburn.
W. W. Barnard Co.
L. A. Budlong Co.
Chicago Flower Growers' Assn.
Erne & Co.
Joseph Foerster Co.
A. Henderson & Co.
Percy Jones, Inc.
Kennicott Bros. Co.
John Kruchten Co.
Lord & Burnham Co.
J. C. Moninger Co.
Poehlmann Bros. Co.
A. T. Pyfer & Co.
Raedlein Basket Co.
O. A. & L. A. Tonner.
Joseph Ziska & Sons.

The florists all over the city are showing increasing interest. Entries have been placed in practically every contest on the list. The secretary wishes it announced that these entries may be made at any time within the twenty-four hours allowed. Increasing interest and increased number of entries will make possible a better and more extensive show for the florists and all eligible for prizes.

NEW WAY TO SHIP FLOWERS.

A London cable dispatch to the Philadelphia Public Ledger July 28 contained news of a novel method of shipping flowers. It read:

''A solid block of ice was delivered here today to Premier Hughes, of Australia. The block contained a wreath and two bouquets sent by the Returned Soldiers' and Sailors' League of Perth, Western Australia. The ice was melted by pouring on cold water—it was feared if hot water was used the flowers would blacken—and the flowers were found as fresh as when they started, the ice even conserving their odor. The wreath and bouquets were made of yellow wattle, red roses, carnations, violets and shell pin lilies.

''As soon as they were thawed out Premier Hughes placed the wreath on the tomb of the unknown soldier in Westminster Abbey, one bouquet on the cenotaph in Whitehall and gave the other bouquet to Princess Mary at Buckingham palace.''

BASKETS OF GLADIOLI.

Snow shoes at the bathing beach or bathing suits for Alpine climbers are ridiculous suggestions, which can be forgotten when read, because they mean nothing to us. But there is a condition in the market today which many have long thought to be in near proximity to the ridiculous, and it concerns us all. Stated in a nutshell, the fact is that gladioli, most beautiful of flowers when properly arranged, are in ample abundance and the public does not know enough to buy them. What's more, a great many of us have not done much to assist in educating the public to a point where the demand will use up the supply.

The Art Floral Co., of San Francisco, is one firm that has assisted in showing what gladioli can do. Just recently this company arranged the excellent baskets shown on this and an adjacent page for the opening of the Bank of Italy's new headquarters in that city. In every case gladioli are a conspicuous part of the baskets. The tall white basket is more than seven feet in height. On this occasion it was filled with gladioli, red roses and Delphinium Belladonna, all beautified and skillfully arranged with the proper amount of fern. The other basket contains gladioli, what is sometimes called summer lilac, roses and enough green to make it attractive. These displays attracted much attention among the many other floral displays at the opening of the bank.

Color schemes can be worked out to perfection with gladioli. There are the colors that blend or contrast, as desired —whites, purples, lavenders, etc. And at this season of the year they are plentiful and reasonable in price. They are a splendid flower for many occasions. A window full of them, well arranged in baskets and vases, should attract many customers. But the arrangement is as important as the flowers.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND.

The Market.

Stock was not quite so scarce as the week before, although it was by no means plentiful. Asters have been coming in and have been a welcome addition. These are of fair quality and sell readily at $4 and $5 per hundred. Gladioli are scarce. The supply of gladioli this year has been small in comparison with other years, due to the weather. Roses are fairly plentiful in shorts and mediums and are in good demand.

Lilies have been a great help in the market. Easter lilies have been selling well for funeral work. Rubrum lilies have been coming in, but, as yet, are not plentiful and are not greatly sought.

A little statice, some delphiniums, gaillardias, zinnias, etc., are available, but not in any unusual quality or quantity.

Business has been fair for this time of year, funeral work being the most important item.

Various Notes.

Irwin Bertermann and family have just returned from their vacation. They motored to Wisconsin and spent some time at Evergreen bay, Milwaukee and Chicago before returning.

H. S. Price, of the Joseph G. Neidinger Co., Philadelphia, and Mr. Huddleson, of the Ove Gnatt Co., Laporte, Ind., called on the trade last week.

A new smokestack is being erected at Bertermann's Cumberland plant.

Temperley's delivery truck was recently hit by a gravel truck and badly damaged. Mr. Ross, the driver, was only slightly hurt.

H. W. Rieman & Sons have some fine canary birds, which they are raising to sell. E. E. T.

MOTT-LY MUSINGS

"Publicity in a novel form," observed H. B. Wisner, Middletown, N. Y., referring to the recent wedding of a prominent young couple, at which flowers were dropped from an aeroplane owned by Mr. Wisner and driven by an army lieutenant, who was later a guest at the wedding. The Wisner greenhouses received much publicity in consequence of this unusual incident.

* * * *

"Apropos of weddings," commented F. X. Dienst, "while the records indicate fewer, our experience shows more business than usual at this time. With a lower average in funeral work, we have a good stock in sight and look for a continuation of the good business we have enjoyed since our residence of a quarter of a century at Middletown."

* * * *

E. A. Lorenz, of Middletown, records the best season for general planting, much funeral work, plenty of flowers, a fine lot of gladioli and asters, with carnations and chrysanthemums making fine growth. Mr. Lorenz will represent this hustling town at the S. A. F. convention, at Washington, D. C.

* * * *

"Great growing weather," commented George Burgevin, of Valentin Burgevin's Sons, Kingston, N. Y. "Stock is doing well; in fact, if we have a continuation, we shall have no excuse for not making the trip to Washington, as everything will be in order and, undoubtedly, it will be a banner gathering this year."

* * * *

Unless prevented by unforeseen circumstances, Henry Hansen, the flourishing florist of Catskill, N. Y., accompanied by Miss Hansen, will be seen among the crowd attending the convention of the S. A. F.

* * * *

"Most assuredly we will be there," say Conrad & Gindra, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y. "Washington will be the Mecca of such as ourselves who are on the qui vive for the latest in floriculture. We expect to get some points on floral artistry while there."

* * * *

George Saltford, of the Saltford Flower Shop, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., proposes to take advantage of the lull to hie himself to the capital city, possibly by motor. "We look for the biggest year at Vassar College this coming season and must be prepared with the latest ideas culled from the convention," said he.

* * * *

"An excellent idea," observed Fred Goldring, Slingerlands, N. Y., commenting upon the suggestion that the Albany Florists' Club attend the S. A. F. in a body. "Splendid publicity and the arrival of our boys, a hundred strong, in automobiles representing the capital of the Empire state, would be a fine compliment to the craft at the capital of the republic."

* * * *

William Gloeckner, Albany, N. Y., will be a much disappointed individual if he is prevented from attending the convention. He is full of F. T. D. matter and predicts a most profitable gathering.

* * * *

Official business will prevent E. V. B. Felthousen, Schenectady, N. Y., from attending the convention. "It will make The Review more welcome," added he, "if that were possible."

* * * *

Henry Schrade, Saratoga Springs, N. Y., reports the best season ever. It is possible that a personal representative from the Chamber of Commerce will extend to the S. A. F. convention an invitation to hold the next annual meeting at this charming resort.

* * * *

Christian Dehn, Saratoga Springs, regrets his inability to attend the convention, owing to the press of business. "Nothing else would keep me away," said he. "However, I anticipate a fine report in The Review." W. M.

NEW YORK.

The Market.

The market continues dull and uninteresting. The demand is abnormally small, making the light supply seem large. The weather has been torrid for many days, and its effect is reflected in arrivals of stock, especially roses. Asters are now coming in heavily, and among such as escaped the blight are some of good quality, but the bulk of arrivals are poor and unattractive. A few good showers within the last few days have proved of great benefit to all outside stock, although hail storms Sunday, July 31, cut outside plantings to pieces within a wide territory around New York, which means a probable shortening of stock for a few days.

American Beauty roses are not plentiful, and the quality is much below the average for the season. Poor foliage in many shipments also acts adversely in the matter of prices. Hybrid teas are in fair supply, but quality determines quotable prices, which are lower than those of last week. Much stock is cleared only through bargain prices.

Carnations are no longer in the market. Growers, most of them, have finished benching for next season's requirements, and it is fair to say that this work is completed about two weeks ahead of the general finishing time.

Not many orchids are available, but the demand for them is not large. Hybrid cattleyas clean up well, as there are not many of them and lower grades are selling down to 50 cents per flower. A few gardenias come in regularly and clean out on orders at prices according to quality.

Lilies are not plentiful, which fact is perhaps fortunate for the growers. Lilies of the valley are in small supply, but sales drag.

Gladioli are in enormous supply, but meet a fair demand. The supply of herbaceous flowers is not so great as it has been for some time, but quantities of delphinium, phlox, marigolds, daisies, snapdragons and other midsummer flowers are arriving, resulting in much left-over stock from day to day.

Various Notes.

The New York Times of August 1, on its editorial page, gives prominence to the slogan of the publicity campaign, under the caption, "Saying It with Flowers." The article details the wordless greeting of Ambassador Herrick to France on his recent arrival in Paris. "It could hardly be called a speech," the article says, "yet a more eloquent ambassadorial speech one could not have made. "He took the Florists around New York are believed to have suffered severely through the hail storm of July 31. In Westchester county the hailstones were as big as, or bigger than, hen's eggs. Two establishments at Babylon, L. I., are reported to have had their glass riddled.

Richard Vincent, Jr., White Marsh, Md., was in town to attend a meeting of the executive committee of the American Dahlia Society, August 2.

PROVIDENCE, R. I.

The Market.

Roses, asters and gladioli furnish the staples in the local market at the present time, only a few carnations being in stock and these of a somewhat indifferent quality. Prices are about normal and there is a general clean-up practically every day. Funeral work is about the only thing in which any activity is shown, although there have been a number of small weddings the last week that have called for bouquets and small decorations. These were all well distributed.

Various Notes.

Archie C. Aken, of the Colonial Flower Shoppe, has returned from a several days' recreation trip among friends in Boston and vicinity.

Hugo H. de Wildt has given a mortgage for $2,250 to Rogers G. Young on land and improvements on Laurens street, Cranston.

Charles Smith, of the Eastern Wreath Co., had one of the fingers of his right hand badly crushed while experimenting with one of the machines at the company's factory, 466 Valley street.

Fred Deitz, of French street, has returned from an extended pleasure trip through the middle west.

Cohen Bros. are busy making renovations and improvements at the Lowell Avenue Greenhouses.

John Pee, of Fall River, was in town last week looking for supplies. He reports business about normal.

John Penitello, forestry expert with Samuel Kinder, Bristol, who was so seriously injured recently by a fall, is convalescing. No bones were broken and there are no internal injuries, as at first feared.

Mr. Pierson, manager of the Warwick Greenhouses, who has been in the hospital for several weeks under operation, is able to be out again.

Mrs. Nathan Max has returned from a several months' visit among relatives in Palestine. She tells some interesting things concerning conditions in that part of the world.

Paul Brookney, with the Colonial Flower Shoppe, has been on vacation for a couple of weeks.

Lawrence Hay is making improvements and changes at his houses near Rumford, in East Providence.

Theodore Peterson is overhauling the range of greenhouses at the corner of Benefit and Meeting streets.

Richard Higgins has had a rare cactus plant in bloom the last week at his place on Atwells avenue. It has attracted considerable attention. It is claimed to be nearly 50 years old, never having bloomed before.

Robert Koppelman, of Boston, who was recently married near Pittsburgh, Pa., is spending a few days with his bride among relatives here. W. H. M.

HARTFORD, CONN.

Owing to the unusually prolonged hot and humid weather of the last three weeks, business is quiet. Several of the trade are away on vacation.

Much damage was done in this section last week by hail and wind storms. The damage is estimated at $500,000. Some are insured against hail.

Recent visitors were Richard Leary, of Joseph Breck & Sons, Boston, Mass.; Selmar Loft, of the Scandinavian Seed Co. and R. Wiboltt, Ltd., Copenhagen, Denmark; C. A. Barden, of C. S. Clark & Son, Wakeman, O., and F. B. Dawson, of Charles Sharpe & Co., Sleaford, England. C. B. M.

WOONSOCKET, R. I.

Terrific Hail Storm.

During a thunder and hail storm that swept with terrific fury across the northern section of the state late on Saturday afternoon, July 30, more than $50,000 damage was done to property in this city and vicinity. More than one-third of this loss will fall upon the floriculturists, horticulturists, nurserymen and farmers, the damage to growing things being estimated at from $15,000 to $20,000, from incomplete returns.

Nearly three inches of rain fell during the forty-five minutes that the storm was at its height and all the streets and roadways were flooded. Hailstones as large as marbles fell with terrific force for half an hour, breaking window panes, pitting lawns and beating down vegetation of every kind, while lightning struck in many places. One peculiar incident took place, when a large 3-story dwelling house on South Main street, which was practically covered with ivy from top to bottom, had the vines completely stripped from the walls. CLEVELAND CLUB NOMINATES.

At the August 1 meeting of the Cleveland Florists' Club, held as usual at the Hotel Hollenden, the following officers were unanimously nominated for the ensuing year: President, James A. McLaughlin; first vice-president, Raymond Kester; second vice-president, Wm. H. Temblett; secretary, Chas. E. Bastian; treasurer, George Bate.

James A. McLaughlin, who is looking after the transportation to the S. A. F. convention, August 16 to 18, in Washington, announces that the trip will be made via the B. & O. One or possibly two special cars will be made up at Cleveland to connect with the Chicago special at Akron, Monday evening, August 15. Members planning to go should lose no time in securing their identification certificates from Secretary John Young. This is necessary to obtain the special rate concession. Reservations are being booked by the local transportation committee.

MEMBERSHIP CAMPAIGN.

Last week I told you that Vice-president Horgan, of Georgia, got thirty-five members. Well, I can beat that now. A. S. Gray, president of the Oklahoma State Florists' Association, sent in forty-five new members and says they are not done yet. Vice-president Stiles, of that state, is still busy, while Mr. Gray has gone to Colorado to recuperate.

That's going some, I tell you, boys. Now, who is the next one to reach high mark? Don't all speak at once! It would be fine, though, if all got busy at once, wouldn't it?

Well, let's go. Think of it, fourteen presidents of affiliating organizations now on the S. A. F. board, three added last week and more to come. I'll say that's fine.

The minimum S. A. F. members for your state to put your president on the S. A. F. board is fixed. The maximum has no limit.

Remember this is a real state vice-presidential year, and there are going to be some worth-while reports at the convention. Will you have one?

How many members have you to date? Please report to this office, but send the applications to John Young.

J. F. Ammann, Chairman,
Membership Committee.

Edmond, Okla.—Miss Pearl Kinnebrew, manager of the Edmond Floral Co., is quite successful in the growing of potted plants and flowers. Some six months ago, a vegetable house, 40 x 125 feet, well equipped with an overhead irrigating system of over 700 feet of 2-inch pipe, was remodeled and fitted for flowers. The plant represents an investment of $8,000.

GERANIUM LEAF-SPOT.

How the Disease Spreads.

The presence of red spider, white fly, pallid mite or other pests has little or nothing to do with the spread of leaf-spot on geraniums, but the method of watering has much to do with it; the watering, in fact, frequently is the chief agency in carrying the disease germs from one plant to another. Such, in substance, is the conclusion reached at the Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station, after an elaborate series of experiments. The tests proved that the leaf-spot fungus, scientifically called Cercospora brunkii, does not enter the punctures made in the leaves by pests, that direct transfer of the insects from infected to uninfected plants fails to produce the disease, and that the rate of spread of the disease is not materially increased by the presence of the insects, even if they are so numerous as to disfigure the leaves with punctures and the resultant stigmonose.

On the other hand, it was clearly demonstrated that in watering with a hose, if the stream of water is driven through the leaves in a direction parallel with the surface of the bed, the leaf-spot germs are quickly and surely conveyed from the diseased to the sound plants.

How to Identify Leaf-spot.

Since the leaf-punctures made by insects, with the consequent stigmonose, have a greater or less resemblance to leaf-spot, it is important to be able to distinguish between these different blemishes of the foliage. The leaf-spots, says a bulletin recently issued by the Maryland Experiment Station, "vary from about a millimeter in diameter [a little less than one-twenty-fifth of an inch] to several millimeters. Infected areas examined by transmitted light are characterized in the early stages by the appearance of small, dark, opaque spots, which are later surrounded by a raised, transparent border. The elevated rim is particularly noticeable in dead leaves. Still later the spots may become united and occupy a considerable area of the leaf. They are usually light brown in color, though sometimes almost black. But diseased or dead areas that sometimes follow red spider punctures are more or less angular and without the raised border."

The injury caused by red spider and white fly, says the bulletin again, "is manifested by the appearance of small watery pimples upon the leaves." Eruptions on the leaves, with a superficial likeness to the results of insect punctures, can also be caused by exposure of the plants to strong ammonia fumes. But neither these eruptions nor the insect punctures are similar in detail to leaf-spot. The real leaf-spot can be identified by both form and color.

As already stated, the leaf-spot disease, sometimes called circular spot, is directly due to the fungus known as Cercospora brunkii, but the activities of this fungus are greatly stimulated by certain greenhouse conditions. "Spotted geraniums," says the bulletin already quoted, "are most numerous in commercial houses in spring about the time that firing is discontinued, and in fall just before firing is begun. Atmospheric conditions within the houses at these times frequently combine a high relative humidity with a low temperature. At such times the spots become numerous enough to attract attention and may injure the sale of plants because of the unsightly appearance. Stock beds harbor the disease almost continuously, but a marked increase in the number of affected plants usually occurs at the above stated periods. In this climate, at least, lack of ventilation is one of the chief factors responsible for the spot, a fact judged from the difficulty in propagating the disease in small houses and from its relative scarcity in houses where good ventilation is provided."

Methods of Control.

A most important part of the means of controlling leaf-spot—the part that consists largely in the maintenance of sanitary conditions—has been indicated in the preceding paragraphs. The necessity of good ventilation, with the avoidance of unwholesome dampness, has been shown. The danger of spreading the disease by careless watering of the leaves, instead of watering from below, has also been stated.

In addition to these general precautionary measures, the use of a good fungicide is also likely to be necessary. The fungicide especially favored by the experimenters at the Maryland Experiment Station is the Bordeaux mixture, applied in the ordinary liquid form. "The treatment with Bordeaux dust," they say, "is promising, but cannot be as highly recommended as liquid Bordeaux." In mixing the Bordeaux for all the tests, the 4-4-50 formula was followed—that is, four pounds of copper sulphate and four pounds of lime to fifty gallons of water—and no injury to stems or leaves was observed.

Dipping the Cuttings.

In the experiments the Bordeaux was used, with excellent results, on a batch of cuttings as well as on the plants. "The cuttings," it is said, "were dipped in Bordeaux and planted out after the preparation had dried on the leaves and stems."

One of the advantages in thus dipping the cuttings is the elimination of the trouble that sometimes ensues from discoloration of the foliage by the fungicide, since "cuttings so treated grow out of the marks of the application by the time they are ready to be shipped or set out." The assurance is also given that "cuttings dipped in Bordeaux, though they did not root quite so freely as undipped cuttings, usually developed into more vigorous plants after removal from the cutting bench."

Harrisburg, Pa.—Mrs. Bertha I. Keim, owner of the Longenecker Flower Shop, at 804 North Third street, has made announcement that the business was removed to 814 North Third street August 1. She also announces that the shop will be known as the Keim Flower Shop.

Grand Rapids, Mich.—With a view to enlarging and perpetuating the business, Henry Smith recently conveyed his establishment to a corporation, known as the Henry Smith Floral Co., of which he is president. The other officers are: Vice-president, Frances L. Robinson; secretary, William T. Saunders; treasurer, Joseph W. Brown.

Selma, Ala.—Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Archie Newman to Carl De Bangue Vineyard, manager of the Vineyard Floral Co., of Jackson, Tenn. The wedding was a beautiful affair throughout and quite worthy of a florist. The church was decorated with palms, ferns and southern smilax. The bridesmaids and the maid of honor carried tastefully made-up garden bouquets. The bride carried a splendid shower bouquet.

Lansing, Mich.—The Smith Floral Co., about September 1, will remove to a new and much better location. A contract has been placed with the A. L. Randall Co., Chicago, for a complete outfit of fixtures for the new store.

Memphis, Tenn.—Mr. and Mrs. Olof Johnson will be at home Wednesday evening, August 10, in celebration of their fiftieth anniversary. In 1871 Mr. Johnson married Miss Fannie E. Brown. Their present residence is at 1066 North Seventh street.

Lowgap, N. C.—The firm name of W. M. Woodruff & Son, wholesale packers of decorative greens, of this town and Galax, Va., has been changed to W. M. Woodruff's Son & Co. T. N. Woodruff, the manager of the business since its establishment twenty years ago, still remains the general manager, with J. E. Cockerham, a member of the firm for the last five years, as sales manager. This means a slight change in name only. W. M. Woodruff retired from the business eight years ago. Business in their line is above the average for this time of year and they anticipate a big run the coming season.

IT is the general report that collections slowed up rapidly during July.

RAIN was welcomed this week in the central west, where growers needed it badly.

THE success of those florists who have adhered most closely to golden rule practices should serve to show others how profitable a guide it is.

THE drought has held back carnation plants in the field to such an extent that a scarcity is feared and undersized plants and late crops are held certainties.

IF florists, as is predicted, will have to be content with a smaller margin of profit next winter, there is the greater necessity to keep things moving so as to avoid a loss this summer.

THE opinion seems to prevail in financial circles that industry has turned the corner and that there will be a gradual increase in business activity through the year which lies next ahead.

IT has become time to watch credits closely. During the time of flush prosperity it was necessary only to consider a buyer's willingness to pay; now one must take stock of ability to meet obligations.

GENERAL reports show July a busy month, busier in some cases than the same month a year ago, it is said. There is much business to be done in the hot months by those who try to do it, and flowers seem to sell when many other commodities will not.

THE presence of Past-president John K. M. L. Farquhar will be sadly missed by those who gather at Washington for the S. A. F. convention, at which he was to respond to the addresses of welcome. His funeral, reported in the Boston news-letter in this issue, drew a large number of notable persons inside and outside the trade.

IT is unfortunate that conditions are such that florists cannot reduce prices at present, or in the immediate future, without loss. In no important particular are the costs of production possible of reduction at this time and the reduction of wholesale or retail prices must come out of profits if they do not, in fact, entail an actual loss.

ROSE plants are in much demand in the west, because of the losses during the hot weather of June and July.

PUT at least a vase of gladioli or bright-colored asters in your window, among the ferns. Otherwise your store may be taken for the undertaker's, a place of the dead.

WEATHER conditions over the greater part, if not the whole, of the United States have been extremely unfavorable for the last sixty days, indicating a probable shortage in many important lines of florists' stock for one or two years to come.

GROWERS are not desirous of making contracts for coal at prices considerably higher than in those they signed a year ago. But the short production and the prospect of a strong demand when the factories now idle start their fires again make it urgent for greenhousemen to fill their bins early.

REJECTION by the workers of proposed wage reductions on the one hand and a stagnant market because of too high prices on the other place glass manufacturers in a predicament, the result of which seems likely to be a continuation of minimum operations and a still more marked scarcity of glass.

CUT flower growers have had a tough season so far. While good prices have been obtainable for good stock, weather conditions have been so severe that production has been low, both in quantity and quality, with the result that growers have been hard pressed to make ends meet. But if the ancient law of opposite and equal reaction can be counted on to work with its old-time infallibility, a much better time is in early prospect.

WHAT is indicated by the rapidly increasing number of offers from the eastern states that appear in the Classified ads in The Review? Does it show that trade is slower in the east than in the middle west, or that the eastern growers have made most progress in overcoming the shortage in stock? Or is it only that the advertisers are waking up to the fact that it's where a paper is read, not where it is printed, that counts in bringing results?

THE correspondence reaching the subscription department of The Review indicates that the trade has entered another period of rapid expansion. During and immediately after the war the trade ceased growing, or even shrunk, as regards the number of persons engaged in it, but recently many former florists have returned from other and temporarily more attractive activities, while large numbers of people are taking up flower, plant or bulb growing or selling. Most of the beginnings are in a small way, but in the aggregate they mean a material increase in production and distribution.

ARE YOU A MEMBER?

Out of an industry that comprises, at an accepted estimate, approximately 15,000 persons, only 3,500 are members of the organization which is the trade's mouthpiece and has been its greatest benefactor. Surely, if the Society of American Florists had done nothing more in its thirty-six years of existence than to bring into use the famous slogan, "Say It with Flowers," it could be said to have been a valuable organization. But it has done, each year, much besides that, and with a larger backing by those whom it is held to represent, it could conceivably do much more.

Perhaps membership has been too lightly valued because it was so low in cost; $5 a year places it within reach of the humblest florist. No matter what other trade organization he joins, every florist should also join the S. A. F. If he needs to be told why, let him read J. F. Ammann's address to the Kansas florists on page 68 of this issue.

But reasons why have been given in these columns too frequently to need repetition. Every florist has thought of joining the S. A. F. Now is the time to act. Send $5 to Secretary John Young, 43 West Eighteenth street, New York, today.

WHAT A LETTER COSTS.

The cost of a letter was analyzed recently in the advertisement of a high-grade writing paper. The figures are interesting, although the conditions and authority are not stated: Postage, $.02; cost of dictating, $.2080; cost of printing and envelope-making, $.0048; cost of stenographer's wages, $.058; cost of office overhead, supplies, etc., $.058; cost of paper, $.0067; total, $.3555.

The office manager of the Willys Overland Co., Toledo, O., lists costs for letter-writing under the following items and figures the following costs for each: (1) Mail room, $.002; (2) dictation, $.09; (3) phonograph cylinders, (4) letterheads, (5) envelopes, (6) carbon paper, (7) copy sheet, $.0073; (8) typewriter, interest, depreciation and repairs, $.0005; (9) phonograph, interest, depreciation and repairs, $.0015; (10) transcribing, $.045; (11) supervision, $.005; (12) space, heat, light, power, $.016; (13) filing, $.002; (14) postage, $.02; total, $.1893.

If a stenographer takes dictation with her pencil and notebook, instead of a phonograph being used, items 3 and 9 should be eliminated, item 10 should be at least doubled and for the same volume of correspondence item 12 should be doubled. These changes will make stenographic costs about $.2484 per letter, as compared with $.1893 for phonographic costs.

If each letter you send out to your customers and to business houses with whom you deal costs 19 cents or 25 cents or 35 cents—or even if it only costs half of the lowest of these figures—and the stationery you write on costs 1 cent or less, isn't it foolish to use cheap, shabby paper and envelopes in your correspondence?

THE PROSPECT.

The publishers of The Review look forward, not only to satisfactory business, but to steadily increasing volume, particularly in the Classified ads. It works like this:

Have had very good business from my ads in your paper and expect to use a good many more in the spring, as The Review seems to give me the best results I have obtained anywhere.—William P. Yeagle, Bristol, Pa., July 26, 1921.

If you hear a man complain of the cost of advertising you can be pretty certain he spends a good bit of money elsewhere than in The Review.

BRIEF ANSWERS.

OBITUARY

Anton Felke.

Anton Felke, of Wilmette, Ill., suffered a paralytic stroke while at work in his greenhouses July 27 and died in the early hours of July 30. Mr. Felke was just past 50 years of age and was a steady worker. July 26 he completed the laborious task of installing and setting a new boiler, doing all the work himself, in the high heat of this hottest of recorded summers. The next day he was at the potting bench, when he was overcome. He retained consciousness for several hours after he was assisted into his adjoining home, but that night he suffered a second stroke and was unconscious for two days, until the end.

Mr. Felke was born in Chicago, the son of two of the oldest florists in the north side district. His mother, Mrs. Mary Felke, known to many as Flower Mary, now 80 years of age, survives, although too feeble to attend her son's funeral. A brother, Frank, now located at Elkhart, Ind., was in the business at Wilmette for many years. There are four sisters, one of whom is the wife of Anton Then and herself the mother of a family of florists. The widow and eight children are left and will carry on the business, which is highly prosperous, as Mr. Felke grew first-class pot stock and enjoyed a fine trade, especially in bedding plants, along Chicago's north shore.

The funeral was held in the morning of August 2, at St. Joseph's church at Wilmette, with interment in the parish cemetery. There was a large attendance, including many florists, and the numerous floral arrangements testified to the esteem in which the deceased and his family are held in the community.

PITTSBURGH, PA.

The Market.

Business was brisk last week. The demand has been heavier than usual for the last of July, which can be accounted for by the return of the bodies of the soldiers who died in Europe during the war.

Roses are in short supply, with quality nothing to brag about, and it is hard to get enough good ones to fill advance orders, let alone the orders that come in late.

Lilies are in demand and the quality is of the best, while the price has advanced.

Gladioli are now at their best, but there do not seem to be as many as usual on the market at this season, which has caused the price to remain firm. Asters are now a factor and some good stock is to be seen; so far, they have sold on sight. Carnations are mostly a thing of the past, and what few are coming in are poor.

Taking everything into consideration, the cut flower business is more than satisfactory, and few complaints are to be heard.

Various Notes.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Smith had a red-letter day of their own Wednesday, July 20, when they celebrated their golden wedding anniversary.

W. J. Smith, of the Altimo Culture Co., of Canfield, O., was a recent visitor. Mr. Smith reports a severe hail storm, which did much damage to his glass.

John Keil, of East Liverpool, O., was another out-of-town visitor last week.

George C. McCallum and Thomas Kelleher, of the McCallum Co., are enjoying their vacations at Conneaut lake, Pa.

A big party from here will attend the convention at Washington, D. C., this month.

Harry Langhans, of McGrath & Langhans, has just returned from a three weeks' automobile trip through New York state and Canada.

Charles Ulmer, of the E. A. Williams Co., has just returned from spending his vacation with relatives at Stoughton, Wis. He went by rail to Chicago and motored to Stoughton by the way of Milwaukee. He reports the roads in that part of the country in elegant condition.

W. A. Clarke, president of the Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co., left Saturday, July 30, to spend his vacation at his summer home at Lake Chautauqua.

Ben Elliott, owner of the John Bader Co., left with his family for a trip through the west. H. J. H.

CHICAGO.

The Market.

The final week of July produced reports which varied with the special conditions of the reporters' business. It was noted that some wholesale houses had a dull week, but it seems to have been because they had only a limited supply of stock, as others say their sales were up to or even a little ahead of the same week in 1920. Reports from the retailers vary in accordance with the character of trade catered to. Those whose specialty is flowers for the sad events have been notably busy, while those who cater to other classes of trade have found little demand, few good flowers, stiff prices for them and a narrower margin of profit than last summer. The story of the last week of July is practically the story of the month. The wholesalers are, in general, better satisfied than the retailers.

Business apparently would be much better all around if there were more and better stock. The Chicago district now has had ten weeks of continuously hot weather. The temperature has been, almost continuously, 10 degrees above normal and there has been scarcely any rain. It is no wonder stock has been, is and, worst of all, probably will continue to be scarce and poor.

The variety of stock is limited. Roses, gladioli and asters constitute almost the entire supply. Of roses it can be said that both quantity and quality are on the up grade. Stems still are short, but they lengthen day by day and it is apparent that this crop has turned the corner; given a little cool weather, roses should improve rapidly and give the trade the chance to charge more money. There is a call for red roses, perhaps more apparent than real, as the supply is extremely small. Red ordinarily is not in request during the heated term.

Gladioli have not yet accumulated. The supply of other flowers has been so small that gladioli have been kept well cleaned up; the only difficulty has been with shipments which were not of quality good enough to meet the needs even of funeral work. Because of the cleaner sales than usual, it seems that this must, thus far, have been an unusually good season for the growers.

Asters are in larger supply than heretofore and the price of average grades has fallen. Really good asters are extremely scarce, because of the hot, dry weather. The small flowers are used mostly for work and, while the growers call it a bad season, the retailers will tell you it costs a plenty to fill in a design.

Giganteum lilies are in such small supply that the price has advanced, while, on the other hand, valley is in such light demand the price has eased off. Other flowers are in such small supply they need not be considered at this time.

July Weather.

July, 1921, goes on record as the hottest month in fifty-one years, or in the entire time official records have been kept. The mean temperature was 81.2 degrees. Normal is 72.4 degrees. The percentage of possible sunshine was eighty-eight, against seventy-two per cent as normal. Rainfall was only 1.87 inches, against 3.64 inches as normal.

The long drought was broken by a general rain which began August 1 and lasted two days. It was more than welcome, but did not come until the growers of outdoor stock had sustained large losses. There are differences of opinion as to the effect on the crop of gladiolus bulbs, some believing the rain did not come soon enough, while others think that good bulbs will yet be made if we have normal weather in August and September. Carnation plants have made little growth in the field; some growers have housed undersized plants, while others are waiting. The ten weeks of heat and drought have been severe on rose plants under glass, the customary summer growth not having been made, and plantsmen have lost considerable stock under glass, especially cyclamens, which have succumbed in large numbers during the last fortnight.

Peter Reinberg, Inc.

Plans which have been in process of formation for two months were consummated last week when the state issued a certificate of incorporation to Peter Reinberg, Inc., authorized capital $30,000, organized to take over the wholesale store of the late Mr. Reinberg. Mrs. Reinberg is one of the stockholders and the others are, with one exception, employees at the store.

At a meeting for organization, July 30, the following officers were elected:

President and treasurer, Henry Zender.

Vice-president, Herbert Hanson.

Secretary, William Maloney.

Manager, Louis Hoechner.

The corporation took over the business August 1. About September 1 Fred Price, for some time with the J. A. Budlong Co., will join the new company and have the title of assistant manager.

Mum Show in November.

The Chrysanthemum Society of America will hold its annual meeting in Chicago this year and it has been decided that the Chicago Florists' Club will cooperate in an exhibition to be staged in the Gold room on the ninth floor of the Auditorium hotel. The dates are November 16 and 17.

A meeting was held August 1 to set the preparations in motion, those present being: Secretary C. W. Johnson, Rockford, Ill.; C. C. Pollworth, Milwaukee; N. J. Wietor, W. N. Rudd, Albert Erickson and Fred Lautenschlager.

All Aboard for Washington.

It appears that the Chicago representation at the S. A. F. convention in Washington August 16 to 18 will not be so large as the last time the society met there. Among those who are going are:

Fred Lautenschlager will represent Kroeschell Bros. Co. No boiler will be exhibited this year.

Paul R. Klingsporn will pilot the largest party thus far announced. With him will be President G. C. Weiland and Treasurer Charles McCauley, of the Chicago Flower Growers' Association; Frank Schramm and wife, Fred Schramm and children and, probably, George J. Ball. After the convention Mr. Klingsporn will spend a few days at his old home in Philadelphia.

W. J. Keimel and Peter Olsem and their families are preparing to make the trip to Washington by automobile. They plan to meet at Richmond, Ind., from which point the two parties will proceed together.

Various Notes.

Edward Mallinson regards it as a distinct loss to the trade that all the local growers have dropped American Beauty. "The Fleischman Floral Co.," says Mr. Mallinson, "has a steady demand for Beauties, from people who are willing to pay any reasonable price for what they want and who object to being sold something 'just as good.'" Mr. Mallinson thinks it inconceivable that Beauty does not pay the grower at prevailing market prices.

George V. Wienhoeber and C. J. Michelsen are preparing to start in a few days on a trip through Wisconsin and the northern peninsula of Michigan. With their two Packard cars, they will have their families and chauffeurs. Miss Peterson, who has charge of the office work for the E. C. Amling Co., will be the guest of the Michelsen family. They plan to reach Lake Superior and will use two or three weeks for the trip.

William Wienhoeber and his wife, accompanied by Joseph Schouten, of the E. Wienhoeber Co., and Fred Nelson, of the George Wittbold Co., have returned from a trip to Denver, made in Mr. Wienhoeber's chummy Moline-Knight.

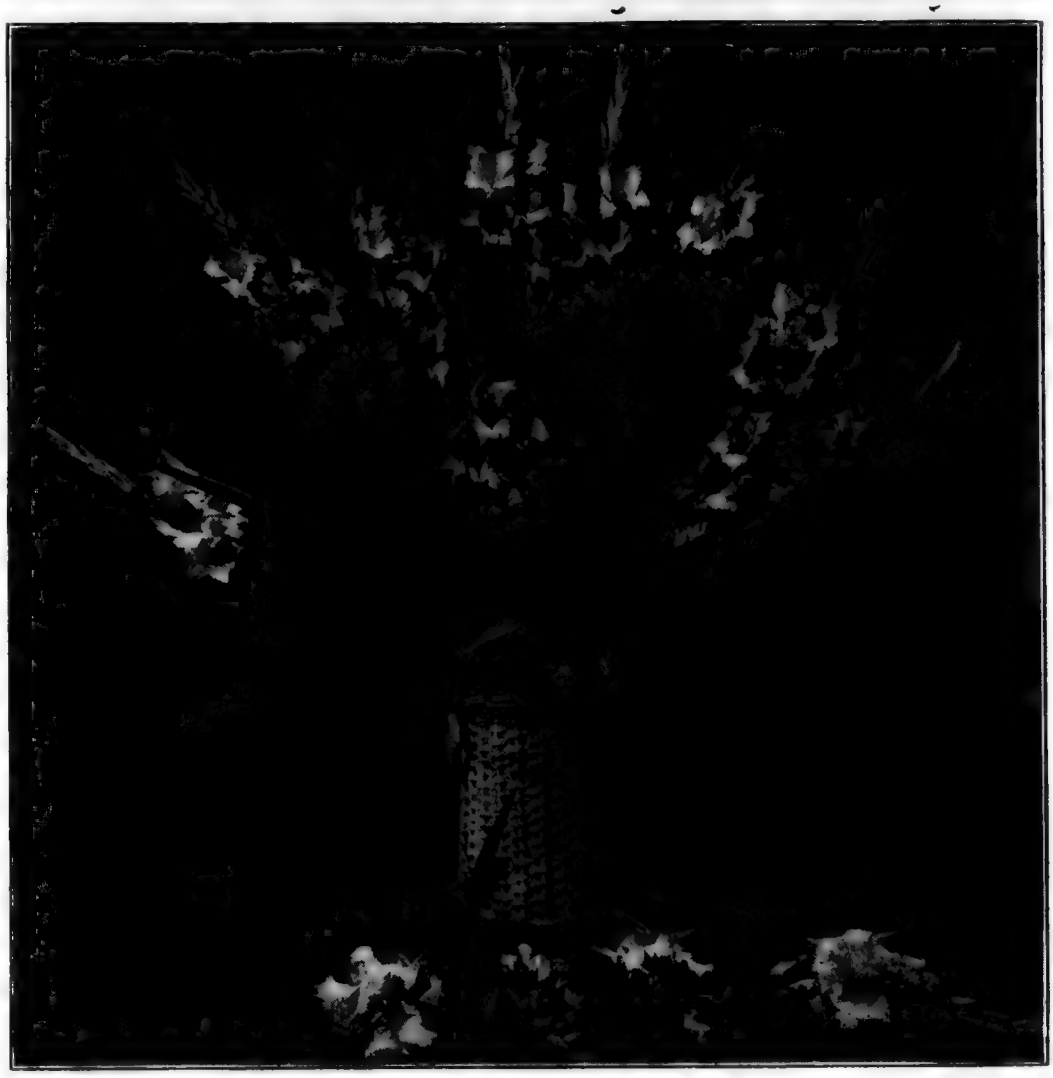
Emil Buettner again is at Eagle River, Wis., where he has a summer cottage. At the greenhouses at Park Ridge, Superintendent Earl again is on the job after his vacation and everything is about set for the new season.

Peter Pearson, who has acted as chairman at the various meetings of local bulb importers and forcers, states that another meeting soon is to be held to decide the methods of procedure as the Dutch shipments come in. The growers will stand together on claims for losses or any extravagant costs.

The death of Anton Felke, of Wilmette, is reported in this week's obituary column.

At Morton Grove, July 31, a monument to the town's forty-two war heroes was unveiled, Miss Virginia Poehlmann releasing the huge flag which had covered it. August Poehlmann, as village president, was one of the speakers and Mrs. Poehlmann was treasurer of the Woman's War Working Circle, which raised the funds for the monument.

J. D. Braje has sold his store at 1628 Ballou street, where he had been for twenty-eight years, to Markus Artner, and has opened a new place at 2116 Neta avenue.



William Dunteman has returned to his home at Bensenville after a motor trip to Detroit and into Canada.

Thomas Fogarty keeps the display window of the Congress Flower Shop attractive during the heated term with a showing of pottery and glass flower holders.

The store of the E. Wienhoeber Co., on Elm street, is being remodeled and enlarged. Offices in the second story already are nearing completion and the salesroom will be ready for an early autumn opening.

Charles P. Mueller, of Wichita, Kan., has sent word to Bassett & Washburn that he will be here next week and will join the Chicago party going to the S. A. F. convention.

is being remodeled to enlarge the office space, made necessary by steadily increasing business.

F. F. Benthey, the Nestor of the Chicago wholesale florists, celebrates his seventy-first birthday anniversary August 5.

H. R. Ivens, who has been with the Central Floral Co., Detroit, has returned to the home of his parents in Chicago.

The A. L. Randall Co. will have a large display at the convention, in charge of Sales Manager Edward Galavan, assisted by several of the company's eastern salesmen. General Manager F. M. Johnson will attend. Accompanied by Arthur Hanson, Mr. Johnson will spend next week driving to Washington in his Cadillac. They expect to make calls on customers in twenty-five towns en route.

The California Floral Co. has changed its name to the Homan Decorating Co. and has moved from 3402 West Twenty-sixth street to Homan avenue and Twenty-fifth street. The new store is located in a residence district, one block from the old location in the West Twenty-sixth street business district. A. M. Pekarek, manager of the place, says business has been good this summer. Wedding orders were fairly numerous up to the latter part of July, and the arrivals of soldiers' bodies from France brought on a good run of funeral work.

In all corners of the country growers are unusually busy putting their greenhouses in shape for the coming season. Fred Lautenschlager, of Kroeschell Bros. Co., says last week was one of the liveliest weeks for greenhouse boiler sales the company ever has had. Orders came from Vermont, Maine, New York, Texas, Washington, Pennsylvania, Minnesota and New Jersey.

H. D. Caldwell, who is about to open a flower store at 1375 East Fifty-third street, is visiting his sister at his old home at Paris, Ill. He expects to open his store about September 1.

Frank Oechslin took a brief vacation from business last week in the form of an automobile trip through the lake district about Kilbourn, Wis.

Albert Koehler, secretary and treasurer of the A. B. C., is vacationing at Mackinac Island.

D. Wood Brant, well known in the trade as of the old greenhouse firm of Brant & Noe, of Forest Glen, now is operating at 123 South Ridgeland avenue, Oak Park, as the Illinois Fertilizer Co.

It is said that Nick Dahm, whose place is west of Evanston, has become one of the largest and most successful growers of gladioli in America. Mr. Dahm's greenhouse specialty is carnations and he wanted a summer crop, so tried a small planting of gladioli. These did so well he has kept adding to his acreage year by year until this season he is said to have 5,000,000 bulbs in the field, one, two and three-year sizes, from 2,000,000 of which he should cut a spike before frost. The cut flowers are sold through three or four commission houses and the bulb crop is marketed to local jobbers.

Charles Drissler returned to his duties at the store of Wietor Bros., August 1, after spending an anxious week at the bedside of his youngest child, a girl aged 4. July 25 the tot was knocked down by an automobile and suffered a fracture of the skull. At the Swedish hospital she hovered between life and death for several days, but now seems in a fair way to complete recovery.

Peter Schousboe reports a strong demand for field-grown carnation plants. Two insertions of a Classified ad in The Review cleaned up his surplus, amounting to quite a few thousands.

William J. O'Carroll, who resigned July 15 as head gardener at Lincoln park, has been appointed superintendent of grounds at Villa St. Mary's of the Lake, Arena, Ill., by Archbishop Mundelein. He has charge of 1,000 acres.

Visitors.

Irwin Bertermann and family spent two days here last week on their way home to Indianapolis after a holiday. Mr. Bertermann took advantage of the opportunity to call on friends in the trade.

J. A. Axell, the well known wholesale florist of San Francisco, spent several days in Chicago last week. Mr. Axell's business has increased with great rapidity and he looks forward to the day when San Francisco will be second only to Chicago as a shipping center for wholesale cut flowers. He was here "just to look around."

George J. Frisch and family, of Dayton, O., have been visiting relatives here. This was their first visit to Chicago, although Mr. Frisch and his father before him have been steady buyers in this market.

George H. Bancroft, of Joseph Bancroft & Son, Cedar Falls, Ia., was in town August 1 and 2, on a buying expedition. He says business has been unusually good this summer, a fact he attributes to the heat and drought, which destroyed garden flowers and sent the flower lovers in unusual numbers to the florists.

Among the out-of-town florists who made their presence known at the F. T. D. booth at the Pageant of Progress August 1 or 2 were: P. N. Obertin, Kenosha, Wis.; H. M. Burt, Jackson,

The Market.

No one who has carefully followed the cut flower market during July can doubt that there has been a real, live market. The traders may complain, "It isn't this, it isn't that," but the fact remains there has been steady business throughout July. This is encouraging, because it proves that there is a demand for flowers even at the dullest period of the floral year.

The close of July has brought several changes in the situation. The cry for a few really fine roses has given place to the cry for a few orders for really fine roses, which proves that the old criticism of the summer market is as true today as when it was made years ago—that the demand is unsteady.

Gladioli continue to lead, followed by asters, Easter lilies and roses. The assorted outdoor summer flowers bring up the rear. A few orchids and lilies of the valley are used in especially fine work.

It is a curious fact that the showers have been local to a degree not realized by those who enjoy them. There are gladioli and asters coming into the market that show unmistakable evidence of suffering from drought, while in other sections there has been plenty of moisture.

Last week was dull in the middle and fairly active at both ends. It was, however, extremely hot, which is always bad for flowers, and the medium and poor grades of stock required pushing to a degree quite exhausting in such heat.

Norwood.

An invitation to visit a greenhouse establishment at the end of July denotes confidence—confidence that everything is in first-class order and will bear inspection. Such confidence was fully justified by the appearance both of the greenhouses and the grounds at Norwood. The Robert Craig Co. has one of the best equipped and most interesting places for growing plants at Norwood that can be found anywhere in this country. Their specialties are extremely well grown, showing culture to a high degree and judgment in the selection of varieties.

This season dracænas and crotons are the leading specialties. These two varieties have been specialties with the Robert Craig Co. since the building of Norwood. There are only two differences. The order has reversed; dracænas are the leaders today, and both are better grown and in finer assortment than have ever been grown before. The aim with the dracæna is to be able to supply a good assortment of sizes of the different leading varieties throughout the year. The standard varieties of dracænas are Massangeana, Lord Wolseley, Lindenii, terminalis and fragrans. There are many other fine sights, such as Warneckii, tricolor and others, but the five varieties first named may be termed the standards, while the others are the novelties. The dracænas are exceptionally fine stock. They arouse the enthusiasm of the true plant lover on sight. The idea appears to be to furnish a large, perfect plant in a pot of moderate size and to color highly. This object has been fully achieved.

The crotons are undergoing a process that is best described as the "survival of the fittest." To be fit, a croton must have color all the year around and not have those periods of dullness when visitors are not welcome. Craigii, Norwood Beauty, the improved "Red Craigii," Puccihi, a beautiful red, and the yellow, Juliet Deleruge, fill this requirement. All four are unusually fine is showing quite some increase, and from now on and until the end of the season, there should be plenty of them to fill all of the orders. As the supply increases, we will have larger quantities to select from, and naturally you can depend on a better grade and a better assortment.

One of the Best items that we have at the present time is GLADIOLUS. Our growers realize the necessity of having the best varieties, well grown, and we have more good varieties of Gladiolus to offer you this season than we ever had.

Some of our Rose growers are just coming in with a new crop of RUSSELL ROSES. You can depend on us for the Best Russell Roses coming to the Philadelphia Market.

We also have a good supply of COLUMBIA. If you are in need of good Pink Roses, we are in a position to supply you.

No matter what your order consists of, it will always have our best attention, and you can depend on getting the Best Stock the market affords.

varieties that are charming from the small sizes up to the specimens. Several of the narrow-leaved varieties of crotons are grown especially for baskets. The croton house presents a mass of color that is most attractive.

Pandanus Veitchii shows a marked improvement. The Albert type has disappeared. The entire stock of 18,000 plants is vigorous and well colored and extremely even throughout. They range in size from 4's to 8's.

Charles B. Stahl tells his friend, Robert A. Craig, that he prefers Areca lutescens to kentias, both for their grace and beauty and for business reasons. Mr. Stahl says he buys twice as many arecas as he requires. Half of them he uses for two weeks in his decorations; then he puts them in the conservatory and gives them a dose of blood. While this is acting he uses the rest of the arecas for two weeks. By that time the first lot are well colored and in condition to use again. The arecas are wonderfully fine at Norwood.

Mr. Craig believes that in spite of the trying midsummer weather, his five large houses of cyclamens are going to make the finest plants he has ever had. The seed is of special selection. The stock is sturdy and hard, despite the hot weather. A wonderful lot of plants in the best of condition are seen in the cyclamen houses.

The heather and oranges are full of promise. The ferns in three or four of the best varieties are as fine as they have ever been grown. All in all, Norwood is worth seeing today.

Baseball.

The Independents went down to Delaware county on the afternoon of July 27 and lost a well-played game to the Robert Craig Co. The score was 9 to 6. The feature of the game was the pitching of Sauers, who struck out eleven men. The Independents started in well, making two runs in the first, and looked like winners up to the sixth inning, when the batting of their opponents and costly errors brought in five runs. Following is the line-up of each team:

Independents	Robert Craig Co.
Peil, 3 b.	Ross, 1 b.
Lafferty, 2 b.	Frank, l. f.
Miller, c.	Widdows, c.
Cooke, 1 b.	Sauers, p.
Gannon, s. s.	Glenn, 3 b.
L. Reid, l. f.	Kennedy, s. s.
Dornheim, r. f.	G. Sauers, r. f.
Bragg, c. f.	Cox, 2 b.
Binning, p.	Hayden, c. f.

Lloyd Reid made a home run and captured three flies in left field.

The schedule for the next week: Bickmore vs. Independents; Pennock vs. Rice.

Various Notes.

John Kuhn, at Olney, is tearing down four houses, 30x100 feet each, and replacing them with two modern houses. The King Construction Co. has the contract.

Albert W. Woltemate will build one greenhouse, 25x100 feet, on his place at Mount Airy.

M. J. Callahan says that business throughout July was exceedingly active, due partly, alas, to bringing back our boys from France.

Charles H. Grakelow returned from Los Angeles August 1.

Frank Muller is completing a new chrysanthemum house at his place, at Orvilla, Pa. It is 20x100 feet.

George Carpenter is rebuilding one greenhouse on his place on Gerard avenue.

J. J. Habermehl's Sons have awarded the contract to rebuild a portion of their place at Twenty-second and Diamond streets to the Lord & Burnham Co.

Mrs. A. M. Lawson is rebuilding one greenhouse on her place at St. Martins.

Max H. Rothe is adding one house to his place at Mount Airy.

Harry W. Jones returned to the Bellevue-Stratford Flower Shop August 1.

H. Bayersdorfer & Co., have put a neat new delivery car on the road.

Robert Kift has sent out notices inviting all members of the Florists' Club to attend the Washington convention, August 16 to 18.

Robert A. Craig is going to the convention.

Gilbert Baker, who was in the employment of the government during the war, has returned to William J. Baker's, where he will assist in developing business.

Clarence U. Liggit is going to the Washington convention.

Albert Swan has returned from his vacation. Phil.

BOSTON.

The Market.

We have had a most uncomfortable week, with withering heat, excessive humidity and one or two more electrical storms for good measure, weather which even the most placid theologists have found it hard to endure; so it is little wonder that ordinary mortals, such as florists and their near kin, should utter a few anathemas. According to the calendar, the dog days arrived July 25. If we had not read this in a reliable paper, we should have been of the opinion that they had been around for about a month. However, July is over and August, the month of dog days, conventions, and clambakes, is here, so why complain?

It would be utterly unnatural to look for much business outside of ice cream parlors, soda fountains and bathing beaches. However, retailers say that it might have been worse. Wholesalers say that there is always a little something doing. Salesmen who still remain on duty, and they are a minority, say that prospects for fall trade are promising.

It is now an overwhelming gladiolus market. The great heat and the abundant rains have sent these in with a rush. Prices have dropped and a great number have found their way to the rubbish barrel. The weak demand could not digest the tremendous arrivals of these flowers. Asters are not yet numerous. Hardy larkspurs are here. A few carnations, mostly Morning Glow, still come in.

A fair number of roses, such as Columbia, the leader, and Ward, Ophelia, Russell and Scott Key, come in. The prices on all of them are lower. Lilium speciosum sells well, the white being in greatest favor. Lilium longiflorum is a little dearer. Some nice bunches of Bouvardia Humboldtii are coming in; so are the first lots of Buddleia magnifica. There are still some nice cattleyas and a generous assortment of outdoor flowers.

Funeral of J. K. M. L. Farquhar.

Funeral services were held at the chapel at Forest Hills cemetery, Jamaica Plain, July 27, for the late John K. M. L. Farquhar. There was a large and representative attendance, including many prominent horticulturists. The Rev. Amos A. Rideout, chaplain of the Joseph Warren commandery of the Knights Templar, of which Mr. Farquhar was a member, officiated and the services were impressive and full of feeling. The Pilgrim quartette sang the hymns, "Nearer, My God, to Thee" and "Sun of My Soul." There was a magnificent display of floral tributes, which completely filled the chancel of the beautiful chapel.

Interment was in a quiet and sequestered spot in the beautiful cemetery, where magnificent oaks and tall, whispering pines afforded the large concourse of mourners refreshing shade from the torrid heat. Honorary pallbearers were Albert C. Burrage, president of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society; Richard M. Saltonstall, a past-president of the same society; Thomas Roland, president of the S. A. F.; Fred Wilson, secretary of the Horticultural Club; Judge C. W. Hoitt, and Charles H. Bradley, superintendent of the Farm and Trade School at Thompson's island. The active pallbearers, all from the firm of R. & J. Farquhar Co., were Victor Nielson, W. J. Davy, George Cruickshank, Patrick Fordham, Henry Jenner and Arthur E. Holland.

The store at South Market street, as well as the several nurseries of the R. & J. Farquhar Co., was closed on the afternoon of the funeral.

Various Notes.

Among the visitors last week were Julius Roehrs, Rutherford, N. J.; Leonard Barron, Garden City, N. Y.; William Warner Harper, Chestnut Hill, Pa.; Neil McCallum, Pittsburgh, and William Hertrich, of the Huntington estate, near Pasadena, Cal. Mr. Hertrich felt more oppressed with the heat than he had ever been in southern California.

The principal topic of discussion locally the last week has, of course, been the death of John K. M. L. Farquhar. Popular and equally well known to both the commercial and private trade, his death will leave a gap which will be hard to fill. Every horticultural visitor of note, from home or abroad, made it a point to see John Farquhar, who was ever the generous host and one whose broad horticultural training and knowledge made it a delight to come in contact with him. It is a matter for keen regret that there is now none of the Farquhars left in the business they founded, but it is in capable hands and will undoubtedly progress. The name of Farquhar will live with those of Hovey, Sargent, Hunnewell, Wilder and others who have helped to make Boston horticulturally important.

There are prospects for a good party to go to Washington. John Farquhar's death has cast a gloom over the local members, and the intense heat has made them sigh for ocean breezes or mountain altitudes. The local committee, however, is working industriously to stimulate interest and is meeting with gratifying success.

William Penn is home from his vacation, spent mainly at Grand Lake Stream, Me., where salmon fishing is particularly good. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Penn start on their vacation this week to the Pine Tree state. Mr. Penn hopes to find time to attend the S. A. F. convention at Washington.

July proved to be a hot and uncomfortable month. Although maximum temperatures did not exceed 90 degrees on more than ten days, yet the humidity was far above normal right through the month. The highest temperature for the month was 97 degrees and the lowest 58 degrees. The rainfall was the heaviest ever known in the history of the local weather bureau, over six inches falling July 9, and as late as July 30 there was an additional rainfall of 1.54 inches. Rain fell on ten days during the month and vegetation at this season of the year never was more luxuriant than it is now.

Gladiolus specialists and lovers are reminded of the show to be held at Boston, August 14 and 15. Judging from the luxuriant appearance of the fields, there should be an exhibition of record proportions and quality. W. N. C.

"GET TOGETHER"

President Harding's phrase sums up the situation exactly—sums it up for every industry, including that of the florist.

The S. A. F. & O. H. Convention has always been a "Get Together"—a "get together" for the advancement of horticulture in general and the welfare of all. Fifteen hundred or two thousand delegates to the Convention at Washington would evidence cooperation in the best possible way. Will you be there?

Our own and our now famous slogan, "Say It with Flowers!" is not only a slogan for the selling of more flowers, but is a veritable call to us that as florists we live together in harmony intermingling freely.

So I would say at this moment: Be in Washington at the "Get Together," August 16, 17 and 18, and make the slogan "Say It with Flowers" the keynote of all your advertising.

FOR SALE

A real chance of a lifetime for one who can run a florists' business. I have been exceptionally fortunate in my oil investments and wish to sell my entire range and business and have priced it at a cash price that will sell it on sight, about one-half of what it cost to build; it has cost $22,000.00 to date; will give immediate possession for $12,000.00 cash, with an abstract title deed to the entire place or, half cash and balance to suit buyer will do; I believe the first florist who sets foot on the place, with that amount of money, will close the deal within an hour, at that figure. Place consists of 10,000 ft. 18x20 double strength glass in two large houses, 185 ft. long; A-No. 1 heating plant; place fully stocked and running at capacity; beautiful 5-room home, 16 lots, 1 block from city limits, city water, two phones, delivery truck, etc.; located in town of 5000, in the west; county seat, state college, splendid schools, etc.; best soil, leaf mold and sheep manure, free for the hauling; I have plans for another house which I planned to build this summer; only florist in the county; my best argument is for you to see the place; at this figure, you will act quickly. Address No. 292, care Florists' Review, Chicago.

FOR SALE

PACIFIC COAST DEPARTMENT

SUMMER SHOW AT SANTA CRUZ.

July 15 and 16 Santa Cruz, Cal., held its first summer flower show in the pavilion at the Casino, under the auspices of the San Lorenzo Improvement Association. The judges were F. D. Pelicano, of San Francisco; F. C. Burns, of San Rafael, and H. A. Hyde, of Watsonville.

In the trade classes E. S. Biggard secured first prize for a vase of fifty gladioli, with Pendleton. The Pacific Bulb Co. took second place with King. The Briggs Floral Co., of Del Monte, scored both first and second in the class for twelve gladioli, with Pendleton and Mrs. Doctor Norton, respectively. The same firm also secured first and second places in the class for six gladioli. Trade exhibits were put up by the Briggs Floral Co., the Pacific Bulb Co., E. S. Biggard and the Los Robles Nursery.

Among the amateurs T. Gillies, a gladiolus fan, who grows every novelty, offered some really wonderful seedlings. A white and yellow won the admiration of everyone. He also showed a vase of a variety that he calls Niagara Supreme. The class for decorated dining tables brought out ten competitors and was the cause of great interest to the visitors.

The show proved such a success that it is proposed to continue it as an annual event.

LOS ANGELES, CAL.

The Market.

An abundance of all classes of outdoor stock of excellent quality was shown on the market last week. Zinnias, asters and gladioli were the leaders. Carnations may be said to have passed the worst, new-crop flowers being in, which are finer in color, substance and lasting qualities than those shipped so far. Roses are of fair quality for the season and not any too plentiful. Valley and orchids are scarce. Retailers all report good business, but it is principally in funeral work, which keeps up well. The work of the "all year" movement is apparent in the number of visitors, which kept transient trade above the average for July. Wholesalers are not shipping heavily now, on account of the difficulties in obtaining stock good enough to stand the long journeys. Asters take the lead as shippers, with gladioli a good second.

Various Notes.

Calling at the big palm-growing establishment of Bassett & Washburn, at Sierra Madre, last week, the first to be seen was C. L. Washburn, who is out here for a visit, in conference with E. Bockman, the energetic and successful manager. The place is in splendid condition everywhere, from the seedling houses, where thousands of young Kentia Forsteriana are just pushing through, to the finished plants. Mr. Washburn takes a keen interest in the place here and the foundation is laid for an immense business. Each year a large section of lath has been added, until now some sixteen acres are covered. Several carloads have already been shipped and it is satisfactory to note that on account of the stock being so thoroughly well established, it arrives in the east in perfect condition. When it is said that there are about 1,000,000 plants potted up, besides the seedlings, some idea is gained as to the size of the concern. This season 300 bushels of seed, all Forsteriana, have been sown. Mr. and Mrs. Washburn have been staying at Pasadena and enjoying driving about the country here. They go to Long Beach soon for a long stay.

E. B. Clark, of San Jose; J. Levy, representing the McCallum Co., of Pittsburgh; Robert Newcomb, representing the Burlington Willow Ware Shops, of Burlington, Ia.; T. Domoto, of San Francisco, and G. Van Den Abeele, of the Cottage-Gardens Nurseries, of Eureka, Cal., were visitors last week.

John Gordon, manager at Darling's, although walking with a cane, is back at his post, his accident having left him pretty shaky. H. Reeve Darling is still interested in flying and he says that 7,000 feet high is about the coolest and most pleasant altitude. When it comes to 14,000 feet and zero conditions, it is not so pleasant, according to him.

Albert Goldenson reports an excellent July.

At Wright's Flower Shop vacation time has thinned the force, N. Benaphal having left for a trip to Bear valley.

S. Murata & Co. are handling new-crop carnations, which, for color and keeping qualities, have a little the edge on anything else seen in the market now.

At the store of W. Armacost & Co. large shipments of baskets are going out and asters are among the most popular flowers being shipped.

J. Rolleri, proprietor of the Athletic Club Florist, is to be congratulated on the hard-working and excellent staff.

The Market.

The market is depleted of greenhouse stock, but such flowers as gladioli, asters, sweet peas, etc., are in sufficient quantity to care for all demands. Gladioli are, without a doubt, the main summer flowers and the fine varieties now offered make selling them a pleasure.

Various Notes.

Two prominent July weddings gave the Spokane Florist Co. and Hoyt Bros. Co. two busy days. The Atwater-Smith wedding was handled by the Spokane Florist Co., the decorations being chiefly peonies, sweet peas and delphinium, with the wedding bouquets of the rainbow effect, all colors being used. The flower girls carried floral trays. The whole wedding was a little unusual in regard to color, etc. The Grinnell-Brown wedding was handled by Hoyt Bros. Co. It was the most elaborate wedding of the season. In the aisle of the church were candle-holders erected on the pews, and the candles were in plaques of pink sweet peas. At the foot of the chancel was a bank of ferns and palms, with hydrangeas and pink gladioli. Large baskets of hydrangeas and delphiniums were used in the choir stalls and altar. The wedding bouquets were of the shower effect, the bride's being lily of the valley and orchids; the two bridesmaids' of Ophelia roses and lavender peas, and the two maids' of honor of Columbia and Ophelia roses and pink peas. The flower girl had a bouquet of Ophelia roses and pink peas.

The annual florists' picnic was held July 27 at Manito park. The program started with a baseball game, retailers

WE CLOSE ON SUNDAYS

Mr. Cut Flower Grower! Plant Fraser's Strain, they are first in size and otherwise.

CALENDULA King of Kings (Fraser's Production)

We believe this strain of Calendula has a great future before it. A Golden progeny of the famous Double Orange King. Color: Dazzling orange. The flowers are larger and the blue-black disk smaller, with broad overlaid petals. Habit: 2 feet, with fine erect heads and stiff stems, and for these reasons will be in great demand for the flower market. Trade pkt., $1.00; Ounce, $2.50.

NEW MYOSOTIS President Harding Blue: (Fraser's Introduction) Winter-flowering.

This new Winter-flowering Myosotis (Forget-me-not) is the result of a carefully thought-out cross, said by some experts to surpass any other strain yet offered. Color: Harding Blue. Habit: Bold and branching, forming open bushes from 18 to 20 inches high and of equal diameter, extra vigorous sprays of bloom last long as cut flowers. Trade pkt., $1.00; 3 Trade pkts., $2.00.

COSMOS Extra Early Single Dahlia-Flowered (Fraser's Selection)

A very fine strain, the result of many years' careful selection. Its points for earliness, size, color and productiveness are good all round. Height: 4 feet, with flowers of splendid substance, resembling giant single Dahlia flowers and stiff stems, unusual in the older varieties. The most profitable cutting cosmos in cultivation. We are offering 2 separate colors: Dahlia White, Dahlia Pink, Dahlia Mixed. Trade pkt., $1.00; 3 Trade pkts., $2.00.

The Market.

Asters are becoming more plentiful, but they are still holding a good price, partly because they are much in demand. Roses and carnations are still plentiful. A few rubrums are beginning to appear in the market. Gladioli are still being cut in considerable quantities, but the growers say they are nearing the end of the season. There are some Golden Glow chrysanthemums, but the public seems to regard them as being out of season, and the demand for them is slight. Dahlias are arousing much interest when shown in the windows of the florists who are fortunate enough to be able to show new varieties. Pompon dahlias are much in

The New Flower Market.

Articles of incorporation were filed July 27 by the San Francisco Coöperative Flower Market, Inc. The papers of incorporation state that it is organized "to store, sell and distribute flowers, plants, bulbs, florists' accessories, goods, wares and merchandise." The corporation is capitalized for $25,000. The florists on the committee, named in the papers, are P. V. Matraia, of the Art Floral Co., and Charles W. Brown, of Brown & Kennedy. The grower on the committee is Joseph P. Haywood, of Peterson & Haywood, Burlingame nurserymen. Permanent officers have not yet been elected, according to P. V. Matraia, most of the names used being for incorporation purposes, but a number of the local florists are interested in the enterprise. The market will be in the present St. George garage, a large building at the corner of Bush and St. Anne streets. This has been leased. The new corporation will take possession August 1, and market will be held there just as soon as a few needed alterations are made, which will probably be only a question of a few days. One

The Market.

Pompon chrysanthemums and monkshood were the new features on this market last week, with other lines still in rather light delivery. The general trade conditions registered but little improvement, except for the rush of funeral work which developed at the close of the previous week. Among the longer-stemmed items, asters in the purple shades are probably leaders. The supply of coreopsis and calendulas has been increasing and the same is true of dahlias. The cut of Shasta daisies has been so heavy as almost to produce an oversupply. In some items the lilies are being used, with Lilium rubrum probably the leader in this division.

With the exception of baby roses, the production of outdoor roses has slackened up visibly and the indoor cut is hardly going well. The growers of Ulrich Brunner state that they will have a lighter cut for about five or six weeks, until the second crop of the season starts. There has been some increase in the cut of Russell lately. One retailer has been showing Imperial to good advantage, a pink variety offered by a local grower.

Gladioli offered by outside growers are increasing daily and the quality of this year's production is all that could be asked. There is a larger acreage this year than last, but the trade has taken care of this nicely to date. These flowers have been especially popular in store window decorations.

There has been an increase in the supply of lilies of the valley, but these are still far short of the normal. Orchids are also rather scarce and this is true of stephanotis, although the scarcity of

ORGANIZING THE TRADE.

Need for Present Bodies.

The S. A. F. was organized in the year 1885 in the city of Cincinnati by a small band of loyal pioneers who had a vision for the future of floriculture in this country. We can now readily see that even they built better than they knew. This was the first organization of florists in this country. Hence it is termed the "parent body"; from it have sprung all other organizations of floriculture: First, the florists' clubs in the various large cities; then the Florists' Hail Association, the American Carnation Society, the American Rose Society, the Chrysanthemum Society of America, the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association, the gladiolus, the sweet pea, peony, dahlia and many other national specialty societies; the state florists' associations and, youngest of all I think, the National Flower Growers' Association.

Now, a common remark made by many in the last few years is that we are becoming overorganized, there are too many duplications and too many different societies to join. Well, let us see if this is true. First, do we need the S. A. F.? Yes, of course; it is the only national body that represents all the allied branches of our trade. Well, what about the florists' clubs? Of course, we need them; they are the trade social center of our communities. Well, what about the Florists' Hail Association? "Well, I guess yes," says Mr. Grower. That's about all the insurance protection a grower has. Why, this association this year alone paid out over $75,000 in losses and still has a $50,000 reserve fund. "Sure, we need that," says the grower. Next, we have the American Carnation Society. What about that? Can we not eliminate that? Well, let us see. Would it pay the trade to discard an organization that is primarily responsible for the development of the American carnation from the old Snowden, Hintze's White, William Scott and others to the Enchantress varieties and the Laddie of today? "No," yells the whole trade. Let this organization of specialists keep up its good work. It means progress.

None Is Unnecessary.

Then let us discard the American Rose Society; shall we? "By no means," says the rose grower, the retailer and even the dear public. You cannot afford to disrupt an organization that has been such a great factor in building up the rose in America. No, indeed, we cannot spare the American Rose Society. Well, then, how about the chrysanthemum, the gladiolus, the sweet pea or other special flower organizations? Can't we spare any of them? Well, as a matter of fact, the answer is the same. We need every one of the special organizations. They each have a specific work to perform. That means progress.

Then we might look into the matter of state florists' associations that have sprung up so frequently here of late years. When you can, through a state florists' association, with dues at $1 a year, bring about and be a sponsor for a floricultural experiment station and educational training, as has been done in Illinois, my own state, within almost a decade, the argument against state associations is killed. Do you know that this year we graduated twenty-four students from a 4-year course in floriculture at this school? Surely we can appreciate what that means when we stop to think how scarce the old-time gardener is becoming in this country. Furthermore, nearly every one of these state associations will soon have enough S. A. F. members to put their presidents on the executive board of the S. A. F. Oh, yes! We need the state associations.

One of the Live Ones.

We are nearing the end of eliminations and we find we can't spare any yet, but here we have one, the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association. Wow! What a howl from everybody! Even some of the greatest merchants in the country would say: "You fools! Why, do you realize that in the F. T. D. you have one of the finest merchandising organizations of any line of producers or dealers in the world?" Yes, Albert Pochelon and a few others humbly admit, "It is true. We are now selling by telegraph annually about $2,000,000 worth of flowers and the business is growing at the rate of forty or fifty per cent a year. And then, too, I, Pochelon, Mike Bloy and a few others need a job; so it would be too bad, really, to disrupt this infant organization, but if you insist that we really have too many, go ahead and disband us." "No, no," shouts the trade and the public, both of whom are benefited mutually; "we don't care if you have to pay President Breitmeyer a salary, too, but keep that great organization alive."

So now we have reached the baby organization, the National Flower Growers' Association. Well, it is too young yet to say much good for it; only we think it is real good looking and favors the parent, the S. A. F., in many respects. Until it grows up big enough to show its mettle we shall not try to defend it. Many of us believe there is a place, too, for this organization of producers and are willing to nurse it along a while. One thing is certain; if it proves itself anywhere nearly as useful as any of the other above-named or-

Harking Way Back To Hear Way Forward

One day last week, I was passing the Metropolitan Museum of Art, and thought I'd run in for an hour or so, and see if I could get some sort of floral inspiration from those rare bits of antiquities which are housed in the building, in such abundance.

The first thing that attracted my attention was some old pottery, said to be among the first pieces made by man. Likewise, some most interesting examples of basketry.

In both cases, they were ornamented with bits of color or molded in shapes showing a real art feeling.

Every article was first made for an utilitarian purpose, and then at once the savage mind endeavored to beautify it, if ever so crudely.

Coming down to our day, you can remember when our family coffee pot, for example, was little less than a straight tin bucket with a spout and lid. Now, our coffee pots are shapely and artistic.
They add to the pleasure of our eyes as well as the palate.

Beauty has become an accepted necessity in our lives.
By the same token, flowers have become more and more important to our living.

Thinking of the beautiful art of combinations and arrangements of flowers that florists create these days; it makes your heart sick when you think of the many others who are simply selling bunches of flowers.
They are still back there in the tin coffee pot days.

When you send your F. T. D. order to Stumpp, we deliver something besides just flowers. It is that certain something that makes Stumpp's shop stand out as Stumpp's.

ganizations have proved themselves, there will be a permanent place for the growers' association.

S. A. F. Needs More Members.

Now, I think we have proved the need for all our organizations, but let us, just for a moment, give the parent body a little more consideration. If, as stated before, the S. A. F. is either directly or indirectly responsible for all these other organizations, then the members of all these other organizations should also be members of the S. A. F., in order to affiliate properly with the parent body. Some twenty of such organizations have, at least in part, already accomplished that and we must all agree that the results have been phenomenal. Have you ever stopped to consider that in 1919, within the space of one year, 1,000 life members were added to the S. A. F.? These are more life members than the society had acquired in its entire history of thirty-five years of existence. Phenomenal, I say, because it was accomplished largely through these affiliating organizations.

Right here I want to make explanation of a matter regarding which I do not believe the trade in general is informed. We have in the last year heard a great deal about the S. A. F. funds, both permanent and general. Well, we need not worry about the permanent fund; that now is approximately $50,000 and has always been intact in the hands of the watchdog of our treasury. J. J. Hess now has all safely invested in bonds and mortgages. However, with the general funds it was another matter. We have been running low for several years, at least since the life membership campaign was so successfully launched. This was caused, as you can readily see, by taking some 600 or more annual members and making them life members, thereby taking approximately $2,000 per year from the general fund and putting it in a lump sum of about $15,000 into the permanent fund, reducing our working capital annually by over $2,000, for after it got into the permanent fund we could not touch it. Hence we have been running at a low mark in the general fund of the society. That is one reason why we are now in the midst of a campaign for S. A. F. members. Another reason is that we feel every florist owes it to the S. A. F. to be a member thereof. This campaign is not costing the society a cent. Individual contributions will cover all the expense.

Progress of Affiliation.

I said before that some twenty organizations are now affiliated with the national body, having their presidents seated in the sessions of the executive board of the S. A. F. and a voice in its deliberations. There are, however, all told, about sixty-five florists' clubs, state associations and specialty organizations; so you see we have not nearly all affiliated yet. We hope, however, with the close of the present S. A. F. membership drive to have several more lined up. Three states, Oklahoma, Georgia and Texas, have just passed under the wire and are now eligible.

At the meeting of the S. A. F. executive board held last January in Washington, D. C., twenty-six officers and directors, including the affiliating directors, sat in session for two days and evenings. I am willing to predict that the time is not far distant when fifty men will be gathered at such meetings, each representing a different organization and interests. This is coöperation, where we all gather under the one banner of our parent society, the grand old S. A. F., and together work for the future success of the trade in general.

Where is there a florist in any hamlet or city out of the 15,000 in this country who does not proudly display our slogan, "Say It with Flowers"? The very least each could do to reciprocate would be to join the S. A. F. and one or two local organizations. This must be brought to the attention of these 11,500 florists throughout the country who are yet outside our ranks, not only in writing, but through the personal touch as well. Make missionaries of yourselves for this great cause and put the banner of the S. A. F. where it rightfully belongs, alongside the "Say It with Flowers" slogan that it created.

The members of the National Association of Gardeners, who occupy the positions of superintendents and gardeners on the country estates located in Nassau county, Long Island, met at the Nassau County Club House, Glen Cove, Thursday afternoon, July 28, and organized as the Nassau county branch of the national association.

It was explained at the meeting by M. C. He stated that it has been his experience that most of these so-called "experts" possess a limited knowledge of horticulture, their learning being confined to one or two phases of it, and that primarily theoretical, but this does not deter some of them from assuming complete control over an estate, if the opportunity comes to them, sometimes superseding a superintendent who has forgotten more than the "expert" ever learned about gardening. This, of course, is humiliating to a gardener who has conscientiously, and apparently satisfactorily to his employer, performed the duties of his position up to the time the "expert" made his appearance. The circumstance is not in any way mitigated when the "expert" places a man on the estate whose record is a failure wherever he has been directly engaged as a gardener, to teach the gardener in charge what to do and to supervise the work, because the "expert" himself does not happen to possess the ability to give the instructions. Nevertheless, he accepts a fee on the pretense that he is thoroughly qualified to direct and supervise what he has undertaken to do.

Mr. Ebel further remarked that no sensible gardener would hesitate to cooperate with a reputable landscape architect in the developing or maintenance of an estate, and that one seldom hears of a member of that branch of the profession attempting to force a superintendent or gardener out of a position in order to install himself. He blamed the gardeners for the foothold some of these "experts" have secured and urged that the gardeners endeavor to gain more confidence among their employers, so that the employers will consult more freely with them and rely on them in the upkeep of their estates.

Other Decisions.

A general discussion ensued, which was participated in by James Duthie, John F. Johnston, Alexander Michie, Thomas Twigg, John R. McCulloch, Alfred H. Walker and others. It was the unanimous sense of those present that some action should be taken to acquaint the estate owners with the practice of some of the so-called "experts," who do not hesitate to resort to unscrupulous methods to establish a prestige.

Publicity was decided the best means to bring to the attention of their employers what the members are striving to accomplish to raise the standard of the profession.

The members of the branch went on record as opposed to the signboard nuisance along the highways and will cooperate with the national association in its campaign to arouse public sentiment against the practice of erecting signboards that deface the natural scenic beauties along the countryside.

J. W. Everitt, of Glen Cove, was elected chairman, and John R. McCulloch, of Oyster Bay, secretary of the branch. Regular meetings will be held quarterly, with special meetings at the call of the chairman whenever occasion arises to bring the members together.

The interest of the employers will be sought in the aims of the branch. The sustaining membership of the National Association of Gardeners already includes some of the prominent estate owners of Nassau county, among whom are W. R. Coe, Paul D. Cravath, Mrs. David Dows, Mrs. Coleman du Pont, Childs Frick, Daniel Guggenheim, Mrs. W. D. Guthrie, T. A. Havemeyer, C. O.

The Market.

There is little change in the conditions at the wholesale markets. The supply of good quality stock is comparatively small, as many of our local growers are shipping small consignments at present, and the various markets have a deserted appearance after the morning sales. The demand has been reported as slow, but last week it was a shade better, owing to several large funerals of prominent business men, for whom several telegraph orders were worked up.

As to cut flowers, there are plenty of roses, but among them choice quality is limited, and that only in Premier and Columbia, other varieties being much off color and quality. It is hardly worth while mentioning carnations, as few come in and those are poor of flower. Asters are now coming in freely and these, the wholesalers say, will soon dominate the market. Gladiolus spikes have not been so heavy of late, as many of our growers are cut out of them. Still, enough come in to keep up with the demand, but prices advanced on choice stock, and those who will have late varieties coming on will reap a harvest, as prices will surely go up.

Lilies sold well all the week, but valley had a slow demand. There are many outdoor flowers coming in, but the poor quality shows plainly the need of a good, soaking rain.

The many thousand feet of new glass that has been added during the summer among our local growers will assure a much larger supply of cut stock in this market during the coming season. There will be an increased supply of carnations and roses, as growers of these flowers have added much new glass, which is being planted with new and old varieties.

Various Notes.

The St. Louis Florists' Club will hold its next meeting Thursday afternoon, August 11. This will be an important meeting to all members. The election of officers for the ensuing year will be held. All of those contemplating going to the S. A. F. convention at Washington should be sure to attend this meeting, as August Hummert, state vice-president of the S. A. F., has some interesting features to make known. All members will receive special notice as to the place and time of the meeting.

Mrs. Frank Gorly and her mother are spending the summer in California. Mr. Gorly will leave next week on an eastern trip, which will include Washington, D. C., during the convention week. Vincent Gorly and Henry Duernberg are expected home from their vacation trip the latter part of the week.

undecided as to their annual vacation trip to attend the S. A. F. convention.

Otto Bruenig, one of our largest local rose growers, at Olivette, is about ready to glaze his new house, 36x250 feet in size, built by the American Greenhouse Mfg. Co. With this new house completed, he has the largest exclusive rose growing range in the county.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Weber and their two daughters will spend their summer vacation in the east, starting at Washington during the convention. They will leave with the St. Louis party August 14.

Arthur Meyer, manager of the cut flower department at C. A. Kuehn's, is away on a two weeks' vacation trip. Charles Kuehn, Jr., is busy in the supply department, which is under his management. The boss says that as yet he is undecided as to where he will spend his vacation.

The Windler Wholesale Floral Co. has just completed the installation of one of the largest Brecht refrigerators for wholesale florists' use. This, with the old one, gives the company the much-needed increased refrigerator room for the coming season.

The Ayres Floral Co., which is located downtown, has everything in fine shape and only awaits the arrival of the new Brecht refrigerator to complete the store. Richard Tubbesing, head of the company, says business is running along as usual during the summer.

Paul Slack, who was with the Jones-Russell Co., of Cleveland, O., last season as designer, has returned to St. Louis and taken a position as designer at Mrs. M. M. Krumm's new store, 6602 Delmar avenue, University City.

Charles C. Young and his brother, Walter, will motor to Chicago to attend the Pageant of Progress exposition. Mrs. Charles Young and her children are spending the summer in Oklahoma.

Fred C. Weber left July 30 to rejoin Mrs. Weber and his mother at the northern lakes. Arthur Beyer, his brother-in-law, has returned from his vacation. They expect to make an eastern trip, including the S. A. F. convention at Washington. Mr. Weber is secretary of the Retail Florists' Association and says no meeting will be held until early fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Frank are spending the hot summer months at the home of Mr. Frank's parents at Philadelphia. They write to friends that they are having a fine time at Atlantic City and that they hope to see many at Washington during convention week.

A new flower shop has opened under the name of the Chouteau Floral Shop, at 4002 Chouteau avenue. It is under the management of Fred Seibel and Lew Minders. The shop had its formal opening July 30 and has a handsome appearance both inside and outside.

HORTICULTURE FOR WOMEN.

A School That Trains Them.

Girls and women who wish to obtain practical knowledge of horticulture, provided they are 18 years of age or over, and able and willing to do eight hours' work per day, can secure such training, as well as a diploma, in two years' time, at the School of Horticulture for Women, located at Ambler, Pa., about eighteen miles north of Philadelphia.

The school was founded in 1910 by several women, who had realized the many benefits which were given to women by the horticultural schools in England, and who wished to give the same opportunity to the young women of America. The object of the school is to give women interested in horticulture a scientific training, combined with a great deal of actual practice. The school grounds cover about seventy-one acres, twenty used for various branches of horticulture and the remainder used for farm crops. The school grounds contain commercial and educational orchards; a nursery of ornamental trees, shrubs and young fruit trees; vegetable gardens, flower gardens, greenhouses, hotbeds and coldframes, a well equipped poultry farm, a demonstration kitchen ceous perennials, preparation of soils, suitable manures and fertilizers and diseases and insect pests and their remedies. The senior floriculture course consists mainly of lectures and practical work dealing with flowers, grown under glass for market, conservatory or for house decoration. It includes greenhouse management, the growing of the greenhouse flowers and plants and the packing and marketing of these flowers and plants.

The landscape gardening course consists of lectures and practical work on the general layout of grounds, the choosing of a site, the placing of a garden, its design, combinations of colors, perennials and annuals, garden furniture, walls and pools, simple drafting and surveying and visits to some of the nearby estates.

The course for the study of soils and fertilizers deals with the character and types of soils, moisture, air, heat, organisms and fertilizing ingredients of the soil, manures and commercial fertilizers, drainage, irrigation, soil bacteria and land selection.

There is a course dealing with woody ornamental plants, which consists of

The Market.

Although some retailers insist that business is poor, the majority agree that July this year has been a good month when compared with that of last year, and this even though other lines of business are complaining.

This market is extremely short of good asters. There are a few, but not nearly enough to keep up with the demand. Most of the crop seems to have been spoiled by the extremely hot and dry weather. Gladioli are coming in strongly and are moved only by offering them in quantities at a price. Roses are better and a little longer in stem. Easter lilies are still on the market, and Japanese lilies are moving well. Water lilies continue to put in an appearance.

Outdoor flowers are still here in a large assortment, principal among them being calendula, delphinium, annual

Various Notes.

Lloyd Mercer has spent a two weeks' vacation at Chippewa lake. Mrs. G. W. Mercer and her daughter, Ruth, have left for a tour of the great lakes.

Jack Cornfeld, formerly manager of Al Barber's store on East Fourth street, has resigned his position. Al Barber has sold his interest in the store at 6113 St. Clair, and it is now being run under the name of Slapnik & Co.

Dennis Zelasky is displaying with pride a new Ford sedan.

Homer Fox is spending a two weeks' vacation in Canada.

Frank Williams, of the Cleveland Cut Flower Co., will leave soon for a month's vacation, going to Canada and later touring through the New England states. Miss Evans, of this company, has returned from a two weeks' vacation spent at Lake Chautauqua. Paul Richardson, with the same concern, is away on a two weeks' vacation. While away he has taken unto himself a wife. The ceremony took place at Maumee, O.

Leonard Mesker, formerly with Albert and George Wilhelmy, and later with Kitzerow's, has opened a store of

The Market.

Nearly all the wholesalers and retailers speak in terms of satisfaction about the business of last week. Though the supply of stock is small and in many cases the quality is not up to standard, the sales are running about even with those of 1920. There has been a constant stream of funeral work and, though there have been no large funerals, the small ones have been so numerous and scattered that most of the local stores clean up each day. Saturday, July 30, found the local merchants running from one place to another trying to scrape up enough stock to fill orders.

Never in the history of the flower business have there been so many July weddings. Most of the weddings are small, but it has made white a scarce article. One florist reports that his company had sixteen weddings in one week and most of the other shops show proportional business.

The weather has been so hot and dry that roses are poor, although occasionally one sees a nice batch. Gladioli have fallen off and are cleaned up each day. Asters are coming on in nice shape, both indoor and outdoor grown. In many cases the outdoor blooms are a little better. Lilies are a thing of the past on the local market. Unlimited quantities and colors of zinnias are coming in daily. Some nice Japanese lilies are arriving and these always help out in funeral work.

Various Notes.

some fisherman, having caught seventy in one hour. Mr. Hess is a mighty busy man now, rounding up the S. A. F. membership campaign and getting things ready for his trip to Washington.

Cards and scenic literature are arriving daily in Omaha from J. Bath, who is scaling the peaks of mountains in Estes Park.

At the regular meeting of the Florists' Club, July 26, it was decided to have a florists' picnic August 10. Committees were named and unusual success has been attained. Over $200 has been taken up by popular subscription, with some of the trade to call on yet; so a big picnic, with many prizes, is assured.

Paul Floth sold his greenhouses and equipment to J. F. Wilcox & Sons, who are now dismantling them and moving everything to Council Bluffs.

Charles Ederer is building two new houses, which, when finished, will make a neat and modern range. Mr. Ederer reports business extra heavy and gaining in volume each month.

Frank Swanson, the south side florist, is spending his vacation at Hot Springs, Mo.

Oscar Herman is cutting some fine Columbia.

Will Faulkner is cutting some splendid asters.

Rose plants, especially Premier and Russell, are scarce in this section of the country, due to the fact that so many of the growers lost a great number of plants in replanting and drying off, on account of the hot weather, especially in June, when for one week the midday temperature averaged 134 degrees Fahrenheit.

attracted considerable attention last week, due to a display of philodendrons.

J. E. E.

BALTIMORE, MD.

The Market.

Last week all the retail stores were doing a good summer business. Roses are plentiful and of exceptionally good quality for this season. Asters are becoming more plentiful and of much better quality. Owing to the extremely hot weather, some have been small. Gladioli seem to stand the heat well. Never were there finer grades on this market. People are becoming more familiar with them and ask for them by name, much the same as a customer would ask for a dozen Columbia or Ophelia. There is the usual supply of miscellaneous stock to be had. While there is a fair amount of business being transacted, there is much more stock available to transact it with than is necessary. This naturally forces prices down.

Horticultural Society Meets.

The Maryland Horticultural Society held its midsummer meeting at the Alta Orchards, at Lutherville. This meeting place was on the schedule, but the fine estate of Captain Isaac E. Emerson, Brooklynwood, of which Charles M. Wagner is manager, was adjacent, so that, after inspecting the orchards, the party adjourned to Brooklynwood, where Mr. Wagner was in his glory in having so many of his horticultural friends to entertain. A bountiful lunch was served and a pleasant afternoon was spent in inspecting this beautiful estate, which reflects much credit on Mr. Wagner as the manager.

Dr. Symons, of the University of Maryland, was the principal speaker. Dr. Symons has just returned from a trip abroad, where he was sent by his university to investigate economic conditions in things agricultural. His principal investigations were in England, France and Belgium. Dr. Symons is quite optimistic over the future outlook for agriculture in these countries. Among the florists noted were Isaac H. Moss, George Morrison, James Boon, John Wagner, Herbert Wagner, John J. Perry, Thomas Stevenson and others. A most enjoyable day was spent.

Coming Club Meeting.

The next club meeting will be held August 8. This is to be one of the most important meetings of the year. There is going to be a lot of business to transact. First, the "Say It with Flowers" week, that is, the flower show and street pageant, will require a lot of work and discussion. The time for this is getting short. There are only about three months left. This will be the last meeting before the convention. The club is going in a body and Robert L. Graham, Jr., Joseph S. Merritt and William F. Ekas, the committee on membership for the S. A. F., want every member of the Florists' Club of Baltimore to be wearing a membership button of the national organization. Get in before we start. "You can't tell a player without a score-card." These gentlemen will be glad to fix you up at the next club meeting. Tate.

KANSAS CITY, MO.

The Market.

Stock was short the latter part of last week. There was not a great deal to begin with and orders came in so heavily the last three days that everything was used up. For the last few weeks there have been a number of soldiers' funerals, when bodies have been returned from France, and the floral work for these has brought business above the normal for July. Gladioli are more plentiful than other flowers. Dahlias, asters and the usual field flowers are of good quality.

STOKES' NEW STORE.

One of the members who will be present at the Washington convention will be J. W. Stokes, proprietor of the Stokes Floral Shop, of Springfield, Mo. But attending the convention is not the only motive that drives Mr. Stokes eastward. He will also purchase the fixtures and the non-perishable stock for his new store. The store will be on South Jefferson street and will be completed about October 1. No pains will be spared to make this new store one of the best in the state and also one of the best in the middle west. It will incorporate all the newest ideas and improvements from all the stores in the large cities.

The large display windows will be set with black jet tile and will open full into the store. The store will have a full, bright light thrown for about fifty feet in the front of the store, and all this will give the effect of the whole front of the store being an unusually large show window. The floor of the store will be of red and white tile. The walls will be of ivory-colored enameled brick up to a certain height, and from there on will be of ivory-colored tile. All the fixtures will be of ivory color. A French plate glass will separate the display room from the workroom.

The shop will carry a large assortment of seeds, a complete line of art pottery and a fancy assortment of birthday and other cards suitable for accompanying floral gifts and bouquets.

The Stokes Floral Shop has been at its present location for seven years; previous to that time it was located at the greenhouses on the boulevard.

LOUISVILLE, KY.

The Market.

Business the last week has shown little improvement. Rain finally came and was welcome indeed. Gladioli look better, due, of course, to the showers, and have been coming in more steadily than during the previous week. Outside stock has been refreshed and is in ample supply. Zinnias, buddleias, delphinium and Golden Glow look much better and, if there would be just another rain like the last one, would be in good condition. Tuberoses have made their appearance and are bringing a fair price. Roses are a little better, but are far from good and find little sale.

Retail business in general is reported as being a little better, although some stock is being wasted. Funeral work is the biggest outlet and has been fairly plentiful the last week.

Various Notes.

A 38-day drought was broken by a good rain on the night of July 28. However, it was reported that the showers were local and some parts of the city were luckier, one might say, than others.

TROY'S TRAVELS.

John H. Troy and his son, W. Wylie Troy, of New Rochelle, N. Y., are traveling through the east in an endeavor to enlist further help in the coming annual flower show of the Westchester and Fairfield Horticultural Society. Wylie Troy wrote the following letter from Boston, Mass., to a friend in New Rochelle:

To help boost the Westchester and Fairfield Horticultural Society's flower show, for the benefit of the New Rochelle Hospital, next September, Dad and I are making a trip, calling at the large private estates and gardens in Connecticut and Massachusetts.

Everywhere we call the owners and gardeners are most enthusiastic and all promise to help.

Yesterday at Lancaster, Mass., we met William Anderson, superintendent on the Thayer estate, the man who succeeded in acclimatizing his native Scotch heather on the hills of Massachusetts, where we saw it growing by the acre. Dad was more than surprised at what he had accomplished. I am taking home a wee bunch of white heather to my mother.

Mr. Anderson promised Dad to write an article for the show catalogue, telling how he did it, and to send some heather bloom for Mrs. Pitt to sell at the flower show.

Clarksville, Tenn.—Work has begun preparatory to the removal of Metcalfe's greenhouse and shop from Franklin and Third streets to Main and Third streets. The removal of the greenhouse is necessitated by a proposed $200,000 building, soon to be erected.

FRAT-M'S

Frat-M's are a great help to florists who make funeral work. They are exact reproductions of the official emblems embossed in gold and the different colors as required by each Fraternal and Labor organization.

The florist is saved time and worry in the nuisance of lettering, as well as the keeping of such a stock of wire frames, and different colored flowers. Just use such flowers as you have and then attach a FRAT-M with paste to the chiffon, or by the hanger that comes for each, as a card, and that is all there is to it, excepting the comment and commendatory talk for the florist.

Just pick out a dozen of the most used from the list following, enclosing $2.00 per dozen, and if they don't make you ten times their cost, return those unused and get your money.

Square and Compass, Chapter, Commandery, 32nd Degree, Shrine, Eastern Star, Royal Neighbors, M. W. A., Maccabees, Odd Fellows, Red Men, Knights of Columbus, K. of P., Moose, Jr. O. U. A. M., B. of R. T., B. of R. Clerks, B. of L. E., Br. of Blacksmiths and Helpers, Eagles.

Just give Frat-M's a trial; you don't have to keep them. We are willing to send them to you and return the money if they don't pay you ten times their cost. Address

Seed Trade News

AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION.
President, L. L. Olds, Madison, Wis.; secretary-treasurer, C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O.

ARTHUR B. CLARK, president of the Everett B. Clark Seed Co., Milford, Conn., was in Chicago last week.

JOHN LEONARD, of the Leonard Seed Co., Chicago, left this week to drive through Michigan. He will inspect the crops while there.

JOHN C. BODGER, America's largest grower of flower seeds, celebrated his forty-first birthday anniversary August 4. He was born in 1880.

GEORGE LETHERMAN, of the Holmes-Letherman Seed Co., Canton, O., is making an extended tour of the western and Pacific coast states, visiting the various seed-growing tracts of that section.

THE steamer Ryndam, from Rotterdam, docked at New York the morning of Monday, August 1, containing advance consignments of Dutch bulbs. There were only a few small-sized consignments on board.

THE Seabright Bulb Farm, at Santa Cruz, Cal., has about two acres of gladioli in full bloom, which make a gorgeous spectacle just now. The digging of Paper Whites and callas and the planting of freesias are in full swing.

BULLETIN No. 481 of the New York Agricultural Experiment Station reports the results of analyses of insecticides and fungicides collected by the commissioner of agriculture during 1920. The bulletin may be had free of charge by addressing a request to the station at Geneva.

THE W. W. Barnard Co., of Chicago, is endeavoring to educate the public to the purchasing and planting of fall seeds in the middle of summer. A large advertisement to that effect was placed in the Chicago Post, and in the adjacent column was an educational editorial along the same lines.

SEEDSMEN in Cleveland are on the move. The Livingston Seed Co. and the Wilson Seed Store have both moved off High street, which is the main business street. The former moved to East Chestnut street and the latter to East Town street. The result of moving from the main business street to a side street is being watched with interest.

THE C. Herbert Coy Seed Co., Valley, Neb., states that an abundance of moisture and ideal growing weather have been the rule. The corn crop is three weeks ahead of that of a year ago, and there seems to be nothing that can stop an enormous yield of corn. Wheat and oats are almost all harvested and the crops of both are good. Squash and pumpkin crops are doing finely.

FURTHER advices from the J. C. Robinson Seed Co., of Waterloo, Neb., substantiate the report of last week that the corn and vine crops are in excellent condition. The crop is much earlier than usual, but it is believed that the corn and vine acreage planted for seed is the smallest in years. Cucumber, muskmelon and watermelon show prospects for a normal yield. Squash and pumpkin crops are in excellent shape; the time of danger from insects is past and the extends a cordial invitation to every Florist, Seedsman Nurseryman and others to visit our establishment in Philadelphia, enroute to or returning from the Convention. You will find it an up-to-date combination of modern merchandise, aggressive methods and courteous treatment, coupled with a hearty welcome.

At the Convention you will find us represented by a large display of goods in charge of A. F. Eilers, J. H. Bockman, D. J. Keohane and Chas. A. Goudy. They will lend you any assistance in their power and they will be glad to do business.

MICHELL'S SEED HOUSE

numerous rains have done their part in producing this excellent condition.

DURING the vacation period, Ralph B. Howe was found superintending the moving of the truck-loads of orders ready for shipment at the W. W. Barnard Co., Chicago. He pointed to one bunch and said, "Those are for the southern seedsmen. Owing to the fact that many of the seedsmen of the south don't keep their stock over the summer, we always do a good business with them this season of the year."

FIRST FRENCH BULBS ARRIVE.

The first considerable shipment of French bulbs reached New York July 30 on the steamship Canada, from Marseilles. A few cases had come July 18 on the Providence. The Canada carried early consignments to the principal New York and Chicago bulb importers. The greater part of the importations from France will come, however, on the Patria, which left Marseilles July 30.

GOVERNMENT SEED BIDS.

Bids were opened at Washington July 26 for the seeds purchased annually by the United States Department of Agriculture for distribution to congressmen's constituents. There were five fewer bidders this year than last, the number being fifty-three as against fifty-eight a year ago. The flower seed prices were not read. The vegetable seed prices as read are given with the bidders' names below:

Dreer's Reliable Florists' Flower Seeds

The special attention of Florists is directed to the following select strains of seasonable flower seeds:

Cineraria Dreer's Prize

This is an extra fine strain, flowers of largest size in a well balanced range of bright colors.

Dreer's Prize Dwarf, of compact habit....$1.00 per trade pkt.
Dreer's Prize Tall, of taller growth..... 1.00 per trade pkt.
Stellata or Star, a fine decorative sort..... .50 per trade pkt.

Dreer's Superb Giant Cyclamen

The seed which we offer this season is American grown, produced by a grower who has made a special study of Cyclamen and who has worked up a strain better than anything procurable in Europe. We offer the following colors:

Pure White, Blood-red or Christmas Cheer, Rich Rose, White with Carmine Eye; Daybreak, soft shell pink; Salmon or Wonder of Wandsbek, bright salmon.

Price, any of above, $1.50 per 100 seeds, $12.00 per 1000 seeds.

Choicest Mixed, all colors, $1.25 per 100 seeds, $10.00 per 1000 seeds.

BRITISH FLOWER SEEDS SHORT.

"We are feeling the effect of a poor seed crop last year," states a British contemporary. "There is not enough seed of a good many popular lines to go around. Wallflower, polyanthus, Canterbury bell and some other flower seeds are almost unobtainable. To some extent, the reason is that of late years vegetable seeds have been in so great demand that growers and merchants rather ignored flowers. Last year vegetable seeds were considerably overdone. Growers turned again to flowers and planned to increase their sowings, but meantime spring frosts had crippled a good many crops, high prices of flowers brought many into the market that might otherwise have stood to produce seed, and now the merchants have empty drawers and piles of unexecuted orders."

VEGETABLE GROWERS' PROGRAM.

The complete program of the annual convention of the Vegetable Growers' Association of America, to be held this year at Albany, N. Y., November 1 to 5, has not been formulated. But part of the plans have been decided upon and Sam W. Severance, secretary of the association, permits a peep at what has been planned, with the promise of more information later.

At 10 a. m., November 1, there will be a general session; at 2 p. m. of the same day, another general session and, at night, a special address. Wednesday, November 2, will see a market garden and truck crops session, a greenhouse session and a muck crops session at 9 a. m., with a general session at 2 p. m. and some form of entertainment at night. At 9 a. m., November 3, there will be a market garden and truck crops session, a greenhouse session and a canning crop session, with entertainment at 2 p. m. and a banquet at night. Friday, November 4, there will be a

Gen. Pershing (Frey)—Extra robust grower, 3 ft. in height, with 4 to 5 long side laterals; large open flowers of lavender pink, yellow lip and somewhat of a bronze cast. The cut flowers have created quite a sensation on the Chicago Market for several seasons, and command the highest market prices.

Viola (Frey)—Like a large wood violet, the lower petals of a deeper violet blue, a beautiful, distinct and valuable hybrid. The growth is about 30 inches in height, with 4 to 5 long side laterals, long enough for any floral work. Sold at good prices on the Chicago Market for several seasons.

GOOD NEWS FROM WING.

Last February the Wing Seed Co., of Mechanicsburg, O., applied for the appointment of a receiver. Since then not much has been heard from it. However, a recent letter from Charles B. Wing, the president, throws a cheery aspect on the future of the company. The letter reads in part as follows:

"When the company first went into a receivership, Darius J. Burnham, the receiver, stated that there were plenty of assets, if they could be sold. Since that time our slogan has been, 'If we could sell the merchandise.' During the last four months I have traveled more than I had in the previous four years. I have worked with big advertising men, with prospective customers of all kinds, and I have thoroughly considered several selling methods.

"At the present time the entire business world is upside down, and many business men have been confronted with the same situation that we have been; that is, the necessity of absolutely changing their old methods. Gradually I have worked out a selling plan, and every business man I consult with says that it ought to work.

"Our machine is completed. Any machine that is properly constructed will run, and we have right now the blue print of what looks like that successful machine. It now remains to put it into motion and release the receivership."

The KENILWORTH Giant Pansy Seed

No.

12. KENILWORTH GIANT PRIZE. I have improved this strain by selecting and saving seed from the best shaped flowers of the most gorgeous color for many years. It is of the blocked Masterpiece type. The plants distinguish themselves by their robust growth and healthy-looking foliage; they are deep rooted and stand the hot, dry weather better than most other varieties. The large flowers on long, thick stems are carried well above the foliage in the most graceful manner, are of enormous size and of good substance. The petals are exceedingly broad and cover each other in such a manner as to make the flowers appear almost double. The border of each petal being conspicuously undulated and curled, the gorgeous and varied colored blossoms of velvety texture, perfect form and giant size, frequently measuring 3½ inches in diameter; the ground color such as yellow, white, deep orange, mahogany brown, bronze blue, and endless variations. Most petals are beautifully marked with a large blotch, a few are self-colored. They are specially fine for planting under glass or outside for cut flowers at all seasons. 500 seeds, 30c; 1000 seeds, 50c; ⅛ oz., $1.10; ¼ oz., $2.50; ½ oz., $5.00; 1 oz., $10.00; 4 oz., $35.00.

10. KENILWORTH GIANT EXHIBITION is the very finest complete mixture ever sent out. Seed carefully saved only from marked plants of the best varieties, with the largest and best shaped flowers and richest coloring. It is impossible to convey an adequate idea of the delightful variations in color and markings of this unrivaled mixture. 500 seeds, 30c; 1000 seeds, 50c; ⅛ oz., $1.35; ¼ oz., $2.50; oz., $10.00; 4 oz., $35.00.

19. TRIMARDEAU GIANT PANSY, improved; it is far superior to the ordinary run of Trimardeau that is sold. It is a very showy class of vigorous, compact growth. Flowers of enormous size in all the self colors, blocked, striped, margined, etc. It is very doubtful if any other pansy will give as good satisfaction as the improved Trimardeau for all general purposes. 1000 seeds, 30c; 3000 seeds, 75c; ¼ oz., $1.35; ½ oz., $2.50; 1 oz., $5.00; 4 oz., $18.00.
GIANT TRIMARDEAU No. 2, while not equal to the improved, is a good mixture containing all colors and will give good satisfaction where a mixture of moderate price is desired. 1000 seeds, 20c; ¼ oz., 80c; ½ oz., $1.50; 1 oz., $3.00; 4 oz., $11.00.

20. PRINCESS, the New Upright Pansy. This strain is entirely distinct from all others. It is absolutely compact, upright growing. The flowers are mostly blotched and frilled like the Masterpiece, of good form and heavy velvety texture, on heavy stems, carried well above the foliage. Attractive by the brilliancy of its colors. 1000 seeds, 35c; ⅛ oz., 90c; ¼ oz., $1.65; ½ oz., $3.00; 1 oz., $6.00.

22. GIANT KENILWORTH STRAIN. The flowers are of perfect form and substance; many of the immense flowers are 3-inch. It is a striking collection of beautiful colors and markings, rich with shades of red, brown, bronze, mahogany and many others too numerous to mention. Light, medium or dark mixtures. 1000 seeds, 35c; ⅛ oz., 90c; ¼ oz., $1.65; ½ oz., $3.00; 1 oz., $6.00; 4 oz., $21.50.

24. GIANT KENILWORTH SHOW is undoubtedly the largest flowered Pansy in the world; the immense flowers are of circular form. A beautiful collection of colors and markings. 1000 seeds, 40c; ⅛ oz., $1.10; ¼ oz., $2.00; ½ oz., $3.75; 1 oz., $7.50; 4 oz., $27.00.

THE EARLY FLOWERING OR WINTER BLOOMING GIANT PANSIES in all colors or mixed. 1000 seeds, 60c; ⅛ oz., $1.10; ¼ oz., $2.00; 1 oz., $7.50.

No.

26. GIANT KENILWORTH CUT FLOWER MIXTURE. Is a distinct class by itself, surpassing all other strains as a cut flower for inside or outside growing; the large flowers are carried erect above the foliage on heavy stems, 6 or 7 inches long, in the most graceful manner, and stand the hot, dry weather well. 1000 seeds, 40c; ⅛ oz., $1.10; ¼ oz., $2.00; ½ oz., $3.75; 1 oz., $7.50; 4 oz., $27.00.

28. GIANT MASTERPIECE. A remarkable type, the curled wavy petals giving the flower a double appearance; large flowers of great substance, on long, strong stems. 1000 seeds, 40c; ⅛ oz., $1.10; ¼ oz., $2.00; ½ oz., $3.75; 1 oz., $7.50; 4 oz., $27.00.

30. GIANT THREE AND FIVE BLOTCHED PANSIES. A superb mixture. Flowers large and of circular form and of great substance. The display of coloring is unsurpassed. A combination of almost every shade of rich, velvety colors; reds are particularly conspicuous, the petals being distinctly marked with three or five large, dark blotches. 1000 seeds, 35c; ⅛ oz., 90c; ¼ oz., $1.65; ½ oz., $3.00; 1 oz., $6.00; 4 oz., $21.50.

32. GIANT PARISIAN. The flowers are of enormous size and beautifully marked, mostly five dark blotches on white and yellow ground; an unusually showy mixture. 1000 seeds, 35c; ⅛ oz., 90c; ¼ oz., $1.65; ½ oz., $3.00; 1 oz., $6.00; 4 oz., $21.50.

34. GIANT BRONZE. A fine mixture of all shades of velvety brown bronze, Havana brown, mahogany and copper shades. 1000 seeds, 35c; ⅛ oz., 90c; ¼ oz., $1.65; ½ oz., $3.00; 1 oz., $6.00; 4 oz., $21.50.

36. TRIUMPH OF GIANT. Remarkably beautiful. The imposing five-spotted flowers on long, vigorous stalks surmount the foliage in the most graceful manner, are of enormous size, perfectly round and of unusual substance. The individual petals are very broad and cover each other in such a manner as to make the flowers appear almost double, the border of every petal being conspicuously curled. The plants are of a robust growth and form compact bushes of a round shape. 1000 seeds, 35c; ⅛ oz., 90c; ¼ oz., $1.65; ½ oz., $3.00; 1 oz., $6.00; 4 oz., $21.50.

40. GIANT BATH'S EMPRESS. The finest of fancy English Pansies. Flowers are very large, mostly frilled and blotched and of great substance and the colors are brilliant and varied. 1000 seeds, 40c; ⅛ oz., $1.10; ¼ oz., $2.00; ½ oz., $3.75; 1 oz., $7.50.

70. ORCHID-FLOWERED, Mixed. A dwarf, free bloomer, with a range of delicate colors that do not exist in any other Pansies; a remarkable combination of light rose, shell pink, blush mauve, fawn, light brown, orange and chamois. 1000 seeds, 30c; 4000 seeds, $1.00; ¼ oz., $1.30; ½ oz., $2.50; 1 oz., $5.00; 4 oz., $18.00.

were in 1920. Sales of millets, sorgos, rape and a few other late-sown forage crop seeds, however, were below last year and normal in practically every geographical division, according to data obtained by the Bureau of Markets and Crop Estimates of the United States Department of Agriculture. The increase in sales of clover and grass seeds is thought to be of far-reaching significance in that it indicates a return of agriculture to a more economic basis. Food, feed, and fiber crops were produced during the past few years at the expense of plowing up many old meadows, but this year, with the price of seeds down in line with that of other farm products and more farmers than usual having produced their own seed, new meadows and pastures have been sown.

The stringent financial situation was no doubt a strong factor affecting the retail demand for seeds. A larger percentage than usual of the farmers sowed seeds of their own production and many of them had a surplus of seed which was sold to neighboring farmers rather than to dealers for recleaning and resale. Of course many seeds are produced in well defined localized areas, but are sown extensively throughout the United States. Clovers and grasses are in this class and the sale and distribution of these were stimulated by the comparatively low prices.

NEWS OF THE NURSERY TRADE

NURSERY stock in the vicinity of Geneva, N. Y., is reported to be in excellent condition by Rice Bros. Co. That district has been more favored by rain than some other localities.

THE summer meeting of the New Jersey Association of Nurserymen will be held Wednesday, August 10, at Red Bank, N. J. Those attending will gather at the Red Bank railroad station at 10:30 a. m. Those planning to go should notify Secretary-treasurer K. M. Van Gelderen, Long Branch, N. J., as soon as possible.

THE New England Nurseries Co., of Bedford, Mass., has established a Boston office, at 148 State street, with John Kirkegaard in charge. It is for the benefit of those customers who are unable conveniently to visit the nurseries. The New England Nurseries Co. is propagating evergreens and is working up an immense stock of hardy, choice and popular varieties.

THE Shenandoah Nurseries, at Shenandoah, Ia., report having had a most favorable season, with plenty of moisture and hot weather. Nursery stock of all kinds is doing well. In Kansas, near Topeka, where the firm grows its seedlings, there has also been plenty of rain and moisture. A cable from France recently was received to the effect that the growth of nursery stock is much retarded there by dry, hot weather and that No. 1 grades will be scarce.

TO CONTROL SATIN MOTH.

Introduction of insects from Europe—parasite enemies—may be necessary to aid in combating the satin moth, a newly discovered foreign pest that is causing much destruction among the poplar and willow trees over a large area around Boston, Mass. Two of its enemies, insects already introduced into this country to aid in fighting the destructive gypsy moth, are found to be doing valiant service against the new pest, and the prospect of controlling it by parasites is encouraging, say entomologists of the United States Department of Agriculture. It may be necessary, however, to bring in from Europe some of its enemies that do not exist here at the present.

In circular 167, "The Satin Moth: An Introduced Enemy of Poplars and Willows," the department gives a review of government and state work against the pest since its discovery in this country July 1, 1920, and describes the habits and life of the insect in its various stages. Time has not permitted experiments to find the most effective remedies. The larvæ were so nearly full-grown at the time they were first found that spraying did not prove effectual. From their present knowledge of the insect, entomologists advised the following treatment:

Spray poplars and willows as soon as they are in full leaf with arsenate of lead at the rate of ten pounds to 100 gallons of water, using soft soap for a "sticker." If the infestation is severe, it may be necessary to repeat the operation in June. If egg clusters are abundant on the trees in July, spray again with the same material about August 1. If these suggestions are followed and the amount of spraying is governed by the density of infestation, satisfactory results should be secured, it is said.

Although the original source of the infestation cannot be determined, it is thought probable that the insect was brought into this country during the dormant season in crevices of bark on live or dead trees. It is likely that the insect has been in this country several years and has only become abundant enough to spread rapidly during the last two or three years. It is now known to occur over an area of 642 square miles, including sixty townships in Massachusetts and four in New Hampshire.

SPRAYING FOR PEAR THRIPS.

The pear thrips is said to be one of the most destructive pests in the pear orchards of some sections, so that effective control measures developed by the New York Agricultural Experiment Station will be of considerable interest.

The thrips is difficult to deal with, due to its peculiar wiry structure. These peculiarities render it necessary to apply the spray during the brief period between the first appearance of the adults in the spring and the opening of the buds. This is usually about the middle or latter part of April in the Hudson valley.

Effective control was secured by making three or four applications of a spray mixture containing a high-grade miscible oil or whale-oil soap and nicotine sulphate, when applied with a spray outfit capable of maintaining a pressure of from 200 to 300 pounds.

A detailed account of the experiments and of the spray mixture will be found in Bulletin No. 484, which may be had free of charge upon application to the station, at Geneva.

PAINESVILLE, O.

The unusually hot and dry weather, which has lasted over six weeks, has done considerable damage to the nurserymen here. Perennial growers have been the heaviest losers. With little or no rain during this period, the seedling stock has suffered greatly, many growers having planted the second time, to no avail.

Joseph W. Kallay, owner of the Donewell Nurseries, has a fine stock of choice evergreens. In this particular line Mr. Kallay intends to specialize.

The hardy phloxes of the R. E. Huntington Co., Mentor, O., are now in full bloom, making a splendid showing. The large fields of gladioli are also of good quality.

C. C. Hallman and family are spending their vacation at Detroit, Mich.

T. R. Norman has returned from an eastern trip, where he visited many of the nurseries.

Leo Kidd has returned to his duties at Wilson's Flower Shop, after enjoying a two weeks' vacation.

Montgomery's Priscilla

That's the name of the new pink rose! The name will be Priscilla probably after the public has had it a while, but we have had to add the prefix to cover the rules of nomenclature.

In order to get someone who knows more about roses than we do to give an unbiased, honest opinion on the merits of this rose, we have placed 12 plants of it with each of the following rose growers:

E. G. Hill Co., Richmond, Ind.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.

The Market.

A reasonable amount of business was done last week at all the stores. The weather has been hot and uncomfortable, but, along with this, good, steady rains have fallen, which have greatly relieved the oppressive heat. Funeral work has been abundant.

Gladioli are practically the mainstay of the market. Good supplies of asters are seen now, which include some excellent stock. Carnations are becoming scarce and their quality is poor. The extreme heat has considerably affected the supply of sweet peas, which at this time of the year are a necessity. They were so badly burned during the hottest period that only a meager supply is seen.

The supply of roses is about equal to the demand. An improvement in them has been noticed the last two weeks. Ophelia is in splendid color, but is only being received in short and medium grades. Premier is holding up well and stands the heat well.

A fair supply of speciosum lilies is arriving and sells easily. Auratum lilies are not plentiful. Outdoor stock, such as hardy and perennial phlox, candytuft, feverfew, achillea, cosmos, gaillardia, delphinium, zinnias, marigolds and daisies, reach us, but the supply is not large, nor is the quality anything to brag of.

Various Notes.

William B. Lake, of the W. B. Lake Co., of Philadelphia, Pa., called on a few customers Saturday, July 30.

Hubert B. Stringer and Horace J. Head, representing George B. Hart, are arranging to attend the annual meeting of the S. A. F. at Washington, D. C., August 16 to 18.

Lynn MacDowell has been away on a week's vacation.

The employees of H. E. Wilson, at 88 East Main street, together with a few former employees, were entertained at a sausage roast at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herman H. Zahn, on St. Paul boulevard, Friday, July 29.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Traudt, of Canajoharie, N. Y., and their family, with Mr. and Mrs. J. Webber and child, of New York city, motored to Niagara Falls via Rochester, N. Y., where they made a brief stay.

The good rains which we have had the last week will be most beneficial to the late aster crop, of which there is a big acreage in and around the city.

WASHINGTON, D. C.

The Market.

Good stock has been scarce, due to the continued hot weather. The gladiolus crop seems to be nearing its end, as the flowers are getting smaller. There have been quantities of these flowers of small size on the market for the last several weeks. Easter lilies are in demand and sell as high as $20 per hundred. The glut that flooded this market some weeks ago has passed. Rubrum lilies have been used in great quantities for funeral work, these being the best stock now available for that purpose. The retailers are figuring on them extensively, for there is a considerable difference in their price, as compared with the price of Easter lilies.

In the rose line, Columbia and Mock are perhaps the best. A few fine Russells are also to be had. A good crop of American Beauty roses is coming in and, although the blooms are comparatively small, they help to fill out in the making of baskets. Stephanotis and swainsona are in great demand for wedding work, due to the marked shortage of good white roses. Orchids are of good quality. Despite a reasonable price, there is little demand for orchids. Some hardy hydrangeas have been on the market. They are good for decorations, because they make a big show. The retailers are also using them extensively in basket work. A. E. G.

The night of July 25, burglars broke into the store of Z. D. Blackistone. They succeeded in opening one of the safes, from which they took about $100. From there they went into the candy department and demolished the cash register, which was locked. From this they got $70. They found a tin box containing money which had been dropped in for the benefit of the Salvation Army. They evidently came prepared for any emergencies, as they opened this with a can opener and took what was in it. In all about $200 in cash was taken. The damage done to the cash register and other fixtures amounted to about $300.

Greenhouse Heating

SUBSCRIBERS are invited to write the editor of this department with regard to any details of greenhouse heating that are not understood. When information is desired regarding the capacity of boilers, or the amount of radiation required for a greenhouse, the needed temperatures should be stated in the inquiry, as well as the amount of glass in the side walls, and the dimensions and general arrangement of the greenhouses. It is often helpful, also, to have a sketch showing the location of the houses.

TO HEAT THE HOUSE.

I plan to erect a greenhouse, 20x50 feet, to face about 15 degrees east of north. Will you advise me as to how I can heat this house? What heat is best for pot and bedding plants? What heat is best for winter-blooming flowers? The side walls of the house will have three feet of glass and two feet of wood. T. F. S.—Ky.

For a house of the size mentioned it would be advisable to use hot water for heating purposes. The temperature to which it is to be heated is not stated, but it is inferred that provision should be made for 60 degrees in zero weather. This will require about 500 square feet of radiation and a boiler rated for about 800 square feet if soft coal is to be used. It should be even larger than this unless a good grade of coal is used.

In the way of radiation, it would be well to put in three 2½-inch flow pipes, running one on each side wall plate and the other three feet below the ridge. For the return coils, use twelve 2-inch returns in three coils, placing one under each side bench and the other under the middle bench. Run all pipes downhill and connect the highest point in the system with the expansion tank. If a single main flow pipe is used, it should be 3-inch.

PART OF HOUSE GETS COLD.

I have a greenhouse, of semi-iron construction, 20x100 feet in size, which was built two years ago. I have a great deal of trouble in keeping the west end of the house from getting too cold. The boiler is under the dwelling at the west end of the greenhouse. The east end of the house has a glass gable. There are eleven 1¼-inch returns under the benches and two 1½-inch returns on the side walls. There is one 2½-inch flow pipe in the center. Can you tell me why the west end is so hard to keep at the right temperature and how this condition can be remedied?

H. R. S.—O.

There are two things which we must know before we can furnish a definite answer to the questions and aid in

He Crawled Inside To See Its Inside Workings

You who were at the last New York Flower Show will recall that big Steel Tubular Boiler we had on exhibition on the second floor. Well, the second day it was there, I came back from dinner and saw a grower crawling out from the fire box. He looked up laughing and said—"When I want inside information, I get on the inside." How did you like what you found this time?—said I "I don't mind telling you," he replied, "that I didn't believe your advertisements when you gave the size of those two big combustion tubes.

"Neither did I believe the return tubes were 4 inches. So I just crawled inside with my little old rule and took the measurements.

"But that isn't all—I stood right up inside the combustion chamber clean out opening and tapped back and sides to prove that it was hollow.

"And it sure was!

"It's the only tubular boiler I ever saw that had no dead surfaces at the back.

"Now don't begin any of your selling lingo; because I sold one of these boilers to myself before you showed up."

And now, how about you—want to sell one to yourself?
If you do, we will gladly arrange to take you around to call on users.
Based on what they say and what you see—buy or don't buy one.

solving the difficulty. One is whether the house is piped for steam or hot water, and the other regards the temperature desired to be maintained in the house. We judge that an attempt is being made to heat the house by means of hot water, for if steam were used, almost any temperature could be secured with the piping as it is now. There should be no difficulty in securing at least 65 degrees when it is 10 degrees below zero, so far as the amount of radiation is concerned. If steam is used and good results are not secured, we should attribute it to the fact that the returns are too near the water level, or that suitable air valves are not provided at the proper points.

If hot water is used, we are not surprised that it is impossible to secure a good circulation. An attempt is being made to supply some 700 square feet of radiation with a 2½-inch supply pipe. While this can be done with steam, it is three times as much as should be carried if hot water is used. We do not favor using 1¼-inch returns in houses more than fifty feet in length, unless they are several feet above the top of the boiler, and, even then, a circulator should be used. The radiation should also be increased fifty per cent if hot water is to provide a temperature of 60 degrees in zero weather.

We should suggest putting in two additional 2½-inch flow pipes, running them on the wall plates, and dividing the return pipes between the three flows. By also installing a circulator, it should then be possible to obtain an even circulation, although we should prefer to use twelve 2-inch returns, with an open-tank system.

HOW ABOUT your condensation problem?

Does sluggish circulation make the temperature hard to control?

Then it's time to investigate the

"A satisfied customer is the best AD"

MR. A. J. WASHKO, of A. J. Washko & Sons Floral Co., Bedford, Ohio, writes:

"It is a pleasure to me to express my opinion in regard to your patent LEAK-PROOF gutter. I wish to state that I speak of many years' experience as an architect and know when material is fit for a certain place. The fact is that your gutter really is the best gutter on the market up to date. It is second to none; it really has no equal."

We are the patentees and sole manufacturers of this LEAK-PROOF gutter which is giving so much satisfaction.

TOLEDO, O.

The Market.

A decided change for the better in weather conditions has proved a great help to the gladiolus and aster crops. Gladioli are more than plentiful, and still they bring a good price. Asters are not plentiful and anyone fortunate enough to have good stock has everything his own way.

Various Notes.

Spanner's Flower Shop is being redecorated. Light green tint and white constitute the color scheme.

Miss Helen Patten is spending her vacation enjoying a short trip and, as usual, has her summer cottage at Toledo beach.

Metz & Bateman are planning new interior decorations and are looking forward to a successful season.

The Century Flower Shop is installing the large icebox of the Peter Reuss Co., of Detroit. This shop is doing a good business.

W. Feniger motored to Chicago Sunday, July 31. Mrs. Feniger and the children had preceded him on a visit to friends and relatives. H. E. K.

Dayton, O.—The Dayton Flower & Plant Co. has been organized and incorporated with a capital stock of $30,000. R. O. Bentley, Rolf Zetlitz and E. E. Edgecomb, of the Zetlitz Floral Products Co., are chiefly interested at the present time, although some of the stock is still on the market. The company has taken possession of the farm of the Haas sisters, on Covington pike, where the company is already well established. General offices will be maintained at Riverview and Floral avenues.

SEATTLE NOTES.

buyers. Out-of-town funeral work was a feature of last week's business for this shop and there is also a notable increase in transient trade.

H. S. Mueller, with his father, Charles S. Mueller, of Wichita, Kan., was a recent trade visitor in the northwestern cities.

The Hollywood Gardens are showing some of the finest gladioli being cut hereabouts at this time and greenhouse reports also note an increase in the cut of Laddie carnations.

Carl Melby, of Melby's Flower Shop, spent a good part of last week in entertaining visiting Elks, who were here for the state convention. Summer flowers have been the largest sellers of late.

Charles H. Grakelow, of Philadelphia, was a Seattle visitor on his way home from the Elks' national convention, at Los Angeles. While in Seattle he was the speaker at the weekly luncheon of the members' council of the Seattle Chamber of Commerce. He was accompanied by his sisters.

A surprising increase in the volume of funeral work for the last week is reported by Felix Rosaia. Gladioli are the featured blooms in this shop, and the result has been large sales of these flowers. Mr. Sisler, of Andrew Haxton's, Inc., in Yakima, was a recent visitor with Mr. Rosaia.

Kenney's Home of Flowers featured the first pompons of the season, although the stock was rather immature. David Lencher has returned from his vacation, which was spent mainly at Seaside, Ore., and at Portland, Ore.

A special window for the state convention of Elks was developed by Rosaia Bros., two full-sized elks and a baby elk being the chief features. The largest of these stuffed animals taxed the height of the display window. Moss, stuffed pheasants and green completed the item. A large decoration at a local club was handled by this firm, the interior of the building being converted into a Venetian garden.

The first of this season's perennial gypsophila was brought in last week by Brown's Perennial Gardens and what are believed to be the first perennial chrysanthemums were delivered by the same grower. H. M.

SAN FRANCISCO NOTES.

who retired and has been in Europe for the last fifteen years, but is still well remembered in the trade," said Mr. Cohen.

The first goods of the Richmond Pottery, Inc., will be on the market by August 15, according to Frank Pelicano, of Pelicano, Rossi & Co., who is a moving spirit in the enterprise, with H. Plath, of the Ferneries, and other florists. Mr. Plath is chairman.

J. A. Axell has taken almost two weeks to reach St. Louis, for he has been calling on the trade en route to Minneapolis from San Francisco and has been detained by the hospitality shown by florists in every city.

Mrs. Darbee, while motoring recently through northern California and Oregon, visited the Franklin Bulb Farm, at Salem, Ore., where she found that most of the tulip, iris and other bulbs from the Cottage Gardens Nurseries, Eureka, had been transplanted. The Franklin Bulb Farm has about seven acres planted and seems to be doing well. Most of the California bulb growers are looking for an ideal bulb soil, and Mrs. Darbee has some remarkably fine bulbs to prove that she has found it, but the location is something she will not divulge. General and Mrs. Gooch, of Darbee's, are motoring in the Sierras.

The C. Kooyman Co. is showing its first outdoor rubrum of the present season.

The E. W. McLellan Co. is drying off its plantings for the winter, but many gardenias are still coming in. The firm, H. A. Avansino states, is planting some half million freesias.

F. C. Jaeger, of F. C. Jaeger & Son, is working to have the Sunday closing movement put up to the people of this city at the next municipal election.

George P. Wagner, head decorator for Joseph's, is showing Mrs. Wagner the beauty spots of southern California, on an automobile vacation. Mrs. Wagner is an eastern bride, who has just celebrated her first anniversary.

T. Joseph Arellano, of Visitacion Valley Nursery, says that the churches of San Francisco are using floral decorations more and more for special festivals. They now have floral stands in aisles, etc.

The United Flower & Supply Co. has Golden Glow chrysanthemums coming in plentifully for local customers. By the middle of August, Chrysolora mums will be coming in and by the end of the month they will be of good shipping quality, according to I. Inque, who has just returned from a trip to the nurseries.

IMP SOAP SPRAY

Sure Insect Killer

IMP Soap Spray is a scientifically prepared compound that is destructive to insects without injuring plants or roots. Does not spot leaves, fruit, grass or deface paint work. May be used on fruit trees; shade trees; flowering shrubs; vines; garden truck; and on all sorts of plants, both under glass and out of doors.

It is most effective against rose bug; mill bug; white, black, green and rhododendron fly; red spider; thrips; aphis; fruit pests; elm leaf beetle and moths. Very economical, one gallon is mixed with 25 to 40 gallons of water. Full directions on each can. Order direct if your dealer cannot supply.

as well as fifteen boxes of fancy tapes and a quantity of colored mats, for putting around flower pots.

Enomoto & Co. report a steady demand for helichrysum, which the firm is growing extensively. It is shipping asters. Mr. Enomoto expects a large shipment of colored mats and frieze about August 1 from Japan.

The Growers' Cut Flower Co. is paying special attention to growing a feathery-looking straw of the statice family, which looks like gypsophila, but is larger and more luxuriant.

The California Floral Co. is showing some deep orange poppies, of an unusual shade, which one of its growers is sending in.

Frank D. Pelicano, of Pelicano, Rossi & Co., continues to show cut flowers of new dahlia seedlings in the store window. He has one coming on that he thinks will break his previous records for size and luxuriance.

Three handsome dahlias, all new and unnamed, are being displayed in the windows of the Charles C. Navlet Co., Inc. L. Pichetti, the manager of the store, says none of these bulbs is for sale, but the Black Pearl, a seedling from the Fenton Farm, is selling, despite its high price.

David Lichtenstein, the Terminal Florist, is enjoying a vacation at Skaggs' Springs. M. M.

NEWARK, N. J.

The Market.

Newark florists are doing an average summer business. Gladioli are about the only flowers now abundant enough and reasonable enough in price for warm weather window decoration. Ferns and other potted plants are used to fill up the window exhibits. Growers are getting their mums in good shape for fall. Indications are that these will be a satisfactory crop.

Various Notes.

Frank Philips, of Philips Bros., has returned from a month's vacation spent at North Asbury, N. J. He spent much of his time fishing. Besides a number of smaller fish, he caught a 15-pound bass. He also caught another and larger fish, but he lost it. Fred Philips, also of the firm, will spend August at North Asbury. He is an ardent fisherman and will try to catch the big fish his brother lost.

F. A. Kuehn, 621 Central avenue, Newark, reports business quiet at the present time. He has a large cemetery trade and it is between seasons for him.

A few of the smaller shops of Newark, Elizabeth and nearby places will close for the month of August.

Henry Hornecker, Central avenue and Grove street, East Orange, has his preliminary fall work far advanced and has begun work on his Christmas features. Business is fair with him for this time of the year. R. B. M.

Paranoid instead of Putty

When QUALITY is passed up for a low price, you are simply mortgaging the results which you expect in service and thereby assume the risk of losing far more in the end than you thought you were gaining in the begining.

It is much more economical to be permanently pleased with the wonderful service that you would get from PARANOID than it is to be temporarily pleased with a mere low price—and then have to worry along with the article's shortcomings.

Your glazing problem is a serious one. You cannot afford to take a chance. Specify PARANOID on your next glazing work, and you will be using the best glazing cement on the market today.

The Market.

Gladioli are now arriving more profusely than they were a week ago. They are the best flowers to be had, including the varieties Peace, America, Frances King, Schwaben and Panama. Asters are also arriving now in larger quantities and are moving well, considering its being the midsummer season, when, ordinarily, there is not much business. A number of funerals have been held the last week, which is the reason for most of the cleaning up of stock. There has also been an unusually large number of July weddings.

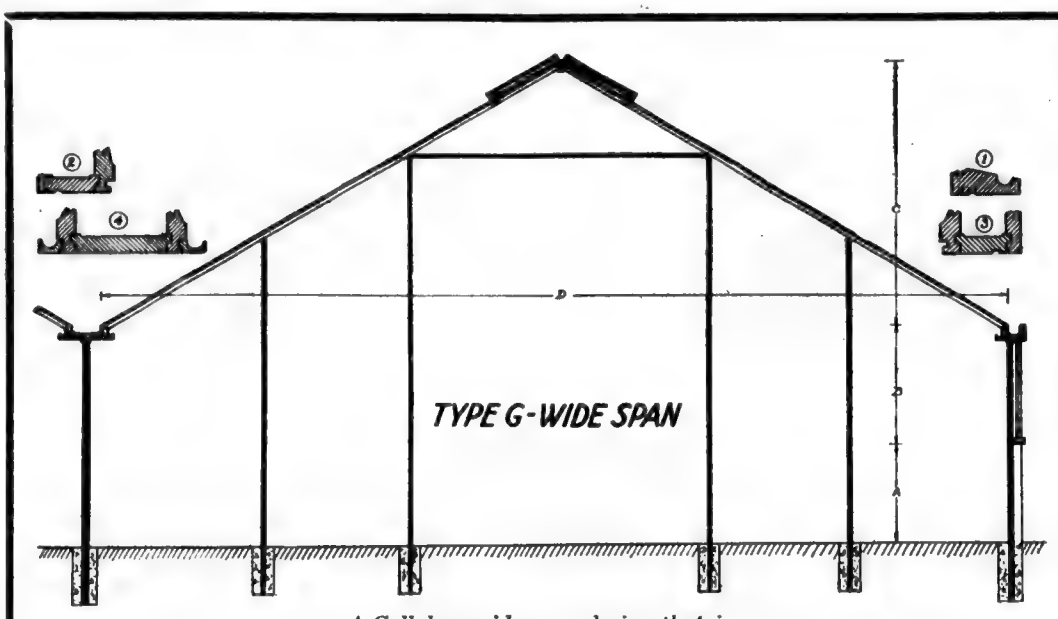
Rubrum lilies, always popular flowers at this market, are arriving regularly and move well. Zinnias, gypsophila, delphiniums, gaillardias and sweet sultans move well. Some good southern smilax arrived at this market during last week and moved well.

Various Notes.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Sheppard have left for a two weeks' vacation in the country. As this is Mr. Sheppard's hobby, he ought to profit from the vacation. Things have been brisk in Mr. Sheppard's store, including a large funeral and a large wedding.

C. E. Critchell's wholesale house is now redecorated and looks snappy, much in keeping with Mr. Critchell. He has been receiving some excellent gladioli of P. O. Coblentz, of North Madison, O., and some good rubrum lilies of W. Schaeffer, of Price Hill.

William Mayhall, with E. G. Gillett, and Mrs. Mayhall and their little son are touring to Conway, Mich., where they intend to spend the summer.



Miss Laura Murphy, of the William Murphy Co., has returned from her vacation at Les Cheneaux island, in Michigan, where she has been for the last two weeks.

Gus Mickley has returned from his home in Wauchula, Fla. He reports that things in that section are in the pink of condition.

The Mickley Co. has moved from the location at 120 West Seventh street to a block east. This promises to be the coming block in the flower line.

Clarence Ohmer and family toured in the new Paige from West Palm Beach and are stopping at the home of their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Gillett.

Among the visitors last week were Glen E. Moore and family, of Rushville, Ind.; I. Bayersdorfer, of Philadelphia; C. A. Blackstone, of the Ove Gnatt Co., Laporte, Ind., and T. J. Herdigen, of Aurora, Ind. G. H. K.

RUNNING a greenhouse ain't any fun and glazing a greenhouse ain't any pleasure; but there's money in running a greenhouse and that means that there is money in glazing, for the summers are getting hotter and the winters colder. So just plain me got up a good GRAY glazing cement and the best part of it is that it's clean and neat to handle, doesn't get hard and crack and if you want to take a glass out of the house it's easy.

I concocted an idea of boiling oils and gums so that it will work slick in any putty bulb or glazing gun and set up plastic and stay that way. Just think of the comfort of glazing and not having any messy hands or dirty tools and making a greenhouse look like something.

One thing is certain and that is, if you ever try JIM'S ELASTIC (that's my name) you won't ever quit me. It is a genuine fine glazing cement, even better than they used to make in England, and, you know, that's going some.

Here's my proposition to you: Try out JIM'S ELASTIC and if you ain't satisfied that it is the best glazing material you ever used, I'll quit my job and go back to watering plants.

Let me hear from you. JIM.

Meet Us at the Wash

IT is a grand coincidence that the Convention should be held at this time, because it is going to be the means of letting the florists from all over the United States see, first-hand, the newest creation in the growers' field; the machine that has caused so much comment—the

THORO-MIX
SOIL SHREDDER

We will be there with two machines. One machine will be conspicuously displayed in the exhibit hall, while the other will be giving daily demonstrations at the Gude Brothers' greenhouses.

We will be there in person to demonstrate and explain the THORO-MIX and it should be one of the first things you do to look us up at our exhibit and see with your own eyes why our machine should have a place in every greenhouse in the land.

Particularly do we want you to spend a few minutes at the Gude Brothers' greenhouses where daily demonstrations of the THORO-MIX Soil Shredder are to be held. There the machine will be put to every test you require, pulverizing and mixing sod, clay, loam and fresh, coarse manure, just as it would work for you in your own plant. This demonstration will be educational, interesting and to your advantage to attend. We cordially invite you to attend at least one of these demonstrations while at the convention.

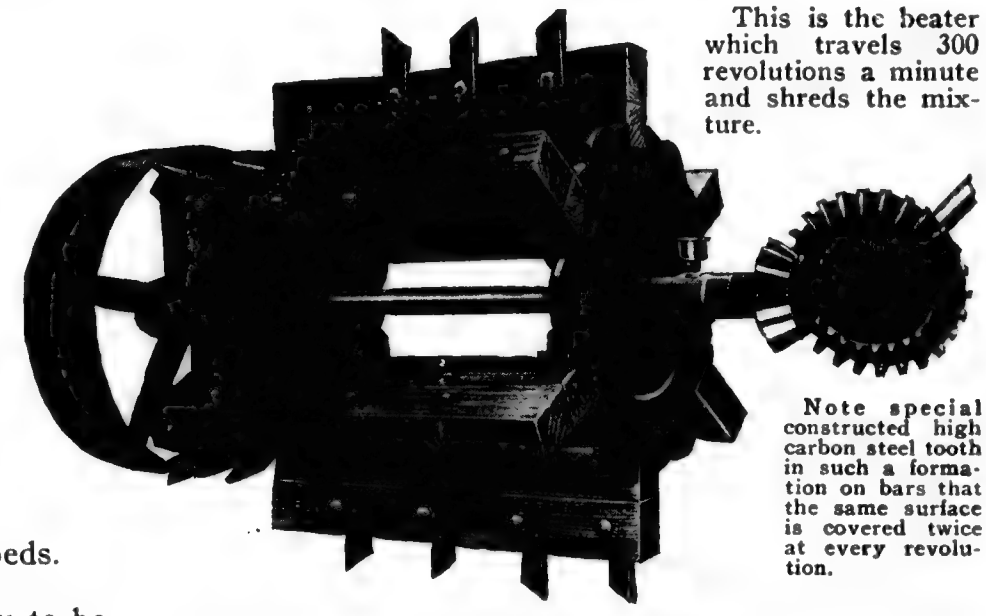
Florists and Manufacturers of THORO-MIX

BATAVIA NEW YORK

ington Convention



The way to better flowers is better soil; the way to better soil is via the THORO-MIX Soil Shredder.

All kinds of soils—sod and clay and coarse manure are pulverized, mixed and shredded—not too fine nor too coarse—just right for all greenhouse purposes, including potting soil and compost.

THORO-MIX will quickly pay for itself in the saving of time and labor, in the preparation of the soil, planting and after care of greenhouse beds.

The advantages are too great for you to be without a

THORO-MIX SOIL SHREDDER

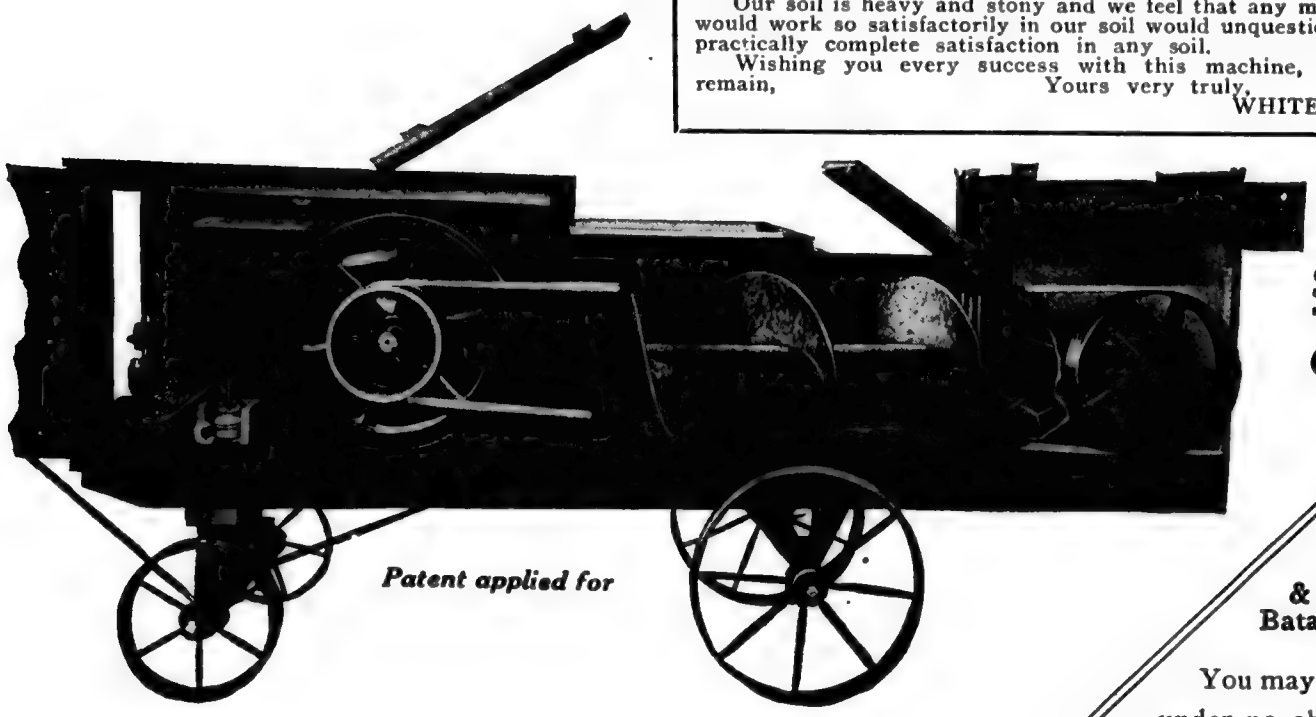
This is the beater which travels 300 revolutions a minute and shreds the mixture.

Note special constructed high carbon steel tooth in such a formation on bars that the same surface is covered twice at every revolution.

WHITE BROS.
Medina, N. Y.

L. C. Stroh & Sons,
Batavia, N. Y. July 15th, 1921.

Gentlemen:



Replying to yours as to how satisfactory your Thoro-mix soil shredder is, we beg to say that we prepared sufficient soil to fill one greenhouse 21 ft. by 175 ft. with four men in five hours.

To prepare the same amount of soil with any method that we have ever used we believe that it would have required eight to ten hours to have done the same work and even then it would not have been as well prepared. There will also be a gain of approximately 25% to 30% in time planting this house and after care.

Our soil is heavy and stony and we feel that any machine that would work so satisfactorily in our soil would unquestionably give practically complete satisfaction in any soil.

Wishing you every success with this machine, we beg to remain,

Yours very truly,
WHITE BROS.

Patent applied for

Phantom View of THORO-MIX

Part of the side and belt shield have been removed to show the simple, yet practical operation of the machine. Soil and manure are fed into hopper, mixed and conveyed by spiral to beater and shredded. It is then kicked out of rear thoroughly mixed.

LETTER FROM FERD. FISCHER.

To My Customers in America:

Those who are in the market for high grade Cyclamen seed, I wish to advise you that I have perfected the finest strain of Cyclamen seed I have ever offered, as for the past four years I have devoted my attention to improving my varieties. Cyclamen offered by me this season are all true to name and selected only from the best and healthy plants which in turn give very good results.

I have paid strict attention to my salmon and red shades particularly for the American trade. My seed soon will be offered by the American Bulb Co., who are my sole agents, and none is genuine unless purchased through the American Bulb Co. It is with pleasure that I recommend to all florists who are growers of high class plants to try out my seed. I hold recommendations from the best growers in the world. Yours very truly,
FERD. FISCHER.

HUBER'S FLOAT WINS PRIZE.

Although, among automobiles, the Ford does not win the beauty prize, still, when decorated by the Huber Floral House and shown in a parade, it ranks as the highest. The Huber Floral House is located at Portage, Wis., and it was during the annual Portage Fourth of July parade that the float of this company won first prize.

The float was a Ford, with its hood draped with a large flag. The body of the car and the wheels were covered with flowers of red, white and blue. The mud guards, running boards, bumpers, lights and everything else, except the seats, were covered with red, white and blue flowers. The seats were covered by Mr. Huber, two young boys and two pretty girls.

Will Be a Good Time to See Us About That House You Want in a Hurry This Fall

Now that steel has surely hit bottom; glass as low as it is likely to be; paint way down; cypress as low as can be expected; and day labor working for less and doing more for it, looks like it's now a good time to build.

A good time this Fall to build that house you wanted to build last Spring, but kind of put off until prices were down where you thought they ought to be.
Evidently, from the orders for fall work that are coming in, there were a lot just like you.

There is plenty of help to be had, so you needn't have a worry about our being able to put your house up in extra quick time.

In fact, we can do it double quick.

Come to our booth at the Convention and let us go over the proposition together.
Along with our greenhouse experts on plans and construction, Mr. McArthur, our head heating engineer, will be there.

Come around and make yourself at home.

(Patents Pending)

---POINT FOUR

Look at it any way you want to

—There isn't another gutter made that possesses anywhere near the same number of advantages, or gives anything like the same amount of satisfaction.

Did you ever see a gutter before of any pattern that would carry as much water? Well, the only place you'll find it is in the AGMCO Steel-Bar House. Can't be had anywhere else.

Did you ever see any other gutter that carried the drip gutter so neatly, conveniently and satisfactorily as this? It's another special feature of the AGMCO Steel-Bar house.

And notice the bar clasps. They are the same as those used on the AGMCO angle eave.

And the whole thing makes a stronger, tighter gutter than any other.

HERE'S ANOTHER BUILDER

AGMCO Heated

Bear these in mind—

POINT ONE—the bar with the steel center.

POINT TWO—the bar spacing ridge.

POINT THREE—the angle purlin with bolt and nut.

POINT FOUR—the gutter that carries more water and is stronger and tighter.

Watch for Point Five, but while you watch, write for a Steel-Bar estimate.

What size shall we figure?

An Ideal Greenhouse Arrangement for Private Estate

BUILT FOR W. L. TAYLOR AT EVANSTON, ILLINOIS

Here is a layout that will fill nearly all the requirements of a medium sized private estate.

The conservatory, in which there are palms, ferns and blooming plants, is attached to one side of the dining room of the residence.

The greenhouse, in which the growing is done, is off to one side with the potting room attached at one end.

The boiler for heating the greenhouse is located in the large servants' building alongside of the heating plant for all the buildings.

If you are contemplating building a conservatory of any description we would be pleased to hear from you.

When the Iron Frame Is Cheaper Than Pipe Frame or Semi-Iron

The Iron Frame is cheaper IN THE END, at any time, when you figure lastingness. But it's cheaper AT THE BEGINNING, right now, when you figure present cost of cypress.

You have noticed how year by year the price of the All-Wood and Semi-Iron houses have, with the advance in cost of lumber, steadily come closer and closer to the cost of the Iron Frame house.

The point has now been reached where with a few changes on our Number One Iron Frame Construction, we can sell you a Full Iron Frame house for approximately the cost of the Semi-Iron.
To distinguish it from the Number One, it is called the Iron Frame Construction Number Two.
It is made in five widths, three of which require no columns.

ADVANTAGES:
This Number Two Construction being a full Iron Frame, it has all the iron frame arguments in its favor.
The Iron Frame Construction goes up quicker than the Semi-Iron. Is more rigid. Has longer life. Is lighter. Costs but little more than the Semi-Iron.

In short, you get a far better house for a little more money.
A full-fledged Lord & Burnham Iron Frame house.
You know what that means.

We will come and give you figures PROMPTLY.
We will get out your materials QUICKLY.
We will erect it for you SPEEDILY.

Lilium Giganteum Crop

(PRICES NOT YET FIXED)

Reports from Japan indicate that Giganteum crop will be extremely scarce. Less than four million came to America last season. This season there is a report that there will be 20% shortage, so our advice to the Florists in order to assure themselves of Lilies for this coming year, is to buy a few cases of Formosum to help make up for the shortage of Giganteum that is assured.

READY FOR IMMEDIATE SHIPMENT

Paper White Narcissi---Grandiflora Type

Paper White Narcissi, like other Bulbs, are very scarce. From cable advice, we received from France, states that the Exporters have orders for sixty million bulbs, of which the crop produced thirty million of export size bulbs.

Our good connections with the reliable Growers of France, enables us to execute our orders in full, and a surplus to take care of Florists who are still in the market, and have not as yet bought.

Order through the AMERICAN BULB COMPANY, and you can depend upon getting the true Grandiflora Type, up to size and well matured bulbs.

Mail us your order TODAY, for any quantity you desire, from 100 bulbs up to 100,000. We will be glad to quote you on any quantity you desire.

We also offer the following:

We are now Cutting

FINE ROSES FOR SHIPPING

60,000 RUSSELL plants specially grown for Summer crop

IT PAYS TO ORDER DIRECT OF THE GROWER

We are Rose growers especially for the shipping trade. We cut our Roses more in the bud, and grow them cooler, so that they will ship in better condition. All of our Roses are grown in one large range of glass, and are brought in from our greenhouses two and three times per day.

Please note our Special offer

DREER'S CONVENTION DISPLAY

As usual, for many years past, our exhibit at the Washington Convention will consist of a comprehensive display of seasonable plants, such as Palms, Ferns, Crotons and other Decorative and Foliage Plants, in a full line of commercial sizes.

Delegates to the Convention, either going or returning, are invited to stop off at Philadelphia and visit our nurseries at Riverton, N. J., where they are certain to find many interesting subjects.

At this writing, outdoor stocks promise to be exceptionally fine, particularly Cannas, Dahlias, Phloxes and our extensive assortment of Hardy Perennials, of which a great many should be at their best at this time.

Our representatives, Messrs. Karins, Goudy and Ruppert, will be in attendance at the Convention and will be pleased to give detailed information.

Every retail store and grower should feature Crotons this Fall and Winter. We know our stock will please you and your customer.

Croton Leaves and Sprays

Cut Croton Leaves and Sprays have been supplied by us in the past years to some of the leading retail florists, who have featured them in mantel, table and funeral work. Cut Crotons will last in a cool place from three to four weeks. We can supply them every day in the year.
Very highly colored sprays at 50c each. Cut leaves, $5 per 100.
When you have orders for funeral or table work, "out of the ordinary," order Craig's Cut Crotons.

DRACAENAS

There is no variety of foliage plant so attractive as the highly colored Dracaena. The small and medium sizes can be used to great advantage in making up the popular Christmas baskets, while the large specimens have always been in great demand for decorative purposes. We are now growing more Dracaenas, in greater variety, than any firm in the country.

Dracaena Godseffiana

Green and white leaf, very hardy, fine for baskets.
2½-inch pots, $20 per 100.
3-inch pots, $35 per 100.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

We are pleased to announce that owing to the recent drop in price of lumber, it enables us to give our customers the benefit by reducing the price on packing as follows:

Full size cases	$1.50 each
Three-quarter size cases	1.25 each
Small size cases	.50 each
Half size boxes	1.00 each

TERMS: CASH WITH ORDER: Kindly send sufficient to cover the entire bill. We do not make shipments C. O. D. unless remittance has been made on account to guarantee acceptance. This does not apply to regular customers. REMITTANCES: Remittances should be made by money order or New York drafts. If money is sent, letter should be registered. All prices quoted in this list are strictly net. SHIPPING INSTRUCTIONS: Give your name, post office, county and state and the name of your nearest express office to which shipment is to be made. We have always made it prominent in our printed terms that our goods are sold F. O. B. cars at the point of shipment and are at the purchaser's risk in transit. Because of the present unsettled conditions we wish to emphasize still further that we do not guarantee safe delivery. The ownership of all goods sold by us passes to the purchaser on delivery by us to the carrier, and the issuing of the receipt by the carrier ends our responsibility. Any claims for damage should be made promptly to the agent at the point of delivery. CORRESPONDENCE: We endeavor to answer all correspondence promptly, but owing to the pressure of business, we ask that all requests be clearly and concisely stated. ERRORS: Keep a copy of your order. We aim to have our orders correctly filled. When we are at fault, we shall make satisfactory correction.

MANAGING A RETAIL FLORIST'S BUSINESS

Here is a careful exposition of the problems that are the most important for the beginner in the retail florists' business. Heard with much interest at the Canadian convention this week, it should be given careful reading by aspiring retail florists wherever they may be situated.

By A. M. TERRILL.

MOST of those who start in the retail florists' business are men or women who love flowers and have worked in a greenhouse or retail flower store, who are ambitious to be in business on their own account and generally think it advisable to begin in a small way, as they do not feel safe in undertaking to finance a large business. Usually the retail florist who begins business in a small way will eventually be the most successful, for he gradually acquires experience and learns how to manage the business by being in closer touch with every detail, and he thereby escapes many of the troubles and losses to which he would be liable if trying to handle too large a business at the beginning. I do not wish to discourage any person who is absolutely sure he has the knowledge, ability, experience and finances to handle a large business when the demand warrants his doing so, but I would say, be very careful not to overburden yourself financially until you are reasonably sure of the trade which your business will command.

As so much of the success in managing a retail business depends on the ability of the manager, I should like to draw attention to a few of the qualities which I believe are required in the person who is to fill this position.

Manager's Qualifications.

He should be a person who loves flowers and the growing and handling of them. It is next to impossible for a person in any business to be successful unless he likes that business and is happy and contented while employed in it, and I believe this trait is more necessary in the retail florists' than in any other trade or profession. You should know the florists' business if possible by having had practical working experience in all its branches; otherwise it will be difficult for you to handle the business successfully, for it is essential that you know that those persons whom you employ are giving the best results in the different departments, such as growing, handling, selling, arranging bouquets, floral designs, decorations, etc.

You must also know that the stock, which it is often necessary to buy from other growers and from wholesale houses, is such as your trade will require and is purchased at a price which justifies you in handling it for the benefit of your customers and at a profit to the business.

Pleasing Personality.

The manager should be of good personality and one who makes friends and commands the respect of those who are employed in the business. He should aim to have the good will of those with whom business is transacted, either in buying or selling, for if the manager is not well liked by those with whom business is transacted, it reflects strongly against the success of the sales department. The lovers of cut flowers and plants will not purchase from a store where they do not like the manager if they can find any other place to buy from, and they invariably can.

I would strongly advise against starting business in a town of less than 3,000 population and only in a town of this size when there is a good prospect for sales of cut flowers and plants to the people of the country and towns adjacent. Unless there is this amount of local business which can be depended on, it will be difficult to be successful financially. To the person who would be successful in a small town, in the suburban part of an eastern city or in one of the western cities, I should advise purchasing, not leasing, property in the best location possible, where the real estate will become more valuable if you should find it advisable to sell within a few years. Build on this property a store and office with greenhouses attached thereto, such as your finances and business will warrant at this time, with plans for adding to the greenhouses as the business demands. In constructing the buildings do not build too expensively or for too great permanency, as the location may become too valuable in a few years for you to continue occupying it with greenhouses; also, as the business increases it may be found necessary to enlarge your store space or change your greenhouse construction to correspond with the district in which your business is located.

Grow Variety.

Grow a variety of cut flowers and plants such as your experience will teach you the local customers demand, always with a few novelties included, so that your greenhouses and store may be attractive for customers and their friends to visit whether they desire to purchase at the time or not. Always be sure that after 10 o'clock in the forenoon each day your store and greenhouses are clean and neat and the paths are free from excessive moisture, so that a woman can feel safe in walking through without soiling her clothes; otherwise you will find you will not have the privilege of showing your flowers and plants to the customers whose trade you should encourage in as many ways

For Beginners

□ □ □ □

So many are entering the retail florists' business just now, at a time when capable management is more than ever necessary, that the sage advice of one who has had forty years of practical experience and is now head of a highly successful business, at Calgary, Alberta, is most timely. Careful study of the points considered in this paper will give such beginners an excellent start on the road to success.

as it is possible for you to do so.

The customer to whom you sell is the person who finances your business. You absolutely cannot be successful as a retail florist unless you have buyers of your flowers and plants, and these customers are the persons who advertise and build up your trade for you. Therefore, always know that the flowers and plants which you sell them are of the best quality and will prove in every way up to their expectations. Do not deceive your customers, for it is desirable that you should have their continued patronage.

Cultivate Confidence.

There is no line of business where the customers depend so much on the integrity of the person from whom they buy as the retail florists'. When someone wishes to send a present of flowers to a friend, or a floral tribute as an expression of sympathy to relatives of a deceased acquaintance, the order is often telephoned or telegraphed, or the person ordering comes to the store and trusts absolutely to the advice given by the salesperson as to what flowers would be most desirable. The customer pays often without ever seeing the flowers with which the order is filled. If such an order is not properly filled or if for any reason the customer loses confidence in the integrity of the management and service, it will be impossible to build up a permanent and successful business. I am strongly of the opinion that this is the cause of more failures to carry on a successful retail florists' business than any other. Therefore, the successful manager of a retail flower store should always be most watchful to see that all customers are dealt with honestly and that any grievances of customers which may occur for any cause whatever are at once adjusted to their satisfaction, as well as to that of the person to whom the buyer may have sent the flowers or plants. I am firmly convinced that the replacing of flowers or plants for a dissatisfied customer so that he or she is perfectly satisfied, even though there is doubt about the complaint being justified, is the best advertising a retail florist can get.

Service Counts.

Be prompt with deliveries. It is better not to book an order for delivery at a certain time, even to the extent of losing the sale, than to be unable to fill the order at the time specified. A nice, neat and clean delivery, at the hands of an agreeable person, is a great help and encouragement to customers.

It is advisable to do a reasonable amount of newspaper advertising, for the purpose of keeping the name of your business prominently before the public. Many orders for flowers are given by customers at a time of sudden bereavement and the retail florist whose name is always in the public mind is likely to be the one who receives the order, as his name comes first to the buyer's mind when wanting flowers. However, it is well never to forget that the best advertising the retail florist can have is satisfied customers who are always telling their friends where they can buy the freshest flowers of the best quality and where pleasant, prompt service is always given.

Take particular care to have all the persons associated with your business know that they must be honest to the business by selling the flowers and plants at a price which will maintain good salaries for themselves and make the business pay a profit, and that every customer must receive honest and careful service; and that any grievance which a customer may have must be reported promptly to the manager, so that the good will of all customers may be retained.

Use Foresight.

Almost any person can conduct a business so as to make a profit on the stock which is sold, but to be the most successful requires a wise, careful, thoughtful person who will have the foresight to see prospective losses before they occur and by prompt, attentive action keep the losses from happening. It is often the neglect to exercise this foresight and thereby prevent losses from occurring that keeps so many retail florists from attaining the success which they should. The old proverb, "Do not wait until the horse is stolen before you lock the stable door," explains fully the thought which I wish to convey in this respect.

Always be alert for new ideas. These come to one's mind seldom without one's having seen or heard of them somewhere else. It is money well invested for the manager of a florist's business to travel and to meet at least once each year with other florists in convention, where the common interests of the business can be discussed in a friendly business manner. The wide-awake manager will never miss an opportunity to visit the stores and greenhouses of other florists and thereby gather new ideas for the more successful carrying on of the business. But I would advise strongly against experimenting too much in new ideas, especially in the growing of plants and flowers, until you have proved that the new is better than the old.

The older and more experienced a florist is in the business, the more fully he should realize that the business must not be allowed to get in a rut, but must always be one of continued improvements and show a desire for something which is a little nicer in flowers and decorative art than has heretofore been used.

FOR THE HOLIDAY

CHRISTMAS PLANTS.

Increasing Demand.

Some years ago, when carnations wholesaled at from 8 to 10 cents each at Christmas time, florists were able to sell these at $3 per dozen and great quantities were sold, but now that growers demand 25 cents and more for these flowers, which necessitates their being sold at $6 per dozen and upwards, the flower-buying public seems to think the price excessive and if they have to expend such a sum for a gift of flowers they would rather have a plant, whether it be a flowering plant or any kind of foliage plant. Even at high prices, cut flowers are exceedingly scarce in the month of December, owing to the difficulties of production, and florists have for some years grown more and more plants, especially flowering plants. Our experience has shown that even in times of great financial stress, even during the war, well grown plants have always had a ready sale at Christmas time. The demand is growing from year to year. The store man requires a variety of plants for his Christmas business, but he must be careful in his selection. Three or four ardisias will suffice in one store, but the same man can sell 200 or 300 solanums. A dozen Pandanus Veitchii in a store should not appear to be too many, but some of these may be left on hand while the same florist will sell a hundred Boston ferns. It is well, however, to have a variety to choose from.

Cyclamen in Front.

I should place the cyclamen in the front rank as a Christmas plant. In the first place, it has beautiful foliage; the flowers coming up from the crown are well placed; the colors are desirable at the season, and the whole plant is compact and sturdy looking. It takes continuous and skillful attention for at least fifteen months to produce this plant. Neglect for a few days will often spoil it, and for this reason we often have unsalable plants left on our hands. In the summer months it is one continuous fight against thrips, the mite and green fly, and if you have Florida fern caterpillars on the place and they get at the cyclamens they will strip the center foliage in one night. Spraying once a week with nicotine preparations will keep these enemies in check. But it is a real pleasure to have fine cyclamens for Christmas. They sell well, carry well, keep well; and your customer is well pleased.

For Canadians Only.

Azaleas are now procurable again in Canada. Good plants are invoiced in Belgium at 50 cents each and upwards, delivery charges are high, and many hazards are taken by the importer. But if the plants arrive in good order and in good time to allow gentle forcing, a good profit can be made. The variety Madame Petrick is the best for the holidays. Vervæneana is also a good one, but needs more time to flower. The large plants meet the demand for a high-priced gift, but the popular price is around $10. Need I dwell on the fact that the azalea, while standing hard forcing, needs a few days in a cool house before selling? Much dissatisfaction is caused by the disposing of these plants in an unfinished state.

Begonias Offer Variety.

The begonia family will furnish the grower with a good many ups and downs. Plants of the Prima Donna type are easily grown, but they are so much in evidence all summer that they do not sell well at Christmas. Chatelaine and

CANADIANS IN SESSION

CANADIANS CONVENE.

Dominion Florists at Peterboro.

The annual convention of the Canadian Florists' and Gardeners' Association, held at Peterboro, Ont., August 8 to 10, proved as successful as any it had held under its old name of Canadian Horticultural Association, discarded last year. An attendance of 150 gathered at the Armouries for the opening session. The convention opened Monday, August 8, at 2 p. m., with an address of welcome by Mayor A. McIntyre. C. J. Hay, of Brockville, appropriately replied to the mayor's welcome. Dr. J. E. Middleton, the president of the Peterboro Horticultural Association, then extended greetings to the assembled Canadians in behalf of his association.

Then followed the address of President W. E. Groves, of Hamilton, in which he touched upon the past happenings and told about some things which should happen in the future. His address will be found on another page of this issue. Discussion of the address was led by Alex. Simpson, as F. D. Clark was prevented by illness from attending the meeting.

Then followed the various reports. Herbert J. Eddy, of Montreal, the secretary and treasurer, detailed the financial status and the membership figures for the last year.

Committee Reports.

The report of the educational committee was made by W. W. Gammage, of London, Ont. There is a vast field of opportunity for this work. One of the suggestions made that is receiving attention is that an award be created. This will be a medal, to be granted from time to time to men who have done much for the welfare and development of the industry in Canada.

H. J. Moore, of Toronto, in his report of the work of the registration committee, showed how plant registration has reached a point where really practical work is being done.

The report of a new committee, the legislative committee, was presented by E. B. Hamilton, of London. In this he said:

"At Hamilton last year you approved of your president's suggestion that this association should be incorporated. We find that all that is required to complete our efforts and make our incorporation an accomplished fact is the granting of power to your committee, or its chairman, to sanction changes in our constitution and by-laws that the secretary of state may require according to law.

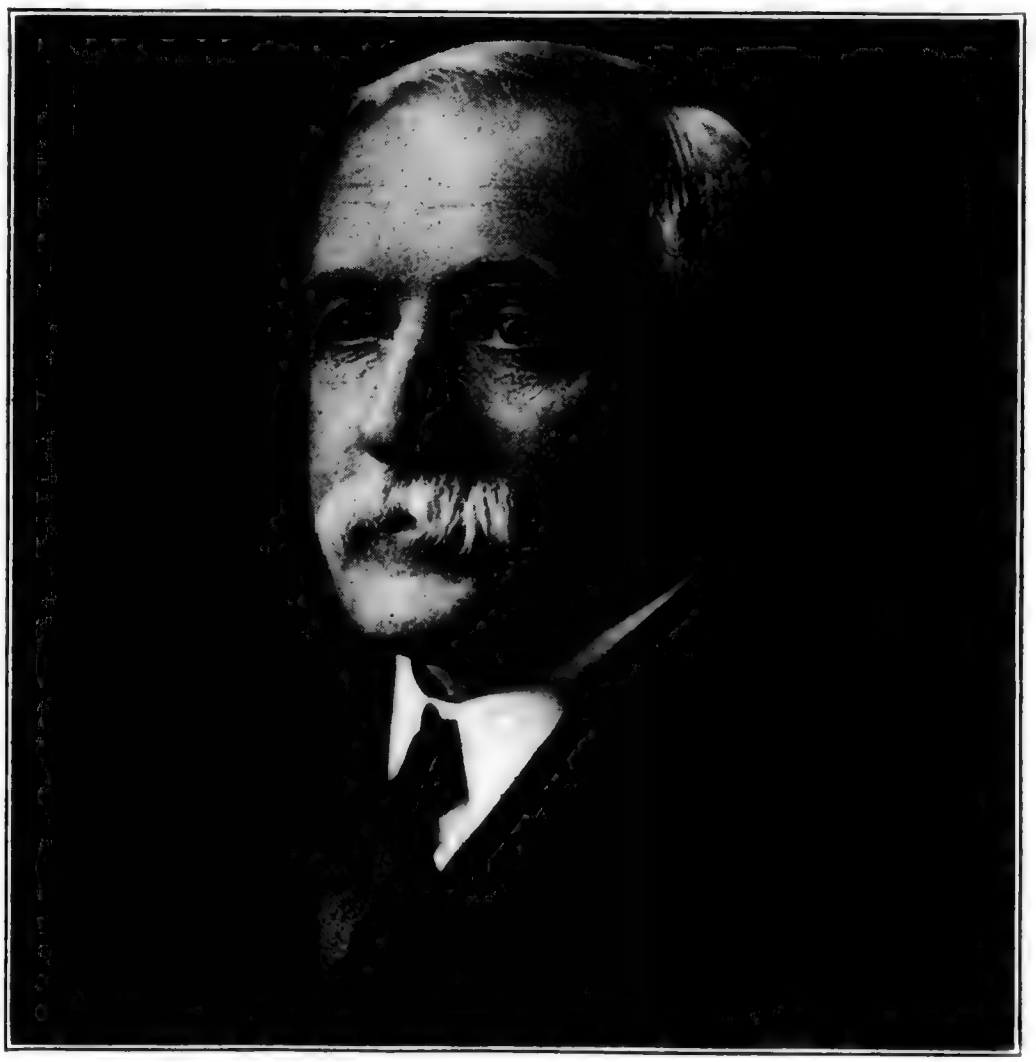
"You have all heard of bill No. 184, introduced by Mr. Bragg in the legislative assembly of the province of Ontario in 1920, cited as 'The Ontario Nursery Control Act, 1920,' which received its first reading April 26, 1920, and since that date has been in the hands of the Department of Agriculture to be redrafted, where it is still, and, in our judgment, should remain for all time to come even in its present redrafted form.

"This bill resembles more a nursery combine than a control bill. For instance, it provides that all persons dealing in fruit, shade or ornamental trees, vines, shrubs, plants, bulbs or roots, must operate under an Ontario license of $10 per year, as well as file with the minister of agriculture an approved bond for $1,000, renewable annually for the period required by the classification of stock sold, unless they act as agents for an individual nursery or jobbing firm. In such cases the firm can furnish them with a certificate to operate under. For example, Mr. Jobbing Gardener and Florist, should your customer require a rosebush, boxwood, perennials or bulbs, the act says these come under the classification calling for a 2-year guarantee bond and a license, in all an outlay of $40 before you are able to make the sale, provided you handle it as an individual dealer.

"Your committee feels that this bill even in its redrafted form would prove a great hardship to hundreds of florists and thousands of jobbing gardeners should it become law and suggests that this association petition the Ontario legislature to exempt all ornamental nursery stock from coming under the act, having it apply only to fruit nursery stock."

E. J. Hayward, of Montreal, the chairman of the press and publicity committee, told of the year's work of that body.

Tariff and Taxes.



Tariff and taxes were discussed in the report of the tariff committee, of which Major John Connon was chairman. Intelligent and definite rulings on the sales tax are desired. The sales tax is so complicated a matter even now that some of the collectors are insisting on collection of the retail tax, others are asking for payment of a tax on all plants sold during the last bedding season, while in many places the tax was never remitted nor collected, even while the tax was supposed to be in operation.

The first session ended with an address by E. J. Hayward, of Montreal; the subject was "Culture of Commercial Ferns."

Instructive Addresses.

The second session was mainly a working session and was held Monday evening at 8 p. m. Important work on several revisions of the constitution was done.

An interesting address was given by H. J. Moore, of Toronto, the subject of which was "Plant Breeding." Prof. J. W. Crow, of the Ontario Agricultural College, who was to speak on "What Science Can Do for the Florist," telegraphed that bronchial trouble detained him and his address was held for a later session.

The Tuesday morning session, at 9:30 o'clock, was taken up by three addresses of great interest and practical value to the members. The subject, "Landscape Gardening," was discussed by J. P. McRoss, of Toronto. W. C. Hall interestingly presented the subjects "Christmas Plants." An instructive talk was given by H. G. Crawford in place of his chief, A. Gibson, the Dominion entomologist, of Ottawa, who was in Nova Scotia and not able to attend the meeting.

At 1 p. m. Tuesday the convention visitors sought pleasure. A boat was taken, leading over the famous Lift lock and down the Otonabee river to Rice lake. The annual banquet was held Tuesday evening at the Empress hotel and was well attended and thoroughly enjoyed, as usual.

The retailers were especially interested in the session of Wednesday morning. A. T. Terrill, of Calgary, gave an exceedingly able paper on the important details of properly managing a retail store. It appears in full on another page of this issue. Another talk of interest to the retailers and from which they were able to glean some new and usable ideas was that of S. A. Frost, of Toronto, on "Art in Floral Arrangements."

The final resolutions on the suggestions contained in the president's address were passed and as the meeting place for the convention next year Montreal was chosen.

Trade Exhibitors.

A number of exhibits were staged by supply houses and plantsmen of the United States and Canada, including the following:

Wertheimer Bros., New York.
Dale Estate, Brampton, Ont.
W. A. Manda, South Orange, N. J.
Miller & Son, Toronto, Ont.

GROVES' GOSPEL

PRESIDENT GROVES' ADDRESS.

Discusses Things To Be Done.

In the opening paragraphs of his able address before the twenty-fourth annual convention of the Canadian Florists' and Gardeners' Association, held at Peterboro, Ont., August 8 to 10, President W. E. Groves, of Hamilton, Ont., told of the work of the various committees and commended them for their enthusiasm and accomplishments. After mentioning the deaths of Charles Scrim and William Hunt, prominent in Canadian trade circles, Mr. Groves discussed some ways of advancing the trade's interests in the Dominion. In this connection he said:

"Just a few words as to the outlook. It is impossible to put in a year in an important office without realizing that there are still numberless opportunities for service, one or two of which I should like to indicate.

"From observation and a by no means limited correspondence, the conclusion is forced upon me that the time is ripe as never before for an increased membership campaign. A combination of circumstances has made it possible for much advisory help to be given to a number of fellow florists in all parts of the country. These and many others are now looking this way for a lead. Many are never able to attend a convention, but they are doing their full share in the building up of the industry and, if I read the signs aright, the harvest is there for the gathering. It is, of course, essential to show that the organization is broad, that the gospel it is trying to spread is 'each for all and all for each,' and to prove the truth of this in every one of its ramifications. Whether a membership committee with a real live wire at its head would be a good move, or whether your new president could control such an effort as I suggest, is a matter of detail, but I insist on the importance of a forward movement in this direction. We want to think big, in terms of not less than double our present roll, and then we want to make our effort measure up to our thinking.

The S. A. F. and the F. T. D.

"The kindred Society of American Florists is becoming so linked up with Canada and Canadian florists that some official linking up with each other might bear serious consideration. I find that there are about thirty-five annual members of the S. A. F. in Canada, fifty per cent of these being members of this society. There are sixteen Canadian life members, all of these, with one exception, being members of the C. F. G. A. We are fortunate in having as members with us about thirty friends from across the border, probably all of them being members of the larger organization. These figures prove that there is already a real fellowship of service, and it surely is not far to some method of affiliation or representation that would make the coöperation even more useful, without endangering in the smallest degree the present pleasant relationship.

"The same thing might be said with increased emphasis of the F. T. D. Association. The present official connection is, to say the least of it, anything but satisfactory. It is well known to those who have given the matter any attention that the interpretations of the aims and methods of this great enterprise, as well as its operation in some districts of Canada, are not what they should be, and under the present arrangements the ordinary Canadian F. T. D. member has no chance in the world of making himself felt in any effort to alter these unsatisfactory conditions. I readily acknowledge that we are honored in some of the Canadian officials, but for future growth we need more than anything else a much stronger lead than at present. There are nearly eighty members in Canada, over fifty per cent of whom are members of this association, and I seriously suggest that some method might easily be found whereby we could have something to say about the appointment of the representatives on this side of the border. I will go further and say that I think this national association deserves the right to have for itself at least one official place on the roster of those who are supposed to lead. These suggestions may be debatable, but I defy contradiction when I say that the F. T. D. movement, the fundamental principles of which touch the highest point of business ethics, will never come into its own in this great Dominion until all of us, those who are supposed to lead as well as those who follow, catch a clearer vision of the possibilities and spread ourselves for the common good. It is a source of much satisfaction to know that in October next the great association, for the first time in its history, comes to Canada for its convention. We place ourselves on record as rejoicing in the fact and I suggest the appointment of a delegation to represent this association at the convention, and to carry a greeting on our behalf.

Coöperation Necessary.

"It will be noted that this brief résumé of the past happenings and the future prospects emphasizes the growing need for united effort. The broad principles on which the C. F. G. A. and the other societies named stand are mutual respect and mutual service. We might, perhaps, go further and make high business ethics one of the rock-bottom principles. 'To realize that I am a business man and ambitious to succeed, but that I am an ethical man and wish no success that is not founded on the highest justice and morality. To use my best endeavors to elevate the standards of the vocation in which I am engaged.' These are just two clauses from a code of ethics of one kindred organization of which I know. I do not labor the point, as I wish in a concluding word to make a frank appeal for fuller recognition of the great principle of coöperation, which even yet we do not properly appreciate.

"There is no need to epitomize the directions in which the principle might be applied, but I plead for the coöperative spirit. In common with other great industries, we are passing through a period which should be a challenge to every worth-while business man. Much more than some of the country's industries, we are building for a glorious future, or letting it slip away, by our attitude today and I insist that from no higher viewpoint than this we need to learn, and preach, and practice the gospel of the other fellow. Listen to words that quite recently have fallen from the lips of the President of that great republic to the south of us: 'The business skies are clearing, but if we long for speedy sunshine, we must make up our minds to push the clouds away for ourselves. All must coöperate.'

"And, if in the march of time this association wins for itself and maintains a worthy place in the commercial life of this continent, it will only be because all along the line it has stood for equity and justice, for fellowship in service and community of interest, because in its onward march it stretched out to gather in the weak with the strong, building up as it traveled on the simple old-time faith, 'Whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them.'"

KANSAS CONVENTION

KANSAS FLORISTS MEET.

Officers Elected.

At the second annual convention of the Kansas State Florists' Association, held at Topeka, Thursday and Friday, August 4 and 5, the following officers were elected to serve for the ensuing year: President, W. H. Culp, of Wichita; vice-presidents, James Hayes, of Topeka, and Harry Smith, of Hutchinson; secretary and treasurer, Loyd C. Bunch, of Fredonia, reëlected, and director, W. G. Coupland, of Independence. Harrie S. Mueller, of Wichita, was recommended as the state vice-president of the S. A. F.

Fredonia was selected as the meeting place for the 1922 convention.

It was a most successful convention in every respect. The papers read were interesting and helpful, the trade displays were many, the business transacted was of the kind that would seem helpful to the trade and the attendance was good. The entertainment features, too, did credit to the Topeka florists who were responsible for them.

The convention opened at 9 o'clock Thursday morning, at the building of the Elks' Club, with the registration of the members present. Then followed a day of trips to the various greenhouses, florists' stores, and other places of interest to the visitors. And during the times when the members were not rushing around the town, they were busily engaged at the various exhibits of the trade. There were many of these displays and they were all well arranged and attractive, and each firm represented reported a good business as the result of these displays.

The Banquet.

All this took up the day until about 6 o'clock, when the dinner started. The banquet, which was given by the Topeka Florists' Club, was most elaborate. There were about 175 present at this gathering. It was, indeed, a jolly crowd that assembled. Several jokes were played on some of the members present. The founders of the association were there and were given a rousing cheer of welcome. The ones hailed as the founders are Charles P. Mueller and Harrie S. Mueller, of Wichita. A beautiful shower bouquet of the choicest vegetables was presented from the ladies of the Topeka club to J. A. Lambert, of the Ove Gnatt Co. Music was rendered by local talent, and also by Alfred Humfeld, of Clay Center, Kan., who sang several selections which were greatly appreciated.

Several short talks were given by the directors of the association, who are well known in the trade. These talks were full of helpful ideas and suggestions along the various phases of the florists' business. They were delivered by Ralph W. Ward, Mrs. M. E. Endress, Loyd C. Bunch, Charles P. Mueller, C. Humfeld and L. E. Flindt.

President's Address.

The president, C. E. Hubbard, of Topeka, read his address at the banquet. The trend of his talk can best be described by one of the sentences from his talk, "Looking forward is our subject all-important." He said in this connection:

"We are looking to see this year surpass last and the next to push to the front until we have doubled our business; so, forward shall be the word for an increasing trade. Kansas has commenced in a horticultural way and, with an ever-increasing population, floriculturally it is sure to grow better and stronger. We are one year old today. We have more than doubled our membership this year."

Referring to novelties in roses, he expressed himself enthusiastically regarding four of them, as follows:

"We shall shortly have the new rose Crusader, a red rose, with the best characteristics of any red rose to date; it does not turn purple as soon as the other varieties; it is stronger-stemmed and free-flowering.

"White Ophelia is a duplicate of its parent, one of the finest roses for the retail greenhouse man, if it is allowed to perfect itself on the bushes. No rose is handsomer than Ophelia. White Ophelia will meet our expectations.

"Yellow Ophelia is another surprise to lovers of yellow roses and holds its place, long to be remembered, as the handsomest yellow rose.

"But of all the handsome roses you have ever seen, and with the many surprises that have come to your eyes, you have yet to be overcome in the near future, when Los Angeles bursts into your presence. Los Angeles is a pure white rose which possesses more good qualities than any of us can comprehend. The bud is three inches long and as large as a teacup before it commences to open."

He advocated the celebration of Armistice day as a flower day, stating:

"There is little doubt in my mind that Armistice day can, in the near future, be made one of the prosperous days for the florist. I believe that the general florists' trade will take hold of this opportunity to establish another flower day on a parity with Mothers' day, which we all have been taught to look forward to by actual experience.

"You all know, without having it explained to you, that Thanksgiving, Christmas, St. Valentine's day, Easter, Mothers' day and Memorial day mean florists' success in business. When we have added Armistice day to those already mentioned, and you are selling chrysanthemums on the same basis on which you have sold carnations, and, in fact, all classes of flowers that you have been able to produce, you have charged a questionable crop into one of solid merit.''

The Business Meeting.

Friday morning started with a business meeting, at which the officers were elected, the meeting place for next year chosen and the various committee reports read. Loyd C. Bunch presented the report of the secretary and treasurer. Mr. Bunch was present all through the meetings, staying until the end, although his range was suffering severe losses from hail at the very time of the meeting.

There was a discussion over making Armistice day a flower day. The voting on this subject stood 135 for making it a flower day and four against the idea.

Telegrams and letters from the absent members were read. There were also telegrams and letters from the florists of Oklahoma, congratulating the year-old club of Kansas. An interesting letter from J. F. Ammann was read.

Between the morning business meeting and the papers and talks scheduled for the afternoon, there was a pleasant luncheon, at which the members were grouped at the various tables and carried on a round table discussion.

Papers and Talks.

The talks of the afternoon proved most interesting and instructive. Harrie S. Mueller, of Wichita, presented a ''Message from the National Society.'' Several ideas that the members can use and adopt in their daily business methods were brought out by Aaron Smith, of Fort Worth, Tex., in his talk on ''Creating Business.'' The same was true of the talk of James Hayes, of Topeka, who told of ''Retail Methods.'' Charles P. Mueller, of Wichita, scattered helpful hints in his valuable paper on ''Flower Arrangements.'' L. E. Flindt, of Arkansas City, spoke cheerfully and promisingly about the subject, ''Can We Supply the Demand for Mothers' Day?'' W. H. Culp, of Wichita, in his subject ''Advertising,'' had a topic which is of intense interest to all florists at the present time. Ralph M. Ward, of Lawrence, told of several flowers that can be used and of several ways to increase the sales of ''Flowers for the Summer Months.''

At 5 o'clock the members present made a trip to Gage park, where a picnic and a general jollification was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone there. Thus the second successful annual convention of the Kansas State Florists' Association ended.

The Trade Exhibits.

There was an unusually large number of trade exhibits shown in the parlors of the Elks' club. From all reports, it was profitable to those exhibiting, too. Those with space were as follows:

Ove Gnatt Co., Laporte, Ind.
C. C. Pollworth Co., Milwaukee.
A. L. Randall Co., Chicago.
Topeka Paper Co., Topeka, Kan.
Topeka Steam Boiler Works, Topeka, Kan.
W. W. Barnard Co., Chicago.
Pittsburg Clay Products Co., Pittsburg, Kan.

CHRISTMAS PLANTS.

its sports are pretty, but it pays to sell them in the fall. Owing to its compact and dense habit, it easily damps in the center, especially if you try for a good-sized plant for the holiday.

Begonia incarnata is a beautiful thing, but, as it needs cool growing, it will hardly be fit for Christmas.

But we have Gloire de Lorraine and its many relations. The original is rather a weak grower and is not desirable as a holiday plant, but Glory of Cincinnati and Melior are both good growers and hold their flowers. The variety Mrs. J. A. Peterson is simply grand when well done; its bronze foliage and highly colored flowers are extremely attractive. While this type requires heat during the summer—and they got it this summer—they must never see more than 50 degrees during the month of December. If these varieties are kept cool for at least a month before Christmas, they will not drop their flowers readily.

Poinsettia Has the Color.

The poinsettia gives us the real Christmas red so much sought after. The pink variety lasts better in the home than the red, but buyers pass it by, thinking that it looks sickly. It will sell more readily if displayed in the store away from colored plants. We are cutting down on the quantity of red poinsettias in large sizes, as we find that they take a good deal of room if they are to be grown to perfection, but small plants in 2½-inch and 3-inch pots are invaluable for making up. The growing of these plants is not such an easy matter as the store man tells the grower when the former is buying his Christmas supply. The store man says they grow like weeds, and so they do during the warm weather, but when the weather gets cool, then trouble begins. Happy is the grower who can maintain an even temperature, who uses water sparingly and who can deliver the plants with a full set of leaves. The poinsettia is difficult to produce and does not satisfy the customer well. I think that we ought to grow it and use it more as a cut flower.

Some Others.

Primula sinensis is not grown as much as formerly, but it is valuable to those who sell direct from the greenhouse. It is too brittle to be satisfactory as a store plant.

Primula obconica is a profitable plant to grow, but I do not like to sell it to customers on account of its poisonous nature.

My choice of ferns for Christmas would be dwarf Boston, Scottii, and Cyrtomium Rochfordianum.

The Jerusalem cherry has been greatly improved of late years and the variety Cleveland is probably the best. The yellow sort, Golden Queen, is also nice. It is especially useful to make up. I have frequently noticed that quality is sacrificed for quantity, but quality will always sell.

With the addition of a few, and sometimes a very few, dracænas, crotons, etc., not forgetting Erica melanthera, a florist will have, in the above-named plants, a good stock of pot plants.

Hampers and baskets of growing plants have become a great attraction to buyers. As numbers of small and imperfect plants can be used in filling these receptacles, they are profitable. See that every basket has a liner of some sort. One can sell almost all the smaller sizes that can be made up, but go easy on the large ones this year.

I have not mentioned pot-grown French or Dutch bulbs, as I never could make anything out of them for Christmas.

FLORIST AS ARTIST

ARRANGEMENTS OF FLOWERS.

Birth Baskets.

As all things have their beginning, I think it would be well to start in my remarks on flowers and their arrangement with the time when a youngster comes into this world. We usually have orders for flowers to be sent to the mother, and there are many ways of arranging them. The principal thing to keep in mind is to have something bright and dainty and cheerful. Some customers select the little cradle, sometimes putting in a kewpie doll; others select a large handle basket, with a small basket tied to the handle with a dainty tie and containing a few small flowers. In filling any size of basket, the best way is to fill the receptacle with fine cut ferns or straw; this will hold the flowers in place in any position which you may desire and allow each flower to show for itself and not be jammed up and stiff looking. Use plenty of green, such as asparagus, ferns, etc., with the flowers. In making up baskets, I usually use flowers with different lengths of stems, as they will show to much better advantage than if the flowers are all at one height.

Boxes and Corsages.

As we follow the child in its growth, the next period is the years at high school or college. The young men buy flowers for their girls and the girls buy flowers for themselves. These flowers are either put up in the form of loose boxes of flowers, or as corsages. The former need no elaboration, as each florist has his own method of packing loose boxes, and all are good if the flowers show off to good advantage when the box is first opened. Corsage bouquets may be either the round colonial bouquet, or they may be the more common form of flat corsage. There are also wrist bouquets, but I consider them as a fad and will not take any time discussing them. In making a corsage, the flowers should first be wired so that each flower may be put in place and stay there. Were they not wired, the flowers would be jammed together and would not look well. Use plenty of green, such as Mexican ivy, maidenhair fern or smilax, and finish off with a bow of narrow corsage ribbon or a cord, as is ordered. It is a good idea to use a back, or shield, so that the dress of the wearer will be protected from stain. These are inexpensive, and the absence of one might mean the loss of sales in the future.

Wedding Flowers.

The next period in the life of our flower buyer is when wedding flowers are wanted. There are several styles of wedding bouquets, such as the arm bouquet, the shower bouquet and the colonial bouquet. In our part of the state, the arm bouquet is most generally used. Wire the flowers, and in the case of roses take off the thorns; then put the flowers together, using plenty of green. If a shower bouquet is desired, make up the bouquet as above, and then tie the shower ribbon in the middle of the ribbon and make a series of loops of ribbon radiating in different directions. Another way is to cut the shower ribbons in short lengths and tie each individual ribbon to the flowers of the bouquet. A bride's bouquet made up in this manner with white roses and green, with the individual showers of lilies of the valley and adiantum, makes the nicest style of bouquet. Bride's bouquets are usually made of white roses or valley. Sweet peas may be used for the showers, although they are a little heavy for such use. The price of a bride's bouquet depends upon the kind of flowers used and the style of bouquet ordered. Bridesmaids' bouquets may be either arm, shower or colonial, or they may be baskets of assorted flowers, made loose and decorated with chiffon. The colors and materials used depend upon the wishes of the bride, for usually the bridesmaids' flowers are selected to carry out some particular color scheme.

Most difficult of all the work a retail florist has to do, if it is to be done right, and that in which instruction is the least easily obtained, the arrangement of flowers in the many forms called for distinguishes the artist from the mere vender of flowers. The more proficient each retailer becomes in this phase of his business, the higher becomes the standard all may strive for.

The table decorations vary with the size and shape of the tables. The principal thing to keep in mind is that the flowers are to grace the table and should not be banked up high, so that one guest cannot see another across the table. The larger the table the more elaborate the decorations may be, but, in general, the simpler the decoration the more effective it will be. If a buffet luncheon is to be served, the flowers may be banked much higher, and more elaborate things may be used. These same principles will hold good for table decorations for any purpose.

Using Customers' Ideas.

In any decoration, the first thing to do is to get from your customer an expression of ideas concerning the work. In nearly every case these will have to be elaborated on, and some details changed. Never push your own ideas, no matter how good they seem to you, as opposed to the wishes of your customer. By doing this, the florist will avoid monotonous work, and he will be surprised at the confidence of the customer in his ability to do original and satisfactory decorations. One of my old customers went into a larger city to visit. While she was there she had occasion to have a table decoration made; so she went to a florist's shop to place her order. The people there told her that they could not do the decoration the way she wanted it because it was not right and that it would look much better another way, wanting to push their own ideas. My customer left that shop in a much provoked frame of mind and went to another shop, where she placed an order for the decoration after she had been assured that her ideas would be faithfully followed out. I have done dozens of decorations for this customer, all of them original ideas and successful, simply by getting her ideas and following them as carefully as I could, even though they did seem peculiar at times. I believe that part of my success in Wichita has been through doing such things as this.

Funeral Work.

The last thing in our flower buyer's career is funeral work. And this is an important item, in that at least half of the volume of work done is for funerals. Probably seventy-five per cent of the quantity (not value) of funeral work is composed of sprays. In making sprays, the main thing is to place each flower where it will show to the best advantage. Each florist has a different way of making up his sprays; so I will tell you of the one I use. I have small spools of No. 26 wire; using a match stick as a backbone and the No. 26 wire, each flower and piece of green is bound to the match stick and to each other. When the spray has reached the desired size, the wire can be broken off and the loose end fastened. The spray is finished off with a tie, or if a tie is not ordered, a few pieces of fern are used to cover the coarse ends of the stems. By using a continuous wire, no time is lost in fastening several short lengths, which are used by some florists, and the spray will not fall apart, even if it is roughly handled. In the spray is only a small one, it is not necessary to wire each individual flower, but if the spray is a large one, it is best to wire the flowers so that they will stand up and make a good showing.

Double sprays used to be a hard task to make, but with the simpler methods used now they are quite easy, and really make the most artistic form of large spray. We use a small piece of board (such as cut flower boxes are made of), about four inches wide and as long as is needed, on which to fasten, butt to butt, two single sprays. About two inches of moss is bound to the board and flowers, stemmed long as for a design, are stuck in the moss to fill up the space between the two sprays. This is finished off with a nice chiffon bow, with long ends. Double sprays may be made up for $10 and up as far as the customer wants to go. You can make a better showing for the price in this way than you can in any other form of funeral work.

Paper on "Flowers and Their Arrangement," by Chas. P. Mueller, of Wichita, Kan., presented at the meeting of the Kansas State Florists' Association at Topeka August 5.

This same principle may be used in making a spray on an easel. First fasten the board to the easel, then stick the flowels into the moss and build up as elaborate an arrangement as is desired. A double spray on an easel is not highly successful.

Often a customer wants some peculiarly shaped design; it may be a lodge emblem, or something of that kind. Being away from a large wire goods manufacturer, it is sometimes necessary to use a little ingenuity in order to satisfy the customer. I have had good success in using a wire screen, either ½-inch or ¾-inch mesh, and forming it up into the desired shape.

We have frequent calls for a casket panel. This panel varies all the way from two to three feet long and is about nine inches wide. If a complete cover is desired, we use two panels. We first make the panel of the mesh mentioned above and have it filled rather full with sphagnum. Then a layer of fern leaves is put on to cover the moss, and small sprays of Sprengeri or smilax are pinned on to the edges of the panel in such a way as to droop over the sides of the casket when the panel is in place. Next, flowers are fastened so that they will extend over the sides, using different lengths of stem, so as to avoid a straight row of flowers. The center of the panel itself can be decorated in any way one wishes, using some lettering if desired. The advantage of this over a blanket is that it does not take nearly so long to make up, can be done for less cost, answers the same purpose and the customer is every bit as well satisfied.

Maintain Outline.

In making up set pieces, or designs, the principal thing to remember is to get the outline and, after having it, keep it. It is really sad to see how many people have tried to make a funeral piece and failed, simply because they lost the outline of the piece and made it up loosely when a compact treatment was necessary. I have seen square and compasses made up in such a manner that it was impossible to tell what it was, because it was not properly outlined. This design is one of the hardest to make, just because of the intricacy of its outline. If a loose effect is desired, put the design on a base, which may then be treated loosely. The broken wheel is another design whose outline is frequently lost. Its outline can be preserved by making the rim and spokes of different-colored flowers. Anchors and pillows are other designs which are difficult to make properly. The emblems of many societies cannot be made of flowers, unless they are made on a large scale.

Not long ago I had occasion to make up an odd design. Four girls who were good friends called themselves the Four-leaved Clover. One of them died and the other three wanted a four-leaved clover, with one leaf gone, made of flowers. Of course, I had no frame which could be used; so I made a panel of the mesh wire, about twenty inches square, and in the center I formed out of white chenille the four-leaved clover with one leaf broken off. I filled in the background, outside of the chenille, with ivy leaves and inside the chenille with white carnations. Then around the edge of the panel I put in a light, artistic framework of flowers. This piece was most successful and attracted a good deal of attention, and I do not recall ever having made up a piece that was as thoroughly satisfactory to the customer as this one was.

I think in making up funeral work a florist has to use more brains than in any other part of his work in order to satisfy his customers and make money. In making designs a different class of flowers is used than is used for making sprays or than is used in assorted boxes of flowers. Small, short-stemmed flowers, split carnations, etc., are the kind that are generally used. If there is a steady demand for funeral work, it pays to grow flowers for just this class of work, as, for instance, short carnations and asters. The flowers are obtained by the usual cultural means and the buds are not taken off, thus getting a maximum number of flowers to a plant and insuring a good supply of design flowers which can be used as a background, getting the variety of effect by using relatively few other flowers as a trim.

Wreaths are more used than any other one form of funeral piece and are apt to be monotonous if there are several ordered for the same funeral. They can be varied in style more, probably, than any other design. They may be made solid of magnolia leaves, galax leaves, prepared or natural oak leaves, or ivy leaves, and may be made solid of carnations or any other small flower. Wreaths made thus are usually trimmed with a nice ribbon bow, or with a cluster of some other flower on one side. In making any design it is necessary to visualize the effect desired and then work to that end. Good designers, like cooks, are born, not made.

Baskets More Common.

We are using a good many baskets of flowers for funerals now instead of sprays or designs. When many flowers are ordered for the funeral of a prominent person and I have extra fine flowers that I can use, I make arrangements with the family, or the undertaker if the funeral is to be held from the undertaking parlors, to use baskets. We loan the baskets and after the funeral they are returned to us. This permits a greater variety and the baskets can be made up quickly. As many times the flowers are sent to a hospital after the funeral, the baskets would be of no use to either the family or the hospital and they are of use to us. So we make a small rental charge for the baskets and still have the basket to use again. I think that this is a good custom for florists to initiate. I have made as many as thirty-five or fifty baskets of flowers in different parts of the room at one funeral.

We have also used this same scheme at store openings and bank openings, or at large receptions. At the opening of a large building recently I went directly to the owner of the building and told him that I had a great many orders for the affair and made arrangements so that I could put all of my orders in baskets, with the understanding that the baskets were all to be returned to me after the opening. I think we used something like fifty baskets for this occasion, and I am sure that the good will and publicity that I got out of this arrangement, together with the willingness shown to give an added service not demanded, was worth more to me than the cost of the baskets. Once in a while, it is true, we lose a basket by lending them, but this seldom happens.

ROBERT PYLE AS HOST.

Well known as president of the Conard & Jones Co. and in horticultural circles generally, Robert Pyle, of West Grove, Pa., showed himself to be also automotively in the limelight on the evening of July 21, when he and his wife entertained the Chester County Automobile Club at its meeting at their residence, Rose Hill House. On this occasion more than 1,000 persons were present and the accompanying automobiles covered several acres of a nearby field.

Principal among the speakers was J. Horace McFarland, president of the National Civic Society, and known widely in the trade. Mr. McFarland is one of the foremost exponents of "a nation beautiful," and his speech on this particular occasion, "What about the Country Highway?" aroused much interest. Before he had finished the guests understood that there is an æsthetic as well as a mechanical side to road-building. Among the other speakers were A. P. Irwin, T. R. McDowell and Dr. W. P. Finney.

At the close of the speeches, the meeting was adjourned only to be called to order at the fine prospect of delightful refreshments.

CHICAGO'S SHOW

PAGEANT MAKES PROGRESS.

Chicago Florists Getting Publicity.

The Pageant of Progress at Chicago is attracting crowds far beyond anyone's expectations. Some three million people already have attended and there still are several days to go. The spectacular events increase daily, and from early morning until midnight each day the pier is crowded.

The effort to put the florists' industry to the front is being marked with success in many ways. The flower show is one of the most attractive sections in the exposition and is conceded as such by the authorities. Eight large flood lamps throw light from above. They make the flowers stand out so that they appeal to everyone. The "Say It with Flowers" slogan receives its share of illumination and it can be heard repeatedly on the lips of the visitors.

In the neighborhood of half a million flowers, including all the varieties now on the market, were donated by the growers, August 4, and distributed gratis to the visitors. August 6 Secretary W. A. Hansen distributed about 200,000 flowers from the flying boat Santa Maria, and the hydroplane N-9.

All of these events have been heralded by the press, but the flower crown bestowed upon the Queen of the Pageant at the coronation August 6 was described elaborately in all the Chicago newspapers. Mrs. Lillian C. Stuart, manager of Bohannon Floral Co., was the artist who made the crown of flowers. The queen wore a golden garb and the roses in the crown were chosen accordingly. It is probably the first time that Golden Ophelia has been used for a public event. Its strong yellow color was just what was wanted. This rose, which is a specialty with Wendland & Keimel Co., is being looked upon with much expectancy in the trade, as it promises to be the best yellow rose to date. The frame used with the roses for the crown was made to order by Joseph Ziska & Sons, with three points in the front.

The hourly singing of "Say It with Flowers" in the flower show section is being continued and draws big crowds.

Awards to Exhibitors.

August 3 there were two contests. One was for corsages for street purposes. First prize went to A. Lange, second to Albert Hall and third to Schiller the Florist. Honorable mention was given Henry Wittbold & Son, L. A. Tonner and Bohannon Floral Co. The second class was for bridal corsages. First prize went to Albert Hall, second to Bohannon Floral Co. and third to Schiller the Florist. Honorable mention was given Henry Wittbold & Son and A. Lange. The judges were J. T. Johnson, Miss Ruby N. Elam, Mrs. E. Austin and A. H. Schneider.

August 5, prizes were offered for original ideas in set floral arrangement. Albert Hall was awarded first prize for a pipe arrangement, in which cigarettes, cigars, matches and flowers were used. A card accompanied this entry indicating that it was a suggestion for Fathers' day. The newspapers featured this novelty, describing it or printing pictures of it. Second prize went to Schiller the Florist, for a bon voyage fruit and flower arrangement. A. Lange was given third prize for an American Beauty display. The same day vase bouquets also were shown. First prize was given to A. Lange, second to Albert Hall and third to Henry Wittbold & Son. The judges were Mrs. Mary K. Victor, Arthur A. Weatherwax and Miss Ruby N. Elam.

August 7 a highly interesting display of table arrangements attracted more than half of the 500,000 people that visited the pier. Tables were arranged for eight. First prize was awarded to Albert Hall, who set up an arrangement of novelty dolls, birds and flowers. The second prize went to Schiller the Florist, for a most artistically worked out decoration in Harding blue, designed by Miss Crosthwaite. Third prize went to Henry Wittbold & Son. Honorable mention was awarded to William J. Smyth and A. Lange. Another class called for a banquet table. The first prize was awarded to H. Wittbold & Son, second to Schiller the Florist and third to William J. Smyth. A Lange received honorable mention. The judges were George Mohn, Phil Schaid and N. L. Huttinger.

Many entries were received August 8 for the contest for the best old-fashioned colonial bouquet. A. Lange was awarded first prize. Henry Wittbold & Son offered a most artistic combination of Cecile Brunner roses and lavender statice, which was given second prize. Schiller the Florist received third prize and honorable mention was given to William J. Smyth, Redden the Florist, Clody's Flower Shop, Albert Hall and L. A. Tonner.

August 9 the first class was for golden wedding bouquets. The premiums were awarded to A. Lange, Henry Wittbold & Son and Albert Hall, in the order named. M. C. Gunterberg was given honorable mention. The same quartette contested with silver wedding bouquets, the prizes being awarded in this order: Henry Wittbold & Son, first; Albert Hall, second; M. C. Gunterberg, third, with honorable mention to A. Lange. The judges were Fred M. DuBois, H. Dieu Schiller and J. Swenson.

Secretary W. A. Hansen wants it known that a liberal contribution was received from Frank Oechslin and not heretofore acknowledged by the committee.

MOTT-LY MUSINGS

AT RIVERTON, N. J.

Saturday afternoon, being a holiday at the Henry A. Dreer, Inc., establishment, afforded excellent opportunity to pay a leisurely visit to this hive of horticultural industry, where we were fortunate to meet Vice-president George A. Strohlein and later James Clark, who, by the way, is making the subjection of the Japanese beetle, about which much ado has been made, his especial care, and the area of so-called infestation is so restricted that it would ordinarily receive but passing notice. By the irony of fate, this latest addition to the bug family is located at Locust farm and is found to prefer weeds, particularly the smartweed, to cultivated vegetation. It was noted on close inspection that the pretty, dark blue varmint—by the way, a handsome companion to the potato bug—prefers the foliage of the rose plant and does not affect the buds. It attacks some fruits, preferably cherry and apple trees, and in shrubs, the althæ. But, to repeat, the entire infested area is exceedingly limited and the damage is small. Iris plants, in which the beetle is claimed to have been imported, are in the affected area, yet could hardly be in a more healthy condition. This remark may apply to all stock planted outdoors generally. Weeds, particularly the smartweed, upon which this bug seems to thrive, are conspicuously absent. Various leading scientists are working upon a contact poison and are in a way to succeed.

On our way we passed a grand planting of Canna The President, most appropriately named, being the leader in its class. It has clean trusses of fiery red, well carried upon heavy, bright green foliage. In the distance older kinds, such as King Humbert, made a striking show. The group of seedlings contains many that will undoubtedly add to the list of desirable kinds.

A wonderful bed of salvias, some acres in extent, planted for seed, is now in full bloom, a fiery mass that attracts and rivets the attention of the passer-by by rail or automobile. And, speaking of seed saving, the old-time method of growing petunias outdoors for seed has been changed, since the indoor method has been found more advantageous both for fertilization and gathering.

Among the acres of palms grown under glass, the kentia leads, from the seedling stage to the big decorative sizes now so rarely seen. Phœnix Roebelenii is also finely grown. Cocos Weddelliana is grown for fern dishes and small ferns in large number and variety for the same purpose. In hardy ferns the new variety, Asplenium viridescens, resembling somewhat that old favorite, Todea superba, promises to be a fine acquisition. The list of new exotic plants is becoming deplorably less, owing to the embargo. Aquatics are as popular as ever, or more so, judging by the stock being grown and the space given for the fine show they are making at this time.

President J. D. Eisele, who is en route to the Pacific coast accompanied by Mrs. Eisele, expressed the hope, before sign, are stuck in the moss to fill up the space between the two sprays. This is finished off with a nice chiffon bow, with long ends. Double sprays may be made up for $10 and up as far as the customer wants to go. You can make a better showing for the price in this way than you can in any other form of funeral work.

This same principle may be used in making a spray on an easel. First fasten the board to the easel, then stick the flowels into the moss and build up as elaborate an arrangement as is desired. A double spray on an easel is not highly successful.

Often a customer wants some peculiarly shaped design; it may be a lodge emblem, or something of that kind. Being away from a large wire goods manufacturer, it is sometimes necessary to use a little ingenuity in order to satisfy the customer. I have had good success in using a wire screen, either ½ inch or ¾-inch mesh, and forming it up into the desired shape.

We have frequent calls for a casket panel. This panel varies all the way from two to three feet long and is about nine inches wide. If a complete cover is desired, we use two panels. We first make the panel of the mesh mentioned above and have it filled rather full with sphagnum. Then a layer of fern leaves is put on to cover the moss, and small sprays of Sprengeri or smilax are pinned in to the edges of the panel in such a way as to droop over the sides of the casket when the panel is in place. Next, flowers are fastened so that they will extend over the sides, using different lengths of stem, so as to avoid a straight row of flowers. The center of the panel itself can be decorated in any way one wishes, using some lettering if desired. The advantage of this over a blanket is that it does not take nearly so long to make up, can be done for less cost, answers the same purpose and the customer is every bit as well satisfied.

Maintain Outline.

In making up set pieces, or designs, the principal thing to remember is to get the outline and, after having it, keep it. It is really sad to see how many people have tried to make a funeral piece and failed, simply because they lost the outline of the piece and made it up loosely when a compact treatment was necessary. I have seen square and compasses made up in such a manner that it was impossible to tell what it was, because it was not properly outlined. This design is one of the hardest to make, just because of the intricacy of its outline. If a loose effect is desired, put the design on a base, which may then be treated loosely. The broken wheel is another design whose outline is frequently lost. Its outline can be preserved by making the rim and spokes of different-colored flowers. Anchors and pillows are other designs which are difficult to make properly. The emblems of many societies cannot be made of flowers, unless they are made on a large scale.

Not long ago I had occasion to make up an odd design. Four girls who were good friends called themselves the Four-leaved Clover. One of them died and the other three wanted a four-leaved clover, with one leaf gone, made of flowers. Of course, I had no frame which could be used; so I made a panel of the mesh wire, about twenty inches square, and in the center I formed out of white chenille the four-leaved clover with one leaf broken off. I filled in the background, outside of the chenille, with ivy leaves and inside the chenille with white carnations. Then around the edge of the panel I put in a light, artistic framework of flowers. This piece was most successful and attracted a good deal of attention, and I do not recall ever having made up a piece that was as thoroughly satisfactory to the customer as this one was.

I think in making up funeral work a florist has to use more brains than in any other part of his work in order to satisfy his customers and make money. In making designs a different class of flowers is used than is used for making sprays or than is used in assorted boxes of flowers. Small, short-stemmed flowers, split carnations, etc., are the kind that are generally used. If there is a steady demand for funeral work, it pays to grow flowers for just this class of work, as, for instance, short carnations and asters. The flowers are obtained by the usual cultural means and the buds are not taken off, thus getting a maximum number of flowers to a plant and insuring a good supply of design flowers which can be used as a background, getting the variety of effect by using relatively few other flowers as a trim.

Wreaths are more used than any other one form of funeral piece and are apt to be monotonous if there are several ordered for the same funeral. They can be varied in style more, probably, than any other design. They may be made solid of magnolia leaves, galax leaves, prepared or natural oak leaves, or ivy leaves, and may be made solid of carnations or any other small flower. Wreaths made thus are usually trimmed with a nice ribbon bow, or with a cluster of some other flower on one side. In making any design it is necessary to visualize the effect desired and then work to that end. Good designers, like cooks, are born, not made.

Baskets More Common.

We are using a good many baskets of flowers for funerals now instead of sprays or designs. When many flowers are ordered for the funeral of a prominent person and I have extra fine flowers that I can use, I make arrangements with the family, or the undertaker if the funeral is to be held from the undertaking parlors, to use baskets. We loan the baskets and after the funeral they are returned to us. This permits a greater variety and the baskets can be made up quickly. As many times the flowers are sent to a hospital after the funeral, the baskets would be of no use to either the family or the hospital and they are of use to us. So we make a small rental charge for the baskets and still have the basket to use again. I think that this is a good custom for florists to initiate. I have made as many as thirty-five or fifty baskets of flowers in different parts of the room at one funeral.

We have also used this same scheme at store openings and bank openings, or at large receptions. At the opening of a large building recently I went directly to the owner of the building and told him that I had a great many orders for the affair and made arrangements so that I could put all of my orders in baskets, with the understanding that the baskets were all to be returned to me after the opening. I think we used something like fifty baskets for this occasion, and I am sure that the good will and publicity that I got out of this arrangement, together with the willingness shown to give an added service not demanded, was worth more to me than the cost of the baskets. Once in a while, it is true, we lose a basket by lending them, but this seldom happens.

ROBERT PYLE AS HOST.

Well known as president of the Conard & Jones Co. and in horticultural circles generally, Robert Pyle, of West Grove, Pa., showed himself to be also automotively in the limelight on the evening of July 21, when he and his wife entertained the Chester County Automobile Club at its meeting at their residence, Rose Hill House. On this occasion more than 1,000 persons were present and the accompanying automobiles covered several acres of a nearby field.

Principal among the speakers was J. Horace McFarland, president of the National Civic Society, and known widely in the trade. Mr. McFarland is one of the foremost exponents of "a nation beautiful," and his speech on this particular occasion, "What about the Country Highway?" aroused much interest. Before he had finished the guests understood that there is an æsthetic as well as a mechanical side to road-building. Among the other speakers were A. P. Irwin, T. R. McDowell and Dr. W. P. Finney.

At the close of the speeches, the meeting was adjourned only to be called to order at the fine prospect of delightful refreshments.

CHICAGO'S SHOW

PAGEANT MAKES PROGRESS.

Chicago Florists Getting Publicity.

The Pageant of Progress at Chicago is attracting crowds far beyond anyone's expectations. Some three million people already have attended and there still are several days to go. The spectacular events increase daily, and from early morning until midnight each day the pier is crowded.

The effort to put the florists' industry to the front is being marked with success in many ways. The flower show is one of the most attractive sections in the exposition and is conceded as such by the authorities. Eight large flood lamps throw light from above. They make the flowers stand out so that they appeal to everyone. The "Say It with Flowers" slogan receives its share of illumination and it can be heard repeatedly on the lips of the visitors.

In the neighborhood of half a million flowers, including all the varieties now on the market, were donated by the growers, August 4, and distributed gratis to the visitors. August 6 Secretary W. A. Hansen distributed about 200,000 flowers from the flying boat Santa Maria, and the hydroplane X-9.

All of these events have been heralded by the press, but the flower crown bestowed upon the Queen of the Pageant at the coronation August 6 was described elaborately in all the Chicago newspapers. Mrs. Lillian C. Stuart, manager of Bohannon Floral Co., was the artist who made the crown of flowers. The queen wore a golden garb and the roses in the crown were chosen accordingly. It is probably the first time that Golden Ophelia has been used for a public event. Its strong yellow color was just what was wanted. This rose, which is a specialty with Wendland & Keimel Co., is being looked upon with much expectancy in the trade, as it promises to be the best yellow rose to date. The frame used with the roses for the crown was made to order by Joseph Ziska & Sons, with three points in the front.

The hourly singing of "Say It with Flowers" in the flower show section is being continued and draws big crowds.

Awards to Exhibitors.

August 3 there were two contests. One was for corsages for street purposes. First prize went to A. Lange, second to Albert Hall and third to Schiller the Florist. Honorable mention was given Henry Wittbold & Son, L. A. Tonner and Bohannon Floral Co. The second class was for bridal corsages. First prize went to Albert Hall, second to Bohannon Floral Co. and third to Schiller the Florist. Honorable mention was given Henry Wittbold & Son and A. Lange. The judges were J. T. Johnson, Miss Ruby N. Elam, Mrs. E. Austin and A. H. Schneider.

August 5, prizes were offered for original ideas in set floral arrangement. Albert Hall was awarded first prize for a pipe arrangement, in which cigarettes, cigars, matches and flowers were used. A card accompanied this entry indicating that it was a suggestion for Fathers' day. The newspapers featured this novelty, describing it or printing pictures of it. Second prize went to Schiller the Florist, for a bon voyage fruit and flower arrangement. A. Lange was given third prize for an American Beauty display. The same day vase bouquets also were shown. First prize was given to A. Lange, second to Albert Hall and third to Henry Wittbold & Son. The judges were Mrs. Mary K. Victor, Arthur A. Weatherwax and Miss Ruby N. Elam.

August 7 a highly interesting display of table arrangements attracted more than half of the 500,000 people that visited the pier. Tables were arranged for eight. First prize was awarded to Albert Hall, who set up an arrangement of novelty dolls, birds and flowers. The second prize went to Schiller the Florist, for a most artistically worked out decoration in Harding blue, designed by Miss Crosthwaite. Third prize went to Henry Wittbold & Son. Honorable mention was awarded to William J. Smyth and A. Lange. Another class called for a banquet table. The first prize was awarded to H. GLADIOLUS SOCIETY'S SHOW.

At St. Thomas, Ont.

The largest prize schedule that has ever been offered for a display of gladiolus blooms is one of the big inducements that will feature the twelfth annual exhibition of the American Gladiolus Society, to be held in Alma College, St. Thomas, Ont., August 24 and 25. The regular meeting of the society will be held at the same time and place and, according to Acting Secretary Madison Cooper, "all indications are that we shall have the biggest show ever staged in this line." "However," adds Mr. Cooper, "weather conditions have not been so suitable as they might have been; much stock which was planted for exhibition has bloomed or will bloom too early for the show." Through the untiring directorship of President Bennett of the St. Thomas Horticultural Society and under the auspices of that society, elaborate preparations have been made for the show.

Entries of those who will exhibit should be in the secretary's hands by Saturday, August 20. And, although entries may be accepted after this date, the secretary, Mr. Cooper, will not assume responsibility for the accuracy of the entries in the judge's books after that date.

Canadian Ruling.

For the benefit of those who will ship stock from certain counties in the United States, the following important information is given:

Since the Canadian Department of Agriculture, through its entomological branch, indicates certain restrictions against the importation of gladiolus cut flowers on account of the European corn borer, it will be advisable for shippers of stock from the following counties in the states indicated to secure special permission by addressing the Federal Horticultural Board, Washington, D. C. It is understood by the secretary that only the counties in the states mentioned are quarantined against the corn borer and that only in such locations it is necessary to secure permission and get inspection before shipping:

Massachusetts — Barnstable, Bristol, Essex, Middlesex, Norfolk, Plymouth and Suffolk counties.
New Hampshire—Rockingham county.
New York—Albany, Fulton, Montgomery, Rensselaer, Saratoga, Schenectady, Schoharie, Cattaraugus, Chautauqua, Erie and Niagara counties.
Pennsylvania—Erie county.

United States exhibitors will not be required to pay the customary duty on cut flowers on gladiolus blooms intended for this show, due to the efforts of Dr. Bennett, of the St. Thomas Horticultural Society, who has made arrangements with the Canadian customs department. By this agreement there will be free entry of all exhibits at the frontier ports, Niagara Falls, Ont., Bridgeburg, Port Huron, Windsor and Port Stanley. It is quite necessary that flowers for this exhibition should be addressed thus: "Flowers for Exhibition, Gladiolus Show, Alma College, St. Thomas, Ont., Can."

SOCIETY OF AMERICAN FLORISTS.

The Washington Convention.

Arrangements for the convention, which opens on the morning of Tuesday, August 16, are complete. There is every indication that in point of attendance the convention will be one of the largest in the history of the society. The sale of space in the trade exhibition hall has been most gratifying. There is still room for late comers. The following are late additions to the list of exhibitors:

Kroeschell Bros. Co., Chicago, Ill.
Pfaltzgraff Pottery Co., York, Pa.
Climax Mfg. Co., Castorland, N. Y.
John Pommert, Amelia, O.
Louis Hahn & Son, Pittsburgh, Pa.
Basket Shop, Bellefonte, Pa.
Durable Products Co., Cleveland, O.
I. H. Moss, Inc., Baltimore, Md.
Storrs & Harrison Co., Painesville, O.
S. A. Weller, Zanesville, O.

There has been one withdrawal from the list, Sam Seligman, New York.

Owing to the death of Past-president J. K. M. L. Farquhar, of Boston, who was to have made the response to the addresses of welcome at the opening session of the convention, this duty has been taken over by Charles H. Grakelow, of Philadelphia.

The secretary's preconvention quarters are in the Washington hotel, opposite the Treasury building, convenient to convention hall, car lines to the hall being only one block distant. President Roland will also make this hotel his headquarters, and it will be headquarters for the Ladies' S. A. F.

National Flower Show.

Preparations for the big national flower show, to be held in Cleveland next spring, are becoming very active. The local interests are all working with a will to do things and every week shows considerable progress. The Cleveland florists have raised a separate guarantee fund amounting to $2,000, and this sum has been collected.

Trade exhibitors express much pleasure over the new arrangement covering exhibition space, which relieves them of much care and trouble in the decoration and enclosing of spaces and preparation of signs, and, besides, insures an absolutely uniform appearance, which means much in the general effect of the show.

An official program, or guide, will be published by the show management, and the secretary is already booking orders for advertising space in the publication.

John Young, Sec'y.

AMERICAN ROSE SOCIETY.

Executive Committee Meeting.

A meeting of the executive committee of the American Rose Society was held in New York city August 2.

The committee confirmed the action of the president in postponing the dissemination of the rose, Mary Wallace. It was reported that the Department of Agriculture had begun the propagation of more than 1,000 plants of this rose and that these plants would be equally divided among the participating nurserymen as soon as they are of suitable size next year, thus overcoming the difficulty or unfairness of securing propagating stock under the former arrangement. Nearly a dozen firms have expressed their interest in the proposition. Other would-be applicants are requested to notify the secretary as soon as possible.

The editor reported the handbook practically complete. Its distribution was authorized for September.

The secretary reported that the membership had passed the 2,000 mark. The committee felt, while this was very gratifying, that, nevertheless, for a country as big as America and a flower as important as the rose, this number should be more than doubled without much delay. Therefore, plans were suggested for a vigorous membership campaign. Attention was called to a practically untouched field in the opportunity lying at the door of nearly every retail florist in the country to secure as members those of his customers who are especially interested in roses. The membership committee was authorized to offer a commission of 50 cents on every new $3 membership thus secured.

Plans for the Portland trip are being promoted. Notice will be sent out with the handbook in September.

John C. Wister, Sec'y.

BUSINESS EMBARRASSMENTS.

Middletown, O.—July 28 Nelson O. Selby, doing business as the Arcade Floral Shop, at 3288 South Main street, filed a petition for bankruptcy in the United States District court. Liabilities are listed at $2,474.22, of which $2,141.70 are unsecured. Assets named total $1,590, of which $600 is stock in trade. The Rolf Zetlitz Co., Lima, O., is the chief creditor.

OBITUARY

John Mather Lupton.

Stricken with apoplexy, John M. Lupton, widely known in horticultural and fraternal circles, died at his home in Mattituck, Long Island, August 1. He was 65 years of age. Mattituck was also the place of Mr. Lupton's birth and, although his life was spent for the most part in this town, his fame went far outside its boundaries. He received his education in the public schools of his town, supplemented by a course at Franklinville Academy. Until 1882 his occupation was that of a farmer. At that time he organized a seed growing business, making a specialty of growing cabbage seed, a specialty in which he soon reached the position of an authority. He gave especial attention to the improvement of varieties by selection. In 1910 Mr. Lupton's son, Robert, was admitted into the business as a partner, the firm name then becoming J. M. Lupton & Son.

From the time he was elected to membership in the American Seed Trade Association, in 1893, Mr. Lupton was a regular attendant at all the conventions. In 1913 he was chosen as first vice-president, to which office he was reëlected in 1914, and in 1915, at the San Francisco convention, he attained to the office of president. Largely through his efforts, the Long Island Cauliflower Association was organized, a coöperative association that has had remarkable success. Also with his help the Mattituck bank was organized and he was its president at his death. He served the state for six years in its legislature, beginning his first term in 1906. He was an active member of the American Mechanics and the Masons.

Surviving Mr. Lupton are his widow, Millie F.; his son, Robert, and a daughter, Mrs. Otis G. Pike. It will be remembered that the late Frank M. Lupton, the famous publisher, was a brother of John M. Lupton.

Arthur F. Loeben.

Arthur F. Loeben, the son of Richard E. Loeben, of Gloversville, N. Y., died at his home, Monday, August 1, after a lingering illness. He was 27 years of age, and was connected with the business at the store of his father. The funeral services were held at the home Thursday afternoon, August 4, at 3 p. m., and were conducted by the Rev. James J. Hoffman, pastor of the Kingsbury Presbyterian church. Interment was in the family plot at Prospect Hill. He is survived by his parents, his wife, Ruth, one son, two brothers and three sisters, all of Gloversville.

Andrew K. McMahon.

Colonel A. K. McMahon, superintendent of the Island cemetery, at Newport, R. I., and a recognized landscape artist and gardener, died Sunday, July 31, at his home on Cliff road, Newport. He had been ill several months.

Mr. McMahon was born in Ireland March 1, 1841, and came to America at the age of five years. He left school at an early age to work in a cotton mill at Hope, R. I. In 1861 he enlisted, at the call of President Lincoln, in a Rhode Island regiment and saw much service, some of the battles in which he engaged being Bull Run, Williamsburg, Yorktown, Seven Pines, etc. He was promoted to the rank of sergeant, before his honorable discharge in 1864. He was severely wounded in action.

After his return from service, Mr. McMahon attracted the attention of the late R. Ives, one of the owners of the Lonsdale Co., at Lincoln, R. I., and Mr. Ives engaged Mr. McMahon to take charge of the Ives estate. In this position Mr. McMahon served fourteen years. In 1884 he was appointed superintendent of Island cemetery, a position which he held up to the time of his death. W. H. M.

John Mather Lupton.

Fielding A. Conway.

F. A. Conway passed away at the St. Francis hospital, Indianapolis, Ind., August 6. Death followed an operation for appendicitis.

Mr. Conway was born at Camel, Ky., January 1, 1877. He was engaged in the florists' business for the last twenty-two years at Beecher and Napoleon streets, Indianapolis. Surviving him are two daughters, Mrs. George Miller and Marguerite Conway, and one son, Robert Conway.

Timothy J. Brown.

Timothy J. Brown, well known throughout New England as a gardening contractor, died at his home on Connection street, Newport, last week following a long illness. He had been a resident of Newport for a number of years, during which he had been engaged as gardener on various large summer estates and at times was in the employ of the city in gardening and landscaping in its park department. He is survived by his widow and five young children. A brother and three sisters also survive him. W. H. M.

William C. Gotthardt.

William C. Gotthardt, for many years a prominent resident and well known florist of Jersey City, N. J., died at his residence, 11 Warner avenue, Sunday, July 31. Mr. Gotthardt had been a resident of Greenville, N. Y., where he had conducted an establishment at the entrance of the New York Bay cemetery. Later he transferred his business to Jersey City, where he had been in business for thirty years. Surviving him are his wife, Mrs. Louise Gotthardt, three sons and three daughters.

NEW YORK CLUBS TO MEET.

The annual meeting of the New York Federation of Horticultural Societies and Floral Clubs will be held at 2 p. m., Wednesday, September 14, at the New York state fair grounds, at Syracuse, N. Y. Upon arrival the delegates will report at the booth of the Cornell floricultural department, and the exact room where the meeting is to be held will be designated. Immediately following the business session, the Syracuse Florists' Association will entertain the visiting delegates at the Oneida Lakeside Club House, at Oneida lake. Important business is to be transacted at the business meeting and there should be a full representation of the affiliated societies through their delegates. Those who have enjoyed the hospitality of the Syracuse florists in previous years know that a good time is assured.

Entries of those who will exhibit should be in the secretary's hands by Saturday, August 20. And, although entries may be accepted after this date, the secretary, Mr. Cooper, will not assume responsibility for the accuracy of the entries in the judge's books after that date.

Canadian Ruling.

For the benefit of those who will ship stock from certain counties in the United States, the following important information is given:

Since the Canadian Department of Agriculture, through its entomological branch, indicates certain restrictions against the importation of gladiolus cut flowers on account of the European corn borer, it will be advisable for shippers of stock from the following counties in the states indicated to secure special permission by addressing the Federal Horticultural Board, Washington, D. C. It is understood by the secretary that only the counties in the states mentioned are quarantined against the corn borer and that only in such locations it is necessary to secure permission and get inspection before shipping:

Massachusetts—Barnstable, Bristol, Essex, Middlesex, Norfolk, Plymouth and Suffolk counties.
New Hampshire—Rockingham county.
New York—Albany, Fulton, Montgomery, Rensselaer, Saratoga, Schenectady, Schoharie, Cattaraugus, Chautauqua, Erie and Niagara counties.
Pennsylvania—Erie county.

United States exhibitors will not be required to pay the customary duty on cut flowers on gladiolus blooms intended for this show, due to the efforts of Dr. Bennett, of the St. Thomas Horticultural Society, who has made arrangements with the Canadian customs department. By this agreement there will be free entry of all exhibits at the frontier ports, Niagara Falls, Ont., Bridgeburg, Port Huron, Windsor and Port Stanley. It is quite necessary that flowers for this exhibition should be addressed thus: "Flowers for Exhibition, Gladiolus Show, Alma College, St. Thomas, Ont., Can."

SOCIETY OF AMERICAN FLORISTS.

The Washington Convention.

Arrangements for the convention, which opens on the morning of Tuesday, August 16, are complete. There is every indication that in point of attendance the convention will be one of the largest in the history of the society. The sale of space in the trade exhibition hall has been most gratifying. There is still room for late comers. The following are late additions to the list of exhibitors:

Kroeschell Bros. Co., Chicago, Ill.
Pfaltzgraff Pottery Co., York, Pa.
Climax Mfg. Co., Castorland, N. Y.
John Pommert, Amelia, O.
Louis Hahn & Son, Pittsburgh, Pa.
Basket Shop, Bellefonte, Pa.
Durable Products Co., Cleveland, O.
I. H. Moss, Inc., Baltimore, Md.
Storrs & Harrison Co., Painesville, O.
S. A. Weller, Zanesville, O.

There has been one withdrawal from the list, Sam Seligman, New York.

Owing to the death of Past-president J. K. M. L. Farquhar, of Boston, who was to have made the response to the addresses of welcome at the opening session of the convention, this duty has been taken over by Charles H. Grakelow, of Philadelphia.

The secretary's preconvention quarters are in the Washington hotel, opposite the Treasury building, convenient to convention hall, car lines to the hall being only one block distant. President Roland will also make this hotel his headquarters, and it will be headquarters for the Ladies' S. A. F.

National Flower Show.

Preparations for the big national flower show, to be held in Cleveland next spring, are becoming very active. The local interests are all working with a will to do things and every week shows considerable progress. The Cleveland florists have raised a separate guarantee fund amounting to $2,000, and this sum has been collected.

Trade exhibitors express much pleasure over the new arrangement covering exhibition space, which relieves them of much care and trouble in the decoration and enclosing of spaces and preparation of signs, and, besides, insures an absolutely uniform appearance, which means much in the general effect of the show.

An official program, or guide, will be published by the show management, and the secretary is already booking orders for advertising space in the publication.

AMERICAN ROSE SOCIETY.

Executive Committee Meeting.

A meeting of the executive committee of the American Rose Society was held in New York city August 2.

The committee confirmed the action of the president in postponing the dissemination of the rose, Mary Wallace. It was reported that the Department of Agriculture had begun the propagation of more than 1,000 plants of this rose and that these plants would be equally divided among the participating nurserymen as soon as they are of suitable size next year, thus overcoming the difficulty or unfairness of securing propagating stock under the former arrangement. Nearly a dozen firms have expressed their interest in the proposition. Other would-be applicants are requested to notify the secretary as soon as possible.

The editor reported the handbook practically complete. Its distribution was authorized for September.

The secretary reported that the membership had passed the 2,000 mark. The committee felt, while this was very gratifying, that, nevertheless, for a country as big as America and a flower as important as the rose, this number should be more than doubled without much delay. Therefore, plans were suggested for a vigorous membership campaign. Attention was called to a practically untouched field in the opportunity lying at the door of nearly every retail florist in the country to secure as members those of his customers who are especially interested in roses. The membership committee was authorized to offer a commission of 50 cents on every new $3 membership thus secured.

Plans for the Portland trip are being promoted. Notice will be sent out with the handbook in September.

BUSINESS EMBARRASSMENTS.

Middletown, O.—July 28 Nelson O. Selby, doing business as the Arcade Floral Shop, at 3288 South Main street, filed a petition for bankruptcy in the United States District court. Liabilities are listed at $2,474.22, of which $2,141.70 are unsecured. Assets named total $1,590, of which $600 is stock in trade. The Rolf Zetlitz Co., Lima, O., is the chief creditor.

OBITUARY

John Mather Lupton.

Stricken with apoplexy, John M. Lupton, widely known in horticultural and fraternal circles, died at his home in Mattituck, Long Island, August 1. He was 65 years of age. Mattituck was also the place of Mr. Lupton's birth and, although his life was spent for the most part in this town, his fame went far outside its boundaries. He received his education in the public schools of his town, supplemented by a course at Franklinville Academy. Until 1882 his occupation was that of a farmer. At that time he organized a seed growing business, making a specialty of growing cabbage seed, a specialty in which he soon reached the position of an authority. He gave especial attention to the improvement of varieties by selection. In 1910 Mr. Lupton's son, Robert, was admitted into the business as a partner, the firm name then becoming J. M. Lupton & Son.

From the time he was elected to membership in the American Seed Trade Association, in 1893, Mr. Lupton was a regular attendant at all the conventions. In 1913 he was chosen as first vice-president, to which office he was reëlected in 1914, and in 1915, at the San Francisco convention, he attained to the office of president. Largely through his efforts, the Long Island Cauliflower Association was organized, a coöperative association that has had remarkable success. Also with his help the Mattituck bank was organized and he was its president at his death. He served the state for six years in its legislature, beginning his first term in 1906. He was an active member of the American Mechanics and the Masons.

Surviving Mr. Lupton are his widow, Millie F.; his son, Robert, and a daughter, Mrs. Otis G. Pike. It will be remembered that the late Frank M. Lupton, the famous publisher, was a brother of John M. Lupton.

John Mather Lupton.

Arthur F. Loeben.

Arthur F. Loeben, the son of Richard E. Loeben, of Gloversville, N. Y., died at his home, Monday, August 1, after a lingering illness. He was 27 years of age, and was connected with the business at the store of his father. The funeral services were held at the home Thursday afternoon, August 4, at 3 p. m., and were conducted by the Rev. James J. Hoffman, pastor of the Kingsbury Presbyterian church. Interment was in the family plot at Prospect Hill. He is survived by his parents, his wife, Ruth, one son, two brothers and three sisters, all of Gloversville.

Andrew K. McMahon.

Colonel A. K. McMahon, superintendent of the Island cemetery, at Newport, R. I., and a recognized landscape artist and gardener, died Sunday, July 31, at his home on Cliff road, Newport. He had been ill several months.

Mr. McMahon was born in Ireland March 1, 1841, and came to America at the age of five years. He left school at an early age to work in a cotton mill at Hope, R. I. In 1861 he enlisted, at the call of President Lincoln, in a Rhode Island regiment and saw much service, some of the battles in which he engaged being Bull Run, Williamsburg, Yorktown, Seven Pines, etc. He was promoted to the rank of sergeant, before his honorable discharge in 1864. He was severely wounded in action.

After his return from service, Mr. McMahon attracted the attention of the late R. Ives, one of the owners of the Lonsdale Co., at Lincoln, R. I., and Mr. Ives engaged Mr. McMahon to take charge of the Ives estate. In this position Mr. McMahon served fourteen years. In 1884 he was appointed superintendent of Island cemetery, a position which he held up to the time of his death. W. H. M.

Fielding A. Conway.

F. A. Conway passed away at the St. Francis hospital, Indianapolis, Ind., August 6. Death followed an operation for appendicitis.

Mr. Conway was born at Camel, Ky., January 1, 1877. He was engaged in the florists' business for the last twenty-two years at Beecher and Napoleon streets, Indianapolis. Surviving him are two daughters, Mrs. George Miller and Marguerite Conway, and one son, Robert Conway.

Timothy J. Brown.

Timothy J. Brown, well known throughout New England as a gardening contractor, died at his home on Connection street, Newport, last week following a long illness. He had been a resident of Newport for a number of years, during which he had been engaged as gardener on various large summer estates and at times was in the employ of the city in gardening and landscaping in its park department. He is survived by his widow and five young children. A brother and three sisters also survive him. W. H. M.

William C. Gotthardt.

William C. Gotthardt, for many years a prominent resident and well known florist of Jersey City, N. J., died at his residence, 11 Warner avenue, Sunday, July 31. Mr. Gotthardt had been a resident of Greenville, N. Y., where he had conducted an establishment at the entrance of the New York Bay cemetery. Later he transferred his business to Jersey City, where he had been in business for thirty years. Surviving him are his wife, Mrs. Louise Gotthardt, three sons and three daughters.

NEW YORK CLUBS TO MEET.

The annual meeting of the New York Federation of Horticultural Societies and Floral Clubs will be held at 2 p. m., Wednesday, September 14, at the New York state fair grounds, at Syracuse, N. Y. Upon arrival the delegates will report at the booth of the Cornell floricultural department, and the exact room where the meeting is to be held will be designated. Immediately following the business session, the Syracuse Florists' Association will entertain the visiting delegates at the Oneida Lakeside Club House, at Oneida lake. Important business is to be transacted at the business meeting and there should be a full representation of the affiliated societies through their delegates. Those who have enjoyed the hospitality of the Syracuse florists in previous years know that a good time is assured.

FLORISTS' REVIEW

Established 1897,
by G. L. Grant.

Published every Thursday by THE FLORISTS' PUBLISHING CO.,
500-560 Caxton Building,
508 South Dearborn St., Chicago.
Tel., Wabash 8195.
Registered cable address,
Florview, Chicago.

Entered as second class matter Dec. 3, 1897, at the post-office at Chicago, Ill., under the Act of March 3, 1879.

Subscription price, $2.00 a year. To Canada, $3.00; to Europe, $4.00.

Advertising rates quoted on request. Only strictly trade advertising accepted.

RESULTS.
We give them. You get them.
We both have them.

THE time is not far distant when the seller who does not give a square deal will find no one who will do business with him.

SEND at least a post-card acknowledgment of every telegraph order to the sending florist, the more particularly if he is unknown to you.

THE trade's new slogan, "Make the Summer Pay," has proved effective wherever accompanied by suitable effort. Wishing is not enough; one must work.

PLEASE remember that The Review employs no subscription canvassers. Its representatives all are well known in their communities. Don't pay money to strangers.

IF one stops to calculate the cost of a first sale, he will soon understand that it is the repeat orders which make the profit. Those are brought only by satisfaction.

ONE florist has made the summer pay by house to house visits, ostensibly "to see how the bedding plants are doing," but really to book orders for fall planting of shrubs and trees, which he later will procure from a nursery in the total quantity needed.

IT will pay those who use quantities of sphagnum moss to stock up without delay. The summer has been favorable for gathering moss and large lots are on hand, offered at low prices. As soon as fall rains begin, harvesting will cease and prices are almost certain to advance.

THE American Gladiolus Society will meet at St. Thomas, Ont., August 24 and 25, somewhat later than in preceding years. The premium list of the exhibition is the largest ever arranged for the society and Madison Cooper, Calcium, N. Y., acting secretary, predicts the largest display ever staged.

PROCEEDINGS of the thirtieth annual meeting of the American Carnation Society, held at Washington last January, are now in book form for the members' use. The volume shows Secretary A. F. J. Baur's customary care. A portrait of the new president, C. W. Johnson, and illustrations of the medal-winning vases at Washington, S. J. Goddard's Laddie, and Strout's Rosalind and Donald, are shown.

EARN a reputation for growing and shipping good geraniums and you never will lack for orders.

POT plants seem to be in such constant demand that the growers of them never have too many. The trade can use a considerably greater quantity of good stock than is now produced.

IT seems unquestionable that the appreciation and desire for flowers has increased, in the last five years, much faster than the production of them. Isn't there, then, a boom in prospect as soon as general business returns to normalcy?

WHO WILL TELL?

Can some one of your readers inform me what the eurica fern is, where it grows and how it is prepared for market? Is it in its natural state when we receive it? Is it the same as what has been advertised as the coontie fern? Mrs. M. Baryclow.

SHORTAGES.

There are many scarcities with which the trade must contend this season, among them:

Japanese lily bulbs,
Candidum lilies,
Paper Whites,
Carnation plants,
Rubber plants,
Money.

LOWER RATES NEEDED.

Though not immediately and directly of benefit to the trade, the action of the railroads, in a conference with grain shippers at Chicago last week, in agreeing to a reduction of freight rates on grain, gives hope of relief from the high transportation rates, now the cause of complaint from florists, seedsmen and nurserymen as well as from other industries.

The reduction, which amounts to approximately twenty-five per cent, is not justified under the present high cost of transportation service, said the railroad representatives, but the pleas of the farmers have been so urgent that accession was made in the hope of aiding the readjustment of business conditions so much needed now.

There is no hope held out that similar accessions will be made to demands from other industries, but the precedent has been set and may be followed later. If cause for complaint is considered, there seems none greater than that of florists regarding the high transportation charges on ferns and other greens. Great dissatisfaction has been expressed ever since florists' commodities were shifted from the second to the first class. Some of it has found expression in these columns. Much of it has been directed toward the express companies and some at the Interstate Commerce Commission.

One statement of our complaint, made to the last-named body by Alpha Elberfield, proprietor of the Alpha Floral Co., Kansas City, Mo., puts the case plainly. He said:

"I do believe there ought to be something done towards making ferns second-class. It is the most absurd thing in the world to make a commodity that a florist gives away take a first-class rate. Ferns are, in a way, bought for a small sum, but yet they amount to a great sum when given away in large quantities. It seems ridiculous beyond all reason."

Perhaps nothing can be accomplished immediately, but the matter should be pressed by florists, individually and through their organizations, so that ere long the express companies will deem it wise to accede to demands of shippers as the railroads have done.

CHICAGO TO WASHINGTON.

B. & O. Changes Schedule.

Those florists who are planning to travel to the Washington convention next week should note that the time has been changed on the trains going over the Baltimore & Ohio railroad. The new schedule, which is effective Sunday, August 14, is as follows, according to standard time:

Leave Chicago	Arrive Washington
9:30 a. m.	7:50 a. m.
12:05 p. m.	9:25 a. m.
6:25 p. m.	4:42 p. m.
9:50 p. m.	10:30 p. m.

The time of departure would read an hour later according to Chicago daylight-saving time.

The train party organized by the transportation committee of the Chicago Florists' Club will leave, under the new schedule, at 9:30 a. m., standard time, Monday, August 15, arriving in Washington at 7:50 a. m. Tuesday.

SHOOT, GOLF AT CONVENTION!

Those wishing to participate in golf and shooting at the Washington convention are urged to communicate with Z. D. Blackistone, chairman, for both events; golf players should register their handicap. The golf tournament will begin at 7 a. m., at the East Potomac park golf course, Wednesday, August 17. Players have the privilege of playing over the course any time Monday or up to noon Tuesday.

The shooting tournament will be held Wednesday, August 17, at 3:30 p. m., at the range of the Washington Gun Club, Wisconsin avenue, beyond Bradley lane. There will be a 15, 20 and 25-target shoot. A prize will be given for the high gun over all and for each of the three individual events. All ties will be shot off at ten targets. Only one prize can be taken by an individual.

"JUST AS EASY."

About the easiest thing any florist has to do is to wholesale any quantities of good stock not needed in his local retail business. No florist has taken full advantage of his opportunities so long as he has failed to produce something for the wholesale market. The disposal of it is "just as easy," like this:

Wire orders received today from first insertion of our ad cleaned up the surplus. Rather quick work, we'd say.—J. S. Wilson Floral Co., Des Moines, Ia., July 29, 1921.

Have had wonderful success with the ads in your Classified columns. Generally have had to return more or less money.—Bell Floral Co., Temple, Tex., July 26, 1921.

Please discontinue For Sale ad in The Review, as we have had so many calls we hardly have time to answer the letters.—Bentzen Floral Co., St. Louis, Mo., July 29, 1921.

The Classified ad did the trick; our bench roses are all sold, also the Brunners from 3-inch pots.—Walter Armacost & Co., Los Angeles, Cal., July 23, 1921.

If you hear a man complain of the cost of advertising you can be pretty certain he spends a good bit of money elsewhere than in The Review.

NEW YORK.

The Market.

Midsummer conditions continue in the New York cut flower market. Arrivals are light and demand is below the normal for the season. Retailers complain that they are doing less business than at any time within two or three years. If this condition were reversed, it would be hard to forecast the source of supply sufficient to meet an actual demand. Outdoor flowers form the principal stock in evidence, and these are available in quantity much less than in previous years. A wholesaler just returned from a trip through the New Jersey dahlia districts reports only short crop probabilities, growers having lost heavily of their early plantings through heat and drought. Gladioli form the leading commodity, and the general quality of arrivals is good, yielding prices within a range of $3 to $8 per hundred, with Schwaben, America and Panama prominent in varietal choice. The supply of asters is greater, and the quality of offerings generally is improved. Zinnias, delphiniums, a few chrysanthemums, calendulas, African marigolds, cosmos, hydrangeas, anthuriums, phlox, candytuft and gypsophila form about the category of other availables.

American Beauty roses are in better supply, some growers coming again on crop, but the demand for stock is weak, and last quoted prices are still in effect. Hybrid teas have shortened up considerably and the price range has stiffened. Monday, in spite of a small demand, the price range was from $4 per hundred on No. 2 grades to $15 on top grades. It is just between crops and the supply is quite limited.

Orchids are in extremely short supply, fortunately, perhaps, for the growers, because the demand is equally short. White lilies, also, are in short supply, and so are lilies of the valley, but nobody is worrying over this condition and prices remain as last quoted.

There are no carnations, nor are any in sight except the few flowers that may straggle later in the month from field-grown surplus plants.

Various Notes.

Jack Trepel, proprietor of a chain of flower stores in Brooklyn, celebrated the fifth anniversary of his starting in business Sunday, August 7, by giving an outing at Rye Beach to his employees. A party of about fifty left the Fulton street store in automobiles early in the morning, arriving at Rye in time for lunch, all sitting down to a real shore dinner in the evening at a leading hotel resort. The interval between meals was devoted to games and bathing. Mr. Trepel says he is going to make this an annual event.

"Are you going to the convention?" is the constant question now. It is hard to forecast how many will go from New York, as many automobile parties are in course of formation. Among those who have taken out identification tickets for the club party leaving Monday morning, August 15, at 11:08, are A. T. De La Mare, Anton Schultheis, J. G. Esler, I. S. Hendrickson, A. L. Miller, F. H. Traendly, Max Schling, Wallace R. Pierson, A. M. Henshaw, Arthur Dummett, W. R. Cobb, C. B. Weathered, R. J. Irwin, W. E. Cahill, Chas. Bassi, Joseph J. Lane, J. K. Allen, Henry Rudolph, Peter Duff, Louis Hanfling, Clifford Lowther, Jos. A. Manda, C. W. Scott, R. H. Mueller and John H. Pepper. Of course, these certificates include travel for family members, so a record crowd may be expected to start.

The American Greenhouse Mfg. Co., Chicago, has taken space for offices on the mezzanine floor of the Eighteenth street flower market. J. H. P.

HARTFORD, CONN.

Business continues quiet. The tobacco growers nearby are engaged in harvesting the heaviest and best crops in a good many years. The tobacco growers give a great deal of work to the unemployed in this city.

E. S. Drake, of Palisade avenue, Windsor, is bringing in some fine sweet peas and other outdoor flowers. He has signed contracts for a new house, 50x 150 feet, where he intends to grow a general list of pot plants. He was formerly connected with the Cedar Hill Greenhouses.

At the range of the W. W. Thomson Co., West Hartford, resoiling and preparations are being made to plant several houses of Enchantress Supreme, Matchless and Victory carnations. There are pompon chrysanthemums and other varieties in three other houses at this range, with several benches of Asparagus Sprengeri. A. L. Fraser reports a heavy demand for bedding and other plants at this range. He contemplates increasing this branch materially the coming season. At the Bera street range this enterprising firm has 50,000 more square feet under glass. Violets, sweet peas, mignonette, snapdragons and asters are grown here. One King house and several houses built from the company's own plan make up this range, where a force of painters are now busily employed on the interior. Mr. Thomson has a spick-and-span cottage at Twin Lakes, where Mrs. Thomson and the children spend the holidays. Mr. Wallace joins them over the week-ends. C. B. M.

COLUMBUS, O.

The Market.

The market is now well stocked and such flowers as gladioli, zinnias, etc., are to be had in profusion. Some fine varieties of gladioli are displayed at local stores and prices at all stores are about the same. Good blooms bring from about $2 to $3 per dozen, while one store advertised them at $1.50 per dozen, but the quality in this case was doubtful. Roses are plentiful and of good grade.

Various Notes.

McKellar's have opened the new store at 35 West Broad street and the store is pronounced the most beautiful in central Ohio. Mr. McKellar is in charge of the old store at 22 North High street and J. W. Thompson has charge of the new store. The first week proved successful and the owners are well pleased with the outlook. Congratulations have been pouring in all the week.

J. A. Martin is working hard installing a new boiler. He has a boiler with extra large capacity, so he can erect more houses without changing the heating unit.

Mr. Monroe, of the A. L. Randall Co., Chicago, was in Columbus last week inspecting McKellar's store, in which he installed two large A. L. Randall refrigerators. These iceboxes have made a good impression on the trade, as they are cool and at the same time beautiful.

Leo Miller has just returned from an automobile tour of the east and tells us he had a fine time.

W. B. Huddleson, of the Ove Gnatt Co., Laporte, Ind., was in Columbus last week.

McKellar's had a blanket of Premier and Columbia roses for the Stikes funeral last week.

Many were busy last week, when the body of a returned soldier was placed in the state capitol and was given a public burial after lying in state surrounded by a mass of flowers. Many more bodies are due to arrive soon from overseas. Great honor is being done these boys and the majority of people wish to "Say It with Flowers." J. W. T.

CHICAGO.

The Market.

The Pageant of Progress, which has been attracting thousands of visitors to the city and hundreds of thousands of sight-seers to the municipal pier, has demonstrated once again the truth of the statement, often made in this column, that excitement of any kind detracts from rather than adds to the demand for flowers. It is the general report in the market that city trade has been, since the pageant opened, the dullest of the summer, while shipping demand has been steady or increasing since the severely hot weather passed. It is the consensus that business recently has been, and still is, fully up to the best previous midsummer records, but that a greater part of the business than usual has come from out of town.

During the last few days there has been notable improvement in the quality if not much increase in the quantity of roses. Stems have been lengthened and strengthened and flowers show better size and color. The roses still are far from midwinter form, but there are plenty of nice, clean flowers, fresh, cool and attractive in any store or home. Such roses, offered at prices in proportion to the wholesale value, will sell in any store that shows them. The bulk of the supply is Columbia, with Crusader possibly in greatest request.

Gladioli also have improved in quality and increased in quantity since the drought was broken. It is one of the curious features of the business that good stock, when it comes in, frequently brings less money than poorer stock was bringing. It is so in this case. The price of gladioli is lower, in spite of improved quality, because the supply is much larger.

Asters are less of a factor than they were at the date of the last report. The supply is smaller and so are the flowers themselves, although one might not have thought there was much room for shrinkage either way.

Chrysanthemums have appeared. In addition to an occasional dozen cut locally, the first California mums came in last week. There are signs of an invasion this fall, but the reception given the first arrivals was not encouraging. Easter lilies and valley are slightly more plentiful. There are only small quantities of outdoor flowers in the market and the business of the mo-

The Fall Mum Show.

C. W. Johnson, secretary of the Chrysanthemum Society of America, thinks a wrong impression has gone out regarding the show to be held in Chicago, November 16 and 17. The C. S. A. meets in Chicago this year at the invitation of the Chicago Florists' Club, extended to the society at its annual meeting in Washington last November. At the meeting of the Chicago Florists' Club's committee of arrangements, held August 1, it was decided not to offer any premiums, the exhibits to be complimentary, so that the only premiums to be competed for will be the silver cups and other special prizes offered by firms and individuals through the Chrysanthemum Society, the competition for these being open only to members of the C. S. A. Mr. Johnson says numerous inquiries are coming to him for premium lists, which are not yet ready.

N. J. Wietor is vice-president of the Chrysanthemum Society of America and will be directly in charge of the arrangements for the convention and exhibition, which will be in the Auditorium hotel.

Note These Dates.

G. Swenson, the highly successful Elmhurst grower, would like to sell his place and retire. He was born August 6, 1844, and so is 77 years of age.

August Lange, the highly successful retailer, who has not the slightest thought of retiring, was born August 7, 1868, and so is 53 years of age.

Paul E. Weiss, the highly successful grower, who is only in the beginning of his business career, was born August 7, 1889, and so is only 32 years of age.

Various Notes.

It may now be announced that George Mohn, well known and experienced in the trade, will, about September 1, join the forces of the E. C. Amling Co. Mr. Mohn is to be, first of all, an outside man, going after the things that don't just naturally come in.

George Wienhoeber and C. J. Michelsen, with their families, in their Packards, set out August 10 for a trip north to Lake Superior. The Michelsens had as their guest Miss A. Pedersen, of the Amling office staff.

The largest party from Chicago to the S. A. F. convention probably will be that made up of the officers, directors and friends of the Chicago Flower Growers' Association. They will leave at 6:25 p. m. Sunday, August 14, on the B. & O. A general invitation to go along has been extended all florists and the party grows daily.

Kuhlman & Wicek, whose address is R. F. D. 1, Melrose Park, are putting up two large, wonderfully light greenhouses. Agmco has the contract. The houses are for sweet peas and, with any kind of luck, should contribute huge quantities to the market's supply next winter.

Ernie Anderson, who has charge of the sales at Bassett & Washburn's during Mr. Washburn's absence on the Pacific coast, says shipping has held up splendidly all summer and that the call for white roses is the strongest he ever has known at this time of year. Miss Harper, of the office force, left August 6 on a three weeks' vacation.

Roy Kroeschell was at Pittsburgh last week, on a call to assist J. J. Higgins, the Randall man in that territory. The result is that a Kroeschell ice machine, of which there are many in this market, is to be installed in the retail flower store of Randolph & McClements. It will be an unusually large equipment for such service, of four tons' capacity.

Although A. M. Pekarek, now proprietor of the Homan Decorating Co., at Homan avenue and Twenty-fifth street, formerly owned the California Floral Co., at 3402 West Twenty-sixth street, there is no connection between the two concerns at present. In July, 1917, Mr. Pekarek sold the California Floral Co. to William Kaukola, from whom it was purchased seven months later by Mrs. C. Vlach, who still conducts it under the same name and at the same address. Mr. Pekarek recently reentered the business as the Homan Decorating Co., a block from his one-time location. Mrs. C. Vlach is a member of an old florist's family, her father, Frank Holy, having operated greenhouses on Homan avenue years ago. She is assisted during the summer by her husband, F. Vlach, who teaches during the other seasons of the year. Having been in the florists' business practically since she was 9 years old in the same neighborhood, Mrs. Vlach has been able to build up a thriving trade since she bought the California Floral Co.

Miss Nettie L. Parker, secretary and treasurer of A. T. Pyfer & Co., started August 6 on a vacation trip which will include the S. A. F. convention at Washington.

I. Rosnosky will represent the A. B. C. at Washington. He already is in the east.

Weiland & Risch cut the first mums of the 1921 season before August had arrived.

his automobile trip in Wisconsin and resumed his duties as commander of the cut flower forces at Randall's, First Lieutenant Casimir Gouza has retired to his pleasant suburban home for a rest.

The Drake hotel is becoming more and more popular for weddings, and John Mangel, who has a shop in the hostelry, is called upon to decorate for them. Last week he had two especially good orders of this character.

A sign in the second-floor window at 212 North Wabash avenue reads: "Leslie & Wall, cut flowers and floral designs, retail."

Local dealers received their first shipments of Paper Whites August 8 and have been busy apportioning them among their customers. Most of the dealers expect to be short. No market price has as yet developed, but the two sizes probably will be held at about $22.50 and $26, which is a comparatively small advance over last year's prices.

Word has been received from Frank X. Stuppy, of the Stuppy Floral Co., St. Joseph, Mo., that he will be in Chicago August 13.

Word has been received that Rev. J. M. Bailey and wife, who recently have been located at Baltimore, are removing to Milwaukee. Mrs. Bailey is well known in the trade as the elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Amling.

Joseph Wolff, of Dubuque, Ia., was here August 8. He is adding to his range of glass and could devote only one day to the purchases made in this market.

Vincent Gorly, of Grimm & Gorly, St. Louis, was in Chicago August 8 with his family on the way home from a vacation spent on the east side of Lake Michigan.

L. H. Warren, of St. Louis, is visiting his son in Oak Park. Mr. Warren is thinking of locating here in the nursery or landscape business.

Max L. Cohen, proprietor of the Jackson Floral Shop, 746 East Sixty-third street, returned last week from a trip to the Pacific coast with the Elks. He visited many of the places of trade interest in the west and of all was most impressed with the size and quality of the work at the Armacost greenhouses and nursery at Sawtelle, near Los Angeles. He says he found the florists' business better than most other lines practically everywhere he went.

For the first time in five years, Fred Ronsley has taken a vacation. He spent last week at Charlevoix, Mich., stopping there with his sister.

Miss Hayden, well known as Sam Murray's right-hand man, came here from Kansas City last week for one of her infrequent visits.

Edward Green and Mrs. Green, of San Antonio, Tex., arrived here last week carrying railroad tickets a yard long. They will visit New York and attend the S. A. F. convention at Washington.

CINCINNATI, O.

The Market.

Summer conditions are now existing in this market. Stock can be had at almost one's own figure and, therefore, is just right for the retailer. Gladioli, as is always the case during the summer, are arriving more profusely every day, the varieties including Schwaben, Panama, Mrs. Francis King and Augusta. Something must be said about the exceedingly good condition in which the roses are arriving. They are better than in the winter time. Asters are also moving well, because of the lack of carnations and other things. Some fairly good early cosmos is to be had, but it is not the kind that can be held long. Delphinium is still holding on and is always a welcome flower for basket work, etc. There is plenty of miscellaneous stock, including zinnias, gypsophila, celosias, etc.

Various Notes.

C. J. Jones, of the Walnut Hills Floral Bazaar, is spending his vacation at Manitou, Mich., and at Devils Lake.

H. W. Sheppard and Mrs. Sheppard are still spending their vacation in the country and, from the way cards and letters are arriving at the shop, they are having the time of their lives. Things are brisk at this shop, including plenty of F. T. D. orders, in which there is a decided increase over last year.

C. E. Critchell has left for the convention at Washington, D. C., and will continue the trip for their vacation.

Frank Friedman, connected with C. E. Critchell, has just returned from his vacation, which was a trip through the south. He reports things quiet along those points.

WASHINGTON, D. C.

The Market.

Business here has been holding up well on account of funeral work, many large orders being received by the stores. Rubrum lilies and gladioli still predominate, Easter lilies being scarce. Roses are improving greatly. The last week has been cool and the change was beneficial. American Beauty roses also show the effects of the cooler temperature and were in much better demand, bringing from $1.50 to $4 per dozen.

Good roses range from $8 to $20 per hundred. There are some shorter grades that are offered at from $2 to $6 per hundred, which are used largely in box trade and funeral work. The top price is on Russell and a few long-stemmed Columbia. White roses are improving in quality. These have been short in supply and the wholesalers were at their wits' ends to fill orders.

Gladioli, although small, are in good demand and there is a clean-up each day. The price ranges from $3 to $8 per hundred. The outlook for a good crop the next couple of weeks is excellent, as some new lots of America, Peace, Mrs. Francis King and some of the others are due in. Asters are improving. The flowers are still small, but are in such quantity as to permit the filling of orders. Some of the best bring as high as $4 per hundred, but less desirable grades can be had at half that sum. A few short dahlias have made their appearance. They are being used for funeral work and baskets.

Hydrangea is coming into the local market in quantities and is being used in general decorations for large baskets and in funeral work. It is well received as a desirable adjunct to the other stocks. Good orchids may now be had at $6 per dozen, but the demand is light for these. Delphinium is still arriving in good shape and it is selling well. Larkspur, scabiosa, gypsophila and other small flowers are also to be had. They fill a sort of void that exists in the market due to the cutting out of other stocks during the recent extremely hot weather.

Various Notes.

Black and gold are the colors selected by George C. Shaffer to be used in the redecoration of his store at Fourteenth and I streets. This work is to be accompanied by the installation of a new icebox and other improvements. Mr. Shaffer is planning an entire rearrangement of his store. The space occupied by the present box will be utilized for make-up work and the large table now in the center of the store will be put there. The rear wall is now covered by a huge plate glass mirror. The mirror is to be moved to the front of the store and erected against the side wall. The new box will be installed at the rear. The new icebox will be much larger than the present one, being twelve feet long, six feet deep and eight feet high. In addition, in the small workroom at the rear, there will be placed a table containing a box for the storage of galax. The box will be equipped with coils to keep it cool.

Arthur Shaffer, who is in charge of the bookkeeping department at George C. Shaffer's store, and Fred Myers, a member of the sales force, have returned to the city from vacations spent with their families at Ocean View, Va.

Mrs. Nettie Supper, of the Gude Bros. Co., has gone to New York for a visit, following which she will go to Virginia Beach for the rest of her month's vacation. Hardy Pritchard, also of this company, with Mrs. Pritchard and their young daughter, has returned to Washington, concluding a four weeks' vacation at Atlantic City. T. N. S.

PHILADELPHIA.

The Market.

The change that came during the first week in August is surprising. Yet its description must be carefully worded to be quite clear. Flowers are scarce. Everything sells well except poor quality asters and poor quality gladioli. Together with this statement must be coupled another: There is not quite so much business as during the last week of July. In other words, the supply of cut flowers during the first week in August is smaller than it has been; the early crops of asters and of gladioli are going off. There do not appear to be as many midseason flowers grown as usual in these two staples. Roses, the third most important flower at this season, have been greatly reduced in number by cutting back. There are only a few roses of the new crop and the old crop is rapidly disappearing. Easter lilies are in fair supply; there is a steady supply of valley and there are a few orchids. The first early Beauties have come; outdoor flowers are fairly plentiful.

ASTERS ROSES

ASTERS are reported scarce in some sections, but we have an ample supply of very good stock.

The market report is incomplete without mention of the weather, which has been delightfully cool, in striking contrast with much of the summer.

Bridgeton, N. J.

It will become more and more evident as time progresses that Bridgeton's horticultural interest will cease to be connected with glass or with boilers and will become much more vital to the profession. Perhaps this will not actually be in greenhouses, but it will be in plants that are used in greenhouses and in outdoor work by our landscape gardeners. While this is only a preliminary notice of what may be expected, it is made with great earnestness, because it looks today as though the start at Bridgeton would be of far-reaching importance. Everybody knows that the present times are making horticultural history; that the quarantine of two years ago has made a tremendous difference in the plant stock available for this market; that California is straining every nerve to fill the void caused by the exclusion of the European-grown plant. Now Bridgeton, N. J., is preparing for the same task.

P. M. Koster, an expert horticulturist of the first rank, with knowledge strengthened by years of experience abroad, has established nurseries at Bridgeton, where he is today growing rhododendrons, kalmias and roses on a scale that has astonished the florists who have seen his place.

Baseball.

The strong team of the Bickmore Greenhouses met the Independent Wholesalers at Lansdowne the afternoon of August 4. With the score 4 to 1 against them in the eighth inning, Reilly rallied the Independents, leading them on a change in batting tactics that scored five runs, and won an exciting battle by 6 to 4. The features of the game were the clever work of the Bickmore battery, the pitching of Grimm, the generalship of Reilly and the plucky playing of Miller. The lineup of the Independents follows:

C. Miller, catcher; Grimm, pitcher; Kenneth Meehan, first base; Lafferty, second base; Peil, short stop; Aeugle, third base; L. Reid, left field; Deitle, right field, and Reilly, center field.

The schedule for this week is Pennock vs. Rice, Independents vs. Niessen, Rice vs. Craig, Independents vs. Rice.

The Market.

Conditions remain much the same as a week ago. The first week in August gave us cool, bracing weather, the maximum temperature not once exceeding 80 degrees, a welcome change from July's intolerable heat and humidity. There is no great amount of business outside of funeral work and an occasional wedding. It continues to be a gladiolus market and these popular summer flowers are everywhere in evidence, of grand quality. Prices vary considerably. Such varieties as Schwaben, Europa, Niagara, America, Mrs. Dr. Norton and other pale colors bring $8 to $10 for the best, while a large number of less popular colors sell as low as $2. There is an excellent demand for the yellow, apricot and orange-colored primulinus hybrids, which are more decorative and better in floral work than the showier but heavier gandavensis types. Asters are in increased supply, all being Queen of the Market. White sells the best, blue the slowest.

Roses meet with a fair demand, especially whites. Columbia remains the favorite, with Premier, Hadley, Scott Key, Crusader, Russell and Miller next in favor. Few carnations and sweet peas come in and the quality is low. Speciosum lilies sell better than longiflorums. Delphiniums are more plentiful and in good demand; so are bouvardias and buddleias. Such garden flowers as gaillardias, gypsophilas, candytuft, everlastings, bachelor's buttons, silenes and scabiosas are seen and sell slowly.

There is a decided scarcity of cattleyas, and retailers having orders have great difficulty in securing any flowers. Valley is also scarce, but there is little demand for it. There are small lots of gardenias, mostly on short stems. The demand for asparagus is light.

Field Day at Lexington.

The annual field day of market growers at the market garden field station at Lexington, Mass., was held August 3. The day was quite pleasant, a maximum temperature of 75 degrees and clear skies drawing a record attendance of over 800. About 300 automobiles were parked on or near the grounds. Many private gardeners and florists who grow vegetable crops under glass were present, in addition to members of the Boston Market Gardeners' Association and other bodies.

In the morning Webster S. Krout, plant disease specialist for the agricultural experiment station, Amherst, demonstrated methods of seed treatment for disease control. Additional demonstrations were given during the afternoon before large and interested audiences. There were demonstrations by a number of motor cultivators, one from the middle west, not previously seen here, doing satisfactory work.

Dr. J. K. Shaw, of the Massachusetts Agricultural College, spoke on "Fundamental Principles Which Must Underlie Wise Seed Selection" and was asked numerous questions. Other topics discussed in the morning were "Need for Vegetable Seed Improvement" and "Is It Practicable to Grow Vegetable Seeds at Home?" followed by an inspection and discussion of tomato varieties, as seen in the large test plots.

Demonstrations of plant setting at the rate of 1,000 plants per man per hour proved interesting, while Prof. H. F. Thompson, professor of market gardening at Amherst, handled the subject, "A Look Into the Future and How to Make the Best Progress," admirably, giving many valuable and helpful suggestions. E. H. Stoddard, of East Brookfield, who demonstrated his methods of plant setting, said that "no tools are to be used in setting. When I have a new man or woman come to me I always, when plant setting time comes around, give him or her a few lessons. It is a dull and slow pupil that, in a few moments, cannot learn with a little practice to set plants at the rate of 1,000 per hour."

Home preparation of Bordeaux mixture was advocated, the commercial article being lacking in strength. An inspection of the greenhouses, all filled with cucumbers, showed considerable blight and the effects of various sprayings of Bordeaux were pointed out. This blight has been unusually rife this season under glass. Some large growers, like Wyman Bros. and M. E. Moore, of Arlington, have sprayed as much as six times with Bordeaux, without securing complete control. All experiments have proved home-prepared Bordeaux far more efficient in disease control than the commercial article and it is also far cheaper. Recent statistics of one experienced in spraying indicate that the cost of each spraying for cucumbers in a greenhouse forty feet wide amounts to about 7 cents per running foot. A thoughtful grower can soon tell whether four or five such sprayings are going to be profitable to him if they continue the life of the crop for four or five weeks. Spraying had proved to be just as good an insurance under glass on cucumbers as outdoors on potatoes.

The various fertilizer test plots, humus crop tests, trials of varieties and other features of this valuable experimental station greatly interested the numerous visitors and the day proved to be a practical, helpful and enjoyable one.

Various Notes.

Miss Florence Palmer, second daughter of F. E. Palmer, the well known Brookline florist and landscape gardener, was married at home August 2 to Dean Peabody, one of the staff of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. The young couple are enjoying their honeymoon in a charming bungalow in the White mountains of New Hampshire, where members of the Appalachian Mountain Club, to which the young couple belong, sometimes make their rendezvous.

A letter from F. W. Fletcher, for twenty-five years a grower and journalist in and around Boston, now resident at Orlando, Fla., shows that the raiser of Nelrose snapdragon and other novelties is not resting on his laurels. He is now busy growing Easter lilies from seed, and, if a batch of 4,000 bulbs, which he now has, forces well, he means to go into the production of them on a large scale. Orlando, he says, is growing apace and about $5,000,000 worth of new buildings will be erected there this year.

The R. & J. Farquhar Co. is having large sales of pot-grown strawberry plants, handling over 6,000 of Marshall alone and having over a dozen other sorts. Good orders are coming in for bulbs, trees and shrubs for fall planting. The death of James and John Farquhar in no wise affects this firm, which was incorporated a couple of years ago. Principal officers are Alexander P. Dewar, now on a European visit in the interests of his firm; George Cruickshank, head of the landscape department; V. E. Neilson, and Patrick Fordham, the Dedham nurseries manager.

Martin Wax, of Wax Bros., is at Grand Lake Stream, Me., following the return of his brother, Samuel.

With nearly 100 classes in the schedules of the New England Gladiolus Society and Massachusetts Horticultural Society for August 14 and 15, a gladiolus show of record proportions and quality seems assured. There are also numerous classes for other seasonable flowers, fruits and vegetables.

T. F. Galvin, Inc., is preparing the new store for occupancy on Boylston street, Copley Square, and will vacate the present stand, the Back Bay Conservatories, September 1.

William R. Nicholson makes large shipments of perennial larkspur several times weekly. These are always eagerly bought. Blue as a color is always popular, either cut or in the garden. Those who want a constant crop of hardy larkspur through the summer must grow a good batch of seedlings early each season under glass, and later line them out in the field, where they will start to flower freely when the older, established clumps have finished their first crop and are making growths for a later crop.

Local carnation growers are busy housing their plants, which, thanks to the heat and copious moisture, have made splendid growth this season. S. J. Goddard finished filling his houses a fortnight ago.

The cool, pleasant weather which August has given us has encouraged the local committee on transportation for the Washington convention and a good representation now seems assured. Most of those going seem to favor the all-water route of the Metropolitan Steamship Co. to New York, thence per train in company with the New York party

For Shipping Those Flowers

THE H & D Floral Box affords that ample protection, economical weight and sturdiness which make it the ideal container for your floral shipments. Cut flowers and plants of all kinds are invariably in better delivery condition when packed in these specially designed containers. Stout walls and covers prevent gaping of boxes and exposure of contents, when under the weight of other packages in transit. Made in various convenient sizes, all complying with postal and express regulations. All standard and special sizes to order.

For safer and more satisfactory containers use H & D Floral Boxes.

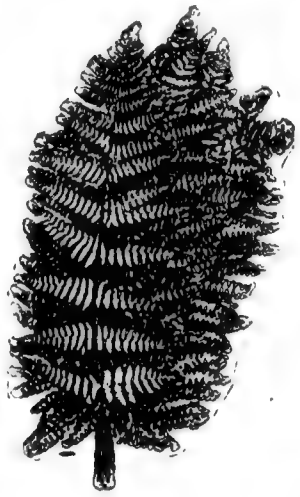
to Washington. Local growers, retailers and wholesalers are urged to make a final effort to attend and uphold Boston's representation as well as supporting our present popular president, Thomas Roland.



Peter Pederzini, of the Medfield Farms & Greenhouse Co., has a house planted with 4,000 carnations nicely established. He also has a fine house of chrysanthemums. Large quantities of vegetables are grown here and a roadside stand helps to move a good many, particularly on Sundays, when automobile traffic is heavy. Gladioli and other flowers are also sold in this way. A large naval bell attached to this stand is rung at noon and 5 o'clock to let workers on the fields know that it is quitting time.

Charles T. Beasley, the East Milton florist, is, perhaps, best known as New England's largest grower of pansies under glass. His greenhouses are near the street and, as he grows large quantities of gladioli and other attractive summer flowers, he has found a roadside stand proves to be a splendid selling medium. These roadside stands are now largely used in Massachusetts for the sale of fruits, vegetables and summer flowers. W. N. C.

range from $4 to $8 per hundred. Asters have been putting in an appearance and some are fairly good, although a quantity of inferior ones is seen. None of them is large. The price has been ranging from $3 to $5 per hundred. Roses have been rather plentiful. These are getting better in quality and have much better stems. Some especially fine Columbia, Butterfly and Hoosier Beauty are available.

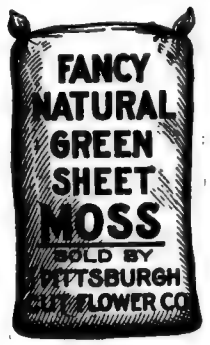
Lilies are not plentiful. A few Easter lilies and some rubrum are to be had, but not in any quantity. A small supply of outdoor miscellaneous flowers is to be had, but more could be used. Statice, delphinium, zinnias, hydrangeas, phlox, larkspur, etc., are included in this list.

Various Notes.

The Indiana State Florists' Association's picnic, held at Bertermann's Cumberland grove August 2, was a success in spite of the inclement weather. Although it was necessary to give up a few of the games, the majority of the contests were carried on. The following won prizes: Men's race, John Heidenreich, Jr.; boys' race, Vance McCallister; girls' race, Flora Challis; ladies' ball throwing, Helen Nelson; children's contest, Maxine Lyon. During the afternoon there was horseshoe throwing and baseball. About 150 attended, which included a number of out-of-town members and their families.

August 22 will be the last day for Indiana state fair entrees. Anyone desiring a premium list may obtain one by writing to the state board of agriculture.

The trade extends sympathy to Arthur S. Pett, of Crawfordsville, who recently lost his wife.



William Walker, of Louisville, was in the city last week and called upon some of his friends.

William Roepke has purchased a new pleasure car. Mr. Roepke is erecting a new stack at his range.

A. F. J. Baur and family will leave August 10 for an eastern trip. Before returning, they will visit the former's sister in Pennsylvania and make a stop in Washington, D. C.

LAKE GENEVA'S SHOW.

Friday, July 29, at the Horticultural hall at Lake Geneva, Wis., the midsummer exhibition of fruits, vegetables, and dairy and farm products was held under the auspices of the Lake Geneva Garden Club. There were forty-six entrants in 110 classes and the exhibitors of merit included Axel Johnson, gardener for Mrs. F. T. A. Junkin; R. Brydon, gardener for John Borden; J. Brydon, gardener for William Wrigley; C. Ackerson, gardener for S. B. Chapin; A. Smith, gardener for J. J. Mitchell; William McKinnon, gardener for A. Leath; C. West, gardener for Seymour Morris; H. Tolman, gardener for Mrs. E. Ayers; William Longland, gardener for C. L. Hutchinson; R. Niles, gardener for T. J. Lefens; E. Niles, gardener for the Porter farm; F. Goecke, gardener for the Seipp estate; F. Brady, gardener for A. C. Bartlett; R. Blackwood, gardener for S. W. Allerton; M. Barrett, gardener for M. Ryerson; F. Lowry, gardener for H. M. Byllesby; M. Haas, gardener for F. A. Rehm; J. Erickson, gardener for A. F. Madliner, and S. Johnson, gardener for Mrs. F. B. Cozzens. The winners in the various classes were:

Unlimited collection of vegetables—R. Brydon, first; C. West, second; F. Lowry, third.
Collection of vegetables, twelve varieties—R. Niles, first; M. Haas, second.
Collection of annuals, eighteen varieties—R. Brydon, first; J. Brydon, second; M. Barrett, third.
Collection of cut flowers, twenty-five vases, twenty-five species—Axel Johnson, first; F. Lowry, second.
Group of foliage plants—A. Smith, first.
Group of ferns—A. Smith, first.
Group of flowering plants, with palms and ferns—J. Brydon, first; A. Smith, second.

The smaller vegetable classes were strongly contested and, considering the intense heat, the products were of high quality.

In the fruit class greenhouse grapes of high quality were exhibited. In this class Axel Johnson took first place, while F. Goecke took second. In the classes for peaches, nectarines, plums, pears and apples, the chief winners were Axel Johnson and C. Ackerson.

The dairy and farm products classes were well contested and of high quality. In these the exhibitors and prizewinners were C. Ackerson, R. Niles, C. West, William McKinnon, F. Brady, M. Barrett, H. Tolman, E. Niles, Mrs. F. Porter, Miss Harriett Kaye, Miss Blanche Kaye and J. T. Llewellyn.

The class for the members of the Garden Club was well filled. H. Tolman took first place for the best collection of wild flowers, while J. T. Llewellyn took second and William Longland, third. Several baskets of flowers were also exhibited and the table decoration was a feature, six tables being arranged. In the judgment by ballot, Mrs. E. Swift was awarded first and Mrs. Peterkin, second.

In the amateur class F. Johnson carried first, with a collection of vegetables.

The judges were J. Livingstone, of Milwaukee, and H. Tolman, of Lake Geneva, assisted by A. Montgomery. L. J. Merriman, of Elkhorn, Wis., was judge for farm and dairy products.

Address No. 258, care Florists' Review, Chicago.

FOR SALE

A real chance of a lifetime for one who can run a florists' business. I have been exceptionally fortunate in my oil investments and wish to sell my entire range and business and have priced it at a cash price that will sell it on sight, about one-half of what it cost to build; it has cost $22,000.00 to date; will give immediate possession for $12,000.00 cash, with an abstract title deed to the entire place or, half cash and balance to suit buyer will do; I believe the first florist who sets foot on the place, with that amount of money, will close the deal within an hour, at that figure. Place consists of 10,000 ft. 18x20 double strength glass in two large houses, 185 ft. long; A-No. 1 heating plant; place fully stocked and running at capacity; beautiful 5-room home, 16 lots, 1 block from city limits, city water, two phones, delivery truck, etc.; located in town of 5000, in the west; county seat, state college, splendid schools, etc.; best soil, leaf mold and sheep manure, free for the hauling; I have plans for another house which I planned to build this summer; only florist in the county; my best argument is for you to see the place; at this figure, you will act quickly. Address No. 292, care Florists' Review, Chicago.

Seed Trade News

AMERICAN SEED TRADE ASSOCIATION.
President, L. L. Olds, Madison, Wis.; secretary-treasurer, C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O.

JOHN BODGER, JR., returned to Los Angeles from his eastern trip July 28.

ONE of last week's visitors to Chicago's Pageant of Progress was Ray C. Bicknell, gladiolus specialist of Fort Atkinson, Wis.

ON the steamer Fort Hamilton, which arrived at New York from Bermuda August 5, were twenty-eight cases of lily bulbs consigned to F. B. Vandegrift & Co.

ALEC M. RENNIE, with A. Henderson & Co., Chicago, and formerly in the seed, bulb and supply business in Providence, R. I., visited Providence last week for the first time in fourteen years.

DAMAGE to the extent of several thousand dollars was done the Woodruff-Boyce Seed Co., of Seattle, Wash., recently when fire of unknown origin broke out in the sales and propagating rooms.

MISS MCGRADY, who has been secretary for C. D. Coventry, of the W. W. Barnard Co., Chicago, for over three years, was married Thursday, August 4, to R. E. Willis, of the Chase & Martin Pie Co.

THE announcement has been made that the Standard Bulb Co., formerly at Benton Harbor, Mich., has removed to Holland, Mich., and consolidated with the Weller Nurseries Co., long established there.

NOTICE of the death of John M. Lupton, of J. M. Lupton & Son, Mattituck, Long Island, a former president of the American Seed Trade Association, which occurred August 1, is contained in the obituary column.

MONTHLY calendars are sent out to customers by the J. C. Robinson Seed Co., Rocky Ford, Colo. These attractive colored cards and some neat blotters serve to keep the company's name constantly before a great number.

THE first lot of French bulbs for the W. W. Barnard Co., of Chicago, has been received and sent out to retail seedsmen and florists. The first shipment of Dutch bulbs is in. These are a small lot that were ordered sent early so that they would be in time for the retailers to show at the numerous county fairs, which are in progress about this time of the year.

IN Great Britain this summer a good many failures will be recorded as a result of the lack of rain, and the general outlook is that most home-grown seed will be light crops. Those subjects that have managed to survive will, from all appearances, throw fine quality, which to a large extent will make up for short quantity, but a close watch has to be kept or many seeds will ripen and fall before they are gathered.

THE inconsistencies of the Federal Horticultural Board make its rulings not easily comprehensible to those in this country and still less so to foreign firms. As a result, P. Hopman & Sons, of Hillegom, Holland, have had revoked by the board on technical grounds the permits under which they were able to ship gladiolus bulbs of rare varieties to this country. If the board, upon the firm's proof of its innocence of intent to deceive, does not reinstate the permits, P.

ST. LOUIS SEED COMPANY, 411-413 Washington Ave., ST. LOUIS, MO.

Hopman & Sons will put its customers in this country in touch with other reputable Holland houses who will fill the orders this firm is prevented by the board from completing.

EARLY quotations on gladiolus bulbs in many cases have been withdrawn. The sellers who thought prices would be lower than last year now are inclined to await crop news, the weather conditions having been so unusual.

"BEANS in Michigan are slow," says C. D. Coventry, of the W. W. Barnard Co., Chicago, who returned last week from a trip through that section. They were held back by the hot, dry weather and were just beginning to bloom when he was there.

BY one of those typographer's slips that occasionally occur, Cleveland was given in this column last week as the location of the Livingston Seed Co. and the Wilson Seed Store, in speaking of their recent removals, when, of course, they are both well known firms of Columbus, O.

VEGETABLE SEED CROPS.

The acreage planted for the production of vegetable seeds this year is much below that of 1920. Commercial growers carried over fairly large stocks of a number of items from their 1920 production and confined their 1921 acreage principally to the comparatively small number of contracts placed with dealers. Adverse growing conditions, as reported to the Bureau of Markets and Crop Estimates July 25, have reduced further the prospective yield per acre of garden peas and dwarf snap beans, while the growing condition of vine-crop seeds is reported to be about eighty-five per cent of normal and last year and sweet corn more nearly normal.

The acreage planted to garden peas for seed production is reported to be

Dreer's Reliable Florists' Flower Seeds

The special attention of Florists is directed to the following select strains of seasonable flower seeds:

Cineraria Dreer's Prize

This is an extra fine strain, flowers of largest size in a well balanced range of bright colors.

Dreer's Prize Dwarf, of compact habit....$1.00 per trade pkt.
Dreer's Prize Tall, of taller growth..... 1.00 per trade pkt.
Stellata or Star, a fine decorative sort..... .50 per trade pkt.

Dreer's Superb Giant Cyclamen

The seed which we offer this season is American grown, produced by a grower who has made a special study of Cyclamen and who has worked up a strain better than anything procurable in Europe. We offer the following colors:

Pure White, Blood-red or Christmas Cheer, Rich Rose, White with Carmine Eye; Daybreak, soft shell pink; Salmon or Wonder of Wandsbek, bright salmon.

Price, any of above, $1.50 per 100 seeds, $12.00 per 1000 seeds.

Choicest Mixed, all colors, $1.25 per 100 seeds, $10.00 per 1000 seeds.

Dreer's Perfect Pansies

We offer the following mixtures with the full assurance that nothing better can be had at the prices quoted.

less than one-half of last year, when it was 113,000 acres. The average growing condition of this crop is much below normal and last year, in some cases fifty per cent, and indicates a prospective yield per acre about seventy per cent of last year. On the basis of the reduced acreage reported and present crop conditions, the total production should be about one-third of last year and about seventy per cent of 1919 and the three preceding years. The chief causes of the poor prospective yield are: Damage by aphids in California, resulting in a part of the crop being plowed under; extreme heat and dry weather in Washington, Montana and Wisconsin; and frosts in Utah and some parts of Idaho and Montana.

The present acreage and growing condition of dwarf snap beans are the result of factors similar to those affecting garden peas. Hot, dry weather has prevailed in the Michigan and New York growing districts. On the whole, however, the condition of this crop is somewhat better than that of garden peas, while the acreage is reduced in about the same proportion. With favorable weather the rest of the season, there is still time for beans to produce a larger yield than conditions now indicate.

The acreage of cucumbers and muskmelons for seed in the Arkansas river valley seems to approximate that of 1920. There was some damage by hail and floods, and replantings were necessary on a small part of the acreage. In some cases there was insufficient water for irrigation purposes until the ditches damaged during the June floods were repaired. Compared with last year, the average growing condition of these crops is about eighty-five per cent and a normal yield per acre is in prospect.

The acreage of squash and pumpkin in Nebraska and other western states is below normal, but the growing condition is excellent. The acreage of these crops in New Jersey is reported to be larger than usual. The watermelon seed acreage in Florida is about the same as last year and the present prospects are for a yield of seventy-five to eighty pounds per acre, which is twenty-five per cent below normal.

The acreage of seed sweet corn in Connecticut is about fifty per cent of last year, in Ohio seventy per cent and in Nebraska about eighty-five per cent. In Connecticut the condition of the crop indicates a normal yield, in Ohio the condition seems to be spotted and indicates yields ranging from 900 to 1,500 pounds per acre, while a normal yield is expected from the Nebraska acreage.

ONION SEED CROP IN CANARIES.

The onion seed crop in the Canary islands is now being harvested and a few small shipments have already been made. Conditions vary greatly in different districts, but it is thought that an average crop of between 60,000 and 80,000 pounds will result.

Onion seed is for the most part grown on the island of Teneriffe and exported from the port of Santa Cruz de Teneriffe by the merchants of that island. Planting is done in October and November and harvesting in June, July and August. As a great part of the crop is usually contracted for in advance, American purchasers place their orders well ahead of the planting season. Exportation to the United States usually begins early in July and should be completed soon after the middle of August, so that the seed may reach the Texas onion growers in time for fall planting.

Contracts for the 1921 onion seed crop were made on the basis of $1.30 per pound f.o.b. Teneriffe for Yellow Bermuda and $1.75 per pound for Crystal Wax. Declared exports to the United States during the year 1920 (including a few small shipments to Porto Rico) amounted to 63,014 pounds, valued at $103,360, the average value per pound being $1.63.

W. W. BARNARD'S WILL.

Inventory of the estate of William W. Barnard, former head of the W. W. Barnard Co., of Chicago, who died March 10, was filed in the Probate court August 8, and gave its valuation as $300,000.

His real estate was left to his three sisters, Alice S. Barnard, Mrs. Mary E. B. Howe and Mrs. Emma J. Graham. His stock in the company was left in the hands of trustees. Of this stock the dividends on 700 shares are divided between his three sisters and his seven nephews and nieces. His sisters receive the dividends on half of the shares, divided equally among them, and his seven nephews and nieces receive equal shares of the other half. Forty shares are set aside and the interest paid to Miss Larson, for her continuous and appreciated service to both Mr. Barnard and the company. Twenty shares are set aside and the interest paid to Ralph B. Howe, and also twenty shares for Charles D. Coventry. Twenty shares were set aside for another faithful employee, who has since left the company, thus forfeiting his shares.

The interest on $5,000 of Liberty bonds will go to the church of which Mr. Barnard was a member.

The trustees of the estate are Alice S. Barnard, Mary E. B. Howe, Emma J. Graham, Ralph B. Howe and Alice B. Howe. The number of trustees is set at five and should the occasion arise that any of the five places need filling, any other of the seven nephews and nieces may be appointed by the trustees. The executors are Ralph B. Howe and Herbert Bebb, a Chicago attorney.

Ralph B. Howe is at present the president of the company, C. D. Coventry is the secretary, and Alice S. Barnard was recently elected the vice-president. Ralph B. Howe is one of the seven nephews and nieces mentioned in the will. Alice S. Barnard is the only sister directly connected with the work of the company.

FIRE AT BERRY'S.

A fire which did about $200,000 damage broke out in the building of the A. A. Berry Seed Co., at Clarinda, Ia., Friday morning, July 22. Of the loss about $75,000 is on the buildings and equipment and about $125,000 on the stock. The business will be continued during the rebuilding, which will start as soon as the debris is cleared.

The cause of the fire is unknown, but it is believed to have started from electric wiring, an overheated motor or friction from a belt. The company had an extensive establishment. The elevator, an iron and frame structure, 40 x 40 feet and about five stories in height, where the fire started; an iron and frame storage building, 40 x 50 feet and about three stories high, adjoining the elevator; an iron and frame building, 28x50 feet, adjoined by a double corn crib; a main building, 30 x 220 feet and three stories high; a garage; a shipping shed, and a printing plant constitute the buildings, all of which were wholly or partly destroyed.

CROP REPORT FROM HOLLAND.

Plantings Restricted.

Under date of July 16, Sluis & Groot, of Enkhuizen, Holland, sent out the report of the crop stands in that country. The details of the report are as follows:

"Owing to the abnormal condition which are still prevailing, growers are on the lookout to spend as little money as possible for labor and other expenses. Consequently, articles requiring much labor are cultivated only on a limited scale.

"The plantings of flower seeds are considerable, and the planting took place under favorable weather conditions. On account of the long-continued drought, the plants of the annual varieties have not developed sufficiently and, consequently, the growth is a slight one. If the weather keeps dry during the coming months, a good crop may be expected. A spell of wet weather during harvesting time would promote the after-growth and do much damage. The biennials promise a good crop, with the exception of myosotis, which has suffered a great deal from insect damage."

Burpee's Sweet Peas

Mrs. Warren G. Harding
"The Harding Blue"

FLORISTS and Commercial Growers all over the world have come to realize the importance of Burpee's New Early or Winter Flowering Spencer Sweet Peas. Burpee's Sweet Peas are famous, and the house of Burpee is recognized the world over as American headquarters for Sweet Peas. Free-blooming character combined with sturdy growth and trueness to description are qualities of the Burpee varieties that are well appreciated by all particular Growers. The Burpee list contains a complete range of colors, including the most desirable Florists' shades.

Those who require the latest and finest will be interested in the Burpee Novelties for 1922, now offered for the first time to the Growers. Complete descriptions of all varieties and novelties, together with many illustrations, are given in our Special Folder of Sweet Peas for Florists. Every Florist and Grower should have it. Write for a free copy today.

beans, as far as foreign varieties are concerned, have been restricted. Little acreage has been devoted to the Dutch sorts, covering the Dutch requirements. For this reason and also on account of the dry weather, the crop will be small. This condition also applies to pole beans. The still expensive poles and the high wages make the growers more or less reluctant to grow this article.

English beans—There were limited plantings and the stand is hardly satisfactory; here and there it is even poor and attacked by lice.

Beet—A small acreage shows an average stand; some plantings have suffered from insects.

Brussels sprouts and borecole — Generally speaking, there is only a limited area. The stand is rather good.

Cabbage and savoy—Owing to the unfavorable circumstances, the acreage of white cabbage has decreased more and more. The stand, in general, is good, although some growers complain of worms in the pods. The same can be said of red cabbage, although the area devoted to this variety is somewhat larger. The plantings of savoy are below normal and limited; the prospects of the crop are good.

Carrot—Only the better varieties have been planted and then only on a small scale. The stand is satisfactory.

Cauliflower—There were limited plantings, justifying the expectations of a good crop.

Celery—There were only small plantings. Though the stand has been satisfactory until now, we can only expect an average crop, owing to the dryness which has been prevailing of late.

Chervil—A small acreage shows a good crop.

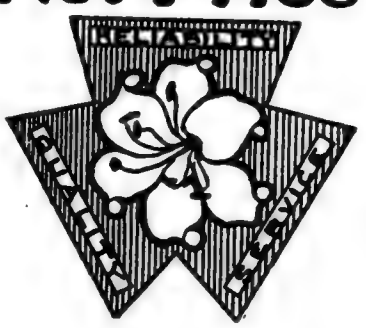
Chicory—The acreage is small. The stand, however, is good.

Cornsalad—There were small plantings of Dutch cornsalad. The other varieties are almost failing. The stand is poor.

Cress—An average area shows a good stand.

Cucumber—Generally speaking, there are only small plantings, especially of the foreign varieties, of which only small patches have been sown out. Up until now the stand seems satisfactory.

Endive—It was planted on an exceptionally small scale. The stand, however, is good.



Leek—There were practically no plantings.

Lettuce—Almost no acreage was planted.

Mangel-wurzel and sugar beet—A small acreage gives satisfactory stand, here and there attacked by the lice.

Onion—There are small plantings of the Dutch varieties, the other sorts failing almost totally. The stand is good.

Parsley—There is a small acreage; several varieties have only been planted on a small scale; some have not been planted at all. The stand is rather good.

Parsnip—The plantations are rather small and the crop will not be a heavy one.

Peas, wrinkled peas and sugar peas—The plantings of the round, as well as of the wrinkled varieties, are limited. The early sorts of sugar peas are only sown out on a small scale; the acreage devoted to the later sorts is still smaller. Generally speaking, the stand may be called satisfactory for all varieties.

Radish and winter radish—There are small plantings, so that of many varieties only a small crop will be harvested. Up until now the stand is good.

Savoy—There is a small acreage, showing a satisfactory stand up until now.

Sorrel and scorzonera—There is a limited area, with a good stand.

Spinach—The plantings of this article have been considerably limited. The growth is not a heavy one, although, in general, the prospects are good.

Swede turnip or rutabaga—There are almost no plantings of this article, as the results of recent years have been unsatisfactory for the growers.

Swiss chard—There is a small area, but a promising, satisfactory crop.

Turnip—The growers, as a rule, were not inclined to grow this article, on account of the fact that the prices of last year did not pay for the labor it required. Moreover, some patches have been plowed up. Generally speaking, a good crop can be expected, although the pods are attacked by the worms here and there.

CATALOGUES RECEIVED.

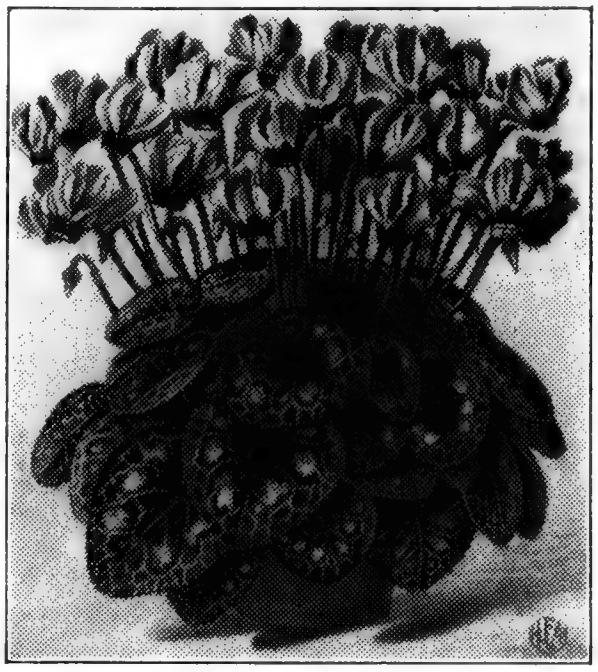
H. G. Hastings Co., Atlanta, Ga.—"Catalogue No. 62," an illustrated fall list of seeds, bulbs, rose plants, insecticides and sundries; forty-eight pages and colored cover. The rose plants are grafted, field-grown stock. The flower seeds are said to comprise "only varieties adapted to fall planting in southern states." Enclosed is a special offering of farm seeds and some other items, "for prompt orders, subject to stock unsold."

Otto Katzenstein & Co., Atlanta, Ga.—"Forests and Woodlands for the South," a well printed, illustrated 8-page booklet, containing interesting information on reforestation, with a list of seeds of both evergreen and deciduous trees. "We have taken pains," say the compilers of the catalogue, "to give the approximate number of seeds contained in a pound of each kind and also its average percentage of germination."

Barteldes Seed Co., Lawrence, Kan., with branches at Denver, Colo., and Oklahoma City, Okla.—"Fall Planting Guide," a 16-page catalogue, particularly attractive in character, with numerous illustrations, most of which are colored. Besides seasonable seeds and bulbs, the stock listed includes raspberry plants, peonies, etc. An accompanying "pink list" offers farm seeds, nursery stock, insecticides, poultry supplies and sundries at "cash with order" prices.

J. K. Alexander, East Bridgewater, Mass.—A fall catalogue which has a clear, direct outlook to the spring season, for it is entitled "A Guide to the Making of Spring Gardens"—the making of them in the fall; illustrated, twenty-four pages and cover. The peony has first place in the book and seems to have assumed a highly important place in the Alexander gardens, almost rivaling the Alexander specialty, the dahlia. Next in the catalogue are irises; then follow tulips and other bulbous stock, phloxes, evergreens and other nursery stock.

MOTT-LY GLEANINGS.



The late season resulted in a general clean-up of leading stocks of seed, is the report of Henry Peth, of Peth & Duggan, New York, who cater especially to the commuter.

J. J. Wilson, of the J. J. Wilson Seed Co., Newark, N. J., is enjoying a vacation at Sea Breeze, following a satisfactory season.

Alexander Forbes, of the Alexander Forbes Seed Co., Newark, is taking a well-earned rest in the mountains, leaving the business in charge of Alexander Forbes, Jr.

Martin Ribsam, Trenton, N. J., is well pleased with the season's business, both in seeds and plants. W. M.

CATALOGUES RECEIVED.

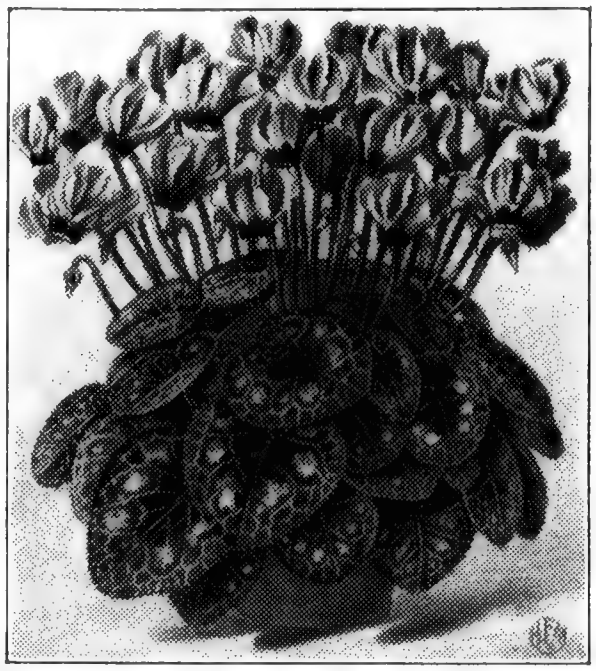
H. G. Hastings Co., Atlanta, Ga.—"Catalogue No. 62," an illustrated fall list of seeds, bulbs, rose plants, insecticides and sundries; forty-eight pages and colored cover. The rose plants are grafted, field-grown stock. The flower seeds are said to comprise "only varieties adapted to fall planting in southern states." Enclosed is a special offering of farm seeds and some other items, "for prompt orders, subject to stock unsold."

Otto Katzenstein & Co., Atlanta, Ga.—"Forests and Woodlands for the South," a well printed, illustrated 8-page booklet, containing interesting information on reforestation, with a list of seeds of both evergreen and deciduous trees. "We have taken pains," say the compilers of the catalogue, "to give the approximate number of seeds contained in a pound of each kind and also its average percentage of germination."

Barteldes Seed Co., Lawrence, Kan., with branches at Denver, Colo., and Oklahoma City, Okla.—"Fall Planting Guide," a 16-page catalogue, particularly attractive in character, with numerous illustrations, most of which are colored. Besides seasonable seeds and bulbs, the stock listed includes raspberry plants, peonies, etc. An accompanying "pink list" offers farm seeds, nursery stock, insecticides, poultry supplies and sundries at "cash with order" prices.

J. K. Alexander, East Bridgewater, Mass.—A fall catalogue which has a clear, direct outlook to the spring season, for it is entitled "A Guide to the Making of Spring Gardens"—the making of them in the fall; illustrated, twenty-four pages and cover. The peony has first place in the book and seems to have assumed a highly important place in the Alexander gardens, almost rivaling the Alexander specialty, the dahlia. Next in the catalogue are irises; then follow tulips and other bulbous stock, phloxes, evergreens and other nursery stock.

MOTT-LY GLEANINGS.



The late season resulted in a general clean-up of leading stocks of seed, is the report of Henry Peth, of Peth & Duggan, New York, who cater especially to the commuter.

J. J. Wilson, of the J. J. Wilson Seed Co., Newark, N. J., is enjoying a vacation at Sea Breeze, following a satisfactory season.

Alexander Forbes, of the Alexander Forbes Seed Co., Newark, is taking a well-earned rest in the mountains, leaving the business in charge of Alexander Forbes, Jr.

Martin Ribsam, Trenton, N. J., is well pleased with the season's business, both in seeds and plants. W. M.

WHAT FLOWERS FOR SICK?

Benefit in Selection.

Propaganda for national hospital day, an event proposed for May 12 by the hospitals of the country, has carried a great deal of assistance for this trade. Recognizing that sentiment on this day could best be expressed by visits to the sick and by sending flowers to them, the proponents of this new special day have done much in their reading notices to newspapers to boost flowers. In one of these articles appears the following:

"The influence that flowers have in helping to bring health to those who are ill is being recognized and made use of by all to a greater and greater extent. Flowers are living sunshine and bring happiness and cheer to all who receive them. This alone is a great factor in bringing health to the patient, for a mind that is thinking thoughts of happiness and cheer cannot but be on the road to health.

"However, there is another way in which friends and relatives can assist in the recovery of their loved ones who may be ill, and that is in the proper selection of the colors of the flowers which they send to them.

Choosing Colors.

"It is a well known fact to all psychologists, artists and students of color that certain colors will produce certain emotions and feelings in the mind. Red will always produce a feeling of warmth. Blue and white will always produce a feeling of coolness, while other colors will engender various other states of feelings.

"Why this is so, is hard to explain in this short article, but it is doubtless due to the fact that from the earliest infancy of mankind the warmth of the campfire and red were associated together and throughout the long years this association has become so strong through repetition that the mere presence of one idea will now call forth its mate. The same reason probably explains the other colors and the feelings that are associated with them. Blue and the coolness of the infinite sky; white and innocence and the coolness of the snow. Yellow can bring thoughts about golden sunshine, and so down the list.

"Such is the law of association. If you try it out on yourself, you will see that it invariably works as shown. And this law can be used to further help the sick through difficult trials and out into the broad, bright road of health.

Fit Stage of Illness.

"The color of the flowers you send to the sick should vary with the state your friend is in. Has your friend a high fever and is he or she threshing about with a temperature of 102 degrees? Do not send red roses, red carnations or red peonies. These only increase her fever and heighten her restlessness. Send her Killarney or White Killarney roses, or dainty and cooling Ophelias. Send snowballs or sweet peas or blue bachelor's buttons or pink and white carnations. But by all means keep away from reds.

"Is your friend racked with chills and colds? Then send red roses, Milady, American Beauty, Richmond or Mrs. Charles Russell—red peonies when in season and the warm reds of other flowers. These will all be doubly appreciated under the circumstances.

"Has your friend passed through the critical point and, though weak and exhausted, arrived safe on the road to recovery? Then in that case the brightness and sunshine of yellow should predominate, with a sprinkling of pink, but little white. Here is where a bouquet of living sunshine will carry the atmosphere that is needed to instill hope and cheer into the tired and worn-out form that has so lately battled with fever and won out. The golden brightness of yellow is what is needed to awaken a new rush of invigorating energy.

"Use yellow roses, bright and golden daisies, glowing calendulas, Golden-Glow. Killarney roses are also good and likewise Ophelia and the new rose, Butterfly, while begonias spread cheer and gladness to all who behold them. Other flowers of pink and yellow are at hand to be used.

For Convalescent.

"Then when your friend has passed through all the trials of his or her illness and is convalescent and fast becoming strong enough to take up normal life again, one can assist in hurrying the day of perfect health by using all colors that harmonize. The warmth of American Beauties and Milady and Richmond roses will be reflected soon in her glowing cheeks. The glowing sunshine of calendulas will tinge her thoughts with the spirit of optimism until living sunshine will seem almost to be racing through her very arteries; while the pinks of Killarney and Ophelia and Butterfly and sweet peas will add their share towards bringing the happiness of health back to her again.

"So, in selecting the flowers for your friend who is ill select them with discretion and according to the psychological law of color and you will be helping with your blossoms to bring the bloom of perfect health again to your friend."

Bowing to Bows

Well do I remember the first time my Dad tried to tie his tie in a bow.

I showed him one night.
The next morning, I heard the doggonest lot of mumbling and then finally a direct outburst from him in which he used certain words found in the bible, but not originally intended for emphasis.

Just naturally I went in and tied his tie for him. His trouble was exactly the same as most of us are troubled with in the bows we tie our flowers.

Somebody shows us a new way and we think we are so all fired smart we can do it without half trying. And we don't even do the half try—until we get home.
Then we repeat Dad's words, only with even more punch and punctuation.

Some of our fellow florists have told us we have a lot of clever ways of bow tying. If we have, you are welcome to know every one of them.
Come in and we will gladly take all the time you want in showing you how to tie any or all of them.

I'll not forget those F. T. D. orders you have recently been sending so generously.

dwarf flowers, bay trees and shrubs, surrounding the Sherman statue at the Fifty-ninth street plaza entrance to Central park. These landscape gardening effects, so far as facilities permit, have been duplicated in the other spaces around the Pulitzer fountain, opposite the Sherman statue.

This floral plaza decoration is the first real achievement of the parks and squares committee of the Fifth Avenue Association, of which Max Schling is chairman. The plaza improvements were worked out by Max Schling, with the coöperation of Park Commissioner Gallatin and the landscape architect of Central park.

A tentative plan for the floral treatment of the avenue was adopted at a meeting of the committee last week. Its two prominent features, said Mr. Schling, are the placing of baskets containing ivy and various flowering plants on the electric lamp posts from Twenty-fifth to Fifty-ninth streets, and the adornment of the low wall bordering the park area from Fifty-ninth to One Hundred and Tenth streets with vines and dwarf plants. It is proposed also to plant, probably next season, several trees in the open space at the northwest corner of Fifth avenue and Fifty-ninth street, close to the plaza entrance, to give attractiveness to its present bare and somewhat unsightly appearance.

"We have applied to the proper city authorities for permission to place the baskets on the avenue electric lamp posts," said Mr. Schling. "A neat design for the baskets has been made by Eliot Cross, an architect, who is also a member of the committee. The baskets

The Market.

At the various wholesale markets things are not rushing, by any means, although the wholesalers were in a position to furnish almost everything that the season afforded.

While the demand was not encouraging some days, there were times when it was excellent, several large funerals occurring during the week. If it were not for this kind of work the retailers say that their business would be at a standstill. They put in their dull times in making improvements for the fall and winter months. So far, this summer has been a trifle better than last summer.

The great bulk of stock coming into this market consists of roses, gladioli and asters. Roses are exceptionally good, considering the hot weather. Premier, Russell, Columbia and White Killarney all have a good demand, but only those of quality realize a price. Most of them are from young stock and are short of stem.

Carnations from the field are poor and have little call, as asters have taken their place. These are now coming in plentifully, but there are few fancies as yet and prices are low.

Gladioli are in heavy demand and all the fancy varieties clean up daily at good prices. The market has only a few of the common varieties in the daily consignments.

There are many varieties of outdoor flowers coming in and they have a slow sale. Fancy greens have heavy demands during the daily sales.

Bowling.

The bowlers held a meeting Friday night, August 5, at the establishment of the Windler Wholesale Floral Co., with twenty members present. President Ruff presided over the meeting.

The bowling will start Wednesday evening, September 7, at the Grand Arsenal alleys and will continue for every Wednesday evening, for thirty weeks, with the exception of the Wednesday evenings before Thanksgiving, Christmas and Easter.

The league also joined the City Association and adopted the rules and regulations of the American Bowling Congress.

Out-of-town orders for delivery in New York carefully and promptly filled at reasonable rates

The schedule, as prepared by the secretary, was adopted for the opening night. The Orchids will meet the Carnations, the Sweet Peas will go against the Daisies and the Roses will battle the Violets. There were six names on the waiting list and they were assigned to teams as follows: Walter Young, the Orchids; Theodore Horn, the Roses; Joseph Frank, the Carnations; George H. Pring, the Sweet Peas; J. J. Windler, the Violets, and Tony Veilak, the Daisies. With these the league is composed of thirty-six members. All of the members must be on hand every Wednesday night or pay a fine of $1. Only in case of sickness are they excused from paying the fine.

When the meeting was adjourned refreshments and cigars were served.

Various Notes.

The St. Louis Florists' Club held its annual meeting in Kirkwood, the afternoon of Thursday, August 11, at the greenhouses of the William C. Smith Wholesale Floral Co. The annual election of officers was the feature of the meeting. S. A. F. convention matters were up for discussion.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Windler, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Schaeffer, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Steitz, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Meyer, Jr., Joseph Krager and Miss Meyer spent August 1 on the Mississippi river, taking an all-day boat trip, which was a most enjoyable affair.

Henry Blixen, proprietor of the Woodland Gardens, at Edwardsville, Ill., spent a few hours here August 4. He reports that he and Mrs. Blixen will attend the S. A. F. convention at Washington and that they will visit other points of interest in the east.

Mrs. G. C. Sparks and her son, of Thomasville, Ga., were visitors here a few days last week, making the wholesale district their headquarters and buying their supplies for the fall season.

The St. Louis Association of Gardeners held its regular monthly meeting August 7 at the country estate of T. Porter Tirrell, at Clayton, Mo. The meeting was well attended and interesting matters were discussed, especially the annual meeting of the American Association of Gardeners at Boston next month, of which President Pring is the vice-president.

large crowds which pass them daily. Manager Duernberg is back from his vacation and Otto Klinger, the buyer, is away on his for two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Windler, with their two children, celebrated their sixth wedding anniversary August 4. Hugo Werner, of Werner Bros., rose growers, and George Berner, well known retailer, also celebrated their wedding anniversaries last week.

Joseph Witek says that he expects to move into his new building by September 15. The building needs his personal attention daily and this will keep him from attending the S. A. F. convention.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Schaeffer and their family will spend the next two weeks in the Ozark mountains. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Steitz will take a few weeks' vacation before the fall season sets in.

The sincere sympathy of many in the trade goes out to John McAna, of the H. G. Berning force, in the loss of his wife, the bride of a year, to whom a daughter was born a few hours before her death. The child died an hour later. Many in the trade attended the funeral, August 5. The bowling league, of which Mr. McAna is a member, sent a beautiful floral emblem.

Oscar Ruff and L. Jules Bourdet spent a few days last week fishing at Mr. Bourdet's club house in the country. They proudly displayed a good-sized string of fish on their return.

Thomas Carr has become a baseball fan and seldom misses a league game at Sportsman park. When no game is scheduled at the park he takes in the St. Louis Giants' game at the north end.

The ornamental planting on Art hill, in Forest park, by John Moritz, has been pronounced perfect in every respect by the leading gardeners of the city, who visited the park recently. The public, too, is much taken with this beauty spot.

floriculture at the Missouri state fair, at Sedalia, Mo., which opened August 8, says that the amount offered in premiums this year is $1,648. He looks for many exhibits from all over the state during the next two weeks. L. H. Archias is taking an active part in making this department a success.

John S. Carter, president of the St. Louis Nicotine Mfg. Co., remarked last week that arrangements had been made to enlarge its present quarters for the manufacturing of nicotine products. Heavy orders from all parts of the country have been coming in since the company began full operation.

The St. Louis County Growers' Association held its regular monthly meeting August 3, at the establishment of the W. A. Rowe Floral Co., at Kirkwood. The members present transacted the usual run of business and talked over the recent meeting of the St. Louis district, held at Centralia, Ill., also touching upon S. A. F. matters and the coal situation.

As the time draws near for the annual convention of the S. A. F. at Washington, State Vice-president August Hummert says that only a few reservations have been applied for to date, but that he expects enough to fill one special car by leaving time Sunday noon, August 14. J. F. Ammann, secretary of the National Flower Growers' Association, says there will be no general meeting of the association at Washington during the S. A. F. convention, but that there will be a conference of the officers and the board of directors, Thursday, August 18, at 9 a. m., to which all members of the district locals are cordially invited. He further states that this will be an important meeting and any who are at all interested should be present. Mr. Ammann left last week for the east.

The Market.

Stock was as scarce last week as it was plentiful the week preceding. The hot weather of July, coupled with the recent heavy rains, has spoiled all outdoor flowers. The demand continues about the same, making it difficult at times to procure stock. Gladioli are showing the effect of the long dry spell, many of them being of decidedly inferior quality. They are poor solely through growing conditions; the varieties are of the best. Some growers, who are fortunate in the location of their patches and in their soil, have splendid stock, and at such a time as last week they have no trouble in disposing of them at a good return. The aster crop has suffered more than the gladiolus crop. Some fields were entirely burned up and what are coming on the market are small and off color.

Roses, too, are showing the effects of the heat. The flowers are small and, in nearly every case, are forced wide open. There are a few carnations to be had, but of a poor quality. Snapdragon and delphinium, together with the miscellaneous stock at this season, are all of poor quality. However, we have had some good rains and the weather is decidedly cooler, so the prospects are that stock will recuperate and that conditions will be better.

The Floral Pageant.

At the next meeting of the Florists' Club there is going to be much business to transact. The trip to the Washington convention will have to be arranged and "Say It with Flowers" week must receive its share of discussion. There is one thing that must not be overlooked and that is our street pageant. The public got a taste last fall and they are looking forward to a bigger and better pageant in October. When so much favorable comment was heard from the public and in the press last fall, we promised to give Baltimore a real street pageant this fall.

What does such a parade mean? In the first place, the object of the parade is to boost the slogan, "Say It with Flowers." There is no way under the sun that you can "Say It with Flowers" to the same number of people in a more effective way, in so short a time and with less effort than to go on the street and carry the slogan direct to the people. For instance, last fall a conservative estimate of the number of people who saw and enjoyed the parade was 200,000. In the central district it was found necessary to turn out the police reserves.

Then there is the individual advertising that is to be had. Last fall every man or firm had his business truck decorated for the occasion, with the name of the firm prominently displayed. It will take place just before frost. Last year crates of dahlias were thrown from the floats into the throngs who lined the sidewalks. The R. Vincent, Jr., & Sons Co. gave these gratis, the only stipulation being that those who got the dahlias should cut them. Would it not pay the club to employ men to cut enough of these so that every float in line could have its share to throw to the people? Last year we had sixty-five well decorated floats. This year we should have over 100. Let's get on the job now and make this a pageant worthy of the florists of Baltimore.

Various Notes.

Robert L. Graham, Jr., is off with a camping party on the shores of the Severn river.

TOLEDO, O.

The Market.

There was little change in market conditions last week. Here and there a spurt of funeral work is the cause for optimism. The recent rains are of little value to outdoor stock, with the exception of asters, which will, no doubt, be greatly improved. Gladioli are the principal flowers to be had now. Some short-stemmed outdoor snapdragons help out. Zinnias and scabiosas are also welcome.

ing put in shape for the coming season. Mum planting is finished. Mr. Krueger's new home is rapidly approaching completion. A 3-car garage of brick, with oil tanks, etc., is ready for occupancy.

Earl Metz, of Metz & Bateman, is taking a well earned vacation. Mr. Metz is visiting his old home at Peoria, Ill. Grant Slawson is taking Mr. Metz's place at the store in his absence and is well able to take care of the designing.

Jack Helmers, of the Helmers Flower Shop, lives on the bay shore. Last week he caught 116 perch in a forenoon. Business holds up well at this shop.

Max Spanner's shop is now complete in its new decorations.

The Century Flower Shop has attracted a great deal of attention the last week, with a novelty window display. H. E. K.

CLEVELAND, O.

The Market.

Stock has been moving slowly the last week, and gladioli and asters are beginning to pile up at the wholesale houses. Naturally the prices are declining, especially in quantity lots. A considerable amount of gladioli and other stock has found its way to the rubbish heap. Roses are rather short in supply, especially the longer grades, and white is still in heavy demand for weddings, as is also valley. Delphinium, calendulas, gaillardias, snapdragon, etc., are arriving regularly, but these are not moving exceptionally fast.

KANSAS CITY, MO.

The Market.

Nothing out of the ordinary routine of midsummer business is apparent in this market now. Asters are coming in a little better each week. Dahlias are good and gladioli are still reliable. Roses are better than they were. A few heavy rains have helped wonderfully of late. Outdoor stock was beginning to dry up under the fierce heat, but the last few days have brought rains that have saturated the ground and have been of great value to garden stock. All the last three or four weeks have ended with good business for the retail shops, although the early part of each week was quiet. There has been an unusual number of funerals, for which the orders have been numerous.

Various Notes.

Among the local florists who attended the Kansas State Florists' Association convention at Topeka, last week, were T. J. Noll, L. R. Bohannon, Wil-

Richard Jarrett spent a week at Sugar lake. Upon his return Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Jarrett and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Shore drove to the Ozarks. They camped for two weeks near Pineville, Mo., and caught all the catfish they could eat.

J. H. Boyd has painted his greenhouses inside and out. Mr. and Mrs. Boyd returned Thursday, August 4, from a motor car trip to northern Missouri and Iowa.

Miss Carrie Etzold has gone to California for two months.

Bernard Barbe has motored to Denver.

R. S. Brown & Son are having the usual run of summer business and are busy with fall stock.

One of John Stevens' new houses is completed and the second house is well on the way. He hopes to put up two more next year. He has benched his carnations and has planted a new white variety.

This is the twenty-first year that E. A. Humfeld has furnished the flowers and planted the gardens at Electric park. In all that time there has not been the slightest complaint or dissatisfaction on either side. Mr. Humfeld keeps a man at the park all season to care for the flowers. J. E. K.

The Market.

The weather last week was exceptionally cool and stock is showing good effects already. Roses, especially, are showing fine color. Business last week was light, due to the people having so many flowers in their gardens. The showers have come at the opportune moment and gladioli never were better. Wholesalers are getting from $4 to $8 per hundred for gladioli. Some fine Mrs. Francis King, Panama and Pendleton are brought in daily. Some local florists are cutting wonderful hydrangeas in their home yards. Roses are short and the supply is limited. Even with the demand light, it is almost impossible to get good stock. Many of the growers are beginning to cut from the young stock, but, of course, this is short stock. Columbia and Russell are the main crop, although some Ophelia and White Killarney are cut each day. Wards are beginning to make their appearance, but these are short. Asters are coming on slowly. Most of the stock is short to medium, although the good ones are coming on slowly. Prices vary from $3 to $4 per hundred and $6 per hundred for the best.

Most of the growers have all their carnations benched and moving off in fine shape. Carnations never looked better. Zinnias are getting smaller every day and daisies are gone again. Some good blooms of Lilium rubrum are arriving daily. Cosmos is just beginning to come on and, if this cool weather continues, the growers will cut some nice stock soon.

Various Notes.

At a stormy session of the Omaha and Council Bluffs Florists' Club, August 4, the old committees were discharged and a new committee formed with power to act and give a picnic. Invitations, as to date and place, will be sent out at once. The members of the committee are working hard, taking in all they possibly can and trying their best to make it a popular picnic.

J. Bath returned last week from his trip in the mountains and reports a most enjoyable trip. He is already planning on his trip for 1922. He was

LOUISVILLE, KY.

The Market.

Another week of "better business" is past. Rain and cooler weather have brought the outside stock around in better shape and the demand looks as if trying its best to catch up with the supply. Gladioli, although not plentiful, are a little better and find a ready sale. Roses are beginning to look better. Some Ophelia and Columbia were seen and brought a fair price. As the weather is not so hot, roses have been used in funeral work the last week and hold nicely. Tuberoses are not plentiful, but the few seen are fairly good. Asters are seen, but are poor and find little sale. This is due, of course, to the unusually dry summer. Summing up last week's business, there has been an increase in the retail stores, which means that the wholesalers profited also.

Various Notes.

Among those from Louisville who will be seen at the S. A. F. convention will be William Mann and probably Henry Fuchs. Anders Rasmussen, of New Albany, will also be among those present.

William Walker has benched this year over 1,200 mums and also a great num-

L. H. Archias, president of the Archias Floral Co., of Sedalia, Mo., and past president of the Missouri State Florists' Association, believes in doing a thing right when he does it and he goes the limit to attain his end. This characteristic is again shown in regard to the Missouri centennial fair, which is being given at Sedalia. For not only did the company of which he is president place a noteworthy floricultural exhibit at the fair, but Mr. Archias still further boosted by sending out 5,000 special invitation cards, each bearing roses in colors. were sent out by the company to 500 persons, all of these, through a special arrangement with the fair management, bearing the name of the Archias Floral Co. Mr. Archias spent much time, effort and money to bring about a larger and better floricultural display and it was largely through him that the premium list for floriculture was increased to $1,200 in special awards. The amount offered in the floriculture section was $1,648. But Mr. Archias went still further. In addition to the special invitations and cards, he forwarded special 3-page typewritten letters to anyone he thought would be interested. These letters gave full information as to the premiums offered in the different classes.

EVANSVILLE, IND.

Some fine roses are seen on this market. Gladioli are not good, owing to the hot, dry weather of this summer. Asters are poor. Good rains that have occurred lately will probably help stock, which ought to be better from now on.

Karl Zeidler has his carnation houses all planted and the plants are getting a good start.

C. L. Niednagel is putting up two houses for carnations, one 26x250 feet and the other 19x250 feet.

The Lockyear Floral Co. is rebuilding part of its range and will put up a new office and salesroom. E. L. F.

GROWER ASSISTS AVIATION.

When Alonzo J. Bryan, of Washington, N. J., began building his greenhouses—and today he has more than three acres under glass—he did not conceive that he was at the same time building an effective and helpful guide for aviators. tion of sunlight upon the great expanse of glass. This can be seen for miles.

So it may be good news to the aviators as well as to the trade to know that Mr. Bryan is now building three more greenhouses, each 36 x 175 feet. He is also installing a new heating plant in the rear of these three houses.

THEY ARE WHITE GRUBS.

I have sent you under separate cover a small bottle containing alcohol and three worms. These worms are examples of the kind that have been harming my carnations. I was not troubled with them until this season. The first I knew of their presence was when my plants wilted. When I dug the soil away I found the worms had eaten the roots off at the stem. In November I dosed the beds with lime, which destroyed the worms apparently, but, in digging the beds this season, I found more of the worms. What can I do in this case? N. E. S.—Pa.

The specimens submitted are of the common white grub. This insect is most frequently found in sod soil and decayed manures. It feeds on the roots of plants and sometimes does considerable harm. It is not often found in large numbers in soil which has been handled thoroughly in preparation for the greenhouse and, if searched for and destroyed whenever a plant shows its presence by wilting, not many plants need be lost. In fact, the loss will be so slight as to render it unprofitable to treat all the soil in the bench to destroy what grubs there may be. However, if your soil is infested to such an extent as to warrant treating, it would be advisable to sterilize it before planting in your carnations. Not only will sterilization destroy the grubs, but it will improve the soil. Those who use soil more than one season recommend sterilization for putting the soil back into condition for planting. Join the American Carnation Society and get the annual report, just off the press. It contains a talk on the subject at last January's convention and the discussion that followed it. A. F. J. B.

PARASITE ON IVY.

One of our customers brought us an ivy leaf with a tendril which twists itself about the stem at the base of the leaf, causing the leaf to wilt. We are sending the spray of ivy and the tendril. There are no other plants growing with the ivy; so it does not seem that it could be the tendril of another plant. We are wondering if the best thing to do would be to dig up the ivy and take out some of the soil and plant new ivy. Would it be necessary to do this to get rid of the tendrils? M. B.—N. Y.

The tendril has the appearance of a parasite, but I have not previously seen this on English ivy. It would be a good plan to take out the plants, remove the soil and start new stock. This can be done now, even if the plants are growing outdoors. C. W.

A ROGUE POPPY.

lavender phlox by the side of the poppy and I think it may have got the coloring from the phlox. In order to save the seed, without its being pollenized from the red poppy, I took the plant up and divided it into eight plants. These I planted about 200 feet from the other poppies. All of the eight are in bloom now. I should like to have you describe the color and state if it is a new color in oriental poppies or not.

J. H. C.—Wash.

There was not much left of the petals of the poppy when it arrived, but, so far as can be seen, it is of little color value. It seems to be one of the off-colored rogues that come among the Royal Scarlet oriental poppies. We have had the pinks, maroons and other colors in the oriental poppies, but not any of them have lasted so long or proved to be so beautiful as the Royal Scarlet. M. P.

FRENCH HYDRANGEAS.

I have some French hydrangeas that did not flower last spring. I put them outside and have repotted them in good, rich soil. The roots seemed dormant, but the tops look well and are making a good growth. I have trimmed the tops to from three to five leads and have pinched the tops. They are now about six to eight inches tall. Ought I to cut the tops back? What treatment shall I employ to have them flower for Christmas? I should like them to come a little early and I should not like to force them much, as I am growing crops that require a low temperature and I wish to keep them in the same house.

C. G. L.—N. Y.

Do not attempt at this late date to cut back the shoots on your hydrangeas. The proper treatment for them would have been to cut them back well after flowering and to plant them outdoors in good soil. Seeing you have them in pots, be sure to keep them outdoors and not under glass. If you have empty coldframes it would be advisable to plunge the pots in them to prevent the pots from drying out. Give the plants a good spraying each evening and do not allow them to suffer from lack of water.

You cannot flower these hydrangeas for Christmas, but pot-grown plants can be ripened somewhat earlier than those lifted from the field and potted. As cool nights come along in September, gradually reduce the water supply in order to ripen the wood. Do not do this suddenly, but gradually. Leave the plants outdoors as late as safety will permit. Then place in a coldframe with glass protection. For Easter trade start the plants early in January. It is well, however, to remind you that you cannot force these hydrangeas in a low temperature and flower them for Easter, especially when it comes early. Next year you may manage to flower them for Easter, as it comes rather late. Hydrangeas need generous supplies of water under glass and occasional doses of stimulants. C. W.

FRAT-M'S

Frat-M's are a great help to florists who make funeral work. They are exact reproductions of the official emblems embossed in gold and the different colors as required by each Fraternal and Labor organization.

The florist is saved time and worry in the nuisance of lettering, as well as the keeping of such a stock of wire frames, and different colored flowers. Just use such flowers as you have and then attach a FRAT-M with paste to the chiffon, or by the hanger that comes for each, as a card, and that is all there is to it, excepting the comment and commendatory talk for the florist.

Just pick out a dozen of the most used from the list following, enclosing $2.00 per dozen, and if they don't make you ten times their cost, return those unused and get your money.

Square and Compass, Chapter, Commandery, 32nd Degree, Shrine, Eastern Star, Royal Neighbors, M. W. A., Maccabees, Odd Fellows, Red Men, Knights of Columbus, K. of P., Moose, Jr. O. U. A. M., B. of R. T., B. of R. Clerks, B. of L. E., Br. of Blacksmiths and Helpers, Eagles.

Just give Frat-M's a trial; you don't have to keep them. We are willing to send them to you and return the money if they don't pay you ten times their cost. Address

WINDLER WHOLESALE FLORAL CO., All Phones 1310 Pine Street, ST. LOUIS, MO.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.

The Market.

Each day last week the wholesale market was practically cleared of flowers by the early part of the afternoon. Business throughout the city and nearby towns has been good and this steadiness has been noticed each day. There have been a large number of funerals, which have made a somewhat heavy demand on all stock.

Apart from roses, the market is depleted of greenhouse stock. Stock is not particularly good, but, considering the extreme weather recently, it is as good as we can expect.

Flowers are all selling at summer prices, but there is not the abundance of stock this season that is usual at this period. Gladioli and asters are the mainstay of the business just now. The former are reaching us in good supply, and in many different varieties. Asters are not overplentiful and it is a hard matter to make them go around. Lilies are reaching us in small quantities only. There is no special demand for valley just now. Sweet peas can only be quoted as poor. The heat and drought practically ruined the greater part of them. Hardy gypsophila is in again and moves well. Dried gypsophila is also having a good run. Helichrysums are arriving in the market and beautiful colors are seen. They appear to be good. Hardy phlox is somewhat plentiful and there is a good demand for it. Achillea and feverfew are not particularly plentiful, but sell readily. Candytuft, larkspur, gaillardias, marigolds and daisies are seen daily, but not in any great quantity. Zinnias sell well. A fairly good quantity of Japanese lilies find a ready market. Carnations are in short supply now and all those on the market are field-grown.

Asparagus plumosus from the south has not been satisfactory lately and only locally grown stock is being handled to any extent in the local market. Other greens are plentiful and move well.

Various Notes.

Among the visitors last week were Milton Selinka, of Schloss Bros. Ribbons, Inc., New York; Howard F. James, of C. G. James & Son, Hornell, N. Y., and William F. Ekas and his father, of the Baltimore Floral Co., Baltimore, Md., who were making an automobile tour and were returning in time for the S. A. F. convention at Washington.

The Rochester Floral Co. had a fine window display last week, which was composed of a complete line of new pottery in the wild rose design. These were filled with plants and flowers and made an excellent showing. Gladioli were used extensively.

Louis Collatos, of Collatos Bros., is responsible for the excellent window display at his store, on South Clinton street. A large tank, in the middle of which is a good fountain, is surrounded by rockery and water plants. Celluloid bathing girls and fish are among the main attractions. Flowers are used to good advantage.

William Brookes, of George T. Boucher's force, developed blood poisoning from rose thorns last week and was obliged to be operated on. This proved successful and he has practically recovered.

Fred Mossgraber, of Webster, N. Y., reports satisfactory summer business. He has been much surprised at the way business has kept up. Apart from the growing end of it, he has had much funeral work.

Herman Zahn, of H. E. Wilson's, and his wife left for their vacation Saturday, August 6, and will visit Belfast, Pa., Olean, N. Y., and Canadea, N. Y. William L. Keller and family are spending some time at Cranberry lake, in the Adirondacks. Charles Ward is away on vacation. Miss K. Harvey, of Albert's Flower Store, is also in the Adirondack mountains until September 1. Clark Vick, of George B. Hart's force, and Joseph Murphy are away on vacation. Miss Keefe and Frank Mahoney, of George T. Boucher's, are also out of town on vacation.

Charles H. Vick, chairman of the Rochester flower show, to be held in conjunction with the Rochester exposition and horse show, September 6 to 10, is sparing no efforts to make this show the best of its kind. The large hall will be beautifully decorated with wild smilax and evergreens and will lend itself nicely to the exhibition.

Herman Muller, of Brighton, N. Y., is doing a fairly good summer business. He anticipated selling his range of glass, but changed his mind, purchased more land and has decided to put up more houses. H. J. H.

GOING TO THE CONVENTION?

Florists passing through St. Louis on their way to Washington are cordially invited to visit the oldest St. Louis florists' supply house, C. A. Kuehn's. This house is located in the center of the United States and is giving faster service; many of their customers' freight and express bills are less, too. If you are not on C. A. Kuehn's mailing list or wish a price list, address 1312 Pine St., St. Louis, Mo.—Advertisement.

PACIFIC COAST DEPARTMENT

A STUDY IN ZINNIAS.

In company with John Bodger, Jr., and S. S. Skidelsky, of Philadelphia, the writer had a pleasant visit to the El Monte seed farm of John Bodger & Sons Co., near Los Angeles, Cal., to look over the zinnias more particularly. When it is said that eighty acres are devoted to these popular and showy flowers, it will be acknowledged that there are "some zinnias." Among the first and most important is the new dahlia-flowered type, with immense flowers having the appearance of the show dahlia. Although the largest part of these types are still in mixture, some of the finest have been segregated by four years' work of careful roguing. These new types are not sown anywhere near the mixtures, but in separate long lines, with breadths of other flowers, such as asters or stocks, between them. Size, magnificent coloring and splendid build of flower are the distinguishing characteristics of these and so severely is the roguing carried out that only the eye of an expert could tell when the discarded plants fell short of the type. Incidentally, it may be mentioned that, although a skilled and experienced staff of Mexicans has been trained to rogue the ordinary types of zinnias and other flowers, Mr. Bodger goes over these novelties personally and ruthlessly, it seems to an outsider. He discards really magnificent flowers because of some seemingly trivial departure from the high standard set. The picotee-edged varieties are well developed and here again many varieties have been selected and trued up. Golden Crescent is one which is to be sent out this season, a beautiful golden flower, with brown edging that makes a wonderful combination of coloring. The giant-quilled types are quite distinct, large flowers on plants of good habit and with superb coloring. Then the ordinary giants in blocks of five to ten acres, all of one color, make a splendid showing. Crimson, golden yellow, lemon yellow, burnt orange and other shades make broad bands of color in the landscape and, besides these, are frilled, curled pompon and other types, each possessing some points of excellence. It is a great sight and everyone who can should make the trip to see them. It will surely prove an education in zinnias. H. R. R.

LOS ANGELES, CAL.

The Market.

While funeral work again last week was the mainstay of the retailers, there was enough of that to keep the depleted staffs busy in most of the stores, many being away on vacations. Good stock, as usual, has cleaned up finely, but there is little demand for the second-grade flowers. The futility of growing early chrysanthemums was never more clearly shown than this season. The flowers are not needed, they are not attractive and they hardly last in good condition to reach the stores, let alone the customers.

Asters, gladioli and dahlias still hold the field, the two former being the best shippers now. Carnations are improving, the new crop flowers being the best seen for many years at this season. Roses are fair and there is an abundance of small flowers and greens.

Various Notes.

William J. Bodger, of Arcadia, had a narrow escape with his life July 27. He returned home after dark and put his car away. He had a short errand to do and rode his bicycle. He passed a place where a gas main was being repaired, the trenches as usual being marked by red lights. Just as Mr. Bodger was passing, the main burst, the lamps igniting the gas and causing an explosion, which blew him and his bicycle sixty feet away. Strange to say, he was not injured in the slightest, a most lucky escape, for the fire from the gas reached a height of forty feet, alarming the whole neighborhood.

About fifty members of the Southern California Dahlia Association met at the Superior Dahlia Gardens last week, at the invitation of C. E. Gutting. Everyone was interested and pleased with the fine display. All of the choicest commercial varieties are included in this collection, as well as a number of choice seedlings raised by Mr. Gutting.

H. N. Gage is back on the job, after his automobile trip to the Yosemite. He was accompanied by Mrs. Gage and drove up the coast route and down the valley. He said that he had a wonderful and an enjoyable trip.

A beautiful piece of work noted at the Broadway Florist's last week was a casket cover of Ophelia roses and Delphinium Belladonna. Business is brisk here.

Louis Dubin, of Wolfskill's & Morris Goldenson, is away on a well-earned vacation.

The Butterfly roses coming from the greenhouses to the store of Wright's Flower Shop are extra good in quality for this season.

Let's Sit Down Here In The Cool And Talk This Over

That is what we just said to a visitor from the South. We had just finished showing him through our plant. He saw the Roses, house after house of them, all varieties from Cecile Brunner to American Beauty. Then he saw the 9 new houses, almost finished, that will hold 50,000 more Rose plants. We had a good look at the Cyclamens. He was kind enough to say that he never saw such a fine lot in his life. They certainly are "Jim Dandies," almost 100,000 of them. And so we went on through the acres of Plumosus, saw Heather by the tens of thousands, inspected water system, heating plant, saw-mill and box factory. There is only one result when a man does this; he said, "I want to arrange to ship all my stuff from Armacost's this winter."

Then we found a cool spot and talked prices, varieties, express rates and weight of plants.

That is exactly what we want to do with you. We don't care where you live, where you were born, or whether you buy one plant or a thousand. We want to get right down to business and help you to make money out of the flower game. If you make it we will take chances on getting our share. Come to see us if you can. If not, won't you write us about your difficulties, get our samples and prices, so that we are all ready to go when the cool weather starts?
Just now Asters are all the go.

S. S. Skidelsky, of Philadelphia, arrived in the city last week.

A look through the nursery of the Western Rose Co., at Alhambra, shows the wisdom of the move from Pasadena, the soil being greatly preferable for rose growing. This season a magnificent lot of plants are growing, over 500,000 in all the finest commercial varieties. The place consists of about thirty acres and most of this is in roses. Looking through the rows, it is quite apparent that great care has been taken to keep the varieties true to name, while the character of the growth made, though free, is hard and of the kind that will ripen up and ship well. In fact, the stock has never been in such good condition as this year. Digging usually commences in December, but most of the plants are shipped during the first two months of the year. Everything is on own roots here, so the propagating is a big job, starting in late summer. The propagating beds are all being cleaned now and put in order for the coming season.

Archer's Gardens, on Marengo avenue, Alhambra, consist of three acres and form an attractive place, owing to the good order maintained and the showy nature of the subjects grown, cannas, dahlias and gladioli. Mr. Archer has a fine collection of the best commercial varieties and is working along the lines of improvement by selection and hybridizing. Some of his seedling dahlias have taken first honors in local shows and he is constantly adding the best in each class to his collection. A fine type of Golden West dahlia was attractive on a recent visit. As is well known, there are inferior varieties under this name, but, at its best, it is still a fine commercial cut flower.

Mr. Cut Flower Grower! Plant Fraser's Strain, they are first in size and otherwise.

CALENDULA King of Kings (Fraser's Production)

We believe this strain of Calendula has a great future before it. A Golden progeny of the famous Double Orange King. Color: Dazzling orange. The flowers are larger and the blue-black disk smaller, with broad overlaid petals. Habit: 2 feet, with fine erect heads and stiff stems, and for these reasons will be in great demand for the flower market. Trade pkt., $1.00; Ounce, $2.50.

NEW MYOSOTIS President Harding Blue: (Fraser's Introduction) Winter-flowering.

This new Winter-flowering Myosotis (Forget-me-not) is the result of a carefully thought-out cross, said by some experts to surpass any other strain yet offered. Color: Harding Blue. Habit: Bold and branching, forming open bushes from 18 to 20 inches high and of equal diameter, extra vigorous sprays of bloom last long as cut flowers. Trade pkt., $1.00; 3 Trade pkts., $2.00.

COSMOS Extra Early Single Dahlia-Flowered (Fraser's Selection)

A very fine strain, the result of many years' careful selection. Its points for earliness, size, color and productiveness are good all round. Height: 4 feet, with flowers of splendid substance, resembling giant single Dahlia flowers and stiff stems, unusual in the older varieties. The most profitable cutting cosmos in cultivation. We are offering 2 separate colors: Dahlia White, Dahlia Pink, Dahlia Mixed. Trade pkt., $1.00; 3 Trade pkts., $2.00.

Walter Armacost has been kept so busy with the large additions and alterations to the Sawtelle range that he says he will have to cut out his annual fishing trip this year. He usually gets away into the wilds for a few weeks for golden trout, but he can see no way out this season. Progress is fine on the new range. One of the more recent additions to the equipment is an electrically driven pipe cutter, which is a wonder at labor-saving. More and more baskets continue to arrive at the store, showing that the policy of the firm to turn these over quickly at low prices is turning out successfully.

deer season, killed and reported the first deer shot in the Los Angeles district. He has been getting considerable publicity in the local press for the feat. Mr. Brose will join the staff of Herbert Bateman, when the latter opens his new store, about September 1.

Jack D'Ortignac leaves for a business trip and to visit his brother at San Francisco. In the recent parade, Mr. D'Ortignac decorated five floats for the municipal departments here.

M. McKiernan, manager of the American Florists' Exchange, on Winston street, has no cinch, but he is tireless in helping everyone out to the best of his ability, and a good deal of the success of the market is due to his hard work, constant attention and diplomacy.

Howard Turner & Co., who have been growing dahlias and other stock for some time at Arcadia, are coming in now with the cut. Although not in great quantity, the flowers are of fine varieties and exceedingly well grown.

All will regret to hear of the serious illness of the father of the Polder brothers, of Montebello. According to John Polder, his father has been ailing for a long time past, but has recently had to take to his bed. Mr. and Mrs. Polder came to this country from Holland a few years ago to be with their sons, who have been running a nursery and florists' business here for a number of years.

Anton Graales, of the Athletic Club Florist's staff, has purchased a new automobile.

Frank Lichtenberg has been suffering from the effects of an accident, which occurred on his vacation. The work in the new store is now practically complete. C. C. Thomas is taking his vacation.

Tony Tassano is bringing in gladioli that he says are the product of half-inch bulbs planted last season. If this is so, it says wonders for the quality of the soil at Burbank.

J. Gordon is still suffering the effects of his automobile accident, although sticking as closely as possible to Darling's Shop.

The Market.

The market is daily transformed into a wonderful aster show. On account of their being so plentiful, asters are not high in price. Only a few carnations are seen and not many roses. It was stated that only one house sent in sweet peas last week. Gladioli are scarce. There are a few chrysanthemums, mostly Golden Glow. The real mum season will not begin till September. Pompon dahlias are plentiful and are extensively purchased for baskets, etc. Amaryllis Belladonna is beginning to be shown and there is a quantity of the usual outdoor stock, while gardenias and lilies of the valley are available, although they are not overplentiful. More and more of the large dahlias are being brought in by the growers and interest in these flowers is increasing with the approach of the dahlia shows scheduled for September.

Various Notes.

No date has yet been set for the opening of the new flower market, on Bush street, near Kearney. There is a rumor that it will be thrown open August 15, but P. Matraia, of the Art Floral Co., one of the prime movers in the market, states that work has not yet begun on the necessary alterations. During the dry season it is not much inconvenience to the growers to continue their custom of halting their automobiles on the street, but, when the rains commence, there is a growing belief that, with the growers and the new market, it will be a case of "come in out of the rain." Having been built for serving the purposes of a large garage, the market has ample space for cars and trucks.

W. W. Keefe, of the Casper Floral Co., Casper, Wyo., has just passed through San Francisco on a motor trip along the Pacific coast, with Mrs. Keefe. They are en route for Portland, Ore.

The deer season opened August 1 and the first florists to report bagging any of the coveted game are Robert Durrazo, of Fred Bertrand's Palace Hotel Flower Shop, and Joseph Gregory, well-known grower. They got two deer, near Novato. Gus. Taylor, of the Bertrand staff, has returned from a vacation in the Sacramento valley.

George P. Wagner, decorator for Joseph's, has returned from a motor trip in the southern part of the state.

P. B. Norton, partner of J. A. Axell, has telegrams from satisfied customers to show the success the firm is having in shipping asters, dry, to Chicago, Kansas City, etc. "This is how we are packing," said Mr. Norton; "we keep the stems in water all morning; then we take them out, strip the leaves, dry the stems and pack them dry. No ice is used. The asters get there in fine shape."

Darbee seems to be the first of the local florists to ship any of the new crop of chrysanthemums east. October Frost is beginning to come from the nurseries of the firm and Mrs. Darbee states that the blooms are standing the journey well. The reopening of the schools has had a stimulating effect on the retail business, Mrs. Darbee states.

The E. W. McLellan Co. expects its fall crop of roses by the middle of September.

The United Flower & Supply Co. states that the great heat in the south and portions of the middle west has had a most stimulating effect on the trade in California strawflowers.

Domoto Bros. are beginning to ship their asters and are busy drying strawflowers. Lilium rubrum is now coming from their nurseries.

Enomoto & Co., Inc., have plenty of Golden Glow chrysanthemums coming from the nurseries, but they will not start shipping mums till September 1, when their Monrovia mums will be in. They say that the asters are now of excellent shipping quality.

The Growers' Floral Co., according to Yukichi Noda, is making a specialty of strawflowers, which are popular at present. Mr. Noda says the company is shipping asters which are of good stock.

Miss Dolores Howard, who has been for some months on the staff of Joseph's, has gone to her home at Minneapolis for a rest and vacation.

Pelicano, Rossi & Co. had the decorations for the national conclave of the Knights of Columbus, held in this city during the first week in August. Gladioli and dahlias were used, and the decorations were much admired by the Knights and their friends, who came here in great numbers.

Manuel Russell, of Podesta & Baldocchi's staff, returned August 1 from a two weeks' walking trip through the northern part of the state.

Edward Sceery, of Passaic and Paterson, N. J., when calling on F. C. Jaeger & Son early in August, expressed admiration for their telegraph delivery window. M. M.

The Market.

The finish of business for July was marked by more noticeable activity than was the case during the month itself, and a fairly respectable total was recorded for the latter part of the last week's business. There were no notable changes in the stock offerings and the demand proved entirely within the limits of current deliveries. Dahlia cuts are increasing daily, both as to volume and variety, with some of the current items in crimsons and yellows popular with the buyers. Snapdragon is still a standard flower in basket work. The cut of outdoor gladioli leaves little to be desired in the matter of quality.

Roses are in light supply, but plentiful enough for all needs. Columbia is the most common just now, with Ophelia and Butterfly coming along in greater quantities. Baby roses are common enough for the general demand and this item has been freely used in corsages of late. Russell and Hadley are expected to increase within the next fortnight. The cut of Ulrich Brunner has slackened, although this variety is still offered in a small way. Among the long-stemmed items, Lilium rubrum, monkshood and Shasta daisies may be mentioned and, in medium length, calendulas, perennial mums, early pompons and asters.

There is a real shortage of orchids, while the cut of gardenias and stephanotis has been increasing. A gain has has also been noted in bouvardia. Carnations are generally good now, although the cut is light.

Various Notes.

The City Flower Shop used dahlias in a water tank recently and this floating flower attracted much attention from passers-by. A fine showing of ferns has been made by this shop of late.

William Holmes, of the Hollywood Gardens, is away on his vacation and will spend at least a part of this on Mount Rainier. Miss Wagner is back at work after an enjoyable rest. Novelty small baskets, with butterfly decorations, the work of E. O. Peterson, are being featured with good effect by this shop. Pink roses, lavender and white sweet peas and greens were used last week to make a most effective casket cover.

C. T. Kipp, of the Spokane Florist Co., was a street visitor last week, coming over to attend the opening of "The Wayfarer" at the university stadium. He reports good business, considering the summer season, for that city and says that Spokane growers will be prepared to offer even better Laddie carnations this season than last.

Summer gladioli in yellow and variegated shades have been featured by the Orpheum Floral Co. of late with good effect. There has been a better demand for small baskets.

George Antenen, of the Seattle Floral Co., has returned from his vacation and

NEWS OF THE NURSERY TRADE

GROW shrubs. It seems unlikely that there ever will be overproduction of good stock.

THE Pasco County Grove & Nursery Co., of Tampa, Fla., has been incorporated. The capitalization of the company is $250,000.

THE official roster of the Elizabeth Nursery Co., Elizabeth, N. J., is: President, E. Runyon; vice-president, Foster M. Voorhees; secretary, W. W. Delap.

DURING the hot spell in the middle west, ended by rains last week, Hydrangea paniculata grandiflora and weigelias suffered from the drought most of all, being burned badly in some Illinois nurseries.

AS a rule, nurserymen suffered less from the drought this summer than they did a year ago. Care to conserve what moisture there was by keeping the soil covered with a heavy dust mulch was responsible for the better fortune in some cases.

WILLIAM PITKIN, president of the Chase Bros. Co., Rochester, N. Y., reports that stock there has not suffered seriously from the heat or drought. A few perennials that were planted during the dry spell were lost, but otherwise no serious trouble occurred.

E. E. MAY, vice-president of the Mount Arbor Nurseries, Shenandoah, Ia., reports that the dry weather early in April affected the stands, but since that time there has been plenty of rainfall, and growth has been good. The dry spring affected the smaller stock particularly.

IN no profession is customers' confidence of so great importance as in the nurserymen's. The fact that months and even years must pass before satisfaction, or the reverse, is to be had by the customer makes the desire to deal only with the most reliable nurserymen the more frequently observed.

STOCK at the D. Hill Nursery Co., Dundee, Ill., is in excellent condition, considering the season. All of the smaller trees are under water and the larger specimen evergreens do not suffer from the dry weather. On the whole, the condition of the stock is better this year than in previous seasons, says President D. Hill.

THE late freeze last spring proves to have done considerable damage in a number of nurseries. One Illinois grower reports that one block containing 20,000 Spiræa Anthony Waterer was entirely wiped out after the plants had made considerable growth. A block of Philadelphus aurea and one of Spiræa Thunbergii were also badly damaged.

THE recent rains have been a boon to nurseries in which stock had been previously retarded by the heat and drought. The Onarga Nursery Co., Onarga, Ill., for instance, reports that the blocks of privet, spiræa and honeysuckle there have grown more in the last week or ten days than in a month before. Stock in general looks well at this time.

TWISTING a piece of burlap around the roots of a tree does not entitle it to the classification, "balled." One may sell a first order and get away with it, but not a second.

REPORT from the Harrison Nursery Co., York, Neb., is that nursery stock is making up in fine shape. At no time has it suffered from heat or drought, and a bumper crop is predicted.

AS is his usual custom, William A. Peterson, head of Peterson Nursery, Chicago, is spending the summer at Winona lake, Ind., with an occasional dash to Chicago. The force at the nursery is busy, as the time for shipping iris roots is now on.

NURSERYMEN GO VISITING.

A number of members of the Massachusetts Nurserymen's Association and their friends met at Horticultural hall, Boston, early August 2 for a tour of inspection of various nurseries. The day proved to be overcast and cool, but rain fortunately held off.

The Eastern Nurseries, Holliston, were first visited. This excellent place is in the hands of the family of the late Jackson Dawson, of the Arnold Arboretum. Splendid blocks of large, handsome evergreens were noted here and in the nurseries were seen many rare and unusual plants, of which a good number were of Chinese introduction. Herbaceous perennials, rock plants, low-growing evergreens for ground covers, Scotch heather and roses were all represented here.

Leaving Holliston, the visitors next headed for Framingham and the extensive nurseries of Richard M. Wyman were gone over. Both evergreen and deciduous trees and shrubs were well done here and the general cleanliness after a month of hot, moist weather was surprising. Many new and interesting subjects were noted here.

After an excellent lunch had been served by Mr. Wyman, the Little Tree Farms, of the American Forestry Co., covering several hundred acres, were inspected. Here are to be seen millions of Pinus Strobus and other popular evergreens and great numbers of deciduous trees. Theodore F. Borst, the manager, had the nurseries in fine condition and the visitors greatly enjoyed the visit here and to the other nurseries. The day proved interesting and instructive. W. N. C.

MOON BACK FROM GERMANY.

J. Edward Moon, past president of the A. A. N. and member of the William H. Moon Co., Morrisville, Pa., returned last week from Germany, where he and Mrs. Moon have been for the last year helping to feed the starving orphans in the Essen district, acting for the American Friends' service committee. The Essen district, of which Mr. Moon was manager, had nearly 300,000 orphans and adults to feed daily and to supply with clothes.

government and those welfare societies working have split the funds needed to carry out the relief work,'' Mr. Moon said in an interview upon his return. ''In the fall a drive will be taken up among the German-American population of this country to raise $3,000,000. When this is done, another $3,000,000 will be asked from the German government. When I first arrived there the condition of the children, both physically and mentally, was appalling. One can hardly realize how much these poor souls were in need of food, clothing and medical attention. Boys and girls 10 years old had the physical appearance of children three or four years younger. The mental condition was nearly as bad.''

Discussing the attitude of the Germans toward the allied nations, he said that, after interviewing numerous persons, he thought the attitude at present favored America.

''The people have taken their defeat philosophically,'' he said, ''and are doing their best to restore the industries to the prewar basis. In the Ruhr district and those other districts which have the raw materials for carrying on business the industries are running to the prewar capacity, but in the textile sections, or where the raw materials must be imported, the mills are nearly all shut down. This is caused by the inability of the manufacturer to get credit to purchase the raw material. Krupp's are running very near their capacity and are exporting many locomotives to Russia.

''The younger generation, although anxious to see America, have taken the only sensible outlook; that is, they understand that everybody must do his utmost to restore the 'Fatherland' to its former status, and they must stay and do their part. The world empire, the dream of the Hohenzollerns, has been entirely squelched, and the people seem to be perfectly satisfied with being one of the great powers. A large loan, so as to enable her to buy raw materials for the textile industries and other necessities, must come if Germany is ever to come back. In my opinion, though, help to the utmost from eight to ten years will be required for Germany to recuperate.''

CARE OF CUTTINGS.

Will you tell me why I lost all my green-wood cuttings under the following conditions? I used an old 2-sash bed, with eighteen inches of manure covered with six inches of fine sand, screened gravel and a little loam mixed. The frame is old and not absolutely airtight. I used a muslin shade three feet above the glass. The cuttings, taken the last of June, were perhaps a little mature because of the advanced season. They were set one inch and sometimes three inches deep. They were watered daily. The bed was shaded by a tree in the afternoon. A green mold formed in part of the bed on the surface of the sand. The cuttings have not formed calluses and nearly all have damped off or dried up.

W. E. J.—Ind.

A tight frame is absolutely essential to the successful propagation of cuttings in summer of either deciduous or evergreen shrubs. A gentle bottom heat obtained from a bed of leaves and horse manure, while not absolutely necessary, is helpful, especially when propagating roses, lilacs and some other shrubs which are occasionally classed as "finicky." The wood should be in all cases what is known as half ripe. Great care should be taken not to allow the cuttings to dry up or heat before insertion in the cutting frame. I like either to throw them in a tub of perfectly fresh water or to sprinkle them and keep them covered until they are ready for insertion. Be careful not to let the cuttings stand in any receptacle over night, especially of metal, as water becomes putrid quickly in hot weather. It is a good plan to cut away portions of the leaves of all cuttings with rather large leaves, such as lilacs, viburnums, hydrangeas, etc.

One should make it a point to water the cuttings well after they are put in. Then spray lightly, but frequently, as often as five or six times a day in hot weather and not at all when it is dark and cool. Never allow the sand to approach dryness nor allow the atmosphere to become dry. It is preferable to lay three or four inches of coarse sand over the loam and not to mix the two, as this is more liable to cause fungi to form and spread. Constant watchfulness is necessary successfully to propagate green-wood cuttings, but such subjects as loniceras, viburnums, diervillas, some species of lilacs, all philadelphus, hydrangeas, deutzias, forsythias, ligustrums, spiræas and symphoricarpos should propagate readily in summer under the right conditions, which include incessant care. CYCLAMEN CYCLAMEN

The above is a view in one of our houses of 2 and 3-inch Cyclamen. Our strain is of the finest, clear colors, carefully selected, well assorted, mostly bright shades, free from disease.

If you want good stock for early sales, place your order at once. None of our seed is sown later than August, consequently our plants will bloom earlier than those grown from later-sown seed.

The following prices are as low as good stock, well packed, can be sold:

Strong, ready to shift, 2-inch, $ 8.00 per 100; $ 75.00 per 1000
3-inch, 16.00 per 100; 150.00 per 1000
4-inch, 25.00 per 100; 225.00 per 1000
Extra large and early, 5-inch, 45.00 per 100

250 or more at 1000 rate. Cash with order.

The above prices include careful packing.

The Market.

Last week business was variable. At times there was a great demand for certain flowers and then again it was almost impossible to move the stock. There has been plenty of all kinds of stock to offer, gladioli and asters being the largest in supply. The supply of lilies has been short of the demand and good prices are being obtained. While asters and gladioli are in heavy supply, a majority of this stock is of poor quality. Long-stemmed asters are in demand. This seems to be an exceptional year for outdoor stock; in fact, there seems to be more outdoor stock on the market this season than ever before and there is little demand for this merchandise.

Green galax and leucothoe sprays are again to be had. Southern plumosus has been coming along in large supply.

The quality of roses has somewhat improved, yet they are still of the summer class. The supply is rather limited, yet is sufficient to take care of the demand.

Greenhouse Heating

SUBSCRIBERS are invited to write the editor of this department with regard to any details of greenhouse heating that are not understood. When information is desired regarding the capacity of boilers, or the amount of radiation required for a greenhouse, the needed temperatures should be stated in the inquiry, as well as the amount of glass in the side walls, and the dimensions and general arrangement of the greenhouses. It is often helpful, also, to have a sketch showing the location of the houses.

THREE FLOWS NEEDED.

I have just built a small greenhouse, 15 x 30 feet. The house extends north and south and has twenty-four inches of glass on each side and forty inches of glass in the front, or south end. It is twelve feet to the ridge and about eight feet to the gutter. I want to keep it at 60 degrees when it is 10 below zero outside. I contemplate using 1½-inch pipe for returns. Will you advise me as to the number of flows and returns and the proper sizes to use?

A. R. S.—Mont.

To heat the greenhouse described, run three 2-inch pipes lengthwise of the house as flows, placing one on each side wall plate and the other under the ridge. Connect each of these flow pipes with three 1½-inch returns arranged in coils under the benches.

GETTING A DRAFT.

I have three greenhouses, each 21x100 feet, and one lean-to, 16x100 feet, comprising 9,200 square feet of glass. The total length of pipe for heating is as follows: Returns, 3,300 feet of 1½-inch and 900 feet of 1-inch pipe; feeds, 600 feet of 2½-inch and 100 feet of 3-inch pipe. The heating system is hot water from a converted steam boiler, which has forty-three flues, each sixteen feet long. The grate is 4x4 feet. What height and diameter should the smokestack be to obtain the proper draft? At present I have a brick stack, twenty-seven inches square and thirty-six feet high, but it has not been giving me the proper draft. As a matter of fact, we have been unable to burn the steam coal regularly used in greenhouses. Any information you can give will be appreciated.

T. M. C.—Colo.

While it is desirable to have a stack of a somewhat greater height than thirty-six feet for a boiler of the size mentioned, the cross-section area of the flue is fully twice as large as is generally used. Ordinarily, for boilers of this size, it is considered that a flue with an area one-seventh the area of the grate is suffciently large. The area of the grate is 2,304 square inches, and

KROESCHELL BOILERS

Kroeschell Boilers have a long-established reputation for being the best boilers for greenhouse heating. Their efficiency has been proved by years of satisfactory service in large and small ranges everywhere.

Kroeschell Boilers are selected by the most careful buyers in competition with all other types of boilers. Their efficiency and capacity are completely beyond any other boiler.

The increasing popularity of Kroeschell Hot Water and Steam Boilers is keeping our factories going at full force, filling orders coming from all corners of the country.

Big Tubes or Little—Which?

You know that every time you try to drive a ⅝-inch bolt into a ½-inch hole, you strip the thread.
Every time you try to force burning gases through small tubes, you slow down draft and soot soon chokes the tubes.
That's one of the reasons why the small tube boilers require such high chimneys.
They must have strong enough draft to literally drag the gases through the boiler.

When we designed this Tubular boiler of ours, we didn't try to drive a ⅝-inch bolt into a ½-inch hole.
We made the two combustion tubes and the return tubes big enough so the gases will pass through easily, giving a more complete combustion and therefore greatly reducing the scoting up of the tubes.

But not content with that, we made the entire combustion chamber at the rear of the boiler - water surrounded.
A big surface that in other boilers is a dead surface, is a mighty live one in the Burnham.
Now to make firing easier, we made the fire box doors good and big—just as big as you have always wished fire box doors were.

Then on the large size ones, we put side doors on the ash pit to make cleaning out easier.
We thought we had a good boiler, but those who own them have frankly told us some good things that surprised us.
If you would like to hear what some of those things are, you are cordially invited to be our guest and we will go on a little calling trip with you.
You say when.

one-seventh of this is 328. A chimney twenty-seven inches square inside has an area of 729 square inches.

If the draft is not good, it is possible that there is some defect in the arrangement of the bridge, or of some other part of the boiler that will affect the draft.

While the flue is sufficiently large to make up for any deficiency in the height of the boiler, yet, if everything else seems properly adjusted, it would be advisable to add fifteen feet to the height of the stack.

The temperature desired in the houses is not stated, but, if a temperature of 60 degrees is desired for 9,200 square feet of glass, we should use 3,100 square feet of radiation in a temperature of 10 degrees below zero.

Even though all of the feed pipes listed will furnish radiation, there would be only 2,700 square feet of radiation in the houses. It is possible, too, that some of the feed pipes are carrying too much radiation. The amount should not exceed 150 to 200 square feet for 2-inch mains, 300 to 350 for 2½-inch, and 600 to 800 square feet for 3-inch pipe. In all cases the surface of the feed pipes should be counted as a part of the radiation.

INSTALLING A BOILER.

I should like to get some information concerning the heating of a greenhouse I am planning to build. This house will be 30x80 feet, the width in reality being divided into two houses, although there will be no partition; so there will be two ridges and three gutters. We want the pipes to go under the benches. The house will run north and south. We have some 1¼-inch pipe on hand. Will this do for returns? What size of pipe will do for flows? We have some 2½-inch pipe on hand also. Please advise us as to how we can run the pipes to get the most satisfactory results. What amount of radiation and what size of boiler will be required?

W. G. B.—O.

It will require about 1,200 square feet of radiation for the houses described, and it would be advisable to select a heater rated for about 1,500 square feet of radiation if hard coal is to be used. While it is preferable to use 2-inch return pipes with the 2½-inch flows, it will be possible to use the 1¼-inch pipes in the coils, provided they are well above the top of the heater, or by the installation of some kind of circulator.

We should use six 2½-inch flow pipes, placing one on the plate of each house and the other under the ridge. Twenty-two 1¼-inch returns will be required for the two houses. It would be well to use five of these on the outside wall of each house, three under each middle bench, and three under each inside bench. If 2-inch pipe were available, it would be well to use three 2-inch pipes and twelve 1¼-inch pipes in each house. Run a 3-inch main flow pipe to each house and from it take off the three supply pipes, running these to the south end of the houses, carrying them with a slight fall. There connect each flow pipe with one of the return coils and join these to the boiler by means of a 3-inch main return pipe from each house.

GETTING THE CORRECT PIPES.

I have been growing lettuce in my greenhouse, 21x50 feet, and have been heating the house by using one 3-inch flow pipe, that carries twelve 1½-inch returns, about forty-five feet long. It is my plan to build a new greenhouse, 11x50 feet. I desire to change the heating system, so that I can grow bedding plants. Would it be all right to pipe the greenhouse with a 3-inch main, as shown in the sketch I am sending, taking off from that main two branches of 2½-inch pipe to carry four 2½-inch returns? The house faces north and south and has three feet of glass on each side and three feet of concrete. I should like to heat to about 60 degrees in zero weather. G. H.—Ill.

While the 3-inch main flow pipe would probably answer for the two houses, rather better results will be secured if either a 4-inch main is used, or the flow pipe on the west side of the wide house is connected directly with the boiler. The radiation in the wide house is practically correct, although a little more might be desirable if fully 60 degrees is to be maintained in zero weather.

If the new house is to have three feet

Help Save the "White Coal of Industry"

The boiling hot water resulting from condensation in your steam lines is worth money. You have paid for it in terms of coal. It contains valuable heat units. It is the "White Coal of Industry"—it should not be wasted.

And it need not be wasted. The Morehead Back-to-Boiler System will save it for you by returning it to the boiler at temperatures as high as 400 degrees Fahrenheit. It reduces coal consumption an average of 20%. At the same time your steam will be "drier" and more efficient; your production speeded up and profits increased.

Write today for facts and figures on what the Morehead System will do in your plant.

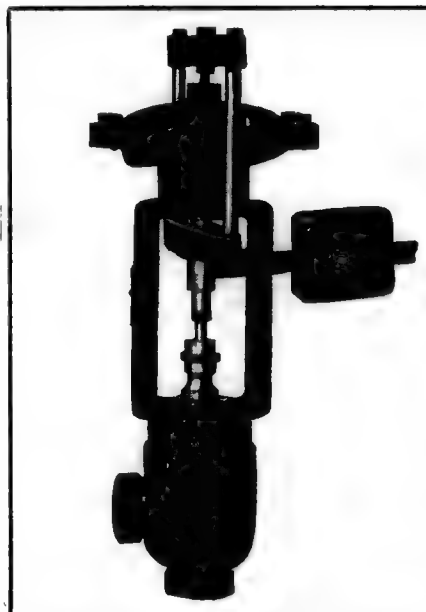
The Market.

While gladioli are coming into the market in fair quantity, enough to supply the trade, they are not overabundant and are somewhat higher in price than they were last year. Asters are beginning to come into the market, but they are not plentiful and the outlook at the present time is that the early crop will be below normal. In this section there has been much dry weather, with now and then hard rain storms. Many plants were killed by the dry weather and the strong, beating rain broke down or washed out many plants. One grower who had about 1,500 plants will have only 300 or 600 that will bloom. This will mean higher prices for asters this year.



Various Notes.

Philips Bros, 938 Broad street, have made new benches in the greenhouse back of their store and have replaced all the broken glass with new glass. The interior of the store has also been repainted.

The Rosary Floral Co., Market street, has an attractive summer window display, which attracted the attention of large numbers of passers-by. In the center of the window is a large tank of water, in which are a number of ducklings. Ferns and other plants are banked around the sides and back of the tank.

A. Begerow, 946 Broad street, has a tank in his window in which there are a number of goldfish. There is a background of ferns.

Charles J. Connelly, 320 Bank street, reports business about normal for the summer season. R. B. M.

Fisher Vacuum Pump Governor
(TYPE 8)

Constant Circulation for Vacuum Systems

It is absolutely essential that condensation keep moving.

Lack of sufficient vacuum in your returns will cause accumulation of condensation, hinder circulation and reduce the heat value of your steam.

Maintenance of proper vacuum and assurance of constant heat throughout your range at all times is positively assured if is properly installed on your vacuum pump.

FISHER VACUUM PUMP GOVERNOR
(Type 8)

This governor is today serving thousands of florists throughout the world. It is especially recommended because of its sensitiveness in operation. Lever and weight control is positive, never changing.

Once adjusted, the Fisher Vacuum Pump Governor will consistently, year after year, maintain the exact amount of vacuum required—and will do it closer than any hand regulation.

Now is the time to prepare for the rigors of the coming winter. Our Bulletin No. 101 tells you all about the Fisher Vacuum Pump Governor. Write for your copy today.

The Market.

Asters and gladioli are the leaders in the local market, if it can be said that there is any market at the present time. Funeral work furnishes about all the activity there is and a few small weddings help out. There has been an especially active demand the last week for white roses, which have been scarce and have brought good prices. As a rule, the roses have been of good quality, although not overabundant, as most of the growers are off crop now. What few carnations there are in the market are of mediocre quality.

Various Notes.

The Kingston fair, with a greatly enlarged flower list, will be held September 13 to 17 this year.

Stephen D. Green, representing H. Bayersdorfer & Co., Philadelphia, was a business visitor here last week.

John Tourzik, wire foreman for J. E. Koppelman, has been on a few weeks' vacation.

Miss Ann O'Connor, bookkeeper for Johnson Bros., is enjoying a vacation in the White mountains.

William Doel, of Pascoag, was in the city last week, looking for supplies.

William A. Bowers and his family have been on a several days' automobile trip in Massachusetts.

Elmer E. King, of Attleboro, was a business visitor in this city last week.

F. C. Hoffman, of Pawtucket, is making a complete renovation of his place.

The farm, with all buildings and improvements, including greenhouses, of the late William Hay, located between Hope and Phoenix avenues, Cranston, is to be sold at mortgage sale August 27, at 1 o'clock.

Christian Jensen, gardener at Butler hospital, Friday reported to the police that while he was at the Union station he lost $80. He doesn't know whether it was stolen or whether it slipped out of his pocket.

Michele Iannotti is making a complete rearrangement and renovation of the range of greenhouses recently purchased from Thomas Curley, at 15 Harkness street.

V. J. Beraducci, 230 Atwells avenue, has added an undertaking business to his florists' business. W. H. M.

The Market.

The cooler weather and rains have brought relief to growers and have been a great benefit to all outdoor stock, which was showing bad effects from the continued heat. Roses are coming in much better and the demand for the better grades has increased.

Mr. and Mrs. John Doswell are spending the week in Chicago, attending the Pageant of Progress.

The Blossom Floral Co. has had a cool and attractive store decoration, using with other materials a number of Japanese parasols and novelties, giving the appearance of a Japanese garden.

Judge and Mrs. Vesey are taking a month's vacation, motoring through the east and Canada. Mr. Vesey expects to visit a number of the large orchid growers and to spend some time at the experiment station at Ithaca, N. Y.

W. J. & M. S. Vesey were busy last week with funeral work, having to keep the force working at night on several occasions.

Miss Alice Flick, of the Flick Floral Co., spent several days in Cleveland. While there she visited a number of the leading florists.

The Lanternier Florists report that business seemed to pick up at the middle of the week, following a slow beginning. Miss Irene Lanternier is spending a two weeks' vacation at Rome City.

Miss Clara Belle Flick, who has been visiting friends and relatives, has returned to Toledo, O.

E. Leeson, of Leipsic, O., was a visitor and reported trade as not brisk.

Messrs. McConnell and Hines, of the A. L. Randall Co., Chicago, were among the trade visitors. S. N.

SEATTLE NOTES.

reports an enjoyable motor trip to a number of northwestern points.

The reopening of the stock company season at the Wilkes theater proved the means of bringing a number of orders for large and medium-sized baskets to the Pinehurst Floral Shop, summer flowers being used almost entirely. There has been a heavier run of funeral work to report of late.

Ronald Bacchus, with the Nelligan sisters, of San Francisco, has been spending his vacation with relatives in Seattle. He called on the trade and expressed surprise at the number of new shops started here during the last year.

Ben Del Fanti is now attached to the staff of Rosaia Bros. and Ray Geiser, who was on the road with the A. L. Randall Co., Chicago, for a time, is also back with this shop. This firm handled one of the most elaborate decorations of the summer season for the reception to officers of the Pacific fleet at the Rainier Club. Electrical features were used to produce notable effects and all of the popular summer flowers were used in profusion to reproduce a Venetian garden scene. The background was made of fir boughs and maple leaves.

Melby's Flower Shop has been securing good results with French marigolds, which are again to be had in quotable amounts. Business for the close of the month made a much better showing than for earlier weeks, especially on transient business.

The Williams Floral Co. has been handling some fine sweet peas of late, although until recently out-of-town shipments have taken care of the greater share of this grower's crop.

R. Ghilarducci, president of the California Florists, of Tacoma, was the guest of local florists a part of last week.

Felix Rosaia has been showing some fine pompons of late, the stock being especially well developed for this early in the season.

A novel funeral piece was developed last week by Kenney's Home of Flowers, in the form of a large cross, with the American Legion emblem worked up in lavender and white sweet peas, bachelor's buttons and yellow calendulas. These produced an effective

I'LL bet that before the greenhouse men get through with me they'll nickname me Sunny Jim 'cause I'm going to bring them sunshine and pleasure every time they use my JIM'S ELASTIC.

My glazing material really lasts years and years and stays elastic and sticks tight to the side bar and the glass. Black glazing material is fine stuff if you never have to take it off; but my JIM'S ELASTIC is fine stuff and YOU CAN REMOVE IT EASY WHEN NECESSARY.

The name of the company I am working for is THE QUALITY BRANDS COMPANY, and my boss told me the other day that if I thought well of the proposition of going to Washington he'd buy me a ticket and let me show off in President Harding's city, look at the big monument and all the fine buildings that all of us fellows helped to build and pay for, and believe me, Jim is taking him up! You can betcha that I'll be there! Look me up!

If you ain't going to Washington (try and slip off) and you really want to see my glazing material, write me and I'll send you a sample free of charge of the finest glazing material that you ever saw.

Your old water boy,
JIM.

P. S.—If you want a GRAY color glazing material that will last, try JIM'S ELASTIC.

must be lasting, convenient and efficient. They must be constructed in accordance with the principles which have been approved by knowledge and experience. We have been in the greenhouse manufacturing business for many years and our experience is at your disposal.

Our patent LEAK-PROOF locked gutter has proven a success. If you are not using the same as yet, do so on your next houses and we know we can add your name to our list of satisfied customers.

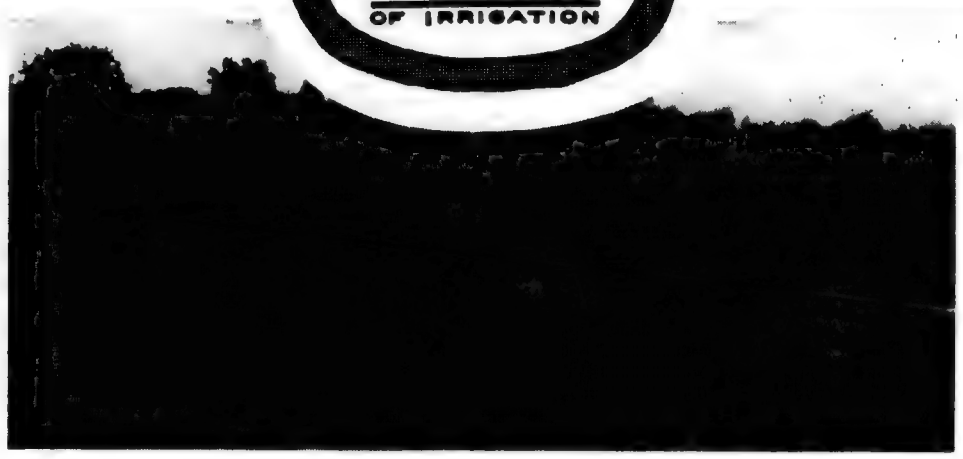
color reproduction of the lapel button of this organization. Ralph Anderson is away on his vacation.

The Woodlawn Flower Shop handled an unusual luncheon decoration at the Sunset Club last week, using tall vases set among the tables as the chief items. Hollyhocks left the full length of their stems were used in these, while smaller baskets of summer flowers were worked in on the tables proper. The color scheme was in light and dark pink and all flowers chosen were of one of these shades.

George Trafton has been bringing in some of the best snapdragon seen here for the entire season, this being true of both solid yellow and the red and yellow varieties.

Anna V. Amundson, of the Annavee Shop, at Yakima, was a recent trade visitor. General business conditions in the Yakima valley are showing every promise of improvement and the florists expect to share in this increase.



An increased cut of bouvardia and stephanotis is reported for the greenhouses of McCoy's, and the same is true of roses.

The Seattle Fern & Moss Co. notes a resumption of shipping business from a number of organizations which have been rather inactive of late, especially in the intermountain territory. Some fine shipping stock is offered here at present.

A heavier delivery of violas is welcomed by the trade, since this item is always in demand here. Fred W. Winters is bringing in the greater share of this stock at present. H. M.

SKINNER SYSTEM OF IRRIGATION

Cannas and Cats

Ever hear Loyd C. Bunch of Fredonia, Kansas, cram a three hundred word talk into about seventeen and a half?
If you haven't you will appreciate his cat and canna remark.
If you have, you will doubly appreciate it.
He says: "Healthy cannas lap up water like a cat does milk. Give both all they need of both, and both will be sleek and fat.

"Look at those King Humberts; they have so many glad rags on, that a lot of the florists who look at them, don't know it's his Nibs.
What's the secret of my heavy root clumps?
More than half of it is the Skinner System of watering."

That then is the half you need.
Give us the length and width of the piece of ground you want to irrigate, and we will send you some interesting facts.

PAT. APRIL, 27,'20

Mr. Grower: The work attached to the growing of chrysanthemums and tying them to a stake can be much lightened when you use "Wire Ties." This is a copy of a letter from Mr. H. R. Ebsen, Prop. Wisconsin Rapids Greenhouses, Wisconsin Rapids, Wis:

Wisconsin Rapids, Wisconsin
May 12, 1921

Mr. Wm. F. Buschardt,
Baltimore, Md.

Dear Sir:

On June 30, 1920, I ordered 5000 wire ties of you and they proved to be just what I wanted as a time saver.

They cannot be beat; they make a strong, neat tie and are a boon to small florists where time counts for much.

It used to take two of us two days to tie Chrysanthemums with string or raffia and I can now go over them alone and support them better with wire tie in three and one-half hours.

Wishing you good health and prosperity,

I am, respectfully,
H. R. Ebsen, Prop.,

LETTER FROM FERD. FISCHER.
To My Customers in America:
Those who are in the market for high grade Cyclamen seed, I wish to advise you that I have perfected the finest strain of Cyclamen seed I have ever offered, as for the past four years I have devoted my attention to improving my varieties. Cyclamen offered by me this season are all true to name and selected only from the best and healthy plants which in turn give very good results.
I have paid strict attention to my salmon and red shades particularly for the American trade. My seed soon will be offered by the American Bulb Co., who are my sole agents, and none is genuine unless purchased through the American Bulb Co. It is with pleasure that I recommend to all florists who are growers of high class plants to try out my seed. I hold recommendations from the best growers in the world. Yours very truly,
FERD. FISCHER.

Trinidad, Colo.—Work has been started on the new office of the Fisher Flower Shop. The present office will be converted into a greenhouse. About six months ago Mr. Fisher established the Flower Shop as a distributing point for the Park Floral Co.

Breckville, O.—The Breckville Dahlia Farm, operated by Fred C. Ehrlor, Jr., has just planted eight and one-half acres of dahlias, besides several acres of peonies, roses and gladioli. The two farms operated contain 168 acres.

Here are the first Hitchings houses The Harveys have built. They are Half Iron Construction.

Note that ALL purlins are angle iron, screwed DIRECTLY to each roof bar. Also that ALL column fittings are bolted through and through the columns.

Alban Harvey & Sons, Makers of History Among History Makers

Seems like I never go to see The Harveys, that they don't tell of some new and strikingly interesting bit of history concerning the Revolutionary battle of Brandywine, which was fought mainly on their property

The longer I live, the more convincing is the thought that our surroundings have a tremendous effect on our lives.

To live right in the midst of the scene of that battle, and directly on ground hallowed by the blood of those sturdy unfaltering patriots, is surely reflected in the character and accomplishments of The Harveys.

They have ever stood for high ideals; but have never been content to simply STAND for them.

Their ideals ARE their lives.

They LIVE them, and do business WITH and BY them.

They are fighters for freedom from everything that is not square and fair, right down to the last detail.

They are just as surely making history as those patriots led by Washington and counseled by Lafayette.

As they have lived, they have built; sturdily and soundly.

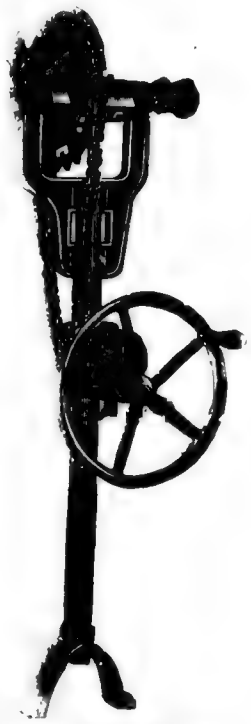
An Ideal Greenhouse Arrangement for Private Estate

BUILT FOR W. L. TAYLOR AT EVANSTON, ILLINOIS

Here is a layout that will fill nearly all the requirements of a medium sized private estate.



The conservatory, in which there are palms, ferns and blooming plants, is attached to one side of the dining room of the residence.

The greenhouse, in which the growing is done, is off to one side with the potting room attached at one end.

The boiler for heating the greenhouse is located in the large servants' building alongside of the heating plant for all the buildings.

If you are contemplating building a conservatory of any description we would be pleased to hear from you.

CONVENTION NUMBER

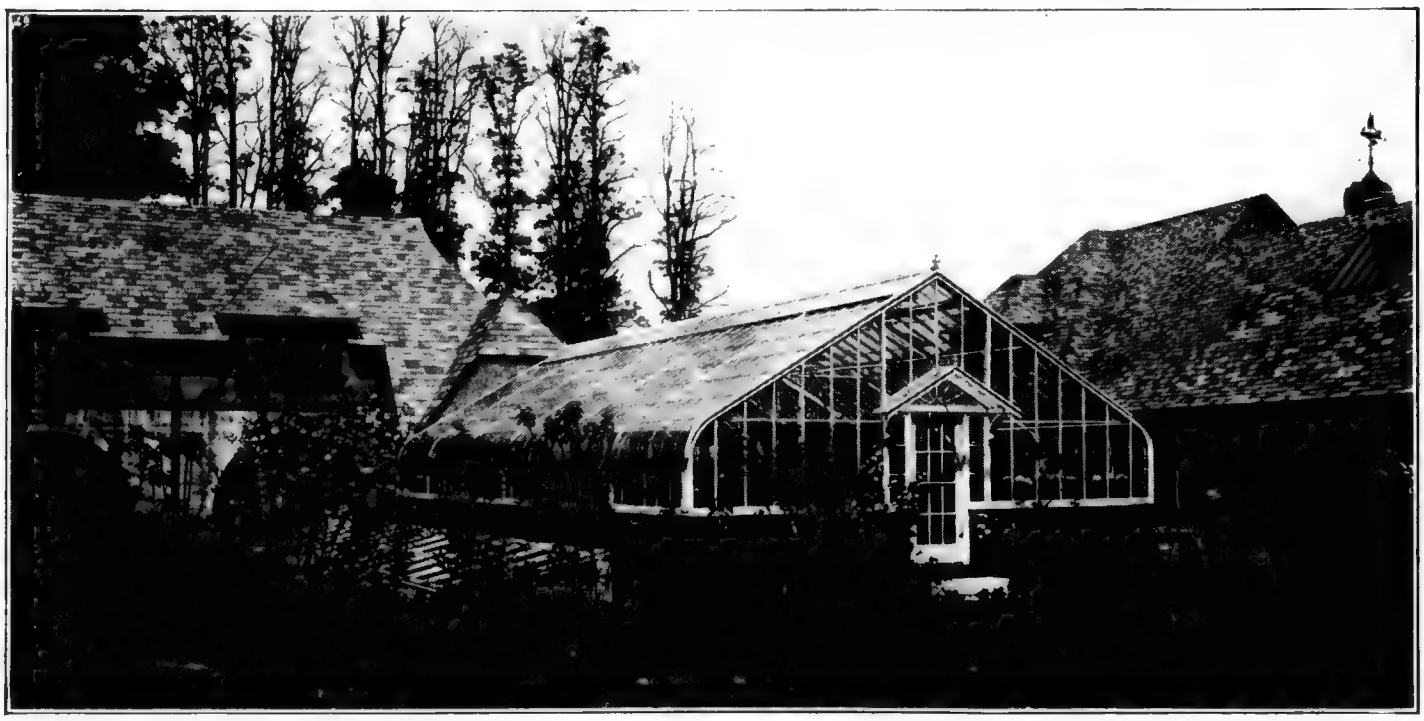
Greenhouse Builders

A Close Up On A Hitch Up

Strange, wasn't it, why so many private greenhouses used to be put away off somewheres on the place all by their lonesome!
Who do you suspect is responsible for the change?

The architect has done it.
He comes along and says to an owner: "Look here. All your buildings ought to be grouped or hitched up together, instead of spotting them around, all over the place.
It will look a lot better.
It will cost less to build them.
It will cost less to run them."

All of which sounds mighty good to the owner. So among the first things he has the architect do with the greenhouse, is exactly what we tried to get him to do, and he wouldn't listen.
He attached his greenhouse to the garage or some of his other buildings, as in the picture below. For which Donn Barber the well known New York architect is in this instance responsible.



Of course, a lot of greenhouses have in times past, been placed by architects in locations where growing conditions were sacrificed for looks, in spite of all the gardener could say.
But happily for all concerned, architects now-a-days are working in perfect harmony with us, and we with them.
We welcome their artistic suggestions.
They take advantage of our exact knowledge and practical experience.
As a result, the greenhouse has at last come "into its own" and is getting the careful consideration it has so long merited.
If you think your employer would be interested, we will gladly send him photos of greenhouses grouped with buildings or separate.

NEW CROP Formosum Lilies

Just Arrived—Immediate Delivery

Our first shipment of Formosum Lilies are now in transit from Seattle to Chicago.
While the crop is extremely short, we will be able to execute 100% of all orders we have taken in advance. We are able to book new orders from one to ten-case lots only. We offer the following prices from our first arrival of Formosum Lilies:

Williamsport, Pa.
Dec. 6, 1920.

American Bulb Co.,
Chicago, Ill.

Gentlemen:

We have received your shipment of Lily Bulbs. We desire to commend both the quality of the bulbs and the manner in which they were packed. We have never seen a finer lot of bulbs.

Very truly yours,
Evenden Bros. Co.

Lilium Giganteum Crop

(PRICES NOT YET FIXED)

Reports from Japan indicate that Giganteum crop will be extremely scarce. Less than four million came to America last season. This season there is a report that there will be 20% shortage, so our advice to the Florists in order to assure themselves of Lilies for this coming year, is to buy a few cases of Formosum.

Paper White Narcissi---Grandiflora Type

Paper White Narcissi, like other Bulbs, are very scarce. Our good connections with the reliable Growers of France, enables us to execute our orders in full, and a surplus to take care of Florists who are still in the market, and have not as yet bought.

Order through the AMERICAN BULB COMPANY, and you can depend upon getting the true Grandiflora Type, up to size and well matured bulbs.

Mail us your order TODAY, or we will be glad to quote you on any quantity you desire.

NEW COLORED FREESIAS

The only colored Freesias that have made good when grown in quantity. Price now reduced low enough to make them a profitable bulb for everyone to grow.

Gen. Pershing (Frey)—Extra robust grower, 3 ft. in height, with 4 to 5 long side laterals; large open flowers of lavender pink, yellow lip and somewhat of a bronze cast. The cut flowers have created quite a sensation on the Chicago Market for several seasons, and command the highest market prices.

Viola (Frey)—Like a large wood violet, the lower petals of a deeper violet blue, a beautiful, distinct and valuable hybrid. The growth is about 30 inches in height, with 4 to 5 long side laterals, long enough for any floral work. Sold at good prices on the Chicago Market for several seasons.

Prices—$3.50 per 100; $30.00 per 1,000.

McCRAY
REFRIGERATORS FOR ALL PURPOSES

McCRAY builds refrigerators for every kind of business. Thousands of florists' shops, stores, markets, clubs, restaurants, hotels, hospitals, institutions and homes depend on McCray for efficient, economical refrigerator service.

For Florist Shops in Particular—McCray Refrigerators are best because they are made to conserve flowers, and at the same time give proper display to floral goods. In appearance the McCray will make any floral store more attractive. Viewed solely from the selling end, the McCray has superior qualities—for it aids in selling flowers and at the same time puts a stop to waste from spoilage.

Remember—Thirty years of continuous development have resulted in the perfected McCray System—by which fresh, cold air is kept in constant circulation through the storage chambers. The McCray System assures perfect preservation of flowers.

McCray features of convenience and appearance are of the highest type—and in the McCray you are certain to obtain years and years of satisfactory refrigerator display service. Only in the McCray will you find concentrated thirty years of unquestioned leadership in refrigerator building. Our position of leadership is a tribute to McCray quality.

Our Catalog, illustrating various models of McCray Refrigerators for Florists, will gladly be sent to your address—just write us for it: No. 74 for Florists; No. 94 for Residences.

THE FLORISTS' REVIEW

WARM WELCOME AT WASHINGTON

After sixteen years the Society of American Florists again convened in the national capital this week, drawing to Washington a heavy attendance of florists on the Atlantic seaboard, not present in large numbers at the three preceding conventions in westerly cities.

WELCOMED back to the east after three years' sojourn in western parts, the Society of American Florists drew to Washington this week an attendance quite in proportion to the density of the floricultural population on the Atlantic seaboard. Never before has the society spent more than two years west of Niagara Falls or the meridian on which it lies. But after the New York convention, the S. A. F. took a trip to the Mississippi river and returned from St. Louis by easy stages, stopping for its convention in 1919 at Detroit and in 1920 at Cleveland. Though the meeting places of the society in thirty-seven years have been almost equally apportioned to the territories on either side of the above-mentioned meridian, never till the last three years have more than two in succession been to the west of it.

Glad It's Back.

The greeting to the society upon its return to the Atlantic coast is the warmer for the longer absence. New England, not strongly represented at the western gatherings, has a good representation in Washington, and from New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland, Virginia and Ohio—all strongholds of the trade and all within easy motoring distance—have come great numbers. The middle west, particularly the Chicago and St. Louis districts, is well represented, but from beyond the Mississippi river to Washington seems to be too long and expensive a journey for many florists to make.

The sights of the national capital and the splendid automobile roads in this part of the country proved irresistible attractions for the many who choose the convention as the objective of a vacation trip. The last three years have been good ones for florists and there are few who cannot boast a gasoline-propelled vehicle, though it be but a henry. A census would find that Rockefeller's famous essence brought as many and perhaps more persons to this convention than did steam.

Those who came on business bent found ample reward for their journey to the convention, for the old eastern friends are present in full force and the exhibits of the big supply houses and plant factories—they deserve that title today — are worthy of careful study. Several exceptionally meritorious exhibits have been staged and they receive the attention that is their due. The other displays, as well, afford visitors a chance to see the newest things in the trade — and when our industry is advancing as rapidly as it is today, new things are more frequent and numerous than ever before.

Samuel S. Pennock.

Being absent in Germany on a relief mission for the Friends, Mr. Pennock received an unusual testimonial in unanimous election to the Presidency of the Society of American Florists.

Royal Reception.

If you are among the folks who value the warmth of the glad hand and the cheery smile as much as the more material considerations of such a gathering, Washington's welcome would be appreciated. Inhabitants of the national capital, it may be explained, are used to greeting visitors — most of the people in town are visitors. So they are expert at it. And, in addition,

THE FLORISTS' REVIEW

WARM WELCOME AT WASHINGTON

After sixteen years the Society of American Florists again convened in the national capital this week, drawing to Washington a heavy attendance of florists on the Atlantic seaboard, not present in large numbers at the three preceding conventions in westerly cities.

WELCOMED back to the east after three years' sojourn in western parts, the Society of American Florists drew to Washington this week an attendance quite in proportion to the density of the floricultural population on the Atlantic seaboard. Never before has the society spent more than two years west of Niagara Falls or the meridian on which it lies. But after the New York convention, the S. A. F. took a trip to the Mississippi river and returned from St. Louis by easy stages, stopping for its convention in 1919 at Detroit and in 1920 at Cleveland.

Kansas City, Mo.

Samuel S. Pennock.

Being absent in Germany on a relief mission for the Friends, Mr. Pennock received an unusual testimonial in unanimous election to the Presidency of the Society of American Florists.

the florists of the capital have put their hearts in their welcome and, if one may be permitted to mix metaphors, their shoulders behind it. Most florists know that the Washington representative of the S. A. F., William F. Gude, is close to those who wield influence and authority in the District of Columbia; so it was rather expected that he and his brother, Vice-president Adolph Gude, who, despite ill health, has been zealous in convention preparations, supported by the latter's son, A. E. Gude, at the head of the entertainment committee, as well as such energetic workers as Z. D. Blackistone, J. H. Small, Elmer C. Mayberry, Lloyd Jenkins, W. H. Ernest and still others, would make the after-business hours as alluring as the best parts of the convention program. Of the details of those allurements more anon.

Convention Hall.

Hidden under the unprepossessing aspect of convention hall were several advantages. Being away from commercial and political sections, it kept visitors to the sessions and exhibition. The exhibition hall was the second floor of the large central market at Fifth and L streets. It was a clear space, amply large enough for the exhibits, without pillars, and quite well lighted.

A bridge connected the exhibition hall to the armory in which were held the sessions of the society. On an upper floor of this building a big hall was able to hold the many who gathered for the business meetings and addresses.

Opening Session.

On the platform at the opening session were, besides the present officers, exclusive of Adolph Gude, who was compelled to be absent on account of poor health, the following past-presidents: Adam Graham, Charles H. Totty, Frank H. Traendly, F. R. Pierson, Patrick Welch, George Asmus, Philip Breitmeyer, William F. Gude, Richard Vincent, Jr., J. F. Ammann and A. L. Miller. Theodore Wirth telegraphed that he was detained in Detroit at the convention of park superintendents.

Starting in the morning instead of the afternoon, the opening session drew a large attendance, the interested crowd leaving the convention hall for the event. At 11 o'clock the Rev. Dr. James Shea Montgomery, chaplain of the House of Representatives, delivered the invocation.

The convention was then formally opened by Otto Bauer, president of the Florists' Club of Washington, who then introduced James F. Oyster, member of the board of commissioners of the District of Columbia. He delivered the political welcome of the city of Washington. Henry C. Wallace, secretary of agriculture, made the address of welcome of the government's horticultural interests. John Henry Small III delivered the trade's welcome. To these Charles H. Grakelow, of Philadelphia, delivered a stirring reply in his warm forensic manner.

Officers' Reports.

Then President Roland read his address, printed on another page of this issue, which was listened to with much interest. Motion was made to have the chair appoint a committee of five to consider the address and frame suitable resolutions.

The committee on the president's address is composed of Philip Breitmeyer, chairman; Charles P. Mueller, J. F. Ammann, Patrick Welch and Irwin Bertermann.

For the committee Irwin Bertermann at a later session presented a report and moved that the president be instructed to appoint committees to carry out all the recommendations in the address. The motion was seconded by Anton Schultheis and carried unanimously.

The minutes of the executive board were accepted as they appeared in printed form for members' perusal. Then the secretary presented his reports as they appear on other pages of this issue.

Irwin Bertermann rose to move that Vice-president Adolph Gude be remembered by a telegram and flowers from the convention. Ill health, which had compelled his relinquishing business duties for recuperation at a health resort in the spring, compelled his absence from the convention. He was much missed.

A lengthy telegram of congratulation was read from Robert C. Kerr, Houston, Tex.

The Finances.

Treasurer J. J. Hess presented a summary of the society's finances, showing the following balances in the four funds as of August 1, 1921:

Permanent fund	$49,035.76
General fund	10,015.97
Less floating checks	541.77
National publicity fund	4,723.33
Less floating checks	81.35
National flower show fund	3,551.66
Total	$67,162.28

The disbursements have been less during the last year, for decreased income has been met by conservative action on the officers' part, while they have worked harder. The report was accepted as read.

Quarantine Proves Stimulant.

For the committee on the development of American products, F. R. Pierson gave a report that was praised as one of the best expositions of the subject yet given. He told how, as a result of Quarantine No. 37, orchids are being grown, palms are being produced in California and bulbs in Tennessee, azaleas and rhododendrons in the Alleghenies, Massachusetts and New Jersey, as well as lilacs and other plants. Marked improvement has been made in gladioli, dahlias and other stock, according to Mr. Pierson.

Professor L. C. Corbett, of the Bureau of Plant Industry of the Department of Agriculture, read his essay on "Providing Stock in Substitution for Material Excluded by the Quarantine," which is printed in full in this issue, and was given a rising vote of thanks.

Secretary Young read J. Horace McFarland's report on nomenclature, which will be printed next week. Benjamin Hammond received a vote of thanks for his report on school gardens.

Gude Has a Busy Year.

The Washington representative of the S. A. F., William F. Gude, detailed in his report in that capacity the multifarious duties which had devolved upon him. They included representing the society at many meetings and assistance in entertaining several trade societies which met at the national capital during the last year. The thoroughness with which Mr. Gude interests himself in such activities makes his office a highly responsible and honorable one. He related that 458 members of the trade had registered at the office of the Washington representative, showing how important a piece of the society's machinery it is. In April of this year he was the delegate of the society at the meeting of the United States Chamber of Commerce, at which 1,500 different businesses were represented, there being over 5,000 delegates in attendance.

Mr. Gude also presented his report as chairman of the committee on tariff and legislation, which is printed on another page of this issue.

As the report of the committee on the William R. Smith memorial fund, Mr. Gude stated that there is in the bank to the fund's credit $1,000 in war savings stamps, $1,000 in Liberty bonds and $185.79 in cash, a total on hand of $2,185.79.

Kansas City in 1922.

After a discussion of the city's value as a meeting place, Philip Breitmeyer moved that the society go to Kansas City next year. Upon the second of George Asmus, it was unanimously so voted.

Heating is Heart of Business.

The session of Tuesday afternoon was opened by F. T. Giblin, with a paper on the importance of studying the heating problem, an address which F. R. Pierson praised as one of much merit. Its recommendation of the appointment of a committee to investigate the subject was deferred to the directors, with a rising vote of thanks to Mr. Giblin. The address appears in full in this issue.

The report of H. P. Knoble, deferred from the morning session, explained an apparent discrepancy between the secretary's and treasurer's reports.

Won't Raise Dues.

The membership report by J. F. Ammann gave rise to a discussion of the society's need for more funds, the advisability of increasing the dues, and the membership drive. Various proposals were offered in the course of remarks by H. A. Siebrecht, Philip Breitmeyer, H. P. Knoble, Anders Rasmussen, Irwin Bertermann, George Asmus, J. J. Hess, Mr. Ammann, Joseph Kohout and Carl Hagenburger. A motion, made by H. P. Knoble and seconded by Irwin Bertermann, to request the membership committee also to consider a plan for increasing the dues was, on the motion of Mr. Breitmeyer, laid on the table and the subject dropped, with thanks to the membership committee for its splendid work.

The address of H. B. Dorner, which is printed on another page, was heard with great interest. Upon the motion of Anders Rasmussen and the second of Joseph Kohout, Mr. Dorner was given a rising vote of thanks.

All Amendments Passed.

All the amendments recommended by the executive board, as printed in The Review for July 21, were passed unanimously. The first of these amendments provides that, in addition to the other rules on "Membership," "any member becoming in arrears for one year may be suspended, and if for two years shall be dropped from the membership roll."

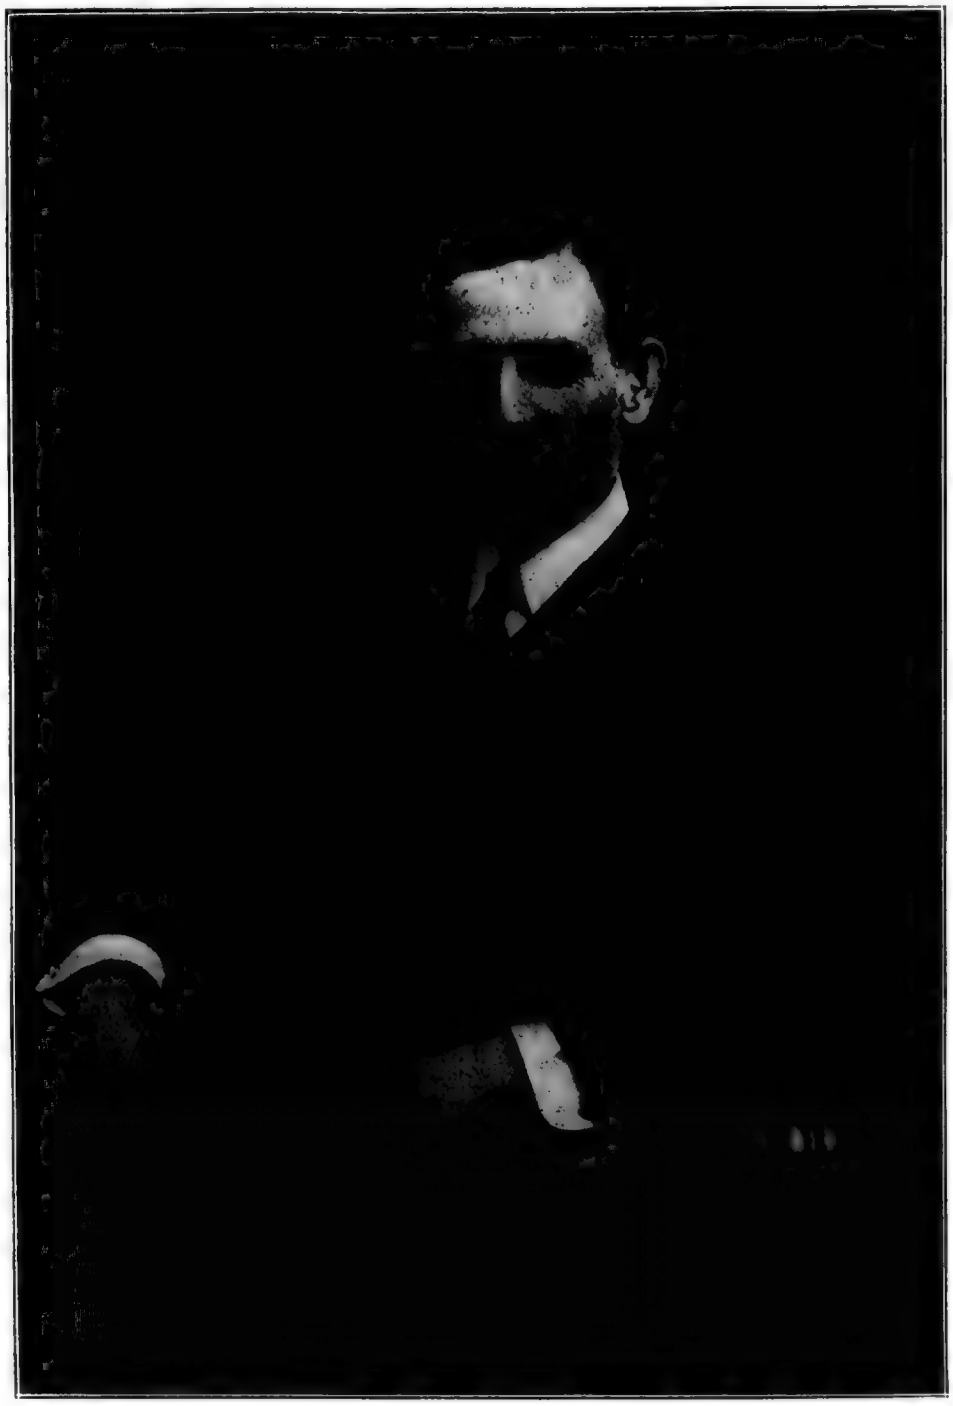
The amendment on "Standing Committees and Their Duties," Article 2,

Section 4, makes the paragraph apply to a finance committee only, taking out the sentence, "It shall be the duty of this committee to audit the books of the secretary and treasurer at least once each year just prior to the annual meeting of the executive board," and adds this sentence, "The treasurer of this society shall be a member of this committee." A paragraph is added to Article 2, Section 4, on "Standing Committees and Their Duties," which provides that the president assuming office January 1, 1922, and each succeeding president shall, immediately upon taking office, appoint from among the members of the society, other than the directors, a committee of three, who shall audit the books of the treasurer and secretary at least once each year just prior to the annual meeting of the executive board and at such other times as may be deemed advisable.

According to an amendment of Article 2, Section 3, on the "Duties of Officers," it now is provided that before the treasurer pays bills they shall be approved by the president and secretary and by the chairman of the finance committee. Before amended the latter phrase read "by the chairman of the audit and finance committee."

The amendments all are calculated to simplify the routine work of the society, to surround the funds with greater safeguards and to afford the laity increased assurance that the rules of the game are being strictly observed.

The President's Reception.



Delightful and balmy weather the evening of Tuesday, August 16, brought out a gathering for the president's reception that was easily the largest assembly of the three days' program. No better setting could have been obtained than that of the United States Botanic Garden. Under electric lights, strung for the occasion, the visitors chatted, partook of the refreshments, admired the illuminated capitol standing out in the foreground and listened to the noted Marine band.

In the reception line were President Roland and his daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Traendly, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Ammann, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Gude and the other past presidents, A. L. Miller, J. C. Vaughan, George Asmus, Richard Vincent, Jr., Philip Breitmeyer, Charles H. Totty, Adam Graham and F. R. Pierson. In appreciation of the notable occasion, William F. Gude made some appropriate remarks and led cheers for the Marine band, whose closing number, at 10 o'clock, came all too early.

The lovely reception, held in the fitting spot that it was, was made possible by George W. Hess, head of the gardens, whose efforts the delighted visitors appreciated greatly.

Officers Elected.

It does not often happen that an absentee is elected to the presidency of the S. A. F., but this rare honor was paid to Samuel S. Pennock, of Philadelphia, who is in Europe on a relief mission for the Friends. The order of business being the nomination of officers, Mr. Pennock's name was presented by Frank R. Pierson, with enthusiastic seconds by George Asmus, J. F. Ammann, Benjamin Hammond and Anton Schultheis, the latter moving that nominations be closed and that the secretary be instructed to cast the unanimous vote of the membership for Mr. Pennock. This was seconded by Paul R. Klingsporn and carried unanimously.

Samuel Murray.

(Vice-President-elect of the Society of American Florists.)

J. J. Hess presented the name of Samuel Murray, of Kansas City, for vice-president. George Asmus presented the name of John Young for reëlection as secretary, and J. F. Ammann nominated J. J. Hess to succeed himself as treasurer. There were no other nominations, and election was by acclamation.

For director three names were proposed. Robert Johnston presented the name of William F. Ekas, of Baltimore, seconded by James McLaughlin, of Cleveland. A. L. Miller presented the name of F. L. Atkins, of Rutherford, N. J., seconded by Carl Hagenburger. Wallace R. Pierson, was placed in nomination by F. H. Traendly.

Dumping Dutch Bulbs.

Secretary John Young read a letter from Peter Pearson, president of the growers' organization, of Chicago, to whom the executive committee had assigned the chairmanship of a committee to consider the unloading of surplus stocks of bulbs on the American market. There was discussion of the subject by James McHutchison and George Asmus, after which the matter was laid on the table until the afternoon session of Wednesday, to be brought up following the report of W. F. Gude as chairman of the committee on tariff and legislation.

Publicity Session.

Following last year's example, a session was given over to the society's publicity campaign Wednesday afternoon. W. F. Gude led the way by reading the reports of Henry Penn, chairman of the national publicity committee, which is printed in full on another page of this issue.

L. D. Fernald, advertising manager of the New York Post, gave an address full of ideas pithily and emphatically expressed, showing the power of publicity well directed.

Urging the importance of the national campaign, Major P. F. O'Keefe, in his address, emphasized the necessity of each member of the trade doing his share towards supporting it by personal interest and financial contribution.

Closing Day.

After the voting Thursday morning, the report of George Asmus, chairman of the national flower show committee, was heard, and Charles H. Totty delivered an address on the value of flower shows as publicity agents for the trade.

In the afternoon an address was given by Prof. James H. Beattie, government horticulturist at Washington, and Joseph Kohout, of Libertyville, Ill., presented a request for the appointment of a committee to consider the standardization of cut flower grading. Mr. Kohout's remarks are printed in full elsewhere in this issue. The usual resolutions closed the convention.

The Ladies.

Wednesday afternoon the ladies enjoyed an automobile ride through the historic and interesting parts of Washington. The Washington florists put the many cars needed at the ladies' disposal for the afternoon's enjoyable entertainment.

Wednesday evening the reception of the Ladies' S. A. F. was held in the Hall of Nations at the Hotel Washington. The officers of this hard-working organization received their associates and members of the S. A. F. and the evening was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

THE TRADE'S DISPLAY

UNPREPOSSESSING as it may be from the outside, being the second story of one of those central market houses commoner to cities of the east than of the west, convention hall is one of the best inside that the society has had in recent years for its display. A high-arched roof gives it a spacious appearance, and the light and general view are good, no columns interfering. Aisles are wide enough and exhibitors have opportunity to extend themselves so far as their wishes may carry them. Large exhibits, however, are not many, railroad rates militating against them, and the result is that the floor space is cut up in an irregular way that does not produce an artistic whole. Description of the individual exhibits follows:

M. Adler, New York.

Florists' pins of many varieties were the leading item in the exhibit of novelties staged by M. Adler. Some were of plain sorts, others of sterling silver. Silver-plated flower baskets, waterproof chiffons, novelty corsage shields were among the other novelties shown. Milton Adler and Alexander Adler, the sons of M. Adler, accompanied the exhibit.

American Bulb Co., Chicago.

Vases of blooms from the corms sold by the American Bulb Co. showed the quality of this firm's stock. Some cases of bulbs and samples of florists' supplies, including bulb bowls, artificial flowers, pot covers, frieze, etc., were exhibited. I. Rosnosky was in charge.

American Greenhouse Mfg. Co., Chicago.

A model of the new steel-bar house of the American Greenhouse Mfg. Co. drew the interested inspection of hundreds of growers. So simple is its construction that it has proved highly popular already this year, about 700,000 square feet of it being already erected or in process of erection. The work of fitting and cutting is so well done in the factory that there is little to do in process of erection save fasten the bolts in the proper places. The result is an exceedingly live and well built house. P. L. McKee, president of the company, was in charge.

Basket Shop, Bellefonte, Pa.

Hand-made reed baskets, in colors, are the specialty of the Basket Shop, and the color combinations obtained are remarkable. In shaded and solid colors, these baskets lend themselves particularly well to either cut flowers or plants. Fred Lane was with the exhibit.

H. Bayersdorfer & Co., Philadelphia.

Many new things were shown in the exhibit of H. Bayersdorfer & Co. and yet it was stated by Sydney Bayersdorfer that 100 cases, containing the latest purchases abroad by the head of the house, had not been allowed through the customs in time for display. As it was, however, there were the Manning baskets, a metal container decorated with hand-painted decalcomania that appeals to retailers who know how to fill them with garden flowers; imperial china in many shapes, vamp dolls, prepared flowers, which are natural garden flowers treated to render them imperishable; wood flowers, satin-finished red bronze baskets, satin-finished metal luster wreaths, Christmas gnomes and prepared foliages, baskets and staple supplies in every form a retailer wants them. Sydney and I. Bayersdorfer, S. D. Green, Howard Royer, Edward Thorsen and John Welsh were with the display.

Bobbink & Atkins, Rutherford, N. J.

Unfamiliar sights such as Araucaria excelsa greeted one in Bobbink & Atkins' display. This firm is endeavoring to make up for the stock lost through the enforcement of Quarantine 37 and is in fair way to succeed so far as one firm is able. Kentias and phœnix were exhibited in various sizes. Standard azaleas, Gardenia Veitchii, Genista racemosa, Erica melanthera and evergreens in boxes were other items among a number shown. Fred L. Atkins was present.

Botanical Nursery Co., Lapeer, Mich.

In a booth built of rustic boughs the Botanical Nursery Co. displayed evergreen wreaths, baby Christmas trees and dried flowers and grasses for retailers' use, an interesting and, for many, an instructive exhibit. Mrs. Mildred Mason Adams was again in charge.

Burlington Willow Ware Shops.

The varied display of the excellent lines of willow baskets made at the Burlington Willow Ware Shops proved an interesting exhibit for visitors, by virtue of the tasteful tints and useful shapes contained in it. The baskets ranged from tall standard baskets to small sizes, featuring particularly good shapes in the most generally used sizes. The baskets of any size may be finished in one of thirty-six tones. A new gold tone and one two-tone combination of gold and black are especially effective. The refrigerator basket-vase, introduced by this firm, wins particular notice from florists. S. A. Dawson, the weegee bird man, who is the New York representative of the concern, was with the exhibit, as was Arthur Schwerin, secretary of the company, and T. J. Nolan, of Scranton, Pa.

Chicago Printed String Co., Chicago.

Rolls of the printed tape that retailers use to tie up their flower boxes exhibited the names of present users. The arrangement of the rolls and the Maypole effect of strings carried from top to bottom of the display made it attractive.

John Lewis Childs, Inc., Flowerfield.

About thirty varieties of gladioli were shown by John Lewis Childs, Inc. The vases, arranged in a square, formed one of the most colorful spots in the hall. Among the noteworthy varieties were Dawn, Prince of India, Gretchen Zang, Fascinator, Desdemona, Sunshine, Canary Bird and the primulinus hybrids. I. S. Hendrickson was with the display.

Climax Mfg. Co., New York.

The Climax Mfg. Co. showed its usual extensive line of boxes for retail florists. Several colors and all sizes were shown, a complete assortment indeed.

Cohen & Hiller, Inc., New York.

Ribbons in a number of fancy weaves, as well as the standard plain ones, were the chief component of Cohen & Hiller's exhibit. Corsage shields were also prominent in the display.

Robert Craig Co., Philadelphia.

A notable collection of foliage plants was contained in the square that formed the exhibit of the Robert Craig Co. In the center at the back of the square rose a group of palms, in front of which were a border of dracænas. At the left was a group of crotons of wonderful coloring, while at the right were ferns and other foliage plants; tubs of specimen pandanus, dracænas and crotons stood on pedestals. In front made-up boxes of plants attracted retailers' attention, while splendid specimens of hydrangeas and cyclamens lined the floor. Begonias, Otaheite oranges and ericas were here and there. Robert A. Craig superintended the arrangement of this noteworthy exhibit.

Crowl Fern Co., Millington, Mass.

The Crowl Fern Co., Millington, Mass., staged an exhibit of laurel, galax, pine and fancy dagger ferns. E. W. Vineca attended.

Diamond Basket Co., Pittsburgh, Pa.

Standard sizes and designs of baskets, such as are used most by retail florists, were exhibited by the Diamond Basket Co., a Pittsburgh firm which has hitherto sold through leading jobbing houses. The company makes wicker furniture also, though it had none on display. The representatives of the company were Earl Schuler and Leroy Fettinger.

A. T. De La Mare Co., New York.

Horticultural publications of a wide variety were on the tables of the A. T. De La Mare Co.

H. C. Doescher, New Orleans, La.

Since Quarantine 37 changed matters, the southland has increased in horticultural prominence for its value as a growers' source of supply. This was emphasized by H. C. Doescher's display, in which were shown Phœnix canariensis and P. reclinata. Ficus elastica, arecas, washingtonias, Cycas revoluta, Cocos plumosa and green and variegated aspidistras were included. Thirty leaves of caladiums of different varieties were displayed. The Creole lily bulb, reported a coming Easter plant, was exhibited, as well as amaryllis bulbs. Mr. Doescher was there in person.

Henry A. Dreer, Inc., Philadelphia.

At the entrance to the hall the big display of Henry A. Dreer, Inc., banked so as to present a full view to visitors entering the exhibition hall, was a magnet with continual strength of attraction. At the right side was as fine an assortment of crotons as one is rarely permitted to see. These included the varieties Norwood Beauty, Rothschild, Mrs. Thomas Rochford, Lord Belhaven Mons. Mague, Victor Lemoine, Count de Chatelaine and Brenchellense. At the left was an assortment of splendid foliage plants, among them Areca lutescens, nephropelis, Ficus elastica, Ficus utilis, Phœnix Roebelenii and canariensis, Ivy gracilis in trained forms and English ivy in various sizes, hydrangeas in large sizes, Pandanus Veitchii, eucalyptus and kentias in sizes up to large decorative sizes. The company was represented by J. J. Karins, John A. Ruppert and Joseph J. Goudy.

Durable Products Co., Cleveland, O.

There is a long list of products from the Durable Products Co., roofing, paints, varnishes, pipe cements, etc., and among them are three appealing particularly to greenhouse men—Duroplastic, of which several different sized casks were shown; Duro Greenhouse White, a paint for interior and exterior use, and Duro Guttercoat, a weatherproof coating for relining old gutters and treating new ones. The glazing guns used with Duroplastic were exhibited.

Duro Paper Products Co., Chicago.

Boxes of many styles and sizes made up the exhibit of the Duro Paper Products Co., whose line comprises the plain and fancy designs used by retailers in various colors. S. Freund and J. H. Way accompanied the exhibit.

THE TRADE'S DISPLAY

UNPREPOSSESSING as it may be from the outside, being the second story of one of those central market houses commoner to cities of the east than of the west, convention hall is one of the best inside that the society has had in recent years for its display. A high-arched roof gives it a spacious appearance, and the light and general view are good, no columns interfering. Aisles are wide enough and exhibitors have opportunity to extend themselves so far as their wishes may carry them. Large exhibits, however, are not many, railroad rates militating against them, and the result is that the floor space is cut up in an irregular way that does not produce an artistic whole. Description of the individual exhibits follows:

M. Adler, New York.

Florists' pins of many varieties were the leading item in the exhibit of novelties staged by M. Adler. Some were of plain sorts, others of sterling silver. Silver-plated flower baskets, waterproof chiffons, novelty corsage shields were among the other novelties shown. Milton Adler and Alexander Adler, the sons of M. Adler, accompanied the exhibit.

American Bulb Co., Chicago.

Vases of blooms from the corms sold by the American Bulb Co. showed the quality of this firm's stock. Some cases of bulbs and samples of florists' supplies, including bulb bowls, artificial flowers, pot covers, frieze, etc., were exhibited. I. Rosnosky was in charge.

American Greenhouse Mfg. Co., Chicago.

A model of the new steel-bar house of the American Greenhouse Mfg. Co. drew the interested inspection of hundreds of growers. So simple is its construction that it has proved highly popular already this year, about 700,000 square feet of it being already erected or in process of erection. The work of fitting and cutting is so well done in the factory that there is little to do in process of erection save fasten the bolts in the proper places. The result is an exceedingly live and well built house. P. L. McKee, president of the company, was in charge.

Basket Shop, Bellefonte, Pa.

Hand-made reed baskets, in colors, are the specialty of the Basket Shop, and the color combinations obtained are remarkable. In shaded and solid colors, these baskets lend themselves particularly well to either cut flowers or plants. Fred Lane was with the exhibit.

H. Bayersdorfer & Co., Philadelphia.

Many new things were shown in the exhibit of H. Bayersdorfer & Co. and yet it was stated by Sydney Bayersdorfer that 100 cases, containing the latest purchases abroad by the head of the house, had not been allowed through the customs in time for display. As it was, however, there were the Manning baskets, a metal container decorated with hand-painted decalcomania that appeals to retailers who know how to fill them with garden flowers; imperial china in many shapes, vamp dolls, prepared flowers, which are natural garden flowers treated to render them imperishable; wood flowers, satin-finished red bronze baskets, satin-finished metal luster wreaths, Christmas gnomes and prepared foliages, baskets and staple supplies in every form a retailer wants them. Sydney and I. Bayersdorfer, S. D. Green, Howard Royer, Edward Thorsen and John Welsh were with the display.

Bobbink & Atkins, Rutherford, N. J.

Unfamiliar sights such as Araucaria excelsa greeted one in Bobbink & Atkins' display. This firm is endeavoring to make up for the stock lost through the enforcement of Quarantine 37 and is in fair way to succeed so far as one firm is able. Kentias and phœnix were exhibited in various sizes. Standard azaleas, Gardenia Veitchii, Genista racemosa, Erica melanthera and evergreens in boxes were other items among a number shown. Fred L. Atkins was present.

Botanical Nursery Co., Lapeer, Mich.

In a booth built of rustic boughs the Botanical Nursery Co. displayed evergreen wreaths, baby Christmas trees and dried flowers and grasses for retailers' use, an interesting and, for many, an instructive exhibit. Mrs. Mildred Mason Adams was again in charge.

Burlington Willow Ware Shops.

The varied display of the excellent lines of willow baskets made at the Burlington Willow Ware Shops proved an interesting exhibit for visitors, by virtue of the tasteful tints and useful shapes contained in it. The baskets ranged from tall standard baskets to small sizes, featuring particularly good shapes in the most generally used sizes. The baskets of any size may be finished in one of thirty-six tones. A new gold tone and one two-tone combination of gold and black are especially effective. The refrigerator basket-vase, introduced by this firm, wins particular notice from florists. S. A. Dawson, the veegee bird man, who is the New York representative of the concern, was with the exhibit, as was Arthur Schwerin, secretary of the company, and T. J. Nolan, of Scranton, Pa.

Chicago Printed String Co., Chicago.

Rolls of the printed tape that retailers use to tie up their flower boxes exhibited the names of present users. The arrangement of the rolls and the May pole effect of strings carried from top to bottom of the display made it attractive.

John Lewis Childs, Inc., Flowerfield.

About thirty varieties of gladioli were shown by John Lewis Childs, Inc. The vases, arranged in a square, formed one of the most colorful spots in the hall. Among the noteworthy varieties were Dawn, Prince of India, Gretchen Zang, Fascinator, Desdemona, Sunshine, Canary Bird and the primulinus hybrids. J. S. Hendrickson was with the display.

Climax Mfg. Co., New York.

The Climax Mfg. Co. showed its usual extensive line of boxes for retail florists. Several colors and all sizes were shown, a complete assortment indeed.

Cohen & Hiller, Inc., New York.

Ribbons in a number of fancy weaves, as well as the standard plain ones, were the chief component of Cohen & Hiller's exhibit. Corsage shields were also prominent in the display.

Robert Craig Co., Philadelphia.

A notable collection of foliage plants was contained in the square that formed the exhibit of the Robert Craig Co. In the center at the back of the square rose a group of palms, in front of which were a border of dracænas. At the left was a group of crotons of wonderful coloring, while at the right were ferns and other foliage plants; tubs of specimen pandanus, dracænas and crotons stood on pedestals. In front made-up boxes of plants attracted retailers' attention, while splendid specimens of hydrangeas and cyclamens lined the floor. Begonias, Otaheite oranges and ericas were here and there. Robert A. Craig superintended the arrangement of this noteworthy exhibit.

Crowl Fern Co., Millington, Mass.

The Crowl Fern Co., Millington, Mass., staged an exhibit of laurel, galax, pine and fancy dagger ferns. E. W. Vineca attended.

Diamond Basket Co., Pittsburgh, Pa.

Standard sizes and designs of baskets, such as are used most by retail florists, were exhibited by the Diamond Basket Co., a Pittsburgh firm which has hitherto sold through leading jobbing houses. The company makes wicker furniture also, though it had none on display. The representatives of the company were Earl Schuler and Leroy Fettinger.

A. T. De La Mare Co., New York.

Horticultural publications of a wide variety were on the tables of the A. T. De La Mare Co.

H. C. Doescher, New Orleans, La.

Since Quarantine 37 changed matters, the southland has increased in horticultural prominence for its value as a growers' source of supply. This was emphasized by H. C. Doescher's display, in which were shown Phœnix canariensis and P. reclinata, Ficus elastica, arecas, washingtonias, Cycas revoluta, Cocos plumosa and green and variegated aspidistras were included. Henry A. Dreer, Inc., Philadelphia.

At the entrance to the hall the big display of Henry A. Dreer, Inc., banked so as to present a full view to visitors entering the exhibition hall, was a magnet with continual strength of attraction. At the right side was as fine an assortment of crotons as one is rarely permitted to see. These included the varieties Norwood Beauty, Rothschild, Mrs. Thomas Rochford, Lord Belhaven Mons. Magne, Victor Lemoine, Count de Chatelaine and Brenchellense. The company was represented by J. J. Karins, John A. Ruppert and Joseph J. Goudy.

Durable Products Co., Cleveland, O.

There is a long list of products from the Durable Products Co., roofing, paints, varnishes, pipe cements, etc., and among them are three appealing particularly to greenhouse men—Duroplastic, of which several different sized casks were shown; Duro Greenhouse White, a paint for interior and exterior use, and Duro Guttercoat, a weatherproof coating for relining old gutters and treating new ones. The glazing guns used with Duroplastic were exhibited.

Duro Paper Products Co., Chicago.

Boxes of many styles and sizes made up the exhibit of the Duro Paper Products Co., whose line comprises the plain and fancy designs used by retailers in various colors. S. Freund and J. H. Way accompanied the exhibit.

Henry Eichholz, Waynesboro, Pa.

Henry Eichholz, Waynesboro, Pa.,

showed field-grown blooms of Red Matchless carnation, a sport of Matchless, a promising variety.

Electric Hose & Rubber Co., Wilmington,

A couple of reels and sample lengths of various-sized hose were exhibited by the Electric Hose & Rubber Co.

J. A. Evans Co., Richmond, Ind.

The exhibit consisted of the well-known Challenge ventilating apparatus and greenhouse fittings.

Ever-Ready Flower Pot Cover Co.

Pot covers in half a dozen colors in all pot sizes from 3-inch to 8-inch composed the exhibit of the Ever-Ready Flower Pot Cover Co. These covers, "so easy" to slip on, make attractive the otherwise untidy plant pot and their simplicity and cheapness make them exceedingly popular in the trade. E. C. Grever was with the exhibit.

Excello Mfg. Co., Cleveland, O.

The "Oh Boy" glazing gun, with which to apply the Evertite glazing cement, was displayed by the Excello Mfg. Co., together with photographed testimonials to the excellent qualities of both instrument and compound.

Henry I. Faust, Merion, Pa.

Ferns showing good culture and excellent stock of cyclamens composed the exhibit of Henry I. Faust.

F. T. D. Association.

The exhibit of the F. T. D. Association consisted of material intended to acquaint non-members with the work the association is doing for the trade.

Foley Greenhouse Mfg. Co., Chicago.

The exhibit of the Foley Greenhouse Mfg. Co., Chicago, consisted of printed matter and photographs of greenhouses the exhibitor had built. P. J. Foley was personally on the ground.

C. S. Ford Co., Philadelphia.

All sorts of florists' supplies, including letters and words of frieze and other materials, were shown by C. S. Ford. Lodge emblems, clock dials and such items were largely included. An extended trellis was one of Mr. Ford's features. Table favors and items for table decoration, as well as imported novelties, were numerously shown. C. S. Ford was present himself.

Fruitland Nurseries, Augusta, Ga.

Ornamental plants, such as Evonymus kewensis, Azalea Hinodigiri, phœnix, Nandina and other azaleas were shown by the Fruitland Nurseries, successors to P. J. Berckmans Co., Inc.

Garland Co., Cleveland.

A miniature greenhouse on which the glass was laid with Permanite was a unique attraction at the booth of the Garland Co. The house itself was built by the John C. Moninger Co., Chicago, and was complete even to the flowers—artificial. Samples of Permanite were shown, as well as the glazing gun and gun filler of this firm. Souvenir match boxes were distributed to visitors. H. E. Steiner and L. F. Bernheim were with the exhibit.

Ove Gnatt Co., Laporte, Ind.

Artificial foliages of many materials and finishes and a wide variety of wreaths were prominent features of the exhibit of the Ove Gnatt Co. An extensive display of baskets, some exceedingly artistic pottery and a large collection of general supplies were included in the exhibit of this firm, which extended along one side of the convention hall. Ove Gnatt and others of the staff were present.

Carl Hagenburger, West Mentor, O.

The famous Cleveland cherries and equally well grown French hydrangeas were brought from West Mentor by Carl Hagenburger, who welcomed visitors himself. The stock was of the high quality seen at previous conventions.

Louis Hahn & Son, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Two varieties of highly-colored coleus occupied the table of Louis Hahn & Son. One was called Harding, the other Gettysburg. Despite the damage done by the express company in transit, the plants showed up well, attracting much interest.

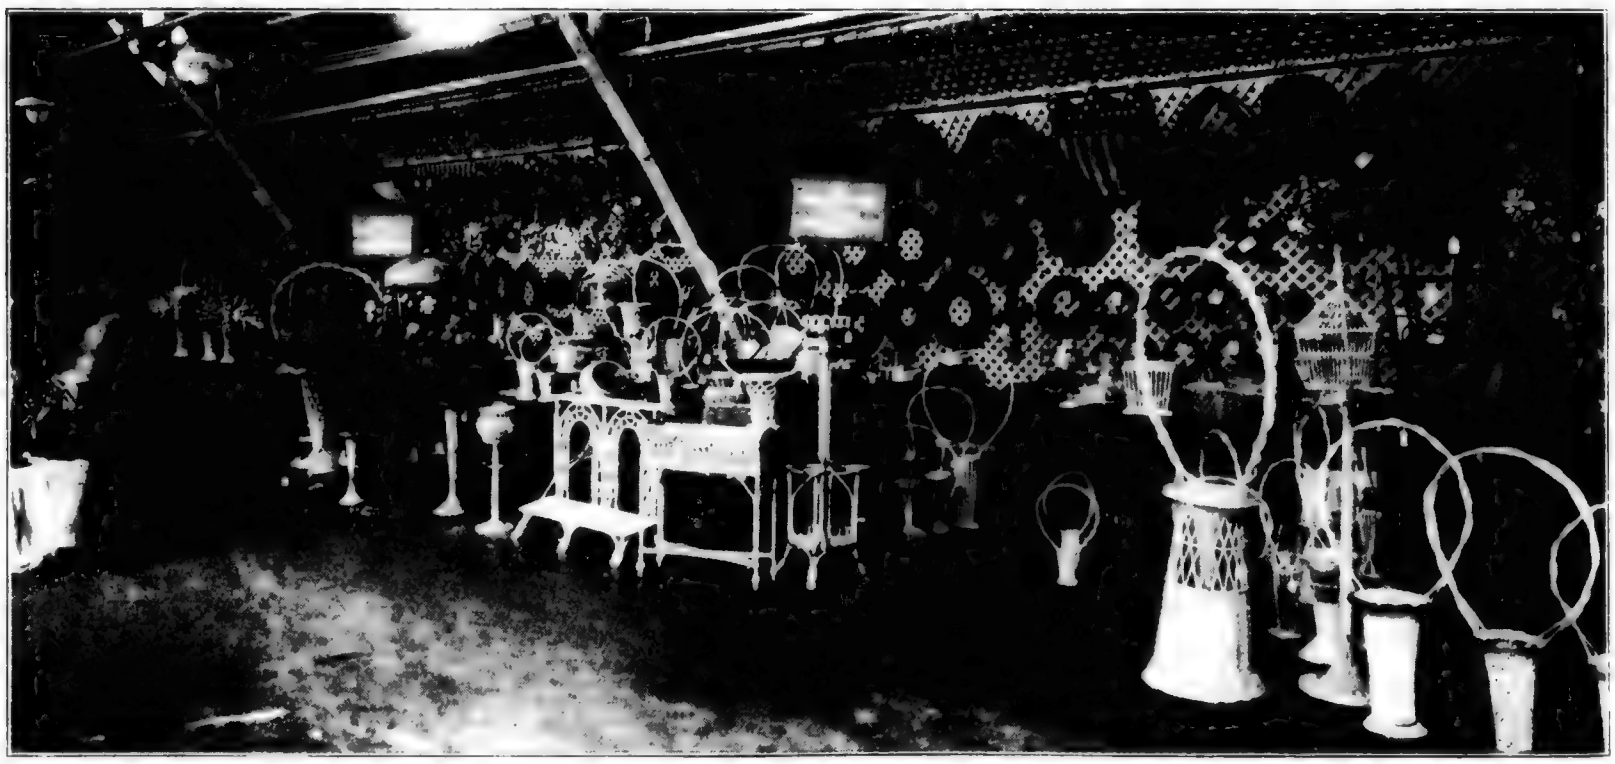
Hammond's Paint & Slug Shot Works.

The exhibit of Hammond's Paint & Slug Shot Works contained the usual line of well-known brands marketed under this long-established name. Slug Shot, Grape Dust, Thrip Juice, Bordeaux Powder, Old English Glazing Putty, Greenhouse White paint were shown in their various containers. Walter Mott, as usual, was in charge.

S. Hanfling Co., New York.

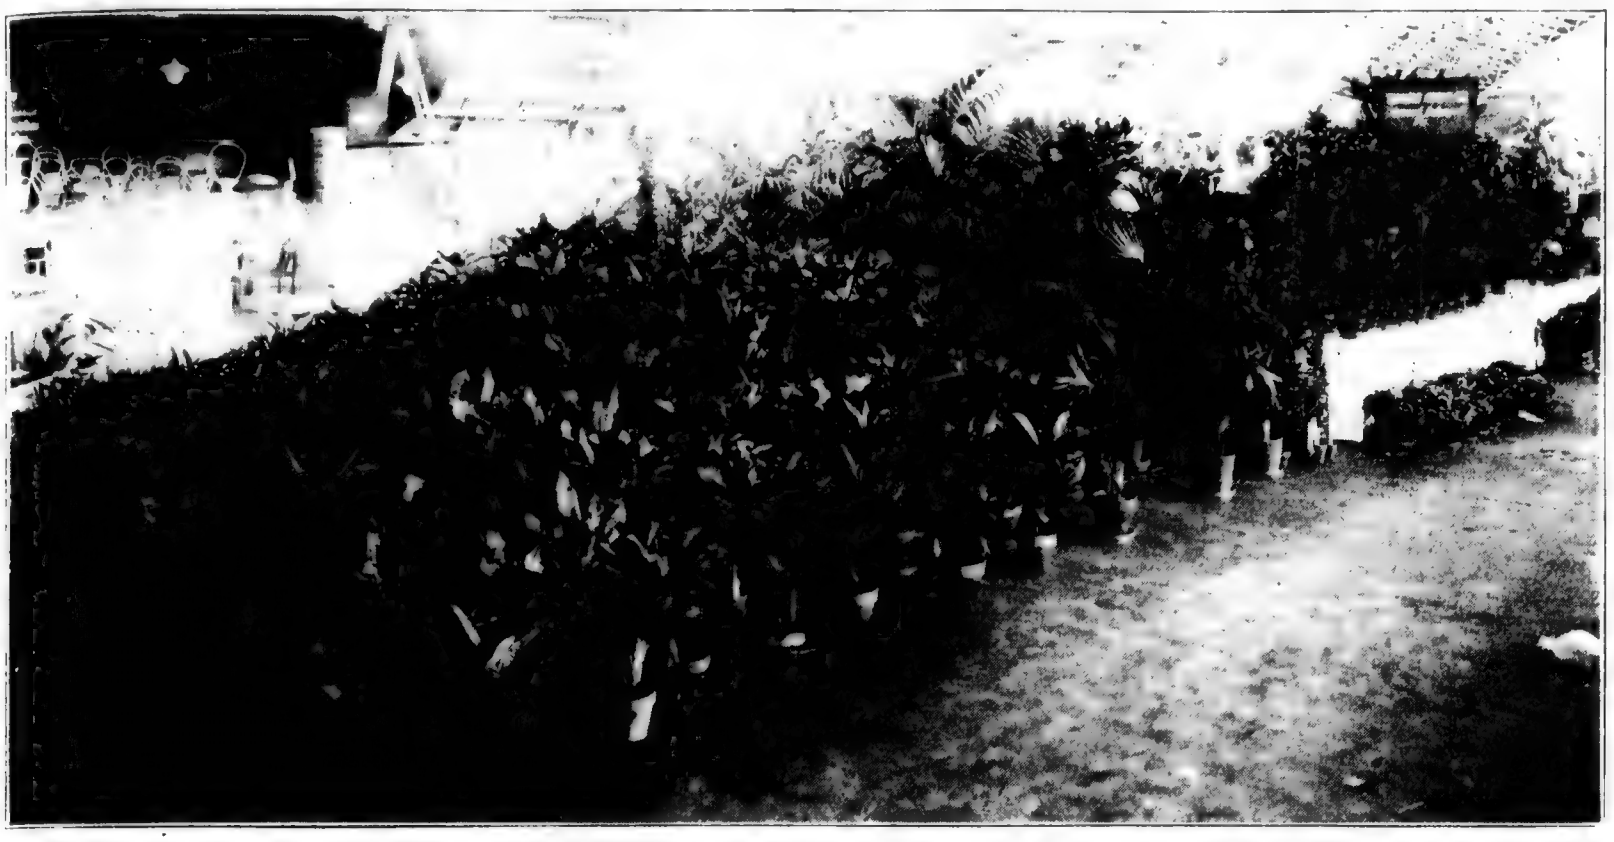
An attractive line of Belgian willow baskets was the principal feature of the display of the S. Hanfling Co. These were part of the purchases of S. Hanfling on his recent trip abroad. Vesuvius baskets designed in Greenwich Village, New York's artist colony, were novel and beautiful. Doughboy shoes, carved in wood by Belgians, were a striking novelty. Italian grasses and other standard supplies were included in the exhibit. Louis Hanfling and S. Edelman were with the display.

Geo. B. Hart, Rochester, N. Y.



Among the several novelties in the exhibit of Geo. B. Hart were metallic foliage wreaths in several designs and novelty trees in the same finish. A glass-bottomed basket, suitable for hospital gifts of flowers and fruits, fills a want expressed by many retailers. Hart's handy handles were prominent. A large line of baskets, particularly of the intermediate sizes most used, was displayed. H. J. Hart and H. B. Stringer were with the exhibit.

Joseph Heacock Co., Wyncote, Pa.



Palms are the specialty of the Joseph Heacock Co. and the specimens of Kentias from this concern showed how excellently they can grow them. That the standard is the same as that in previous years is sufficient description.

A. Henderson & Co., Chicago.

inch pots adorned the desk where A. Henderson presided.

Henshaw Floral Co., New York.

Strikingly attractive in the exhibit of the Henshaw Floral Co. was an assortment of glassware in a wide variety of tints and shapes, for use as flower containers. Goldfish stands were a unique offering. Baskets and other florists' supplies of standard character were shown in good assortment.

Hitchings & Co., Elizabeth, N. J.

Photographs and descriptive literature formed the exhibit of Hitchings & Co., Elizabeth, N. J.

Allan N. Humason, Chicago.

In the display of the Raedlein Basket Co. a table of staple retailers' supplies was shown by Allan N. Humason. Japanese hats, painted and plain, for pot covers, were one of the several novelties included.

Roman J. Irwin, New York.

"A new Mothers' day plant" was the central feature of a table full of plants shown by Roman J. Irwin. It is a plant brought from South America by a sailor not long ago, on the name of which botanists do not agree. Primulas, ferns and other small plants were exhibited. R. J. Irwin, R. A. Cahill and Henry I. Neubrand were with the display.

Jackson & Perkins Co., Newark, N. Y.

Rose plants of the rambler varieties, particularly interesting to florists since the growing demand for this stock, formed a principal part of the exhibit of Jackson & Perkins Co. French hydrangeas were likewise prominent, and also plants of Deutzia gracilis and specimens of various evergreens and arborvitæs.

W. F. Kasting Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

The Kost soil pulverizer first shown at the Cleveland convention was exhibited again by the W. F. Kasting Co., being mounted on a truck with an Olin engine, which thus might be used also for pumping water, etc. This pulverizer turns out fine material for seeding and potting. A new pulverizer just perfected by Stephen A. Kost will mix and pulverize wet material, such as barnyard fertilizer, and will be especially useful for soil to fill benches or for use outdoors. A handy tool for opening wooden boxes and such uses was also shown; it is used by many florists. The appliance for filling putty bulbs and glazing guns which Chas. N. Cotter said saved a month in glazing this year at the Lakeview Rose Gardens, was also exhibited. Stephen A. Kost and William L. Kasting were present.

Kervan Co., New York.

In the exhibit of the Kervan Co. the Forest brand ribbons were most prominent, a line that appeals to the retailer for year-in-year-out work. Ruscus, prepared foliages, chiffons and miscellaneous supplies also were shown.

Kroeschell Bros. Co., Chicago.

Without his usual boiler, Fred Lautenschlager was equipped instead with photographs and literature to demonstrate the excellencies of the Kroeschell boilers and Kroeschell refrigerating systems.

Lager & Hurrell, Summit, N. J.

A great variety of orchid plants occupied the table of Lager & Hurrell. The show of these is not so great as in the days before Quarantine 37, but lack of number is compensated by increased interest taken in the plants that are shown. John E. Lager was with the exhibit.

M. H. Levine Co., New York.

The brand of ribbons known as "Elco," which comprised some quite attractive novelty weaves, and chiffons of which the same may be said, filled the tables of the M. H. Levine Co. A new metallic cloth corsage ribbon was a feature of the display, as were also the feather-weight shield and the ombre chiffons. In charge of the display was Morris H. Levine himself.

C. U. Liggit, Philadelphia.

As one of the leading plant dealers of the country, C. U. Liggit's display is always of interest, for it shows what is good and what is new. Some splendid ferns, of the Macawii, Scottii, Boston and Bird's-Nest varieties, were shown, and some splendid foliage plants. Spanish iris bulbs and baby gladiolus corms filled a number of baskets. Mr. Liggit was present in person.

Lion & Co., New York.

Novelty chiffons in many colors, ribbons in both plain and fancy weaves, and corsage shields of frilled chiffon composed the exhibit of Lion & Co. The corsage ribbons of this firm are an especial feature and wider basket ribbons are also a long suit. With the exhibit were Harold S. Lion and J. A. Lewis.

Lord & Burnham Co., Irvington, N. J.

Without a greenhouse to demonstrate, as has been customary before, the Lord & Burnham Co. relied on photographs and descriptive literature to show the qualities of L. & B. construction to visitors.

McCallum Co., Pittsburgh, Pa.

Helps for the florist were prominent in the display of the McCallum Co., in the form of metal signs for the window, velours for decoration, baskets for plants and printed matter containing many, many suggestions for enterprising retailers. Some pleasing specimens of trimmed magnolia wreaths were on view. The basketware and reed furniture of the company's manufacture came in for particular notice. Automobilists were given slogan pennants. Representatives of the company present were E. J. McCallum, Geo. C. McCallum, Henry L. Blend, Wm. T. Usinger, Ross E. Adgate, E. C. Tipton, S. S. Puryear and E. M. Nigel.

The corsage ribbons of this firm are an especial feature and wider basket ribbons are also a long suit. With the exhibit were Harold S. Lion and J. A. Lewis.

Lord & Burnham Co., Irvington, N. J.

Without a greenhouse to demonstrate, as has been customary before, the Lord & Burnham Co. relied on photographs and descriptive literature to show the qualities of L. & B. construction to visitors.

McCallum Co., Pittsburgh, Pa.

Helps for the florist were prominent in the display of the McCallum Co., in the form of metal signs for the window, velours for decoration, baskets for plants and printed matter containing many, many suggestions for enterprising retailers. Some pleasing specimens of trimmed magnolia wreaths were on view. The basketware and reed furniture of the company's manufacture came in for particular notice. Automobilists were given slogan pennants. Representatives of the company present were E. J. McCallum, Geo. C. McCallum, Henry L. Blend, Wm. T. Usinger, Ross E. Adgate, E. C. Tipton, S. S. Purvear and E. M. Nigel.

Macaw Bros., Norwood, Pa.

Splendid specimens of four varieties of nephrolepis—Macawii, Scottii, Boston and Teddy, Jr.—were exhibited by Macaw Bros. There were fine, bushy 4-inch pots and big 11-inch tubs, with intervening sizes. Pandanus Veitchii, Dracæna Massangeana and cyclamens formed a lesser part of the exhibit, but the quality was of the same high order as that of the ferns. Duncan Macaw and James McLaughlin accompanied the big truck that brought the plants from Norwood, Pa.

W. A. Manda, Inc., South Orange, N. J.

For landscape architects, gardeners on large estates and such individuals the display of W. A. Manda is a welcome sight. For florists it contains fewer useful items, though many interesting ones. He has some rambler roses, but many odd, unusual foliage plants, such as Echeveria secunda, Billbergia pyramidalis, Sedum aureum, cacti, etc., etc. Mr. Manda is on hand, as usual, to discuss entertainingly what he shows.

H. F. Michell Co., Philadelphia.

Cases of newly imported bulbs were the foremost attraction in the display of the Henry F. Michell Co., but there were many, many other things, too many to list in a small space. There were pots, tubs, flower boxes, rubber aprons, insecticide sprayers, cane stakes, plants of Areca lutescens and numerous other items in supplies for the greenhouse and garden. The bulbs included narcissus, prepared hyacinth, tulip, lily, etc.

Isaac H. Moss, Inc., Baltimore, Md.

A group of banked evergreens from Isaac H. Moss drew much notice from the visitors, since florists are finding more and more use for this kind of material. Junipers, arbor-vitæs, Irish yew, retinisporas, Koster's blue spruce and a number of other sorts were noted.

National Bulb Farms, Benton Harbor.

Several tables of gladioli of forcing varieties were shown by the National Bulb Farms. Included were Marechal Foch, Prince of Wales, Wilbrink, Flora, Pink Perfection, Willy Wigman and Christina Treur, the improved form of Wilbrink. These were from Michigan-grown Holland bulbs. Bulbs of Michigan-grown tulips and daffodils were exhibited. A. J. Preuyser and J. Elzinga.

Nebel Mfg. Co., Cleveland, O.

An automatic glazing gun filler that attaches directly to the barrel was the center of interest in the exhibit of the Nebel Mfg. Co. This handy device enables the operator to fill his gun direct with a few turns of a handle instead of by the wasteful and slow hand method. Samples of Glazetite were also displayed. A. L. Nebel was in charge.

Joseph G. Neidinger Co., Philadelphia.

Christmas wreaths made up a large part of the display of the Joseph G. Neidinger Co. and their variety and tasteful design attracted much notice to them. Two-tone baskets with large plants were exceedingly effective, as was particularly shown by two filled with plants of the Robert Craig Co. Small novelties in Christmas figures showed ingenuity. Standard supplies of chiffons, ribbons, etc., were shown. Joseph G. and Jack Neidinger were present, also Harry Crawford and H. S. Price.

Orchard Paper Co., St. Louis, Mo.

Samples of the new wrapping paper becoming so widely used by florists, that watermarked with the slogan, "Say It with Flowers," were the chief support at the exhibit of the Orchard Paper Co. Fans were given visitors, a thoughtful and welcome token.

Paranoid Co., Cleveland, O.

Samples of Paranoid, a glazing compound becoming more and more widely used, and of paints for boilers and stacks were exhibited by the Paranoid Co. The glazing gun employed with this material was also shown. White Paranoid, a similar composition having the same qualities as the black, was shown. Though new, it is already much wanted. F. E. Dempsey was with the exhibit.

S. S. Pennock Co., Philadelphia.

The supplies that every florist needs and needs constantly—in other words, the staples—formed the S. S. Pennock Co. display. Silver sheen chiffon, ri bons, baskets, velours and pins we principal among the many items show E. J. Fancourt, E. H. Morichard and W. Swan were with the exhibit.

Pfaltzgraff Pottery Co., York, Pa.

Various sizes of red clay pots used florists were exhibited on the table the Pfaltzgraff Pottery Co.

A. N. Pierson, Inc., Cromwell, Conn.

Heather, ardisias, maidenhair an polyantha ferns made up the display the A. N. Pierson Co., showing the ex cellent quality of the stock from th Cromwell greenhouses. Literature re garding the new rose, Priscilla, wa prominent. W. R. Pierson was presen with Albert E. Anderson also.

F. R. Pierson Co., Tarrytown, N. Y.

A display of nephrolepis ferns tha gave joy to the admirers of this useful plant was exhibited by the F. R. Pierson Co. The varieties shown were muscosa, elegantissima and elegantissima com pacta. Mr. Pierson was present himself.

Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co., Pittsburgh.

Whether planning for immediate or holiday business, the retailer found much useful in the display of the Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co. Wreaths in considerable variety, a wide assortment of baskets, chiffons and ribbons of the most usable sort and other supplies, artificial flowers, etc., made up an extensive display. Messrs. Hook, Wampler, Frishkorn and Sawyer attended the display.

Charles Pommert, Amelia, O.

A new gladiolus, Purity, a sport from the Pommert strain of America, was shown by Charles Pommert, who is proprietor of the Glen Mary Fish Farm as well as a large grower of outdoor flowers for the Cincinnati market. His son, John Pommert, is active manager of the business. In the seven years he has had this variety Mr. Pommert has worked up a large stock, which he now proposes

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS

Address of Thomas Roland, president of the S. A. F., delivered at the convention at Washington, August 16 to 18.

THIS is the third time our society has had the good fortune to gather together in this city of Washington for its annual convention. We can all feel proud at meeting in the capital city of the greatest of nations. Every American is also proud of this noble city, and every member of the Society of American Florists may also be pleased that here we were honored by the grant of a federal charter, which I believe is the only one ever given to a horticultural society.

Under this charter our society is expected to develop and advance floriculture and horticulture in all their many branches, and to diffuse the knowledge of these subjects. I think we are fulfilling this obligation and living up to the expectations of those whose vision and faith meant so much in the early days when so high a standard was set for us all to follow.

I want to emphasize the fact that our great Society of American Florists and Ornamental Horticulturists is not simply organized to make money directly for itself or for its members, but that it aims to improve and stimulate our profession and its practices. I fully believe that the many activities of our society and its affiliated societies cannot fail to foster and create a love for horticulture in every section of our country among all classes of people; and we are not merely doing this to sell a product. We are increasing a love for one of the fine arts, which in some phases comes into the class of the useful arts. As a fine art alone, however, it has the most universal application to our whole people, and as the great Lord Bacon said, it "is the purest of human pleasures."

The Future.

It seems to me the future of horticulture never looked brighter. Industry in general is much upset, because of the backwash of the great war, and faces the future with uncertainty. Flowers, however, are a ministry, a solace and a pleasure, and in all these there are many phases of real, abiding strength and comfort. For these reasons horticulture may expect to be ever increasing, for it may be economical or expensive, ornamental or partly useful, and, therefore, it fits life under all conditions, in a way that perhaps may not be matched in another industry. Love for our profession is increasing rapidly and this also makes our future satisfactory in outlook.

Cheery Prospects.

Even during the worst of the last half dozen years, when all business has been upset, horticulture held a place as a desirable influence in the world—although, of course, expansion and growth were seriously curtailed. But there are ever new hands to take up the work. Prices will recede if production costs do, and we need hardly fear more than the usual temporary and seasonal drops to figures too low for a living. The cost of greenhouse products seems likely to be high always, because there is comparatively little opportunity for the use of labor-saving devices in quantity production.

The special societies will continue to thrive and these will remain loyal to the parent of all so long as that parent shows progress, for our widespread organization, with vice-presidents and members in every state in the Union and representing every branch of horticulture, is the logical group with which other kindred groups should be linked. In this way we get coöperation without competition or duplication, and there is so much to our work that there is room for the spirit and activity of all. Our aim must ever be to make this society the greatest horticultural society in the world.

We must, however, continually progress, or be backward. There is no such thing as keeping up by standing still. Therefore, we must always look for new methods, new forces and renewed vigor. It is my privilege to suggest to you, at this time, some of the things it seems to me we may be doing.

At the January meeting, in Washington, of your board of directors, it was voted, after careful consideration, to discontinue the publication of the society's journal, and to issue an annual report. I hope the time may come soon when the society's work will have the size and importance to justify a monthly journal. Such a publication would stimulate and sustain a keener interest in our activities. In the meantime I hope the society will publish an annual brimful of such information that every member will feel he could not be without it as a book of reference. Such a book would be well worth more than the annual dues, and such a book is already achieved by one of our associated organizations dealing with roses.

Thomas Roland.
(President of the Society of American Florists.)

Membership.

No other society touches horticulture in so many and so various ways, and every branch of the profession is represented in its membership. It seems to me possible to issue an annual at an expense within our means, and yet get a result commended by all. It might prove more satisfactory and economical to deal with a regular publishing house for a term of years; in any event, I would recommend the appointment of

It might prove more satisfactory and economical to deal with a regular publishing house for a term of years; in any event, I would recommend the appointment of a committee of five, to investigate the whole question, consider ways and means, obtain bids and specifications, and to report to the board of directors not later than January 15, 1922.

I consider this a fundamental question, because the history, work and spirit of our society may best be preserved and understood through such a form of permanent record. In fact, our annual might well become a real history of the progress of horticulture in America.

Advisory Council.

I believe everyone will agree with me in claiming that the society has in its ex-presidents a group of men whose combined experience and devotion to our organization needs no proof and no trial, for each has already shown his value to us in his individual capacity as the head of our large society. They represent many branches of our profession—seedsmen, nurserymen, retailers, wholesalers, growers, park and cemetery superintendents, landscape gardeners and others.

The assistance these men could render, acting together, may not be measured or demonstrated, but we must all realize that in them is wisdom we need and can use to our everlasting benefit. Individually, they are active among us today and ever ready to respond to a call for help, but how much more can they help us as a deliberative body, meeting together by themselves and cooperating with your officers! There are always matters needing all the thought and knowledge we can muster. Here, in their experience and ability, is a so far untouched mine of skill. Let us tap it by establishing an advisory council composed of our ex-presidents. My suggestion is that this council would be set up only to consider definite and specific questions referred to it by the board of directors, and it would report its advice to the board of directors, who would use it as they chose in their own deliberations. In this way we would get the benefit of a deliberative body of great value to us.

I am much in favor of a field worker, an efficient man spending all of his time going over the country, lecturing before local horticultural organizations, explaining what our great society stands for and what it is doing and aiming to do for horticulture in our country. I believe there can be no better way to add new members and to create new interest in our work and our organization.

It might prove difficult, at first, to arrange for this as continual service, and I would favor so rearranging our secretary's duties and office force that he could be released and able to devote a part of his time to this important service.

The personal contact and personal appeal of an accomplished field worker would not only benefit the society, but it would be the means of extending society benefits and group thought and work more widely. Surely, this is what we should like to do.

The Medal of Honor.

Many years ago this society established a gold medal, which I understand has been awarded but twice in all these years. Now, I believe we should not bestow it except after the most careful consideration, but I cannot but think that the progress of many branches of our profession during twenty years might have been rewarded wisely through the medal we have had so long established. This would tend to encourage and to spur, especially those whose work is so valuable and so often not rewarded by financial returns. Much of the scientific progress needed in our profession is by work for love and for knowledge, and this sort of work needs our help in any way we can give it.

I, therefore, suggest that the society reëstablish this medal as a medal of honor, to be awarded by the board of directors annually, to the man or woman, firm or institution, in the United States, or elsewhere, who has done the most in recent years to promote horticulture, using the phrase in its broadest meaning. Members of our society should be eligible for this medal, for meritorious service of the same kind. It may be awarded once in five years to the member of the S. A. F. who, during the preceding five years, shall have rendered services best calculated to advance the largest interest of this society. I do not believe, however, that the medal should ever come to be considered an internal operation, but that the thought of the directors ever should be to encourage others. I would suggest that the board of directors decide the award by ballot at the annual meeting held about mid-Lent.

Education.

To approach the question of education is to touch a broad subject and one wherein our foremost thinkers and watchers believe there are serious shortcomings.

But, beyond the general principles of education, there is to be even more intense specialization, and in this horticulture must not only keep the pace, but it must regain a place in the front of the procession. Science, as applied to horticulture, is backward and is much needed. Professional horticulture can never take a proper place among other professions until it is on a stronger and firmer scientific basis. It is said that America has the finest system of agricultural and horticultural education in the world. There is, however, a great lack of correlation and dissemination, a deficiency in general support and encouragement and too great a disinclination to use and profit by what is now available. I believe our society can do no better work than to assist in planning and suggesting plans for making more and better use of what we have in scientific education in our profession, and for further improving it wherever it may be done. We should also encourage and assist young men to take this training in horticulture, even providing scholarships. Work out coöperation between scientific institutions and the practical horticulturist, each of whom has so much to give to the other. These institutions are public and for the general good, and their usefulness is in proportion to our helpfulness and willingness to do what we can to make them all that we so greatly need. Many established facts in the science of our profession have already been made by our systems of public education in experiment stations or otherwise and these are too little known and too little used. It would be a benefit to us and to all horticulture to assemble such things whenever possible and place them in the hands of our members. It is time to show more results, for we are now able to do so.

All these matters so closely connected with education and with the backward science of our profession deserve the attention, I think, of a strong special committee, perhaps to be succeeded by a continuing standing committee, to report at our next annual meeting what we can do to further the science of our profession and to encourage scientific training.

The Permanent Fund.

Many suggestions have been made about the use and care of our established fund. There are those who would have it used to establish an experimental garden, coupled with training for young men in horticulture. This is a worthy and much to be desired object, in which our society should take a vital interest. I believe, however, that a majority of our members strongly favor the policy of further increasing this fund, until it becomes large enough to yield an income that would carry on some worthy work upon a scale in keeping with our great society. No one wishes any part of it used except in a way that will benefit our whole society and horticulture in general. I believe, therefore, that I voice the opinions and desires of my fellow members in recommending that further heavy increases in the fund are necessary.

We now have a fund of $50,000, which we consider a permanent fund. There is, however, nothing in the by-laws to this effect, and it is certainly wise to amend the by-laws so that there shall be a permanent fund and so that the principal of this fund shall not be used, but only the income.

We have a provision in the by-laws that the "treasurer shall give bonds in such sum as the executive board may from time to time deem sufficient." In my judgment the by-laws should not leave it to the discretion of the executive board, except with the proviso that such bonds shall be at least equal in amount to the funds of the society under the control of the treasurer.

Our present by-laws provided for a finance committee, yet they provide that the treasurer shall have charge of the funds of the society.

I think also that the duties and powers of the finance committee should be more clearly defined.

We have now in our growth reached the point where it seems to me we should make, in the interests of safety and conservatism, one or two changes in our by-laws which will clarify them and protect the society and its officers in the administration of their work.

These matters deserve the consideration of a special committee and I strongly recommend the appointment of such a committee to report to the board of directors not later than January 15, 1922.

The National Flower Show.

The value of coöperative work has been shown more clearly by the great flower shows of our society than in any other of our efforts. They have been successful; and I am of the firm opinion that they have attracted more people toward horticulture than can any other means as yet devised. They are educational, instructing our people to a greater appreciation of one of the fine arts. Over 100,000 people paid to see the last great show of our society, held in Philadelphia, in addition to which there were many free admissions.

There is another show to be held next spring in Cleveland. The city of Cleveland is building a fine auditorium, which it is intended to open formally with that great fifth national show. The exhibition building will be by far the finest and most suitable we have ever used for our purpose. It is a heavy undertaking, involving an expense of around $70,000, and the cost would be even greater were it not for the painstaking work, and for the time and energy, all so freely given by the committees chosen to serve you. It remains for those not on committees to show both interest and appreciation, both of their fellow members and of our exhibitions, by wholehearted help, which alone can make this coming show the greatest horticultural event ever held anywhere at any time. By so helping you assist both the society and yourselves, for it is a valuable enterprise and a worth-while endeavor to put our profession and our society prominently before the people of our country.

Membership.

There is a campaign under way to double our membership before January 1. I feel this would be an easy thing to do if commercial horticulturists of all sorts realized that our industry needs to be fully organized in order to keep the pace set by other industries. Our membership must be heavily enlarged if we are to carry on in a satisfactory manner and to begin to fulfill some of our high aims for the future, and to do the great work we are expected to undertake. The special membership committee for this drive is giving us a great deal of its time, and it needs and deserves the active assistance of all members in making this campaign a success. Surely, we all realize that we definitely owe a part of our time and energy to public service, and we cannot do better than to plunge in and push along a movement that will react to help all of us. If the society had done nothing more for commercial horticulture than spread broadcast its now famous slogan, "Say It with Flowers," it would be entitled to the active support of every florist in America. Let every one of us return a part of this benefit by becoming a living and fighting slogan, "Say It with Members."

Remember also our trade exhibits, gotten up by men and companies who work, not alone for money profit, though this they naturally expect, and from us whom they serve so well, but who are also imbued with a love for their work, which often makes them give more than they get. You will agree with me that these people who exhibit with us are entitled to our patronage, both because of real deserts and because their efforts are a strong help to us.

I should like to be able to tell you, so you could know of it as your officers know of it, about the hard and faithful work done by your chairmen of committees to further the interests of your society and, therefore, of all of us. But we will not permit and good men ever work for praise nor care much for it.

The Workers.

Your attention is called to the various committee work so faithfully executed by men who give time, energy and often their own money in order to acquire the feeling that they have done something for their brothers. Much of their work will be handled in special reports during our sessions here, and you are asked to give these committees the only return they want, your active interest in the work they are developing for you. Attend these special sessions, approve the measures you favor and express your opinions in constructive comment whenever occasion arises. Your officers are your servants and can do better for you when they know your wishes. This annual meeting is the best place to tell us of them, and every member should do this real duty.

We must not overlook our obligation to, and appreciation of, the horticultural writers and publishers. Without their unselfish and sympathetic coöperation so freely given, the progress of our society must have been much slower. We needed these people and they rose to our need.

I especially want to call to your attention the attractive program prepared by the ladies' branch of our society. They have many plans, a consideration of which will make your visit to Washington more than a profitable one, also a most inspiring and pleasant one.

I want to extend my sincere thanks to those who have so ably supported us by committee service or by any readiness to help, and in this I am sure I am joined by every officer, as well as every member. May we always set a high mark for achievement, as these men have, to the end that our Society of American Florists may acquire always new fame and new brilliancy, as an organization meaning much to horticulture.

YOUNG'S YEAR

SECRETARY YOUNG BUSY.

Summarizes Year's Activities.

Again I am able to report the closing of a most successful year for the society. There has been a notable increase in our annual membership, for the greater part of which credit must be given to the membership drive instituted by our executive board, whose committee will make a separate report to the convention at this session. Since the Cleveland convention and up to August 1 of this year, we have taken in 474 new annual members and eight life members. A falling off in the influx of life members was, naturally, expected, owing to the doubling of the life membership fee and the great influx last year induced through the announced withdrawal at a certain date of the old fee. Our total membership August 1 was 3,794, of which 1,517 are life members. Of course, the annual list contains the names of some who have not yet paid their 1921 dues, but in the last year or two a greater interest has centered upon the society's work, with a consequent lessening of the number of lapses, so that our membership record may be considered to be most encouraging.

I am happy to report that several of our state vice-presidents this year have done notable work in increasing interest in our organization, work which we may hope will prove to have been permanently effective in the extension of our membership territorially.

Financial Statement.

In the opinion of the executive board, as expressed at its January meeting, there existed a necessity for retrenchment in the expenditures of the society, in order that the balance between income and disbursements should be on the side of the former, and the board's recommendations in the circumstances have been carried out to the fullest extent. The budget system has been adopted, and the board has approved a budget to cover expenses and appropriations for the current year. A new system of bookkeeping on the card principle has been installed in the secretary's office, through which the accounting of the secretary and treasurer must necessarily agree in every respect. Each month the chairman of the finance committee and the president of the society have rendered to them a financial report showing the transactions for the month and the balances as they stand. It is a matter for congratulation that today all funds are intact, and each fund has on deposit the exact amount credited to it. The following is the secretary's financial statement from January 1 to August 1, 1921, supplementary to the statement presented to the executive board at its annual meeting in January last, which appears in the board's minutes, printed and circulated at this session:

GENERAL FUND.

Annual dues, 1922	$ 15.00
Annual dues, 1921	4,583.00
Annual dues, 1920	355.00
Annual dues, 1919	60.00
Annual dues, 1918	12.00
Annual dues, 1917	6.00
Annual total	$ 5,031.00
Life members' buttons	3.00
New members' fees	1,475.00
Advertising in journal	664.00
Space at Washington convention	2,337.25
Signs at convention	36.00
Interest	787.22
Total	$ 5,302.47

PERMANENT FUND.

Life membership	$ 425.00

NATIONAL PUBLICITY FUND.

Subscriptions	$28,103.69
Dealers' helps	923.05
Billboard signs	2,485.87
Interest	33.41
Total	$31,546.02

The details of this report will appear in the report of the auditors.

Without encroaching upon the report to be made upon the membership drive, I think I should mention the fact that through the generosity of one of our officers, who made a personal contribution of $500 for the purpose, the expenses of the drive, as far as the society is concerned, were largely offset. Could a better example of loyalty to our organization be cited?

Report of Secretary John Young, presented at the S. A. F. convention at Washington August 16, 1921.

I believe that our members will be ready to endorse the judgment of the officers that the trade exhibition this year in Washington is entitled to go into history as another great success to the credit of the society. Nearly 100 exhibitors have shown their confidence in the power of the society to promote a big attendance at this convention, and I think you will agree with me that they are not disappointed.

While circumstances have precluded a vigorous pushing of the publicity campaign this year as far as magazine advertising has been concerned, the publicity committee and the secretary's office have been busy in other ways, with the result that much progress is to be reported. Bills up to the close of last year had been incurred on the presumption that subscriptions would continue to come in at the average rate previously experienced, but they failed to do so; consequently, some of the funds coming in 1921 were, necessarily, used to discharge this indebtedness, but every penny expended was used for advancing the national publicity campaign, and there is no cause for complaint on the part of any subscriber that subscriptions were used for any purpose other than intended.

The work of preparation for the fifth national flower show, to be held in Cleveland March 25 to April 1, 1922, is well in hand and will be detailed in a report to be made by the national flower show committee at a later session. The general interest already expressed in horticultural circles, among the trade and in auxiliary lines is highly encouraging, and there is every prospect of an added success to the record of national flower shows promoted by the society.

Plant Registration.

Since the last convention the following new plants have been registered with the society:

Geraniums Purity, Morrisville Beauty, Babe Marie, Olive Charlton and Miss Aggie, by the New York School of Agriculture, Morrisville, N. Y., December 15, 1920.

Geraniums Mrs. Hattie A. Doll, April 20, 1921, and Mrs. Henry J. Doll, by Henry J. Doll, Wanskuk Greenhouses, Providence, R. I., June 11, 1921.

Geranium E. H. Kunze, by E. H. Kunze, Newton, Kan., June 11, 1921.

Geraniums Herbert Tong, Red Barney and Mothers' Day, by Tong & Weeks Floral C Ashtabula, O., July 12, 1921.

Medal Awards.

The society's medals have be awarded as follows, since our last co vention:

Through the American Dahlia So ety: Silver medal to Richard Vince Jr., & Sons Co., White Marsh, Md., f Dahlia Patrick O'Mara.

Through the American Carnation S ciety: Silver medal to Strout's, In Biddeford, Me., for Carnation Rosalin bronze medal to George Brenkert, De ver, Colo., for Carnation Denver.

The Trade Papers.

This report would not be complet without mention of the very great su port rendered to the society by th trade papers, whose managements hav extended extraordinary courtesies i publishing all the matter, regularly sen them from the secretary's office, per taining to the work and aims of the so ciety, and it goes without saying tha they have the hearty thanks of every one connected with our organization.

PUTTING PEP IN THE SOIL

GREENHOUSE soil fertility maintenance is a problem that demands the most careful consideration and it can be discussed in only a general way today. I would have considerable hesitancy in attempting to give a rose or a carnation grower specific directions as to how to feed his plants, for we have long since learned that long-range directions for the feeding of plants cannot be made, but that each man's problem is distinct in itself and influenced by soil, temperature, moisture supply and many other factors.

What we can reasonably hope to accomplish in this discussion is to call attention to some of the broad principles affecting the fertility of the soil in the greenhouse, and general methods whereby the soil can be kept in a high state of productivity. Without this explanation I would feel reluctant to occupy the time of the members of the Society of American Florists and Ornamental Horticulturists.

According to available statistics, there were in 1918 about 2,750 acres in the United States covered by greenhouses, these producing crops worth over $46,000,000, or over $16,000 worth of flowers, vegetables, etc., on every acre enclosed. The modern greenhouse represents an investment of $25,000 to $50,000, or even more, per acre, and it requires from 250 to 500 tons of coal per annum to maintain an acre of glass at temperatures suitable for the production of floral crops. With interest charges of from $1,500 to $3,000 per acre and fuel charges of from $1,250 to $5,000 per year per acre, it is necessary to keep greenhouse space fully occupied at all seasons. As a consequence, no opportunity is afforded for soil improvement by crop rotations and other practices commonly followed by outdoor growers working on land that represents a total investment, in most cases, of not over $1,000 per acre. Fertility must be maintained at the same time that crops are being produced and the problem is further complicated by the fact that the conditions in the greenhouse are particularly favorable to the development of diseases necessitating soil sterilization, or other control measures that consume time which could otherwise be devoted to the crops.

Address of Prof. James H. Beattie, of the Department of Agriculture, on "Maintenance of Soil Fertility," delivered at the Washington convention of the S. A. F., August 16 to 18.

Changing Each Season.

Growers who make a practice of changing the soil each season have a different problem than those who use the same soil year after year. When the soil is changed every season, the grower has an opportunity to select virgin soils, well supplied with organic matter and free from diseases likely to injure his crops. Such soil can be composted months in advance of the time it is needed and many growers make a practice of adding the phosphate and potash fertilizers to the mixture before placing it in the greenhouse. The renewing of the soil in large houses is a huge task, consequently growers have, whenever possible, availed themselves of the use of greenhouses where the area enclosed is treated much the same as land devoted to the intensive production of outdoor crops. In such houses the soil is used year after year, and to secure results it must be maintained in a high state of fertility. The question confronting every grower is: How can this best be accomplished? No single method or combination of methods of soil improvement seems best adapted to all conditions. As in the case of the use of commercial fertilizers, it is impossible to make suggestions that will fit every grower's conditions. Let us briefly discuss some of the promising methods for maintaining and improving greenhouse soils.

Use of Stable Manure.

Good manure is becoming harder to secure each year. Where the large cities formerly supplied thousands of tons annually, the supply has now dwindled until it is small. Moreover, manure from cities, as a rule, includes large quantities of street sweepings, containing considerable percentages of oil and tarry matter from the streets. Investigations made in Washington, D. C., several years ago, when automobile traffic was but a small fraction of what it now is, showed that manure swept from the streets of that city contained as much as four per cent oil, and that such manure, when used on plants, was detrimental instead of beneficial. The investigations further showed that the oil remained in the material after it had decayed and that, even in cases where no harmful effects arose from the use of manure containing small quantities of oil, this oil remained in the soil and, when augmented by later applications of similar manure, became harmful and, in many cases, fatal to the crops planted on the soil. The greenhouse operator must be sure as to the quality of the manure he is using and the present supplies from our cities are not only small in quantity, but of doubtful value.

Under the intensive cultural methods followed in the greenhouse, the soil must be kept supplied with organic matter and available plant food and this can perhaps, best be accomplished through the use of manure. When incorporated with the soil it improves its physical condition and adds plant food. When used as a top-dressing or a mulch it retains moisture and its plant food reaches the roots by leaching. Nearly every rose grower uses liquid manure and deems it essential to success. Many large establishments have leaching platforms, where the manure is placed and sprayed with water, which is collected in tanks

PROSPECT FOR PUBLICITY

The report of Henry Penn, chairman of the national publicity committee, presented at the S. A. F. convention at Washington August 17, 1921.

HOW fortunate, indeed, are the florists of the present day in comparison with other lines! Hardly an industry is operating at full capacity. Iron and steel foundries are completely shut down, while automobile and kindred trades are running from thirty-five to sixy per cent of normal.

How little we have suffered I leave to your own decision. And there is still greater success in store for us as a whole because of the fact that we have seen the light of day and realize advertising as a factor to help build up bigger business.

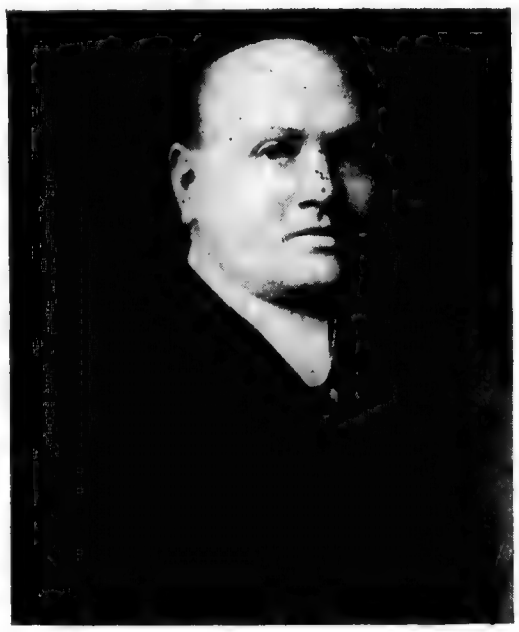
In days gone by we were all more or less content to stock up and then wait for customers, but today we know that we must continually remind the public that we have flowers, and in our desire to serve we have increased the quality as well as the demand.

Chicago's Example.

The city of Chicago is a shining example of what publicity can do to stimulate the desire for more flowers. What is possible there goes for the rest of the continent. The Chicago florists' publicity campaign has worked wonders, as they will attest.

Dr. John J. Tigert, United States commissioner of education, declared in an address in Des Moines recently that advertising is the most important factor in modern business. "Important as are the factors of labor, raw material, production, marketing and organization, none of these is as significant today as advertising," he said. Can we afford to relax now, when we should animate more than ever so that the trade will enjoy the fruit of its endeavor?

We need more men and money to carry out our national program, and the time is not far distant when those who are doing their duty will appreciate the good their investment has accomplished.



Funds Necessary.

We are waiting for a fund to start our fall campaign. Your committee realizes the necessity of having the means in the treasurer's hands before making any expenditures, and as soon as conditions warrant we shall again start our advertising in magazine publications.

One of the biggest things in advertising is good-will and ours has been of a character to help build this spirit. We have raised our standard of flowers in the effort, and, harnessed together, we have an asset that will move onward and upward. Never in the history of flowers have so many branches of our business benefited as since the advent of advertising three or four years ago, and surely the desire to further this course will be most acceptable to all of us.

What, then, is necessary to obtain more funds to increase our campaign? The answer is left to you for further consideration.

Abraham Lincoln once said that folks are just about as happy as they have made up their minds to be, and this reminds me that the florists' national campaign fund can be made as big as we want it to be. If we make up our minds to have a big campaign and we know we want it, it is up to us to find a means to finance it. And never was that old adage, "As ye sow, so shall ye reap," more fitting than right here. If we raise a fund commensurate with the committee's program, we shall reap the benefit of the many years of labor which have been put into our business to bring it to its present level.

Tomorrow's Need.

Our publicity committee has visions of a well defined program, merely being hampered by not having the funds on hand. Would it not be a good thing for florists running local campaigns to see to it that twenty-five per cent of their appropriations be transmitted to the national fund just to show their interest in their own campaign?

The success of our slogan is international and unless we keep it up nationally other lines will make such inroads upon it as to undermine our good work, so well started. We must never succumb to the fallacy that when our business is at its height we don't need to do any advertising, because that is just the time to keep it going so that its momentum will keep us going. In doing this you avoid the danger that many lines have suffered in the past in forgetting that there is a tomorrow. So let us profit by the experience of others and make our national campaign as nearly continuous as we can. To do this, we must of necessity find ways and means to acquire sufficient funds. As you all know, this is the fourth year of the voluntary subscription, and it should be kept up in localities where there are no allied associations, in order to keep the campaign moving until we can place it on the plane where it properly belongs.

Salesmanship Essential.

The following years are going to be years when problems of salesmanship and advertising are going to be more essential than ever, owing to the transition stages through which we are passing, and we must bend all our energy to keep flowers in the home and before the public at all times in the printed word as well as in the floral sense. To do this, we must cultivate new buyers by inspiring confidence and sentiment, and with the assistance of our national publicity campaign, backed up with local advertising, we shall be able to cope with the problem from a broad viewpoint and thereby help florists generally from all parts of the continent.

We should endeavor to appreciate the importance of the campaign nationally, in order to help sales all over this country and Canada, and in order to do this properly and with prestige we need the assistance of everyone connected with the trade in its various branches.

Now, in conclusion, let us all try to do our part in this big, unselfish movement where everybody helps his neighbor. The "Say It with Flowers" campaign has been accredited with being one of the best campaigns ever put across. Now it is up to us to keep it alive, to prove that our industry is a growing one from all standpoints and to develop a wonderful campaign to place flowers within the reach of every lover of them.

THE DEATH ROLL.

Included in Secretary Young's report at the Washington convention August 16 was the following list of members of the S. A. F. who had died since the convention of a year ago:

Thomas C. Long, Chicago, Sept. 13, 1920.
Judson Kramer, Cedar Rapids, Ia., Sept. 18, 1920.
Michael H. Norton, Milton, Mass., Oct. 16, 1920.
August Hoffmeister, Amelia, O., Nov. 1, 1920.
William Plumb, Havana, Cuba, Nov. 8, 1920.
Charles J. Bolgiano, Baltimore, Nov. 18, 1920.
Mrs. J. B. Freeman, Toledo, O., Dec. 6, 1920.
E. H. Mazey, Minneapolis, Jan. 7, 1921.
Charles W. Crouch, Knoxville, Tenn., Jan. 8, 1921.
Frank R. Steinbach, Richmond, Va., Jan. 12, 1921.
H. N. Kelly, Boston, Mass., Jan. 27, 1921.
Thomas Boothe De Forest, New York, Feb. 6, 1921.
Max M. Smith, Portland, Ore., Feb. 12, 1921.
Peter Reinberg, Chicago, Feb. 21, 1921.
Fred Hall, Denver, Colo., Mar. 4, 1921.
John Lewis Childs, Floral Park, N. Y., Mar. 5, 1921.
Alfred Demeusy, Brooklyn, N. Y., May 1, 1921.
James F. M. Farquhar, Boston, May 23, 1921.
Frank J. Ritzenthaler, Cleveland, June 5, 1921.
J. L. O'Quinn, Raleigh, N. C., July 12, 1921.
H. W. Buckbee, Rockford, Ill., July 16, 1921.
George Sykes, Chicago, July 18, 1921.
I. V. Kinder, Charleroi, Pa., July 18, 1921.
John K. M. L. Farquhar, Boston, July 24, 1921.

Fredonia, Kan.—While he was attending to his duties as secretary and treasurer of the Kansas State Florists' Association, held at Topeka, August 4 and 5, the greenhouses of Loyd C. Bunch, of Fredonia, were being damaged by hail. He stuck to the convention to the last and went home to find all his glass and stock destroyed.

OUR OPPORTUNITY

The address of Prof. L. C. Corbett, of the Department of Agriculture, on "Providing Stock in Substitution for Material Excluded from Importation Under Quarantine Order 37," delivered at the Washington convention of the S. A. F., August 16 to 18.

TO AN audience such as this I do not need to go into the reasons for Quarantine 37, neither do I need to enumerate the plants admitted under it. The only observation I wish to make is that I think the future will limit, instead of increasing, the variety of plants so admitted.

With such an outlook, what can American floriculture and the florists of America hope for? The answer to this can be expressed in one brief sentence. The American florists can go the limit. I say this because I believe the florists of this country have as much originality, as good or better facilities and, certainly, a better market for their products than any other group engaged in like work anywhere in the world. If this belief is well founded, there is no limit to the opportunities open to the florists of this country truly interested in the propagation of plants needed by the trade.

Foreign Plants Grown Here.

With Quarantine 37 in operation, there is an incentive for effort in this direction which has never before existed. As a result of this lack of incentive, American floriculture has been the loser. It is natural for plantsmen to follow well-beaten paths as long as such a course gives fairly profitable results. We are slow to do things that others are ready to do for us, even though such a course yields only a fraction of the possible return from the industry. With the boat to which we have been hanging out of reach, it is up to the industry to learn how to swim and that, I am encouraged to say, is being learned rapidly.

Our nurserymen are propagating many of the plants formerly brought from abroad. All the hardy shrubs are easily propagated vegetatively or from seeds. Even Azalea indica, which has not been commercially propagated in this country, is now being extensively produced by at least two American growers.

We have thousands of acres of land just as well suited to the propagation of rhododendrons as the region about Boskoop, and we have men who know how to propagate them. Just as soon as they apply themselves to the task we are going to have a list of American varieties of rhododendrons better suited to our needs than the European hybrids. I say this in all candor, for had we not developed American varieties of apples, peaches, grapes, cherries, etc., these great fruit industries of ours would not be what they are today.

The rhododendron is a native shrub, growing wild in great profusion in the Appalachian region from Pennsylvania to Florida. Why should we not have American hybrid seedlings, with the beauty of those we have been provided with by European plantsmen, which are hardy and better adapted to our more trying conditions? I feel confident that the plantsmen of this country are going to provide themselves with sorts better suited to their needs than those upon which we have depended in the past. The same law which holds with the fruits will be found to hold good for all the hardy ornamentals.

Hybridizing.

We have produced the great roses and carnations which have contributed so much to the work of the florists of the country. The Lawson, the Enchantress, and others among the carnations, and the Killarney rose serve as marked examples of what I have in mind. A need existed, the growers devoted themselves to the task, superior varieties were produced, which have returned millions of dollars to the growers, and in the future, as occasion requires, still better varieties will be produced.

I am glad to say that there now exists in this country a small, but exceedingly enthusiastic, group of men who are devoting themselves to plant propagation. It is their purpose to propagate from seeds, cuttings, grafts, and by other vegetative means, plants in large numbers and offer these to the trade for lining out. Florists, nurserymen and others can avail themselves of this young material and handle it so as to produce the character of stock demanded by their particular trade. The work of this group will be explained by A. H. Hill, president, and F. W. Von Oven, secretary of the American Plant Propagators' Association. The work of these gentlemen should provide a variety and grade of material greatly needed by both florists and nurserymen.

Realizing the need for American sorts for American conditions, Dr. Walter Van Fleet and others are devoting their time and ability to the creation of such sorts. We now have roses which are not only fine roses for cutting, but the plants themselves are desirable shrubs for use upon the lawn or in the border. These are not dual purpose roses, but are such roses as are needed to brighten the twenty or more millions of rural homes of these United States. The man who contributes a rose or a shrub which will brighten the way for homemakers of America has performed a service comparable to that of the servant of old who gathered the manna in the wilderness, and the people will rise up and call him blessed.

Stimulating Interest.

The popular acclaim which is possible in connection with the naming of a worthy rose, or other worth-while plant creation, is well illustrated in the work of the Royal Rosarians of the city of Portland, Ore. The populace of the city made the occasion a gala day and devoted themselves, twenty thousand strong, to participation in a rose festival at which the Mary Wallace rose, one of Dr. Van Fleet's recent hybrids, was christened.

I mention this to show the interest the American people can be stimulated to take in a purely æsthetic horticultural event. Hundreds of other cities in America could and would do what Portland did this year if only the local florists would furnish the motive. It is not necessary that a new rose be named; start a rose festival, a cherry blossom festival, an iris competition, or any one of a hundred other worth-while things that might be mentioned that will add beauty and character to the place you live in or, if you have no higher motive, will add cash to your till.

What are we doing in this country to bring about the improvement in plant conditions we all admit is so desirable? I have already mentioned the work of individual nurserymen who are devoting extensive activities to the multiplication of the standard woody ornamental material we have been bringing in from abroad. These growers are well scattered over the United States.

Various Groups.

Then there is the plant propagator group, whose proposition is to produce baby plants in large numbers and to deal almost exclusively with the trade.

There are also the specialists in certain lines, who are assembling superior collections of varieties of plants of a great assortment, including aquatics, herbaceous perennials and woody plants. Besides this group, there is the individual florist who makes a few crosses with his carnations, roses, chrysanthemums or amaryllis, and from these produces a sort which he handles as a specialty and from which he receives not only the satisfaction of having made a contribution to the horticultural plants of the world, but has also received a due proportion of the people's money.

We cannot all be E. Gurney Hills, or Dr. Van Fleets, in the rose world, but we can all make a worth-while contribution as we pass.

Besides this great professional class, we have another advantage not enjoyed by any other nation of the world in like degree. We have forty-eight state experiment stations besides the United States Department of Agriculture, in which horticultural work in great variety and magnitude is being carried on. Some contributions of worth have come from these sources and, now that the organized industries to which these institutions can render assistance are beginning to look to them for assistance in the solution of the great variety and multiplicity of their problems, there is developing that spirit of coöperation which makes for success.

The nurserymen have a real, live interest in the Department of Agriculture, because they secured an appropriation to be devoted to the investigation of the problems of plant propagation in their field. This interest should extend to the florists as well, for you are interested in many of the same problems. But you have a separate and distinct group of

HINTS ON HOW TO HEAT

Address by F. T. Giblin, of Utica, N. Y., on "Greenhouse Heating—the Heart of the Business," presented at the S. A. F. convention at Washington August 16, 1921.

THAT charming English essayist and speaker, Gilbert K. Chesterton, delights in paradoxes; so the title of one of his speeches is, "The Ignorance of the Educated." Of course, it is a hit at the educated, so called, but on a keen self-analysis such people are forced to admit they are misnamed. It has occurred to me that this is an apt title as to what is known, not only about greenhouse heating, but heating in general.

Undoubtedly, you all have had experience with greenhouse heating, and possibly some of you have had experience with warm air heating, the almost universal method of heating residences of moderate and low cost. The warm air furnace manufacturers thought they knew a lot about heating, but when they formed an association, seven years ago, they established a bureau of research, and it was found, upon investigation, that there was scarcely anything taught on the subject in the universities or colleges of the country, and nothing at all in the schools. They have already spent about $50,000 in their research, and about all they have learned is how little is known of the real fundamentals of warm air heating. Research is still being made for them by the University of Illinois, at Urbana, and even the professional educators there are dumfounded to find how little foundation they have to start on, to build up something constructive.

Heirs of the Ages.

In looking up the subject of heating, as I have for the last thirty-five years, I am astonished to find how few sources of information there are. We, of the present day, are heirs of all the preceding ages. We have the learning, information and experience to be found in the work and the writings of the past. This work has been done by our predecessors and we have the benefit of it.

Where shall we find any information about greenhouse heating? No textbooks exist and little has been written within the last twenty-five years. A few articles and essays have been published in the trade papers, but no source exists to which we can go for thoroughly practical, reliable information.

Do we need this information? Just consider for a moment what greenhouse heating means. The title of this paper describes it as "The Heart of the Business," and the accuracy of the statement is obvious by asking, "What would the greenhouse business do without heating?"

Heat is the basis of all propagation and procreation, and life could not exist without it. The seed needs heat. The tender, tiny plant or flower needs heat, and with heat and air and light it develops, grows strong, and comes forth in all its beauty of fruit and flowers.

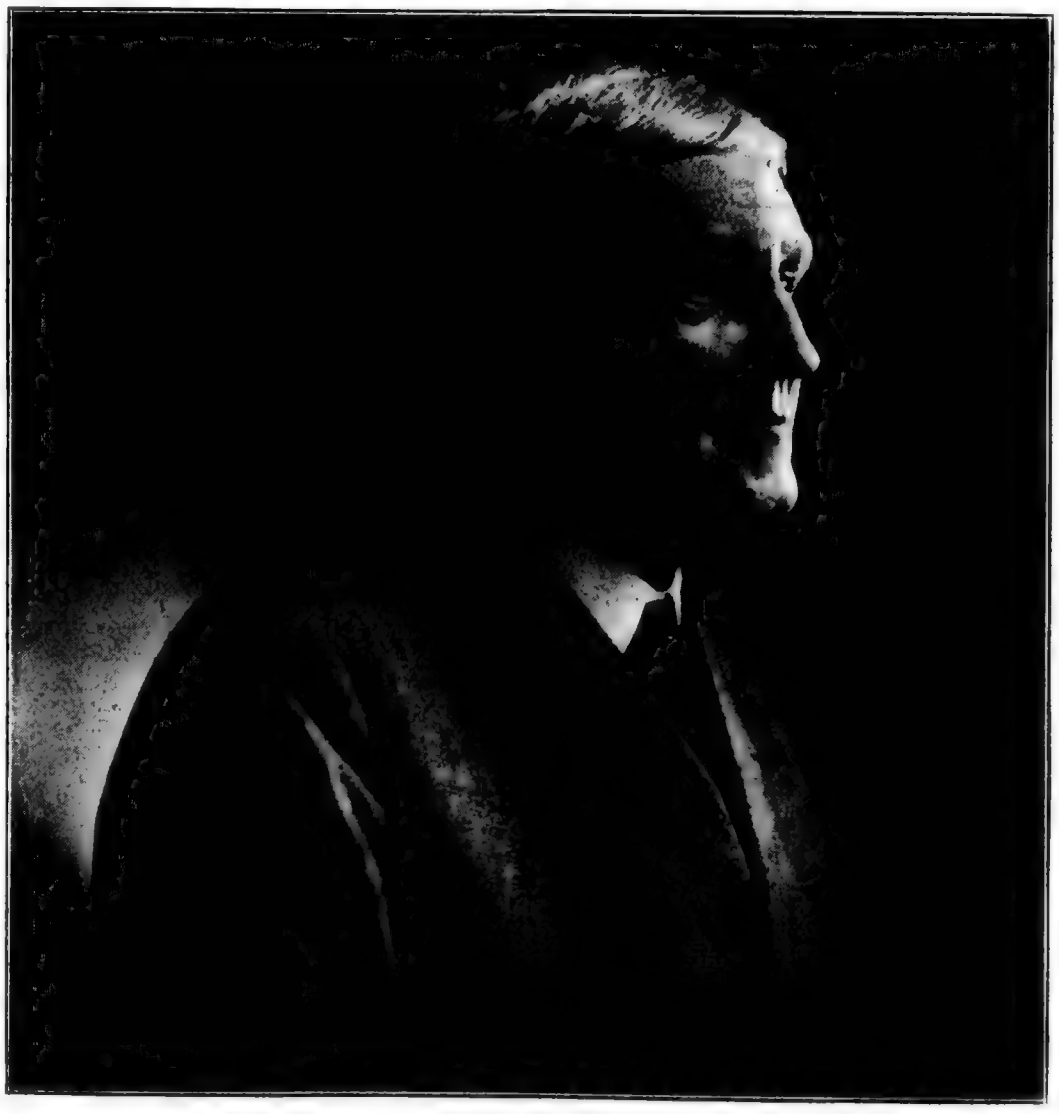
Constant Friend and Helper.

You meet the need of heat at every turn of your business. You must secure it at the right temperature, and at different temperatures for different plants and flowers. Heat lives with you all the time—is ever at your elbow, ever forcing recognition; yet you are not trying to get acquainted with it—to know all its phases and peculiarities, its laws and obligations.

If you did know it, if you made it your friend and assistant, it would reward your friendship with wondrous gifts.

Now, to know heat and greenhouse heating means study, organization, cooperative, patient investigation, and the spending of much time and money. Does this scare you? Well, let me tell you, if you would make a broad survey of conditions today among florists and learn the millions of dollars now wasted for lack of knowledge on the subject, you would have reason for being scared.

Let me tell you an incident in warm air heating. For at least forty years back, warm air pipes have been covered with asbestos paper at an annual expense in late years of one to two millions of dollars. It is now found that more heat is lost through this covering than through the bright tin pipes uncovered. It is reasonable to say that twenty millions of dollars have been spent in the past to aid in the waste of fuel. Only accurate tests, made possible by the coöperation of the manufacturers, brought this waste to light.



Isn't it possible and probable that thorough research of present methods of greenhouse heating would disclose similar wastes, and enable us to stop them?

For the Benefit of All.

It is said that "man is a gregarious animal," which means that no man can live by himself. Man is also a thinking animal, and can take a suggestion and work it out to his benefit and the benefit of his fellow men.

No manufacturer, no heating expert, no florist knows it all. Everyone can learn from others, and the experience and knowledge of all, obtained by each, should be made available for the benefit of all. Change and development, which we term evolution, is universal, but how much of it have you noticed in the heating of greenhouses? Practically nothing. There is room for improvement, it would be appreciated, but how is it to be brought about?

We want better boilers; we want better methods of installation; we want better means of operation, but more than all we want these things secured intelligently by ascertaining the laws governing them.

F. T. Giblin.

HINTS ON HOW TO HEAT

Address by F. T. Giblin, of Utica, N. Y., on "Greenhouse Heating the Heart of the Business," presented at the S. A. F. convention at Washington August 16, 1921.

Undoubtedly, you all have had experience with greenhouse heating, and possibly some of you have had experience with warm air heating, the almost universal method of heating residences of moderate and low cost. The warm air furnace manufacturers thought they knew a lot about heating, but when they formed an association, seven years ago, they established a bureau of research, and it was found, upon investigation, that there was scarcely anything taught on the subject in the universities or colleges of the country, and nothing at all in the schools. They have already spent about $50,000 in their research, and about all they have learned is how little is known of the real fundamentals of warm air heating. Research is still being made for them by the University of Illinois, at Urbana, and even the professional educators there are dumfounded to find how little foundation they have to start on, to build up something constructive.

Heirs of the Ages.

In looking up the subject of heating, as I have for the last thirty-five years, I am astonished to find how few sources of information there are. We, of the present day, are heirs of all the preceding ages. We have the learning, information and experience to be found in the work and the writings of the past. This work has been done by our predecessors and we have the benefit of it.

Where shall we find any information about greenhouse heating? No textbooks exist and little has been written within the last twenty-five years. A few articles and essays have been published in the trade papers, but no source exists to which we can go for thoroughly practical, reliable information.

Do we need this information? Just consider for a moment what greenhouse heating means. The title of this paper describes it as "The Heart of the Business," and the accuracy of the statement is obvious by asking, "What would the greenhouse business do without heating?"

Heat is the basis of all propagation and procreation, and life could not exist without it. The seed needs heat. The tender, tiny plant or flower needs heat, and with heat and air and light it develops, grows strong, and comes forth in all its beauty of fruit and flowers.

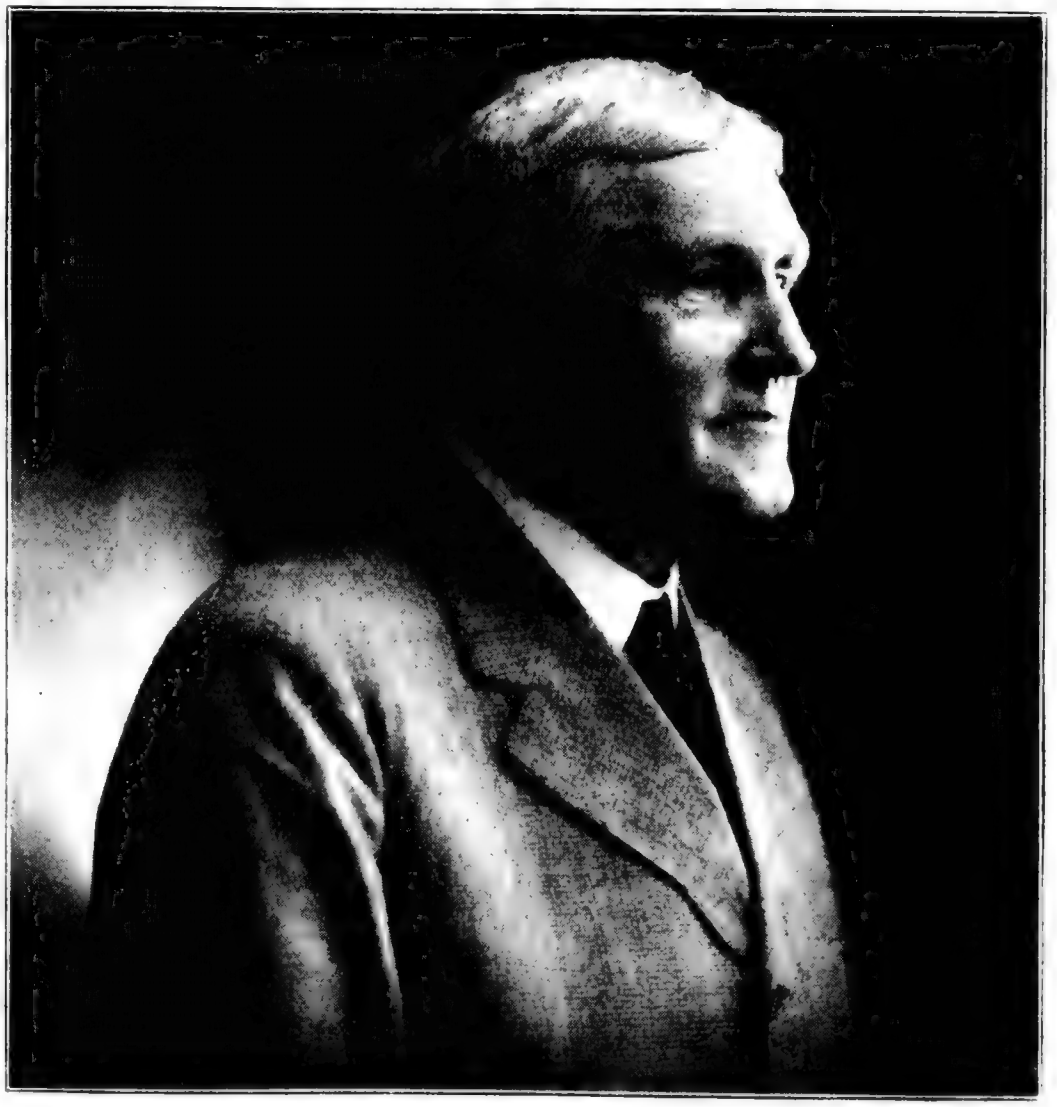
Constant Friend and Helper.

You meet the need of heat at every turn of your business. You must secure it at the right temperature, and at different temperatures for different plants and flowers. Heat lives with you all the time—is ever at your elbow, ever forcing recognition; yet you are not trying to get acquainted with it—to know all its phases and peculiarities, its laws and obligations.

If you did know it, if you made it your friend and assistant, it would reward your friendship with wondrous gifts.

Now, to know heat and greenhouse heating means study, organization, cooperative, patient investigation, and the spending of much time and money. Does this scare you? Well, let me tell you, if you would make a broad survey of conditions today among florists and learn the millions of dollars now wasted for lack of knowledge on the subject, you would have reason for being scared.

Let me tell you an incident in warm air heating. For at least forty years back, warm air pipes have been covered with asbestos paper at an annual expense in late years of one to two millions of dollars. It is now found that more heat is lost through this covering than through the bright tin pipes uncovered. It is reasonable to say that twenty millions of dollars have been spent in the past to aid in the waste of fuel. Only accurate tests, made possible by the coöperation of the manufacturers, brought this waste to light.



Isn't it possible and probable that thorough research of present methods of greenhouse heating would disclose similar wastes, and enable us to stop them?

For the Benefit of All.

It is said that "man is a gregarious animal," which means that no man can live by himself. Man is also a thinking animal, and can take a suggestion and work it out to his benefit and the benefit of his fellow men.

No manufacturer, no heating expert, no florist knows it all. Everyone can learn from others, and the experience and knowledge of all, obtained by each, should be made available for the benefit of all. Change and development, which we term evolution, is universal, but how much of it have you noticed in the heating of greenhouses? Practically nothing. There is room for improvement, it would be appreciated, but how is it to be brought about?

We want better boilers; we want better methods of installation; we want better means of operation, but more than all we want these things secured intelligently by ascertaining the laws governing them.

F. T. Giblin.

We want better boilers. We want boilers to utilize thoroughly the fuel consumed, and not waste from forty to fifty per cent of it, as the best boilers now do. We want boilers that will keep up the temperature all night without attention and let the florist sleep—that will be long-lived, and sold at a reasonable price.

We want better installation. We want to know, once the heat is obtained from the boiler, how to distribute it with the least loss and to the best effect, and at the least expense. We want to know how to make the heating of greenhouses convenient and at greatly decreased cost.

Letting the Florist Sleep.

Don't you want all these things? How are you going to obtain them? By cooperation. Have the will for them and the means of getting them will come.

A florist wrote us last March, "I haven't been in bed since last October." He could not go to bed because his boiler required attention every two or three hours during the night. Better boilers, better installation and better operation will do away with this, and it will not only let the florist sleep, but will put money in his pocket.

When Decoration day comes and goes, the florist wants to call it the end of a perfect year, but he gets out his bills and "Lo! the coal man's name leads all the rest."

Sometimes he looks down at his ankles to see if the ball and chain of coal expense is there. This ball and chain of recent years begins to get into his flesh, and every florist squirms when he sees the present high price of fuel and the size of his coal bill at the end of the year.

If, by working together, we can better conditions and get rid of present evils, why not do it? Everyone can knock, as the expression goes. Anyone can find fault, but to propose something constructive is a different and a difficult thing. Now, I won't knock unless I make the knocking heard. I won't complain unless I can show how to remove the complaints. My suggestion is that more attention to greenhouse heating should be given by this association and its individual members.

A Committee on Heating?

This association should put a heating man on its board of directors. It should create a committee to take charge of the subject of heating. This committee can formulate methods for securing data on heating and plan how to get the coöperation of the members in solving the problems outlined. It means study, time and money. It means a few men must work for all and persuade the all to get interested and work also.

If, in the course of the next five or ten years, we can get extensive data on greenhouse heating, if we can have this data considered and in plan, simple language tell what it proves and then by publication have the information available to every florist, the benefit will be incalculable and will be well worth all we do to get it.

If the florist is spending now for his heating $1,000 per year, and the work we propose to do shows he is spending from $200 to $400 more than he ought, and we show him how to save this waste, shouldn't he be intensely interested, and shouldn't he aid us in the work?

I feel I am safe and reasonable in saying that from twenty to forty per cent of the present total expense for heating is a complete waste, and that it is possible to stop it. Suppose someone at the end of the year would hand back to you twenty to forty per cent of your whole heating expense, wouldn't you be interested and wouldn't you extend the glad hand of welcome to your benefactor? Get busy yourself, be your own benefactor and accumulate an old-age fund for yourself.

Belated Economy.

We ran our plant by steam power for years. Someone suggested electric power was better and cheaper. I called in an acquaintance, an electrical engineer, and asked how about it. He said he did not think it would pay to change. Ten years afterward our engine broke down; so we got really busy on the subject of electric power. We had it installed and have saved at least $1,500 a year in actual cost, without counting the increased efficiency obtained. We lost at least $15,000 by not looking into the matter more thoroughly ten years previously. This, to us, was an actual, tangible money loss.

Now, isn't it possible that similar losses are being borne by you unconsciously?

There are no accurate figures, but it is estimated there are in use in the United States 100,000,000 square feet of glass in greenhouses. It is estimated that at present prices for fuel, with an ordinarily good boiler, proper piping, properly installed, and the whole system operated properly for 200 days, heating to 70 degrees all the time and maintaining that temperature in zero weather, the cost would be, heating by steam, $100; by water, $65 per thousand feet of glass. Let us divide the cost of the two methods, and take it at $80 per thousand feet of glass per season, and you have the enormous sum of $8,000,000 annually spent by florists for fuel.

Two Extremes.

I know of a case where the cost, at present prices of fuel, for heating by water has been $110 per season, or $45 more than it ought to be. This is a waste of about seventy per cent. I know of a case where the cost of heating by steam has been $35 per thousand feet of glass per season, or a saving over the average of sixty-five per cent. Here are extremes of 135 per cent in rate of cost. Who knows, therefore, how much of this $8,000,000 is being saved or wasted, and isn't it important that it be known?

When a man operates a factory he wants to know, and he generally does know, whether his costs are right or not. If he finds he has obsolete machines he scraps them for machines producing work at less cost. He revolutionizes whole processes and finds that what he throws away generally comes back in decreased costs and increased profits. In the large textile, woolen and cotton mills, in steel mills and foundries, they are continually on the lookout for improved machinery, and pay experts to discover and get it.

A greenhouse is a factory. What applies to a textile mill or foundry applies to a greenhouse. The principle is the same, and the good results of improved methods will be appreciated in both places.

My contact with the florists' business fills me with envy, and I wonder if you appreciate all there is in your business entirely outside of the financial profit in it.

In winter, when cold and frost and ice prevail outside, you live in an atmosphere of comfort, beauty and pleasure. We have tingling ears and frozen fingers—must buffet sleet and icy winds. You have, under glass, the uplifting smell of the moistened earth, the fragrance and beauty of the flowers.

Coöperating with the Creator.

With all reverence I say it—you are almost like the Creator. You are creators in a measure. You select the seed, and by study and experiment improve it. You plant, you propagate and you bring into being all the beauty and pleasure of flowers. You handle them tenderly, as they are tender things. Their life is short, and you guide and control it, and by them make the lives of men more sweet and beautiful.

You meet every phase of life, the sweetest and saddest. Birth is welcomed by your work, and as the happy mother looks with a sweet smile upon her new-born babe, she sees with joy the flowers sent her by loving friends and cherishes to her bosom her child, the sweetest flower of all.

You are interested in the sweet girl graduate (let us forget the boy), and the flowers you furnish add to her charm and beauty, and years afterwards she will recall with pleasure the profusion of flowers received. You are present at marriage, because the bride must be decked by your product, and so must the altar, the home and friends. Birthdays, anniversaries of different sorts, religious festivals, all must have the result of your work, and none is complete without flowers.

The last remembrance of our dear lost ones is connected with flowers surrounding them, and the beauty of the flowers softens the cold and repelling features of death. The flowers thrown on the coffin in the grave act as a shield, and as the earth is thrown lightly there, we realize that the beauty of the flowers well typifies the beauty of the life just ended.

When Opportunity Knocks.

You see you are present at every act in life, and I wonder if you realize and appreciate what a wonderful and beautiful work you are engaged in.

You have recognized and approved coöperative work by the formation and growth of this association. Now, go further and develop all there is in greenhouse heating, which is so important a part of your business.

Perhaps you have not heretofore given the consideration such an important subject deserves, but now that your attention has been called to this subject, do not let the opportunity pass without action.

Do you know what opportunity is? Listen!

Master of human destinies am I.
Fame, love and fortune on my footsteps wait.
Cities and fields I walk; I penetrate
Deserts and seas remote, and passing by Hovel and mart and palace—soon or late
I knock unbidden once at every gate.
If sleeping, wake—if feasting, rise before
I turn away. It is the hour of fate,
And they who follow me reach every state
Mortals desire, and conquer every foe
Save death; but those who doubt or hesitate,
Condemned to failure, penury and woe,
Seek me in vain, and uselessly implore:
I answer not, and I return no more.

THE TRADE'S DISPLAY.

to distribute. The variety is said to be a heavy reproducer, a good shipper and a splendid cut flower variety, having won the praises of Cincinnati florists, to whom 40,000 blooms will be shipped this season. Charles Pommert displayed the advantages of this variety to visitors.

Poultry Feed Co., Chicago.

While the exhibit of the Poultry Feed Co. was held up by the express company, tables showing the value of pulverized poultry manure were exhibited in that space. A. J. Parker was with the exhibit.

Quality Brands Co., Cleveland.

A side of a greenhouse was erected by the Quality Brands Co. for the purpose of exhibiting the glazing compounds, Vitaplastic and Jim's Elastic. The latter is gray in color; it has the same wearing qualities and other recommendations as Vitaplastic and the additional value of its color—it does not attract and absorb heat and it makes a greenhouse neater and more attractive in appearance. The firm's greenhouse white paint was also presented to visitors' attention. A. Lehman was with the exhibit.

Quincy Art Willow Ware Co., Quincy.

The ivory-finished baskets from the Quincy Art Willow Ware Co. were of a tone commendable in such an effect. The other finishes were not behind this largest exhibited line. The shapes were of types that appealed to retail trade as well.

Raedlein Basket Co., Chicago.

Baskets of the Raedlein Basket Co. compose a lengthy line and the complete one was shown in the large booth at Washington. Besides the baskets, reed furniture, particularly bird cages, fern stands and the like, was prominent. A general line of supplies, in addition, filled a table. Allan Humason was in charge, assisted by Joseph G. Fisher and August A. Barz.

A. L. Randall Co., Chicago.

Against a background and drapes of velour at the end of the hall, the baskets manufactured by the A. L. Randall Co. made a striking showing. These included a novelty line of reed baskets, with lathe-turned wood bases, in urn shapes and other novel forms, made in the company's Chicago factory. An exceptionally attractive line of willow baskets, in new colors, from the Traverse City factory, was extensively displayed. Artificial flowers, pampas and other grasses, crepe papers, ribbons and other supplies occupied much space. Reed furniture, of the kind for which this company is now so well known, included in the display lamps, fern stands, fountains and a 3-piece set disposed of to a lucky florist. With the display were Sales Manager Edward G. Galavan, Frank Johnson, A. M. Hansen, from Chicago; J. J. Higgins, from Pittsburgh; B. R. Horan, from Boston; A. J. McCarthy and Henry Dahlberg, from New York.

Will Rehder, Wilmington, N. C.

Natural foliages of a number of sorts and native plants suitable for florists' use composed the exhibit of Will Rehder.

M. Rice Co., Philadelphia.

A masonry design put the exhibit of the M. Rice Co. in a sort of cloister form along one wall of the exhibition hall. In it were supplies of many sorts, novelty and staple, but all "Made in America," indeed, all made in the Philadelphia factory, even the cloister's masonry effect. Baskets were first to greet the visitor, baskets of hand-painted garden design, others of a lace bottom effect and still others as attractive though not so new in pattern. A Keystone doorway led to the left to a vault of wreaths. One to the right showed ribbons and chiffons. A new feather wreath was novel. Large store pieces of furniture stood about. Lanterns of art glass added to the cloistral effect. The exhibit was picturesque in setting and comprehensive in interest in its components. Attending it were Raymond Brunswick, J. P. McCarthy, G. P. Scherer, R. Q. Shoch and Arthur Zirkman. President B. Eschner came later.

J. K. Rugowski Seed Co., Manitowoc.

Twenty-five of the Rugowski asters, some introduced last year and others new this year, were brought from Manitowoc by J. K. Rugowski. Chief among them were Purple Honor, Purple Beauty and White Beauty, White Elk and Purple Elk, White Masterpiece and Pink Masterpiece. A double-crowned pink and a similar white were displayed.

S. H. Russin, New York.

An extensive display of baskets of many sizes and designs formed the background for a most attractive display by S. H. Russin. Artificial flowers, wreaths, frieze, prepared foliages, ruscus, pods and thistles were chief among the many items. Boxes lined so that plants might be conveyed in them, or flowers arranged in moss, were prominent. The imported baskets did not arrive from abroad in time for the convention. J. Bernstein and S. Sorkin were with the exhibit.

Schloss Bros. Ribbons, Inc., New York.

Ribbons, chiffons and similar lines were exhibited by Schloss Bros. Ribbons, Inc., who laid special stress on their Castle brand. Some novelties of attractive pattern were shown. Emil Schloss was with the display.

Anton Schultheis, College Point, N. Y.

The collections of Anton Schultheis contain plants most wanted by florists and in sizes and of a quality they want, too. Ferns, rose bushes, hydrangeas and Erica melanthera, or heather, were principal items in his display. There were a number of varieties of foliage plants included also, among them Chorizema cordatum, Cymbotium Schiedei and kentias. Anton Schultheis was present, as well as several sons.

Skinner Co., Troy, O.

A small working piece of Skinner irrigation system showed interested visitors how the widely used growers' assistant works. The hot summer made many stop and consider this present help in time of drought. R. R. White was in charge.

L. C. Stroh & Sons, Batavia, N. Y.

The Thoro-Mix soil shredder and pulverizer of L. C. Stroh & Sons, which already has won its way into the esteem of growers near the inventor's home and lately of those farther away, was on display for inspection by visitors. The utility and economy were as demonstrable as was its excellent construction. Description of the workings of this machine has previously appeared in print.

Taiyo Trading Co., New York.

The Taiyo Trading Co. showed various ported by the company. Other Japanese novelties were included in the display.

United Bulb Growers, Inc., Sassenheim.

The only foreign house represented in the trade display was the United Bulb Growers, Inc., of Sassenheim, Holland. More than 150 varieties of narcissus, hyacinth, tulip and crocus bulbs were shown. Some splendid gladiolus mother bulbs were exhibited. J. De Groot, who represents the Holland firm in this country, was with the exhibit.

Vasil Steam System Co., Washington.

The Vasil Steam System Co., Washington, D. C., showed models of the Vasil hand stoker with full-sized hopper. This is guaranteed to effect a ten per cent saving in coal and may save as high as forty per cent. Gude Bros. Co. and the Washington Floral Co. have installed the device and a letter from the former was exhibited as a recommendation. President V. MacKay and Secretary M. S. Martignoni were with the exhibit.

Vaughan's Seed Store, Chicago.

Many sorts of bulbs, ferns and foliage plants, pots and frieze and other supplies—such was the general character of the exhibit of Vaughan's Seed Store.

S. A. Weller, South Zanesville, O.

Several striking novelty lines of pottery were exhibited by S. A. Weller; among them were the ivory, Roman ivory, grapery, knifewood and muskato patterns. A bird bath furnished the central note of the display. J. R. Aiken was in charge.

Wertheimer Bros., New York.

The customary extensive display of ribbons and chiffons was exhibited by Wertheimer Bros. Included among them were a number of novelty weaves that won considerable notice from visiting florists.

W. M. Woodruff's Son & Co., Lowgap.

Prepared foliages, including the Eagle brand oak foliages, galax, leucothoe, magnolia wreaths and similar materials, were exhibited by W. M. Woodruff's Son & Co. in a space made attractive by ingenious and artistic arrangement.

Zane Pottery Co., South Zanesville, O.

Five new lines of pottery were shown in the exhibit of the Zane Pottery Co. These included a "powdered blue," a beautiful effect; jade green, a close following of imported Chinese ware; overglazed ware, in which remarkable effects were achieved; marble, black and mulberry ware. These were accompanied by the standard lines, such as moss-agate and others so well known. R. L. Tilgor was present, as well as Mrs. Tilgor.

Red Springs, N. C.—Miss Anna Townsend is planning to build a greenhouse. She will grow cut flowers and hopes to sell a great many bedding plants next spring.

WHO GOT THE MEMBERS?

NATIONAL FLOWER SHOW.

Next Year at Cleveland.

We held a wonderful exhibition in 1916 in Philadelphia, the year of our last show. You are all acquainted with the history of the contemplated show that was to have been staged in St. Louis in 1918, how, after the expenditure of between $6,000 and $7,000, we were forced by the war to call off the planned exhibition. Fortunately, we had a good-sized balance in the national flower show fund from previous exhibitions, so that we did not have to ask the guarantors to pay any of the loss, and we still have a good-sized working capital of about $4,000 in this fund. And now for the next show.

Cleveland, splendidly located geographically, wonderfully experienced in the conduct of big flower shows, having staged successfully several of the largest ever held in this country, is a city that is organized and has a reputation for doing things well. The wonderful building where we are going to stage this event is located on Cleveland's lake front and in the heart of the business section. It is municipally owned and we hope to be one of the first that use it, if not the first. Two large floors, connected by wide stairways, will enable us to keep somewhat separated the trade exhibits. We have arranged to have the exhibitors in this section use built-in booths, all uniform, so as to do away with the unsightly makeshift partitions we have been using in the past. The upper floor, if our plans carry, we wish to form into one large, complete garden.

Premium lists have been printed and circulated that contain the offer of over $20,000 in prizes. Just think, the entire expense of the first national show held in Chicago was just about this amount!

Our budget of expense for the coming show is now $55,000. This is without considering what each exhibitor will spend. I maintain that there will be spent close to $150,000 staging this show. This does not include the costs of the exhibits. Thus we must have the support of all concerned. No one should refuse to do his bit.

Now, you must grow for this event, not the ordinary stock, but the best you can produce. Don't "let George do it," for if we did that, what a terrible calamity it would be! Every inducement has been made through the premium list to insure superfine exhibits. Just think, $5,000 for one class! More money than we used for the entire premium list of the old fall shows, such as were staged in Chicago and elsewhere! Read the list carefully; prepare in advance. We do not want, nor can we expect, Cleveland to supply the exhibits necessary. They must come from all parts of the country.

The guarantee fund is fully subscribed. Space is being purchased. And now in conclusion, put this date down:

Next spring in Cleveland, March 25 to April 1, inclusive.

Report of George Asmus, chairman of the national flower show committee, presented at the S. A. F. convention at Washington August 17, 1921.

FLORISTS' HAIL ASSOCIATION.

Officers Elected.

The Florists' Hail Association reelected its old officers, as follows:

President—J. F. Ammann, Edwardsville, Ill.

Vice-president—J. S. Wilson, Des Moines, Ia.

Treasurer—James W. Heacock, Wyncote, Pa.

Secretary—John G. Esler, Saddle River, N. J.

As directors, C. P. Mueller, Wichita, Kan.; Charles L. Washburn, Chicago, and Albert M. Herr, Lancaster, Pa., were elected, the latter succeeding F. C. W. Brown, of Cleveland.

The executive committee recommended certain amendments to the by-laws, which are to be presented to the members and to be voted on next year. The most important of these concern the dues and assessments paid by members. It is proposed that the fee be increased from $2 to $3 on the first 1,000 square feet of glass and from 50 cents to $1 on each additional 1,000 square feet. It is proposed that at the same time the assessment on hazardous risks be doubled, from ten per cent now, to twenty per cent in case the amendment is carried.

Secretary's Report.

The report of Secretary John G. Esler showed the Florists' Hail Association to be in a still more flourishing condition than last year and keeping up its record of constant growth. The thirty-fourth year of this splendid organization indicates how soundly conservative and yet energetically progressive has been its management. It now has insured 52,000,000 square feet of glass and maintains a reserve fund of $55,600. Its membership is 1,648.

Mr. Esler supplied a summary of the insurance and losses by states, which showed that in the year August 1, 192 to August 1, 1921, more than twice much had been paid in losses as in th year preceding. Losses in Kansas alon $41,590.07, were more than the total la year, $34,726.51, while Colorado, Il nois, Nebraska, Oklahoma and Tex each contributed losses of $3,000 $9,000. That the organization shoul have passed such a year and still be the excellent shape shown is the mo remarkable evidence of its stabilit that growers could wish.

Some of the interesting paragraphs i Secretary Esler's report were:

"The cash balance on hand is $11 910.63, of which $2,587.73 belongs t the reserve fund.

"The reserve fund now amounts t $55,587.73, of which $53,000 is investe in Liberty and municipal bonds, togeth er with $2,587.73 in the hands of th treasurer.

"Three thousand and forty-two losse have been adjusted since the organiza tion of the F. H. A., involving a total expenditure of over $562,000.00.

"An equivalent of 320,016 square feet of single-thick glass was broken by hail during the past year, for which the association paid $16,000.70. An equivalent of 820,669 square feet of double-thick glass was broken, which cost the asso ciation $57,446.88.

"The past year has been the most disastrous experienced by the F. H. A. since its organization, over thirty-four years ago, and the fact that all damages have been paid and a cash balance is still on hand is a record to inspire confidence."

Treasurer's Report.

Treasurer James W. Heacock presented a tabulated statement of the receipts, losses and disbursements of the year. His recapitulation of the association's finances was as follows:

DEBIT.

To balance on hand, July 29, 1920	$ 40,202.21
Total receipts, July 29, 1920, to July 29, 1921	63,467.16
	$103,669.37

CREDIT.

By expenses, July 29, 1920, to July 29, 1921	$ 5,569.56
By losses paid, July 29, 1920, to July 29, 1921	78,447.67
By payment of loan to Rittenhouse Trust Co.	8,149.00
By refund of reinsurance canceled	150.80
By investment, 5 IV Liberty bonds	4,441.71
By balance on hand Rittenhouse Trust Co.	11,899.66
By check on hand	10.97
	$103,669.37

LADIES' S. A. F.

At the annual meeting of the Ladies' S. A. F., President Mrs. Asmus read her annual address and, because of indisposition, asked Miss Gunterberg to take the chair and conduct the meeting. The election of officers resulted as follows:

President—Miss Martha C. Gunterberg, Chicago.

Vice-president—Miss Olga Hubbard Topeka, Kan.

Second vice-president—Miss Katherine Crump, Colorado Springs, Colo.

Secretary—Mrs. Albert M. Herr, Lancaster, Pa.

Treasurer—Miss Pearl B. Fulmer, Des Moines, Ia.

The Ladies' S. A. F. as an organization, and Mrs. J. C. Vaughan as an individual, each offered $25 as a prize for the best bride's bouquet and the best table decoration to be staged at the next national flower show at Cleveland by a member of the Ladies' S. A. F.

SCHOOLING FOR FLORISTS

Address of Prof. H. B. Dorner, head of the division of floriculture of the University of Illinois, on "The Extent and Aims of Floricultural Education in the United States," delivered before the S. A. F. convention at Washington August 16, 1921.

THOSE of you who started in the florists' business in the late seventies or in the eighties had an entirely different proposition from the florist of today. It was pioneer work. Most of our commercial florists of that day rose from the ranks of the private gardeners or the market gardeners. Few received their training in commercial establishments, because commercial establishments were few and of the few a large percentage were small and operated by the owner and his immediate family. There was no room for outsiders and so outsiders had little chance to learn the business.

Today there is no town of any importance but what has one or more florists' establishments. The investments of 1870 and before have increased to over $100,000,000 and the output from the few thousands of dollars to over $40,000,000.

The size of the individual place has also increased from a few small sash houses heated by flues to enormous ranges of large, modern houses covering from five to forty-five acres. Many here will remember the interest shown when Henry A. Dreer, Inc., built an addition covering an acre of land. Such an addition today causes no comment at all.

Rapid Progress.

Forty to fifty years is truly a brief period for the upbuilding and development of a great industry or profession, whichever you please to call it. Yet it has been done and floriculture has taken its place in the ranks of big business. A business man once told me that the money invested in floriculture is more than is invested in the steel industry.

What has been the cause or causes of this great development? The main cause, without doubt, has been a greater appreciation of flowers, followed by an increasing demand. This has been accompanied by improved methods of building and heating, that have made possible larger and lighter houses and have made it possible to grow flowers more economically and cheaply.

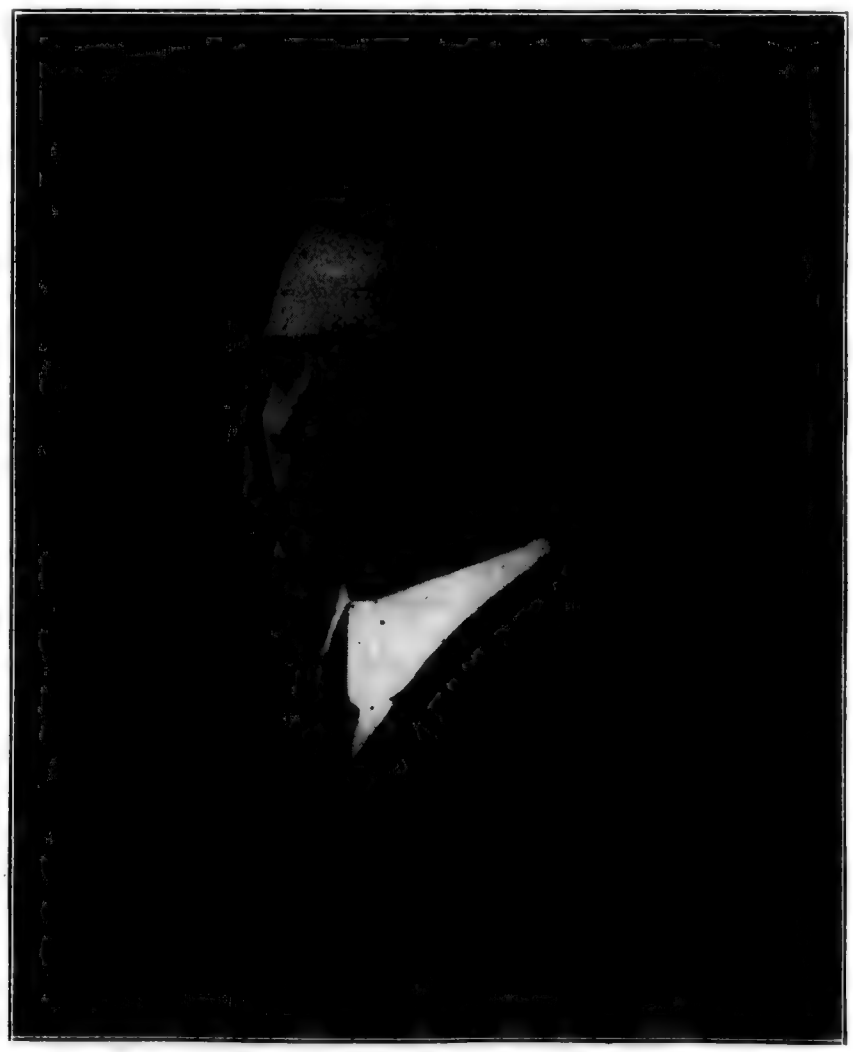
With the increased interest shown by the public and the demand for newer and better varieties, the American florist has done wonders in the development of greenhouse flowers. We are no longer dependent upon Europe for our novelties and no doubt sometime in the future we shall be more or less independent of them for our stock.

The success of the florists' business is also reflected in the allied lines, such as greenhouse building and pot manufacture, and in the development of numerous decorative and other accessories. Nowhere is the success of the florists' business more plainly shown than in the development and growth of the florists' organizations. One has only to look back ten years to find that the great advancement of the Society of American Florists, the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association, the American Rose Society and other national, state and local organizations has been during that period.

Aid Now Needed.

Our educational institutions are perhaps the last to reflect the advancement of floriculture. This is due, mainly, to the fact that up to the past few years the florists did not have the organization and strength to demand the assistance that was their due. It is also true that the problems confronting the florist are becoming more complex and numerous as the business develops. The high state of development and cultivation of our crops has seemingly made them more susceptible to fungi and insect enemies and has called for more efficient methods of control. The rapid development of the business coming at a time when the supply of manure was decreasing has presented another problem. The increased cost of production has also made it necessary to reduce losses as much as possible by a closer study of the plant and its requirements. These and numerous other questions have been brought to the experiment stations and the United States Department of Agriculture for solution and much aid has been given.

In 1918 the Bureau of Census called upon the greenhouse men for a statement of their fuel consumption, the size and value of their greenhouses, and the value of their crops. While this report does not reflect the real business, due to the fact that some establishments were closed down and others had curtailed their production, it is interesting because it gives us the latest figures available. The 1920 census returns are not yet completed.



According to this report, there were 119,331,380 square feet of ground covered by greenhouses and devoted to flowers and vegetables. The value of the entire product was $46,188,534, of which $35,824,691 represented flowers and $10,363,843 vegetables and other products. Without doubt, the value of the crop during a normal year is considerably more.

Distribution of Glass.

More interesting than the amount of glass and the value of the crop is the distribution of the greenhouses in the country. The two things that seem to affect distribution most are population and temperature. The greater part of the glass area lies in those states where the population is densest and where the winters are cold enough to make greenhouses necessary. The census shows that twenty-three states report 1,000,000 or more square feet of glass and that fifteen states have over four-fifths of the glass area of the United States.

In order to secure accurate data as to the work that is being done in the various agricultural colleges and experiment stations, questionnaires were sent out. The returns show that the agricultural colleges of six of the states listed below are offering full curriculums in floriculture. The six institutions now offering work in commercial floriculture are: University of Illinois, Cornell University (New York), Massachusetts Agricultural College, Ohio State University, Iowa State University and University of Maryland. Two of these, the University of Illinois and Iowa State University, confer the degree of bach-

TARIFF AND LAW

TARIFF AND LEGISLATION.

New Tariff Busies Committee.

This is tariff year, for it would never do for a Republican administration to work under a Democratic tariff—besides, Uncle Sam needs more revenue and more protection—hence your committee has been active and watchful in recent months in preventing unworkable or prohibitive duty rates being imposed on horticultural items.

At a meeting held in New York last December, your committee recommended to the ways and means committee that the duty rates be allowed to remain approximately as they now are, though we insisted that items now dutiable on a specific basis should remain on a specific basis and not be changed to an ad valorem basis. While the "American value" clause in the new tariff bill is practicable on manufactured articles, it is quite unworkable on horticultural items. Our recommendations were honored in the bill now before Congress, except with regard to the duty rates.

Committee's Hearing.

In reference to the above and in accordance with the meeting held in New York in December, your committee appeared before the ways and means committee January 25, 1921. Our recommendations then were that on the whole we were satisfied with the tariff as it was, with the exception that incongruities of language should be made plain, so that there might be no mistakes with the import agent and revenue officers when importations arrived. This hearing was most satisfactory and we had thought it would clear the situation up entirely, but, quoting the immortal "Bobby" Burns, "The best laid schemes o' mice an' men gang aft agley."

After several months our work was all undone and the whole tariff schedule was upset, and we had to start all over again to see what could be done. For instance, the tariff was raised in some cases 400 per cent and in other instances items were lower than we really expected them to be. The tariff is now in the process of making and we hope with the generous action of the Senate committee to get, in a measure, what we want, for the greatest good of the greatest number, by having some duties raised and others reduced.

The first draft of the tariff bill made lily bulbs dutiable at twenty per cent ad valorem, which would mean a duty of between $20 and $200 per thousand, depending on what United States appraisers decided was the American value, this clause being quite unworkable on such items. This was later changed to $4 per thousand in the bill now before the House.

The principal changes on items largely imported by florists, comparing the present tariff with the bill now before Congress, are:

Tulips, raised from.....	$0.50	to	$4.00 per 1000
Narcissi, raised from....	1.00	to	4.00 per 1000
Hyacinths, raised from...	2.50	to	4.00 per 1000
Valley pips, raised from..	1.00	to	4.00 per 1000
Manetti stocks, from.....	1.00	to	2.00 per 1000
Lily bulbs, reduced.....	5.00	to	4.00 per 1000
Cut flowers, no change....	25 per cent ad valorem

We are now concentrating our efforts on maintaining specific duty rates wherever possible, and on getting a reduction on items which show a raise of over 100 per cent over present duty rates.

Quarantines.

September 10, 1920, was held a hearing with the Federal Horticultural Board on the quarantining of districts in Pennsylvania and New Jersey on account of the Japanese beetle. This was the largest attended meeting we have ever witnessed in Washington, there being many prominent growers and nearly all the presidents and secretaries of the leading organizations present. The hearing lasted some three hours, during which time the matter was discussed from every angle.

August 26, 1921, was promulgated a regulation to quarantine the District of Columbia for the purpose of controlling, eradicating and preventing certain diseases. This was a drastic regulation and, like many others, sounded much worse than it really was, but it served to have the post office department send out notice that no cut flowers would be received for shipment. This caused much annoyance.

From that time up to the present we have received no less than 287 communications dealing with all manner of quarantines and regulations, all of which have been covered in the trade papers.

Express Matter.

Last winter there were numerous letters received in reference to the express companies not giving proper service. This matter was taken up with the Interstate Commerce Commission and with the officials of the express companies in New York city. After a thorough consideration of the complaints from every angle, your committee came to the conclusion that the express companies were doing the best they could under the circumstances, for it must be remembered that the good old times of prewar days have gone and probably will never return. The express companies promised, however, that they would grant us relief as soon as the crowded conditions then prevailing on all railroads would allow them to give better service, with the high price of everything, especially labor.

A number of complaints were received from shippers of southern evergreens, galax, etc., in reference to having their goods placed in the second class, instead of the first class, as in former years. The regulation changing such goods from second to first class went into effect January 5 and on the whole we do not think it works any hardship to anyone in particular, because eventually the consumer will have to pay the price. The losing game the railroads, particularly the southern ones, have been playing on express matters in recent years certainly entitles them to better rates. However, we took this matter up with the Interstate Commerce Commission and after several conferences were told that the only way we could have a rehearing would be by filing a formal complaint. This leaves the matter open for the southern shippers to file the complaint, if they so desire.

Flower Insurance.

Numerous communications were received in reference to insuring flowers sent by parcel post against freezing. While at first thought this would seem reasonable and workable, it couldn't be done. When we come to consider that many flowers are not carefully packed or sufficiently wrapped, no matter what the weather, it can be readily understood when such a package is taken to a country post office and then carried in some instances many miles over the road in wagons in zero weather, it would be asking too much of our government to expect it to insure the flowers under these conditions. Insurance on cut flowers may come, but we are not ready for it yet.

The report of William F. Gude, chairman of the committee on tariff and legislation, presented at the S. A. F. convention at Washington August 16, 1921.

NEEDED REFORM

STANDARDIZED GRADING.

Uniformity Needed.

The question of the standardization of the grading of cut flowers is one which we cannot pass over lightly. The need of reform in this particular weak spot of our trade has long been felt all over the country. The need of a system continues to be felt, for no system whatsoever has been used.

As the two principal items of commercial floriculture are roses and carnations, I will confine my remarks to them. The question of establishing some system for the grading of our roses seemed important enough at the last meeting of the National Flower Growers' Association, held in Washington last February, to have a committee appointed to investigate this matter and recommend reforms. The Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association did the same thing.

Two Evils.

The two great evils occasioned by the lack of a uniform system are: First, the inconvenience and uncertainty caused buyers when ordering flowers from wholesalers; secondly, the chance given to wholesalers to make excuses about the length of stock shipped to buyers. Let us suppose an out-of-town retailer finds that he needs 100 roses about twenty-four inches long. He will look in a trade paper and find that roses listed as "fancy long" are selling at 20 cents apiece. He orders these, thinking they will fill his requirements. Upon receiving them he finds that they are about eighteen inches long. As these roses will not suit his purpose, he promptly orders another lot from another wholesaler listed as "fancy long," which seem to be the wholesaler's best roses. These sell at 25 cents apiece. Upon receiving them, he finds that he has a lot of 36-inch roses. Consequently, the two grades of roses having the same name differ in quality as well as in price.

Not only is there a difference in the grade of roses bearing the same name, but there are so many different names that it would tax the memory of a memory expert to remember them all. There are long, medium, short, fancy long, good medium, good short, special, select, extras, and as many more as the imagination can invent. Can anyone tell the length of roses in the grade called "long"? After a bit of investigation, I found that they could be anywhere from eighteen to forty-eight inches.

Benefits to Grower.

If a uniform system of grading cut flowers were adopted, it would benefit not only the retailer, but the grower as well. By checking up his sales report with his consignment slips, he could keep an accurate account of his receipts and see at a glance which grade sells best, and he would be guided accordingly in his future cropping. The wholesaler would also benefit by a uniform system, because it would enable him to give his customer exactly what he wants, and that is the most important thing in business. Therefore, we should adopt a uniform system of grading to be used by every grower, wholesaler and retailer in the United States.

I have a plan in mind that I think would work well, but I do not think it proper to bring it before this body, because it might be influenced by individual opinion. I think that a committee ought to be appointed to investigate this matter, and then it would have a clear field of action.

Question for All.

In conclusion, I want to explain why I, as chairman of a committee appointed by the National Flower Growers' Association to investigate this matter, should ask to come before this body and request it to take some action to bring about reform in this matter. If I thought this matter would affect only the grower, I should never have asked to come before you today. We, the growers, organized as the National Flower Growers' Association, hold ourselves only as a division of the Society of American Florists, and we believe that reforms of general character should come from this society, as it is the only society before which reforms of a widespread character can properly be brought. Therefore, I hope that a speedy and beneficial action will be taken by this honorable body.

THE CANADIAN CONVENTION.

Officers Elected.

The closing day of the twenty-fourth annual convention of the Canadian Florists' and Gardeners' Association, held at Peterboro, August 8 to 10, brought about the election of the officers for the ensuing year. So well did the officers of the previous year "carry on" that the appreciation of the members was shown by reëlecting them, as follows:

President—W. E. Groves, Hamilton.

First vice-president—C. J. Hay, Brockville.

Second vice-president—F. D. Clark, Toronto.

Secretary-treasurer —. H. J. Eddy, Montreal.

There was also an election of directors. The board of directors as it now stands is as follows: Those for a three-year term, H. E. Groves, Hamilton; R. Burrows, St. Anne de Bellevue, and S. Kirk, Georgetown; those for the two-year term, W. H. Gray, Dundas; Alex Simpson, Toronto, and A. M. Terrill, Calgary, and those for the one-year term, W. C. Hall, Montreal; S. Jordan, Peterboro, and S. A. McFadden, Toronto.

Retailers' Officers.

The officers elected in the retailers' section of the association were as follows: President, S. A. McFadden, Toronto; vice-president, W. C. Hall, Montreal; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Percy Waters, Toronto, and the board of directors, A. M. Terrill, Calgary; J. Gibson, Calgary; W. W. Gammage, London; E. B. Hamilton, Toronto; C. J. Hay, Brockville; E. J. Hayward, Montreal; S. A. Frost, Toronto; C. A. Williamson, Peterboro, and J. J. Higgins, Toronto.

Among other happenings of interest not reported in The Review last week was the decision of the convention to send a letter of inquiry to the Department of Agriculture, at Ottawa, regarding the delay in inspection of stock imported at Montreal.

As usual, Thomas Manton, of Eglinton, was remembered, this year with a pearl-gray hat, suitably trimmed. The presentation speech was well done by W. C. Hall, of Montreal.

Gladiolus Exhibit.

A gladiolus exhibit by local florists was a feature of the closing day. Miss A. Campbell, of Simcoe, was judge. Miss Campbell is one of the largest growers of gladioli in Canada. Campbell Bros., of Simcoe, had a beautiful exhibit of gladioli at the convention and the Peterboro Floral Co. also had a fine display.

The local committee which had the arrangements of the convention in charge is to be congratulated for the excellent manner in which the program was carried out and for the comfort, convenience and pleasure which added so much to make the convention a success. The members of the committee were S. Jordan, C. S. Thompson, R. Ford, P. Blade, A. Blade, Leon Frazier, Dr. J. E. Middleton, William James, J. Grierson, D. Jordan, C. Jordan, J. H. Callander and R. F. Ivey.

Montreal will be the meeting place for next year.

Those Present.

There was a good attendance at the vention; some of those present were:

W. W. Gammage, London.
Frank Gilbert, London.
W. E. Groves, Hamilton.
H. E. Groves, Hamilton.
Mr. and Mrs. George Douglas, Toronto.
Mr. and Mrs. Ritchie, Toronto.
Mrs. P. Waters, Toronto.

SAGINAW'S GLADIOLUS SHOW.

The annual gladiolus show, given under the auspices of the garden department of the Saginaw Women's Club, took place August 4 and 5 in the Tanner store, Saginaw, Mich. Ranged in the store and the lobby of an adjoining hotel, the flowers presented a grand appearance.

Many professional and amateur growers were entered in the show. The winners in the professional class were as follows:

Collection of ten named varieties—Fred Baumgras, Lansing, Mich., first; Peter Vos & Son, Grand Rapids, Mich., second; Zorn & Gaertner, Saginaw, Mich., third.

Collection of five named varieties—Fred Baumgras, first; Zorn & Gaertner, second; Peter Vos & Son, third.

Collection of five named varieties, three spikes in each vase—Fred Baumgras, first; Zorn & Gaertner, second; Peter Vos & Son, third.

White, one spike, named variety—Fred Baumgras, first; Peter Vos & Son, second; Grohman Co., Saginaw, third.

Yellow, one spike, named variety—Peter Vos & Son, first; United Bulb Co., Mount Clemens, Mich., second; Fred Baumgras, third.

Light pink, one spike, named variety—Peter Vos & Son, first; Grohman Co., second; Fred Baumgras, third.

Dark pink, one spike, named variety—Peter Vos & Son, first; Fred Baumgras, second; United Bulb Co., third.

Red, one spike, named variety—Fred Baumgras, first; Peter Vos & Son, second; United Bulb Co., third.

Blue, purple or lavender, named variety—Fred Baumgras, first; Peter Vos & Son, second; Grohman Co., third.

Collection of primulinus hybrids—Peter Vos & Son, first; Fred Baumgras, second; Grohman Co., third.

Artistic arrangement, basket or vase of gladioli—United Bulb Co., first; Fred Baumgras, second; Peter Vos & Son, third.

Green basket, filled with gladioli, cosmos, coreopsis and snapdragons—Grohman Co., first.

Novelty group—Fred Baumgras, first.

The Review brings results.

SOME florists expect to receive too much, while others give too little. Neither class makes friends.

CALIFORNIA is making rapid progress in the production of the bulbs and plants heretofore imported.

SINCE the excess profits seem to be lacking in most industries this year, Congress may as well do away with the tax on them.

FINANCIAL management has been easy for the last three years, but men who can make business pay will be scarcer in the immediate future.

IT is believed that the pendulum which began its swing downwards more than a year ago is now reversing its course. Evidences of better business accumulate day by day.

THERE is no permanent advantage in buying at a price so low it throws a loss on the seller, unless, indeed the buyer is willing that the seller be driven out of business.

PASSING the buck is an obsolete indoor sport that passed with war conditions. Serious and conscientious adherence to sound principles and proper business practices is now required.

FRANK OECHSLIN, of Chicago, has a national reputation as a plantsman. But don't deceive yourself into thinking he never has failures. When Mr. Oechslin finds a plant is not coming up to the standard he sets for his product, he takes it out and dumps it; that is all, so visitors never see anything but well-nigh perfect stock and buyers never are disappointed. Any man could do the same if he had the courage.

THERE are various kinds of advertising. Some kinds show plainly that they are the response to the publisher's cajolery and they have only one value, that of keeping money in circulation. Other advertising shows as clearly that it means business. Such advertising has a news value and is interesting to the reader; consequently it brings a direct sales return to the advertiser. Did you ever pause to think what it means that some publications get "news value" advertising apparently without effort, while others seem not to be able to get it at all?

THE trade needs more stock, it is true, but a greater need is for better quality and more exact business methods. The seller should consider the point of view of the buyer.

THERE is a good demand for well grown stock, no matter how hot may be the summer. Too much mediocre or poor stock is seen, but not enough flowers of excellent quality are to be had.

A GOOD many florists still think office work is something to be attended to when there is nothing else to do, but as a matter of fact an office assistant, who can keep a simple set of books, make collections and answer letters, usually is an economy instead of an expense.

THE REVIEW never received so many new subscriptions in July as was the case this year, nor did the paper ever carry so much advertising in the summer. As this paper is held to reflect trade conditions, it seems to prove the florists' and nursery business are growing more rapidly than ever before.

DON'T look on neatly printed letterheads, billheads, etc., as an expense. They are an economy. In no line could any man or woman get recognition as a business person if communications were written on unprinted and none too neat paper. Too many florists still do it. Let your stationery show who and what you are.

FOR one thing, the Federal Horticultural Board is teaching the European shippers not to substitute. When the board grants permits for the importation of specified varieties and quantities of stock, the permits mean just what they say. When the shipper substitutes "something just as good" the board holds up the shipment at the port of entry and in certain cases it has refused to grant further permits for importations from the concerns making the substitutions.

A POWER AND A PLEDGE.

Flowers would be just as sweet if packed in a shoe box, wrapped in last night's newspaper and tied with a piece of jute twine. But they would not sell so well. The package is part of the merchandise, and, though you sell it with its contents, you still retain a proprietary interest in its advertising value. But no amount of good advertising or of asthetic packing can make an inferior piece of merchandise good. Your name or trade-mark on the lid of your box or on the sign over your store door or on your printed advertisement is your covenant to give quid pro quo as truly as your name written long-hand at the bottom of your promissory note. Advertising is the life insurance of a good name, and, marvelous as is its power for influencing the minds of the consuming public to a faith in the integrity of the advertiser, the secret of its potency lies in the fact that it publicly commits the advertiser to keep the troth with his customers.

FROM THE OTHER END.

Change in the trade's methods is nowhere so conspicuous as in advertising. In years gone by the usual advertisement in a local newspaper read:

JOHN JONES,
100 Main Street. Telephone 800-J.
Flowers for All Occasions.

The arrangement was in stereotyped symmetrical form, from which the printers seemed never to depart. The name of the florist was the most prominent thing in the space, overshadowing the type which told what he had to sell. And the wording was the same as that of the plumber's above and the insurance agent's below. Only a word or a line indicated the difference in the service or commodity sold.

Today, however, a florist's advertisement starts from the other end. It displays in biggest type what is to be sold and instead of a laconic line, "Flowers for All Occasions," it calls attention to a particular and immediate occasion when flowers would be most appropriate. The name of the seller appears below, for the reader's attention when what goes before has driven home its message.

The difference signifies the change from the days when the florist waited for customers to come to him to the days of now, when the florist goes out after the customers. It signifies the difference between an existence eked out by funeral work and holiday sales, and the aggressive fight for business success a florist wages today. Both a symbol and an agent, florists' advertising marks rapid progress in the last several years.

WATCH YOUR STEP.

Somebody using a receipt book printed with the name of the Missouri Magazine Agency, 506 North Vandeventer avenue, St. Louis, Mo., has been canvassing among florists in the east. There seems to be no such agency. Registered letters sent to the address on the receipts have been returned by the postoffice marked, "Removed; left no address," and money paid to the canvasser is lost. Never pay money to strangers.

BRIEF ANSWERS.

F. G., Ia.—Euphorbia variegata.

H. L. S. Co., Pa.—Watch the Classified ads. After we publish this notice you are in the market for resurrection plants there surely will be some ads of them in a week or two.

"AIN'T WE GOT FUN?"

Among readers of The Review business seems to be better than the supply of stock. It is an every-day occurrence to hear from advertisers that they have sold everything they offered in the Classified section of this paper, and many times the advertisers have some word of special comment of the briskness of the demand among the readers of this paper, like this:

Kindly discontinue our ad, as we are sold out.—Littlefield-Wyman Nurseries, North Abington, Mass., August 10, 1921.

Please stop our ad for begonias; all sold.—J. B Knapp, Sayre, Pa., August 10, 1921.

Kindly discontinue our ad for azaleas; results were splendid.—Ivy Cottage Gardens, per Geo. Willis, Thomasville, Ga., August 8, 1921.

We have sold up quickly; we know that Review ads do the business.—Bristol Floral Co., by H. G. Bramm, president, Bristol, Tenn., August 5, 1921.

Please discontinue immediately all our ads appearing in The Review. We can't sell again that for which we have already had orders. Thanks.—The Opelika Floral Co., by H. B. Hill, Opelika, Ala., August 11, 1921.

Please cancel the advertisement of Godfrey callas which has had one insertion in The Review. Our stock is completely sold out. Thank you.—H. A. Hyde Co., Watsonville, Cal., August 9 1921.

If you hear a man complain of the cost of advertising you can be pretty certain he spends a good bit of money elsewhere than in The Review.

OBITUARY

Robert Mearns.

July 27 Robert Mearns, a highly esteemed florist and resident of Parkdale, Toronto, died at his residence after a short illness. Mr. Mearns was 78 years of age. He was born in Scotland and, as a young man, took several degrees in horticulture and floriculture. Fifty years ago he went to Canada, settled in Parkdale and, in a few years, had a business of his own. Mr. Mearns took many prizes and special awards at various flower shows, particularly for his chrysanthemums. He is survived by his wife, two sons and four daughters.

BOSTON.

The Market.

Business has been encouraging of late. August, so far, has given moderate temperatures and this has been conducive to better sales. Retailers have had a satisfactory week, a number of heavy funeral orders helping to keep them busy. Usually the week of the S. A. F. convention sees sales at a low ebb, but this week an optimistic report can be recorded. It is a gladiolus market and great numbers of these popular summer flowers are arriving of superfine quality. Prices rule a little lower. Fancy varieties make $6 per hundred, while common sorts go as low as $1 per hundred. Asters are coming in more plentifully and the quality leaves nothing to be desired. Some fancy varieties reach $3 to $4 per hundred, more ordinary grades being from $1 up.

Delphinium is more plentiful and always sells well at $1 to $1.50 per bunch. Longiflorum lilies sell slowly at $20 per hundred, but speciosums and auratums move much better at $8 to $10, being in demand for funeral work.

Small supplies of white bouvardia come in and prove welcome for August work. Buddleia, Gypsophila elegans, scabiosa, sweet sultan, bachelor's buttons and other hardy flowers sell spasmodically.

There is a fine demand for roses, with prices the same as a week ago. Columbia and Ward are great favorites. The first named proves to be a remarkably good summer rose, while Crusader and Scott Key prove popular reds. Carnations are, with sweet peas, practically out of the market. There are few cattleyas and small supplies of valley, but, at present, there is a limited call for either. In the way of flowering plants, there is now a marked scarcity. One or two celosias, hydrangeas, achimenes and begonias of the tuberous type are the only varieties offered.

Various Notes.

The Gardeners' and Florists' Club of Boston will hold a field day September 3, with the Framingham Nurseries and Little Tree Farms, the latter being the extensive nurseries of the American Forestry Co., where millions of evergreens are produced yearly

H. E. Meader, of Dover, N. H., was one of the visitors at the big gladiolus show, August 13. Mr. Meader is past-president of the American Gladiolus Society and a large grower, but he made no display this season, as he is too busy building greenhouses. He opened a fine store in Dover last season and it has proved successful. He has a fine range of greenhouses almost completed, two houses 30x155, and two 25x100. These will be largely devoted to carnations. Nelson Seavey, lately with Kidder Bros., Lincoln, Mass., is foreman. An 80-horsepower boiler provides heat and there is a vacuum return system. Dutch bulbs are being pushed at Mr. Meader's store and over 20,000 bulbs are already sold.

P. S. Dupont, of Wilmington, Del., was a caller last week. He visited the orchid collection of Albert C. Burrage and both he and Mrs. Dupont became life members of the new American Orchid Society.

Recent vistors included B. H. Farr, Wyomissing, Pa.; Madison C. Cooper, Calcium, N. Y.; J. Kemp, Little Silver, N. J.; E. M. Sanford, Madison, N. J., and F. G. Sealey, New York.

Frederick Cave, a well-known and much-esteemed private gardener at Canton, Mass., underwent a critical operation at the Massachusetts General hospital August 12. It was necessary for the surgeons to remove one of his eyes and to extract a piece of decayed bone, which was pressing on his brain. The operation proved successful and Mr. Cave is convalescing satisfactorily.

Thomas Roland, E. Allan Peirce, Louis J. Reuter, B. Hammond Tracy and other local visitors to the S. A. F. convention left here, some August 14, others on the morning of August 15. A fair delegation will represent this section, but many who would have liked to attend were prevented by various causes.

William H. Judd, of the Arnold Arboretum and president of the Gardeners' and Florists' Club, is enjoying a fortnight's vacation at Beverly Farms, Mass.

E. T. Denham, of Carbone's Flower Store, who should have left for a vacation with his wife and family August 13, had to postpone his trip for a day during a rush of heavy funeral work, including a choice casket cover for the Spaulding funeral, at Dedham.

The exhibition of children's garden products at Horticultural hall comes August 27 and 28. It promises to be as large and varied as ever. A great dahlia and fruit show comes September 10 and 11, while two weeks later the great exhibition of tropical ferns, orchids, cacti and stove and greenhouse plants will take place.

While gladioli prove at present the principal flowers for window effects in the retail stores, water lilies are used effectively in a number, also speciosum and auratum lilies, L. tigrinum, Hydrangea paniculata grandiflora, and larkspurs and miscellaneous hardy annuals.

H. E. Meader, of Dover, N. H., gave lectures on the gladiolus and its culture August 13 and 14 at Horticultural hall before large and appreciative audiences. He was asked numerous questions, showing the keen interest taken in gladioli.

W. N. C.

MILWAUKEE, WIS.

The Market.

The market last week was unusually quiet. There is not much demand in any particular line. Roses are about the only item that sells fairly well, but the supply is equal to all demands. We have had some rain recently, which has helped considerably on outdoor stock. Gladioli have been a glut on the market. Asters are fairly plentiful, but the quality is more or less inferior. There is much gypsophila, which seems to be moving fairly well. Most other varieties of summer flowers are of shorter stem and inferior quality. Roses are coming in heavily and the quality is fine for this season. Also lilies are about equal to the demand. There is plenty of green goods in all varieties.

Various Notes.

The Florists' Club had its second meeting this summer at Hugo Locker's residence, Thursday, August 11. It was a well attended meeting, about thirty members being present. It was an ideal evening for an outdoor meeting and there was plenty of music. A quartette had been engaged, which furnished a fine entertainment. Japanese lanterns were strung all around the grounds, which made a pretty effect. Refreshments were served.

The Wisconsin state fair opens August 29 and will run for a week. There is an attractive premium list this year for the florists and many entries are already coming in. No doubt there will be a big display of flowers and plants at the fair this season. The committee on exhibits is making an effort to have a large display. The state fair attracts a great many visitors from all over the state and a big display is good publicity for the trade in general.

C. C. Pollworth and Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Kennedy and Henry Welke are about the only delegates from here to the S. A. F. convention at Washington. P.

CHICAGO.

The Market.

The fathers, who founded the S. A. F., picked the third week in August for the annual convention because they looked on it as the dullest season in the florists' year. It is a characteristic which has not changed in all these years. It is perfectly true that many of the wholesale houses in this market now do as much in mid-August as the best of them in America did at Christmas when the S. A. F. was started, but mid-August still is the quiet time. Just by way of comparison, it will not be far from the fact if it is here recorded that sales in this market now are running about one-third the daily average for the last year. So you can see how dull it seems, even in the wholesale houses that still have sales running above $1,000 per day.

It is the general report that the volume of business is about on a par with last year. There is little decrease anywhere and some are able to report small gains. But it generally is said prices are averaging below those of a year ago and that larger quantities of stock are being handled to make the same total sales.

There are signs that the public is becoming tired of the sameness of stock. There has been an unusually limited variety this summer and the result is beginning to be apparent in decreased interest in the flowers which have formed the backbone of the market the last six weeks. Rose crops are increasing and quality is much improved, but demand has slackened. It seems as though people have become fed up on roses. Prices are lower, quality of stock considered, and the roses now offered constitute excellent value. Growers who have Crusader are well pleased with it as a summer rose. It is noticeable that Russell, heretofore considered best for summer, has not made much of a showing this year. Its days seem to be numbered. White is scarce and brings better prices than pink or even red roses.

Gladioli also are of better quality and more plentiful, but in decreased demand and lower in price. It is possible that the public is surfeited with gladioli, but probably the decreased call is because thousands of sources of supply throughout the country all now are in crop and the need for sending to Chicago for gladioli has lessened.

The supply of asters is unsteady. Some wholesale houses have moderately large supplies and others have hardly any. A buyer searching for a certain color and quality often has a fruitless task. The small quantity of really good asters results in prices about fifty per cent above what such stock would normally be considered worth at this time.

After having discussed roses, gladioli and asters, little further can be said of the supply. There isn't much else. There are a few Easter lilies. Valley is in small but regular supply. Larkspur, feverfew, zinnias, coreopsis, gaillardias, centaurea, spiræa and other garden flowers are in small supply. They sell indifferently well, being in demand only when the quality is above the average. Gypsophila is no longer plentiful. In its place a local wild milkweed, Euphorbia corallata, is offered, and sells steadily. Another euphorbia, variegata, is offered for its attractive foliage. Strawflowers have appeared and one or two houses have another everlasting, Gomphrena globosa, which looks like clover and sells well.

Pot Plants in Small Supply.

Peter Pearson, who is president of the growers' organization in the Chicago district, has called at most of the greenhouse establishments in this section during the last few weeks. While his organization includes cut flower growers, Mr. Pearson's personal interest is greatest in pot plants. He says he believes the general supply of pot plants in this section this season is not much more than a quarter what it was a year ago. He says most of the people who are accustomed to buying young stock for growing on have held off this year and will, instead, buy finished stock when they need it for retailing. He says he looks forward to an unusual season. In the first place, the plant growers must either cut prices until they induce the trade to take the young stock, or else they must carry it until the demand springs up for finished plants, which latter course will mean that some greenhouses will be tremendously crowded while other people's are more or less empty. The small supply of plants will inevitably mean higher prices when the time comes. In spring it should mean a better chance to make a profit on bulbous stock.

To Washington.

After all, it appears Chicago and vicinity is well represented at the S. A. F. convention. Not less than thirty from this locality are there. Those who carried order books for the most part went early. The first and largest party was that of the Chicago Flower Growers' Association, which left August 14. Albert F. Amling and daughter and Henry Luebbe joined this party, as did Peter Holm, of St. Paul, and J. J. Hess, of Omaha. The Florists' Club's party left August 15. Many went by auto. Joseph Foerster and wife had Mr. and Mrs. Asmus as their guests in the Packard, starting August 11. F. M. Johnson, P. J. Foley, Peter Olsem and W. J. Keimel also drove, making stops at points of interest en route.

The Pageant Closes.

The pageant closed Sunday, August 14, and is looked upon by all Chicagoans as a success. A complete report of the activities of the florists' division will be rendered in the near future by the secretary, Wm. A. Hansen, and a financial report will be published by Wm. J. Smyth, treasurer.

The last few days of the exposition drew greater numbers to the flower show than did the first days. It was the general verdict that our trade had one of the most attractive sections on the pier.

August 10 birthday boxes were in competition, and the prizes went to Schiller the Florist and H. Wittbold & Son. A. Lange received honorable mention. Baby arrival gifts made up another class and some excellent specimens of careful workmanship made competition keen. First prize went to A. Lange, second to Schiller the Florist and third to H. Wittbold & Son. Honorable mention was awarded Wolf's Flower Shop, Albert Hall and Wm. J. Smyth. The judges were A. H. Schneider, J. T. Johnson and Clarence W. Greene.

August 13, Chicago Day, Class A called for the profile of any famous man. A. Lange won first prize with a flower portrait of the Father of Our Country. O. A. Tonner reproduced Abraham Lincoln and won second prize. A bust of Lincoln by H. Wittbold & Son won third prize. Class B called for a design depicting Chicago. The "I Will"

The North Side Parade.

There was a big motor parade in the Wilson avenue district as a means of advertising the Pageant of Progress. The float decorated by the florists headed the parade, carried the queen of the carnival and won second prize of $50. The float was made entirely of cut flowers and foliage. Over 20,000 roses were used in the float, which was thirty feet long. It was pulled by four white horses, and bore the inscription, "Say It with Flowers," along the side. All the florists in the district contributed money toward it. The actual decorating was done by M. Props, of the Wilson Avenue Florist; Albert Hall, of the Lakeside Flower Shop; Harry Rowe, Sheridan and Montrose; H. Various Notes.

At the Austin range of Frank Oechslin the chrysanthemum plants, now plunged in pots outside, are in fine, healthy condition. In the houses are to be seen bench after bench of splendid-looking Boston ferns, of which there are never enough to meet calls for them. Dracænas are excellent, also, as are the poinsettias and peppers for next Christmas. The range on Quincy street is devoted chiefly to foliage plants, since the clearer atmosphere at the Forest Park range is much more favorable for flowering plants, such as the cyclamens, in excellent condition this year, and the roses, of which 40,000 in pots, propagated there, are plunged out now. This is the second year Mr. Oechslin has propagated his own roses for pot forcing and the results are so highly satisfactory that he would go in more heavily for this were it not for his plans to sell out and, after a rest, perhaps follow many other Chicago growers westward to Californian fields.

Two decades in one of the city's principal hotels is a record unique among Chicago florists. John Mangel was one of our leading retailers when he opened his store in that famous block twenty years ago and he holds that position today. Though many hotels have arisen since the Palmer House was built, it still ranks among those of chief interest to visitors in this city. Mr. Mangel had already been in the florists' business ten years before he opened his store there, and is now completing his thirtieth year.

Kirscht Bros., at Morton Grove, have all their carnations benched and are ready for winter, except for the new house now being glazed. This house eventually will be used for carnations, but this season probably will grow a crop of spring bedding stock.

C. J. Michelsen, who is on a vacation tour with George Wienhoeber, celebrated his forty-first birthday anniversary on Monday. He was born in Denmark, August 15, 1880, and learned the florists' business in greenhouses here. The kind of going the vacationists have encountered faring northward may be imagined from the report they spent the third day of their trip at Menominee waiting to repair a broken spring on Mr. Michelsen's Packard.

George Stollery is president and business manager of the North Shore News and naturally that paper gave the florists a fine write-up on the float with which they won second prize in the Pageant of Progress parade. Mr. Stollery's News is a lively sheet, carrying a fine line of advertising, although Stollery Bros. did not seem to be represented in the issue telling about the float, but Schiller, Clody and John Fuhrmann were well represented in that issue.

A. T. Pyfer reports that V. Bezdek, of Gross Point, finished benching carnations last week and that the young stock looks well.

Olsem & Zender are all set for the new season. About half the place, on Robey street, is in Columbia and Ophelia roses, planted some time ago, and in carnations, the benching of which was finished just before Peter Olsem started to drive to Washington. The junior member of the firm is a nephew of Adam Zender, one of whose ranges of greenhouses they lease.

The Joliet Floral Co., operated by the Schmidt brothers, are finishing another 200-foot greenhouse of Dietsch material.

Walter A. Adams and Mrs. Adams are vacationing at Deep Lake, near Lake Villa, Ill., where they will be joined by Frank Pasternick and wife August 20. Mr. Pasternick has had an extremely busy summer, because business has been steadily good with C. Frauenfelder, Inc., and the place, taken over by Mr. Pasternick and Mr. Adams last spring, has required a great deal of overhauling to put it in first-class shape.

Field-grown carnation plants are extremely scarce in this locality. Not so many as usual were planted out last spring and the long spell of hot, dry weather resulted in little growth. Some growers benched what they could when they should. Others only now are planting. Some have set two plants together.

Fritz Bahr, whom we all know and like, but of whom we see little any more, celebrated his forty-ninth birthday last week. He was born in Paris, August 12, 1872.

The new flower store in the Wrigley building was opened this week. R. B. Cooke is the proprietor and it is known as the Ruth Cooke Rosery. The store is in charge of W. C. Seymore, formerly of A. Lange's staff.

The W. J. Smyth store for several days has looked like a busy paint shop, but soon will be in apple-pie shape for the new season.

A. Lange was well pleased with his participation in the Pageant of Progress. He entered in practically all the classes and took eleven firsts, besides several second and third prizes. He considered the publicity well worth the effort. Business was, he says, a little slow during the pageant, but began to pick up August 15, when he had a good run of funeral work. It is worth while noting that Mr. Lange has been thirty-eight years in the flower business in downtown Chicago and has been too active to grow old.

Louis Finnerman, of the defunct Grossberg, Tyler, Finnerman Co., has joined the road sales staff of Ziska & Sons and the Juvenile Furniture Co.

John Poehlmann is vacationing at Twin Lakes.

George Wittbold and wife have returned from a restful boat trip to Duluth.

A. B. C. Miller and family motored to northern Wisconsin for a few days' outing before the big shipments of bulbs came in.

Harry C. Rowe says business already has begun to show the annual revival. He looks for a good season in the Wilson avenue district, where there are throngs on the street half the night.

others were here on business, some were vacationists and a few, no doubt, were attracted by the Pageant of Progress.

From Greenwood, Mo., came John Klaus, manager of Graceland Greenhouses, and Mr. Parker, of Longview Farm, "just looking around."

Eli Cross was here from Grand Rapids and left his usual batch of fall orders.

W. F. Ahern, of Akron, O., combined business and pleasure.

A. O. Stoll and Mrs. Stoll were here from Hillsdale, Mich. They saw the sights, but visited the houses from which they obtain their cut flowers and supplies.

L. P. Harley, of Hartford, Mich., was in town. P. R. Klingsporn invited him to go with the party to Washington. Mr. Harley could not accept, but let Mr. Klingsporn carry his application for membership in the S. A. F.

Peter Holm, of Holm & Olson, St. Paul, arrived in time to join the party which left for Washington Sunday evening.

J. S. Wilson, of Des Moines, Ia., and C. P. Mueller, of Wichita, Kan., were here August 12 and 13 and left for Washington on the morning train August 14, a half day in advance of the largest Chicago party.

Mr. and Mrs. Ecklund, of the Sterling Greenhouses, Sterling, Ill., were in the market last week.

William Feniger, of Toledo, was a visitor over the week-end.

Gary, Ind.—P. O. Thompson has purchased the business known as Elliot Florist and has changed the name to the Broadway Florist.

Dayton, O.—The Dayton Flower & Plant Co. has been incorporated, with a capitalization of $30,000. The incorporators are Rolf Zetlitz and H. O. Bentley.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.

The Market.

There are fewer flowers in the market than there were a week ago. The decrease in the number of asters and of gladioli has continued and there has been no especial increase in any other flower to take their places. There are, however, some really fine roses, made possible by the cooler nights. These are welcomed by the wholesalers who ship many of their flowers, as they give a quality not easily obtained at this season. A good many of the asters and gladioli were poor. Many of these remained over in the iceboxes at the end of the week, but all the better flowers found a market at higher average prices than the week before. To sum up, asters, gladioli, roses, Easter lilies and valley are the principal flowers. Both supply and demand are light and fairly well balanced.

Oil for Fuel.

Duncan Macaw believes that in a few short years we may all be looking back at the days when we burned "that dirty stuff" for heat—days never to return. He thinks that the joy of turning on an extra oil jet, when the thermometer swoops downward, will be greater than the misery of cleaning a heavy fire under the same conditions.

Mr. Macaw has carefully worked out the principal points in the burning of oil for heating greenhouses, something in this way: He thinks that for a plant of 50,000 square feet of glass, a tank, say, of 15,000 gallons capacity, buried under ground, with the necessary pumps, piping and jets, attached to the present horizontal tubular boilers, would cost approximately from $3,500 to $4,000. In this latitude something like 70,000 gallons of oil would be required to carry a moderate temperature in all the greenhouses on a place of this size. It would, then, simply be a question of obtaining the oil at a fair price. The oil men assure Mr. Macaw that there will be no difficulty, whatever, in filling his tank, whenever necessary. They further believe that 4¾ cents a gallon would be a fair price for fuel and that oil of this price delivered would be about equal in value to a ton of high-grade soft coal for $5. The only difficulty lies in the fact that the oil men are not yet willing to sign contracts protecting the owner of perishable property from loss in the event of their failure to deliver at a fixed price. Mr. Macaw believes that the day will soon be here when this difficulty will be overcome and that the immense saving in labor and increase in the efficiency of the boilers will make the use of oil for fuel in greenhouses general.

Baseball.

The second week in August was the liveliest so far in baseball circles. Three big games were played, all at Belmont The first, Monday afternoon, August 8, was between the Pennock and Rice teams. Owing to the absence of their regular pitcher and two players, the Rice team failed to do themselves justice, Pennock winning easily by a score of 36 to 9. Both the other games were played on Wednesday, August 10, and both were hotly contested from start to finish. The Niessen team met the Independents in a quickly played game, lasting little more than two hours. Millet and Lee were opposed to Peil, Meehan and Miller. After a hard-fought battle of nine innings the Independents proved victorious by the narrow margin of one run, the score being 13 to 12. The game between the Craig and Rice teams was stubbornly fought all the way through, the score standing 14 to 14 at the end of the eighth inning. Then the Craig men made a tremendous effort and scored five runs in the ninth inning. Alas for them, darkness intervened and the umpire was obliged to call back the game to the eighth inning, a tie. A feature of the game was Raymond Brunswick's stealing home from third, while the Craig pitcher was winding up. The game wi be replayed. The standing of the clubs follows:

Teams	Won	Lost
Pennock	4	0
Independents	3	2
Craig	1	1
Bickmore	0	1
Rice	0	3

Schedule for this week: Bickmore vs. Independents; Bickmore vs. Craig, and Independents vs. Craig.

the stores reported good business, the majority of it being funeral work, which has been quite heavy. A large drug store's opening created a small stir with some of the florists, who sent a number of large baskets. Owing to frequent rains, a big contrast is shown in outdoor-grown stock, which up to about three weeks ago was poor and, in many cases, was drying up and burning from the excessive heat. The market is, therefore, receiving a much greater quantity of gladioli, which reach us in a large assortment of colors. Those having preference are Pride of Goshen, Schwaben, America, Halley and Augusta. Good stock is seen and fair prices are received. The supply of asters continues to increase, but the demand for good stock is so large that they are quickly cleared. The smaller varieties clear just about as rapidly. Carnations are scarce and only a limited amount is received. Sweet peas are also scarce now and their quality is poor. Some fine speciosum lilies are seen and sell well. Extra well colored zinnias are in the market and move easily. Beautiful colors are seen in scabiosa at this time. Strawflowers promise to be good this season and some extra well colored blossoms are seen. Hardy gypsophila is in small supply. Gaillardia, helianthus, achillea, alyssum and coreopsis are seen daily, but there is not much demand for them. The supply of roses is good, the demand being especially for Columbia during this last week. Bachelor's buttons, cosmos, larkspur, buddleia, lupine, salpiglossis, dahlias and zinnias are included in the daily shipments. Orchids and valley are not in big supply, nor is the demand at all large. Gloxinias, prince's feather, celosias and potted asters are all that is seen in potted plants. Everything in green goods, excepting Asparagus plumosus, is plentiful.

A report from the trial grounds at Ogden, N. Y., owned and operated by James Vick's Sons, is that the recent rains have considerably benefited all the outdoor stock. The large acreage of asters, for which the company is widely known, is in splendid shape and the asters are blooming profusely. The late asters are exceptionally good and healthy. Phlox, calendulas, gaillardias, etc., make an excellent showing. The farm produce is also doing well, with excellent results.

The Alberts Flower Shop reports that it is growing a lot of helichrysums this season, and that they are of good quality. At the greenhouses, this company has a large quantity of chrysanthemum stock, which is making rapid headway, owing to the hot weather recently. At the retail store, business has been rather quiet.

LINDLEY FLORIST BOX CO., QUALITY BOX MAKERS Marion, Ind.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND.

The Market.

Business has been none too good. The usual summer lethargy is being experienced. As flowers have been unusually scarce, the entire supply has been utilized and more of some kinds could be used.

Asters are hard to obtain. Large ones are unobtainable. A few smaller ones are available.

A few short-stemmed carnations are seen, but not in any supply. Lilies are by no means plentiful.

Good roses have been ample. These have sold readily. In a number of cases the quality has been as good as in winter roses.

Gladioli have been scarce. A limited supply of splendid ones is seen, but the majority are only fair.

Outdoor stock continues about the same. The quality has improved somewhat.

Various Notes.

Some of the retail growers have taken space for the Indianapolis industrial exhibition, which will be held October 10 to 15.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Greene are on their vacation. Before returning they will make short stays at Chicago and Milwaukee. During Mr. Greene's absence, Mr. James is in charge of the store.

Mr. and Mrs. Watson Hasselman have just returned from a month's motor trip through Michigan, Canada and the eastern states. Their son, James, who is a professor at the University of Michigan, accompanied them and made a short stop at Indianapolis before returning to his home.

The Pahud Floral Co. is rebuilding one house and will soon erect one new greenhouse. They are also erecting a new service building.

Martin Brandlein has some splendid gladioli. As usual, his place is in excellent condition.

Cards have been received from Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Carlstedt, who are enjoying their vacation in New York.

It is expected that the Indiana state fair floricultural exhibit will be larger than usual. The premium list has been revised and some interesting new entries included. Mr. Blackman, of Evansville, will be judge this year.

The Circle Flower Store is displaying some lovely Premier and Columbia roses from Mr. Hitz's greenhouses.

Bertermann Bros. Co. is planning a display at the Indianapolis industrial exhibition.

Phil A. Schaid, of F. Walker & Co., Louisville, Ky., called on the trade last week. E. E. T.

OMAHA, NEB.

The Market.

There has been a decided improvement in stock, both as to quality and quantity, within the last two weeks. This applies particularly to roses, the greatest gain being made on Ophelia. Every rose grower has a heavy cut of Ophelia, mostly short to medium, and these are selling at $3 to $9 per hundred. Columbia is the next heaviest. Columbia is showing the best color, along with fine-sized buds. Russell and Premier are about even, although most of the Russell are weaker-stemmed.

There are some Hoosier Beauty and White Killarney and, now and then, some Butterfly and a few Dunlop. Ward is coming in short, but the cool weather has given it good color. Gladioli are not in quite so large supply. First-class stock is scarce and holds its own. Mrs. Francis King, Panama and America are the leading varieties at present. Asters are seen in quantity at some of the stores and are moving as nicely as can be expected, considering the general market. Prices vary from $3 to $6 per hundred.

Hold Big Picnic.

August 10 brought the revival of the annual picnic of the Omaha and Council Bluffs florists. The picnic was held at Krug park. Though the day started well, a heavy shower came up at 3 p. m. Fortunately, the shower was not so heavy at the park as in the downtown districts, where it rained hard for forty-five minutes. Games and contests, of which there were twenty-five, began at 4:30 p. m. Supper was served at 7 p. m. and, after supper, the remaining contests were decided. The rest of the evening was spent in visiting the bathing beach and in various amusements, including dancing. There were 220 persons in attendance and the only comments heard were most favorable.

The committee received favorable comments and hearty handshakes for their efforts to please. The firm of J. F. Wilcox & Sons, of Council Bluffs, Ia., came in a chartered street car, emblazoned with banners announcing the entrée. Greenhouses and stores in general closed early to allow the employees plenty of time to get to the park. The committee in charge, Glen Wilcox, W. Woerner, Charles Faulkner, C. Hargadine and J. Bath, deserve much praise for their efforts and for the way things were conducted. All had plenty to eat and a good time. Lewis Henderson repeated his appearance as in years gone by and acted as official photographer.

Various Notes.

Miss Emily Waltman, of the J. Bath store, has left for a two weeks' trip to Glenwood Springs, Colo. Upon her return Miss Mildred Brown will leave for her vacation in and around Colorado.

Growers in and near Omaha are getting busy in filling and finishing planting. Most of the growers have found themselves short on carnations.

South Bend, Ind.—John Pulschen and Ray Buckles, proprietors of the South Bend Floral Co., have purchased the W. D. Rettic greenhouses, at 327-331 Lincoln way west. The heating plant will be overhauled and improvements will be made on the entire property. In charge of the greenhouses will be Stephen Solonsky, a capable and experienced grower, who received his early training in Europe. Both Mr. Pulschen and Mr. Buckles are experienced and well able to carry on the business. Mr. Buckles has spent his entire life in the work and Mr. Pulschen is well known for his successful work in the management of the South Bend Floral Co. A new entrance has been secured on Lincoln way west, and the entrances are plainly marked for the convenience of customers.

OUR OPPORTUNITY.

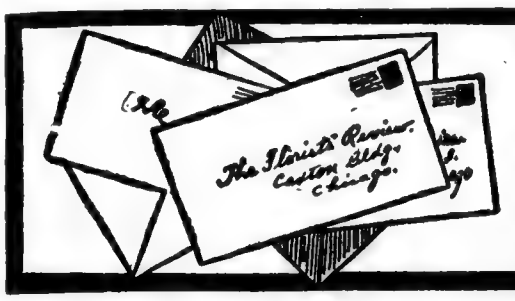
problems peculiar to the industry you represent, and some of the most important of these you are not in a position to cope with through your commercial and educational organizations.

Plantsmen's Problems.



Some of these problems are purely plant problems; some of them are architectural and engineering problems, and some of them are economic in their character. I have reference to the problems of plant feeding in the greenhouse; to house construction, equipment and maintenance; to economical use of fuel, and to rational and profitable utilization of the equipment. In these days of high labor costs, high fuel costs and high transportation costs it is more important than ever before that your business be so organized and so managed that you secure the highest possible efficiency.

I am wondering if you have ready at hand information on the various factors entering into this equation to enable you to successfully solve it. If not, who is responsible? Have you endeavored through concerted effort to develop an interest in your particular problem? If you have not, you know upon whom the responsibility rests.

That group makes most rapid progress that most effectively helps itself.

Pekin, Ill.—Haase Bros. are putting up an Agmco house, 36 x 100 feet in size. When this house is finished this establishment will have 35,000 feet of glass.

New Straitsville, O.—Recent entrants into the florists' business are E. D. Otstot and his father, who have just completed the erection of a small greenhouse.
